Interesting Address Heard by Y's Men's on Reclamation of Alcoholics

Members of the Peterborough Y's Men's Club were guests of the Belleville club at a combination dinner, dance and "millionaires night" at the Y.M.C.A. Thursday. President Archie Boyd presided at the dinner. Joint Sergeants-at-Arms were Larry Buck, city, and Bun Henry, Peterborough, while Jack Wilson was song leader.

Following the dinner, the Belleville Boys' Choir under the direction of Mr. Ed. Shortt was heard in several numbers, and the Misses MacPherson of local radio fame rendered several duets. Phil Huddleston was pianist for the evening.

The speaker of the evening Rev. E. M. Cadigan of Marmora, who was introduced by Oscar Wagar, was intensively interesting, speaking on the work being done throughout the world to reclaim the confirmed alchoholic. The speaker who worked the slum area of New York and later spent two years in charge of a division of one of the largest hospitals for alcoholics in the United States, traced the actual physical and mental process of the occasional drinker to the confirmed alcoholic. It usually took a period of twelve years for a steady drinker to develop into an alcoholic.

3,000,000 Alcoholics

In Canada and United States there are over 3,000,000 alcoholics and contrary to general opinion there are as many confirmed women alcoholics as men.

The speaker dealt with the work being done in different nations of the world towards helping these people. In the state of Connecticut, laws were passed last year whereby persons picked up three times when the alcohol in their blood passed a certain percentage, were forcibly committed to an institution for a one-year period.

The speaker was thanked by Sandy Sanderson of Peterborough, and a question period followed.

Following the dinner the Y's Men their wives and members of the Half Way Club adjourned to the gym, where paper money was given the guests, and a quantity of soap flakes, salmon, catsup, jello powders, etc., were auctioned off, and dancing enjoyed. Later refreshments were served in the dining hall, under the direction of Mrs. Ross Both and Mrs. Fred Barton.

At the close of the evening President Errol Wilson of the Peterborough Club expressed his thanks to the Belleville club for a very enjoyable evening.

Demonstrating to the full that the weight of years has but slightly impaired his ability as a singer, Mr. William C. Sills, 63 Octavia Street, former choir master at Holloway Street United Church, today celebrated his 85th birthday by making his first appearance as a radio vocalist.

During the morning devotion broadcast over station CJBQ, the former well-known choir master and band leader this morning sang that much loved hymn "'Ere You Left Your Room" with his son Bruce Sills playing the accompaniment on the piano accordion. Mr. Sills admits his appearance on the broadcast was "quite an experience" and stated he enjoyed it very much. The devotional program was conducted by Rev. C. A. Peskins, of Holloway St. Church.

Although born in the Brockville district, Mr. Sills has spent practically all his life in Belleville and Hastings, having first come to this city 82 years ago with his parents. Later the family moved to Madoc where the father acted as chief of police.

Managed Music Stores

It was while attending school at Madoc that Mr. Sills decided to make music his life's vocation and the years following saw him as representative of the Green Music Company, managing stores at Belleville, Barrie and Peterboro. He led church choirs at Tweed, Madoc and Barrie as well as at Holloway St. Church, while he also at one time sang in Bridge Street United Church. It was at the latter church that he formed an 18-piece string orchestra in which he himself played the bass viol. While at Tweed he played the bass horn with the Tweed Municipal Band. He also played in the Belleville band during the time it was directed by the late W. B. Riggs.

Enjoys Good Health

Still enjoying good health despite his advanced age Mr. Sills does furniture refinishing as a hobby. He has a room in his Octavia street home fitted for this purpose.

Twice married Mr. Sills had as his first wife the former Tebitha Guffin of Madoc. From the union there were six sons, five of whom are living. These include Bruce Sills, Belleville; Herbert of Madoc; William of Napanee; George of Trout Creek, Ont., and Marshall of Campbellford. Following the death of his first wife in 1930 Mr. Sills later married Mrs. Mary McCullough, formerly of Sidney township.

Chamber of Commerce

Need for Better Understanding Among Civic Groups Stressed

Belleville Chamber of Commerce directors at the weekly luncheon on Thursday told a delegation of executives of the Belleville Property Owners' Association that the Chamber would co-operate, assist and work to the best of its ability with their association, in an attempt to establish friendly relations with the city council.

Following the luncheon the Chamber directorate at their own business session endorsed a motion that the Chamber will sponsor an Open Forum with the Property Owners' Association next Autumn at which all candidates for civic elections will be requested to attend and state their platforms.

Another open forum of members and officials of both the Chamber and the Property Owners' Association will be held in the near future. The date will be set by President G. A. Freeman of the Chamber and President Jamieson Bone of the Property Owners.

Criticism Voiced.

Property Owners' Association representatives included President Bone, who is also a director of the Chamber of Commerce; Messrs. Ray Zufelt, C. E. Argue, and ex-Alderman Clarence Clapp.

During the lengthy discussion that took place, criticism was levelled at the city council and the Industrial Commission, with members of the two bodies present rising to the defence.

Mr. Zufelt deplored the lack of co-operation among local organizations that exists in the city. "Council is discussing the same things today they talked about forty years ago. There are too many factions working against each other and no co-operation. I have faith in this city," he said, "and if everything is brought out into the open, the council will get 100 per cent co-operation. The truth of the matter is," he declared, "the people of this city have lost confidence in their city council."

Can Only Offer Suggestions

President Freeman of the Chamber stated that his association was usually blamed if anything went wrong." We have no power to do anything except suggest and recommend, yet we are supposed to do this and that with only a few supporting us. People as a whole do not know what the functions of the chamber actually are. The trouble is we have not blown our horn loud enough, for we have done more good for this city than people will ever know. The merchants as well as the manufacturers have benefited."

Levelling criticism at the Industrial Commission, Property Owners' president Jamieson Bone charged that the Chamber of Commerce had never had access to correspondence with regard to industries coming to the city. He objected to the City Council appointing men to the Commission who were not members of the council or the chamber. The commission had never co-operated with the chamber, he said.

Makes Reply

Ex-Alderman Lorne McDougall answering to the charges, stated that as far as four years back, all records of the Industrial Commission were kept in the Chamber offices. During the past year its minutes had been kept there. Any letters the chamber wanted were turned over to them. The commission, he said, had co-operated to a large extent with the chamber. As far as men outside of civic bodies being members of the commission, they were only too willing to step down.

Director Harold Seldon urged that the chamber work in co-operation with the Property Owners toward arranging a meeting just before civic elections, and insist that candidates "peddle their wares" so that the people will know what is going on.

Property Owners member C. E. Argue stated that the ten-mill increase in taxes was too much for the taxpayers of this city. He termed a raising of assessment here "a terrible thing." Mr. Argue also urged that only the best type of industries be brought to the city.

Ex. Alderman Clarence Clapp said the object of the meeting was co-operation between the two bodies to form a stronger association to go to the city council and ask for co-operation. As a member of council years ago, there were times when he did not know what was going on, he said. If the members of council do not know these things, how could the Chamber of Commerce be expected to know. He felt the Chamber had been ignored by the City Council.

Alderman Bruce Lattimer, rising to the defence of the City Council, stated that he was a heavy taxpayer in the city. He explained an approximate distribution of the ten-mill raise in the city tax rate, saying that the purchase of the Memorial Arena represented 2 mills; increase in wages, and planning and engineering, 1-2 mill; library, 1-2 mill; the public lavatory, 1-2 mill; snow removal, 1 mill; Veterans' Day, 3-4 mill; gas plant deficit two-thirds of a mill and education 4 1-2 mills. "These are only approximate figures" he repeated.

Meetings Not Attended

"People do not know what is going on in the city council because mainly they do not attend the meetings. During my few months in council not 25 people have shown up."

Alderman Lattimer denied that everything was "cut and dried" before council went into open meeting. Answering a charge that the "right people were not elected" he said that they won't offer themselves. "In my own case" he went on, "I did a lot of 'beefing' about the council, then someone told me to run myself if I could do a better job. I did and I was elected. Why don't more people who are so apt to criticize offer themselves for council?"

As a member of the Industrial Commission, Alderman Lattimer told the meeting that it was no fault of the commission that information regarding incoming industries was kept secret. This was done at the suggestion of many of the firms. Publicity of information regarding these industries, he said would lead to other centres bidding for them.

Must Plan For Future

Director C. L. Jewell pointed out that all the city wants is desirable industries but the city should not overlook the fact that with industrial expansion, there will be a need for more services, schools, waterworks, etc. "We must take a long range view of the matter and see that provisions are made for the future."

Answering a query by Mr. Zufelt as to why the purchase of the Memorial Arena was not given the public assent, ex-Alderman McDougall stated, that a private organization wanted to secure the building for other purposes. Time was short and the city wanted to keep it for the city. If this time had been allowed to elapse in order to get public opinion, then the Arena would have been sold elsewhere.

Dr. Joseph Tiso Dies on Gallows For War Crimes

Bratislava, Czechoslovakia, April 18 — (AP) — Dr. Joseph Tiso, the parish priest who became president of the wartime Nazi puppet state of Slovakia, died on the gallows at dawn today for crimes against the Czechoslovak state.

Dr. Tiso, 59, formerly was a little-known Roman Catholic priest at Banovce. Long an advocate of Slovak autonomy in the pre-war Czechoslovak Republic, he was named premier of an autonomous state of Slovakia by the Prague government in October, 1938, as an aftermath of the Munich pact.

He was ousted in less than six months, but Adolf Hitler immediately let it be known that he regarded Tiso as the rightful premier and the Slovak parliament, with the promise of German military protection, declared Slovakia independent and Tiso again became premier.

He was elevated to the presidency during the war and was decorated by Hitler.

The Vatican radio said on Jan. 17, 1944, that Tiso had "retired" as a monsignor of the church "owing to his political activities."

18-Month Rail Strike Settled

Peoria, Ill., April 18. (AP)—Thirteen striking railroad brotherhoods and the Toledo, Peoria and Western Railroad last night announced settlement of the TP & W strike, which began Oct. 1, 1945, and was regarded by the Labor Department as the oldest in the United States.

The end of the prolonged dispute, frequently marked by vioitems, such as sugar, butter, nounced in a joint statement by the unions and the railroads. It said "details of and settlement should be completed within a few days."

George McNear, president of the railroad, was slain from ambush March 10. His death still is being investigated. Two union pickets were shot and killed in an affray with four railroad guards at Gridley, Ill.

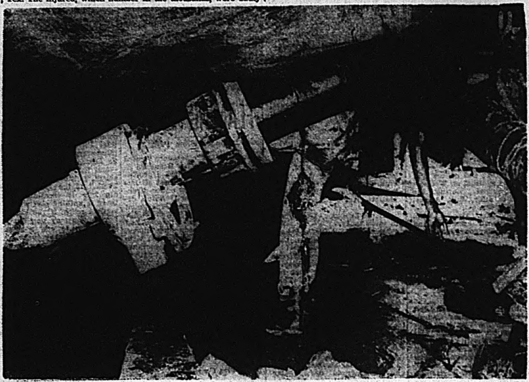
TEXAS BLAST VICTIMS CARRIED TO HOSPITAL

Clad in white coat, a doctor supervises the loading of blast victims on to a truck for conveyance to Galveston hospital in Texas City, Tex. The injured, which number in the thousands, were badly burned and injured by flying debris sent soaring for miles by the succession blasts which rocked the gulf city.



The terrific force of the blasts which levelled Texas City, Tex., leaving more than 1,200 persons dead, is demonstrated in this grim photograph. The solid steel propeller shaft of a 150-ton steel oil barge has bent and the body of a workman is trapped between the shaft and the barge hull — the barge itself has been blown right out of the water.

Officials here said the vessel's engine had broken down but that the craft was in no immediate danger.

Sailor Brothers, Home on Leave, Meet For First Time in Five Years

Nautical reminiscences flew thick and fast at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George T. Gregory Cemetery St. the other day when their two sailor sons, Ross and Gordon, both home on leave, met for the first time in five years.

Ross, a yeoman signalman in the Royal Navy is enjoying his first leave since he joined the Silent Service of Britain in June 1939. Gordon, a member of the Royal Canadian Navy during the war years, is paying his first visit to his parents over a period of years.

Both boys were born in the city and attended public schools and the collegiate institute here.

Ross has had an eventful career in the Royal Navy. He has sailed the seven seas in both wartime and peacetime and his arrival home the other day climaxed a colorful voyage from Hong Kong. He is a member of the crew of the crack British aircraft carrier "Indomitable."

The voyage from Hong Kong took 26 days and this included stops at Singapore, Trincomalie, Aden, Suez, Port Said, Malta, Gibraltar and thence to Devonport to Portsmouth in southern England.

Gordon a telegrapher in the R.C.N., has had an adventurous career in the navy especially during the war years. He served on the famous Canadian destroyer "Assiniboine" and was with her during the action in mid-Atlantic when she accounted for a German submarine. He also served on the corvette Amherst.

By a strange quirk of fate the sailor brothers never met during their years in the service. On one occasion, Ross' ship was pulling away from her berth in a Scottish port when the ship on which Gordon was serving entered the next slip.

"Boy, that snow looks good to me," was Ross' first comment following his arrival home. "In fact," he went on, "Belleville looks darned good to me after all those years away."

U.S. to Form Volunteer Naval Air Reserve

By CLYDE BLACKBURN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Washington, April 18 — (CP)— The United States Navy is appealing for a volunteer naval air reserve that will be so strong and well-trained that "no war-monger will stab us in the back."

Announcement of a May - June campaign to enlist young volunteers reminded the country that it takes two years to train a combat pilot.

"In this age of atomic energy, guided missiles, long-range jet-propelled planes, the United States, if attacked, would not have two years in which to train pilots," the announcement warned.

The navy is not looking for trouble but wants to be ready for it if it comes. Of the 60,000 wartime navy pilots more than 50,000 — representing a training investment of $25,000,000,000 — now are civilians.

Young volunteers will be trained weekends and on holidays. The hope of the navy is to bring them to such a high peak of skill that, if the need comes, they could fly aboard the big carriers as fast as the ships could be brought out of their "zipper" protective moorings.

WINGATE'S BODY FOUND

Calcutta, April 18 (AP)—The Calcutta Statesman reported today the body of Maj.-Gen. Orde Charles Wingate, British leader off the legendary "Chindits" during the war in Burma, had been found in the rugged Himalayan foothills near the India-Burma border.

The famous 39-year-old General was killed March 24, 1944, in the crash of a B-25 plane that took the lives of nine persons altogether.

The Statesman said Wingate's body was found about 40 miles from Imphal by a British graves commission accompanied by two Americans.

Royal Family Meets Veterans Of Boer War Siege

Mafeking, April 18 — (Reuters) —The Royal Family met veterans of the famous Boer War siege of Mafeking when they arrived today after a long journey across the Kalshari Desert.

Much of Mafeking as the Royal Family saw it today remains the same as when besieged in 1899. Many houses and some tin shacks in which the besieged held out for 215 days are still standing.

In a short drive round the town the Royal Family saw Dixon's Hotel — headquarters of the commander, Col. (afterwards Lord) Baden-Powell.

The King, in an address, said differences of the past were buried in common nationhood.

Mayor P. A. Freaenkel, welcomed the King to "Our town where one no longer heard references to Briton or Boer but where we are all proud to be South Africans and members of the British Commonwealth of Nations."

GUERILLAS ESCAPE POCKET

Athens, April 18 (AP)—More than 1,500 guerillas were reported reliably today to have sneeked through Greek Army lines to escape a government pocket in which some 2,500 had been caught in the southern Pindus Mountains.

A normally dependable informant, making this report last night, said, however, that the army in its week-long campaign had killed or captured upward of 600 of the guerillas and that all organized resistance inside the pocket had stopped. He said military and gendarmerie posts now would be set up in the area's villages.

Unable to speak English Iwamiya could only bow. The unidentified soldier left, but Iwamiya hired an interpreter and started looking for him.

After a month's search he found his man, Pte. Alfred Doane of Paterson, N.J. — and, through the interpreter, Iwamiya's gratitude was expressed.

London, April 18 — (CP) — A Mallard duck from nearby St. James Park is hatching her eggs atop Canada House, 150 feet above the swirling traffic of Trafalgar Square.

Already there are half a dozen eggs in the flower box nest and park keepers estimate about a dozen will eventually be laid.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, April 18 — (CP) — Industrials improved in late morning session on the Toronto Stock Exchange to post a moderate number of fractional advances while golds eased back within narrow range. Base metals were generally unchanged and price variations were minor in overall dull trade.

Volume for the first three hours was 385,000 shares.

Southmount Investment was a feature in the industrial list to trade more than 3,000 shares on an advance of 4 points to 35, but others moved fractionally.

NEW YORK EXCHANGE

New York, April 18 —(AP)— A slow-going stock market today milled over a narrowly irregular route as generally bullish news inspiration was lacking.

The pace reverted to a crawl after a fairly active opening and trends were indefinite near the fourth hour.

Occasional gainers included Chrysler, Bethlehem, U. S. Rubber (in response to oversubscription of the company's new $40,000,000 debentures), Montgomery Ward, International Harvester, Du Pont, Anaconda, American Can and Standard Oil (N.J.).

Fractional losses marked Canadian issues at mid-day. Dome Mines and Hiram Walker each gave up 1-4 while Distillers Seagram eased 1-8. Canadian Pacific was unchanged.

Among resistant curb issues were Sonotone, Holly Stores, Electric Bond & Share and Selected Industries. Aluminum of America slipped along with American Cynamid and Beaunit Mills.

Roy Steele, no given address, was given six days dating from April 13th. on a vagrancy charge.

Cook, while walking with his two dogs in central Toronto at 1 a.m. today, entered a service station to chat with the manager, but instead found a man working on the safe and another rifling the till and was greeted with a crowbar wallop and a kick.

Cook sent his dogs in hot pursuit and with the assistance of a motorist and a policeman, effected the arrest. McCann faces an additional charge of assaulting the watchman and causing bodily harm.

Texas City Disaster

One of the worst tragedies has struck Texas City, Texas, hundreds are dead, thousands injured, shipping has been wrecked, part of the city is in ruins, the material loss runs into hundreds of millions and over the scene brood death and destruction.

Rescuers, police, firemen, have played heroic roles and at its great saving work and alleviation of suffering are the workers of the American Red Cross, true to the principles of the society as ever.

The destruction complete or partial of a modern city, is one of the most terrifying conceptions or experiences. Perhaps little in the history of disasters in fargone ages can compare with the destruction such as struck Texas City. In ancient times of war great cities were burned and destroyed by fire but modern science has given the world mighty agents of destruction should they take fire or be exploded by some accident. Products of modern industry are the forces which create power in this age of power. If something like this tragedy happens disaster can reach enormous proportions. The explosion of a ship at Halifax thirty years ago was one of the disasters that will always be recalled. Texas City has been added to centres of habitation that have suffered grievous losses.

The mention of the name of the Canadian seaport draws attention to the sense of sympathy which the people of Halifax feel for the ill-fated city in Texas. Halifax will send tangible relief to the stricken community. She has already expressed her sympathy in messages to the city of the most recent disaster.

Expression of sympathy and aid to the shaken community are natural at such a time, for it takes little imagination for man to realize the plight of people caught in such a catastrophe and their great need.

Britain's Budget

Chancellor of the Exchequer, the Hon. Hugh Dalton, brought down the Britsih budget this week announcing a surplus in the place of a deficit. The deficit last year was £157,000,000 less than expected, namely £569,000,000. The revenue for the past year from all sources was £3,341,000,000 or £180,000,000 more than estimated. Customs and excise brought in an almost exactly estimated £1,184,000,000 in spite of the fact that there was a loss of £52,000,000 on beer for the reason that there was less barley for brewing. The loss on beer was almost exactly balanced by surpluses on tobacco, entertainment and purchase tax and import duties .Tobacco brought in £446,000,000, entertainment duties £53,000,000 and the purchase tax £181,000,000 or £23,000,000 more than the estimate.

The budget was balanced, said the Chancellor.

On the problem of overseas deficits, Mr. Dalton said that "no country in the world faces so tough an external problem as we do and it is strange and ironical that it is the result of our tremendous effort in six years of war in which we bore the brunt and disrupted our economy without thought either to the cost or the consequences and saved others from defeat and slavery worse than death."

He added that Britain had cut down her imports, sacrificed a great part of her overseas investment and incurred vast expenditures all over the world for the import of munitions and facilities for her forces. "This is now as part of the accountancy of victory hanging round our necks as a war debt." He explained that these large sterling balances would never have arisen if Lendlease had been the common policy of all the Allies. He affirmed his fear that the overseas deficit might be a good deal higher unless Britain took vigorous steps to reduce it.

The acute problem of the hard currency deficit was referred to, it being shown that the United Kingdom is drawing much faster than she intended on the United States credit. "We have to depend upon the dollar world so much and are selling so little to the dollar world just now," he explained.

Mr. Dalton spoke on the supreme need of exports. "We must export or we shall expire." He indicated that in the months ahead exports and imports must be brought nearer to balance and that imports must be severely limited however disagreeable and taxation will play a large part in stimulating exports and reducing imports."

Tobacco is hard hit under the budget. During the war and since Britons have been smoking more and now the tobacco duties are being raised fifty per cent in an effort to save dollars rather than to raise revenue. He pointed out that "we are spending almost as many dollars in buying United States tobacco for ourselves as the Americans are spending in buying British goods of all kinds." He aims to save £30,000,000 this coming year on tobacco. The British smoker is asked to buy much less of the weed.

Wage earners have been given tax relief on income. There are purchase taxes put back on many items. The allowance for children is raised and goes back to the 1939 figure. Military expenses are being cut £754,000,000 or 46 per cent to £899,000,000.

The people of Britain will find their way through the problems which are acute at this time through the drains of war, which have been very heavy, unusual weather conditions which have caused Britain great losses and interferred with her reconstruction and rehabilitation plans. The stout heart of the people of the United Kingdom will carry them through.

Brief Wintry Spell

Everyone was of course pleased that the heavy snow which fell on Wednesday was one of the evidences of the receding winter of 1946-74 and not of the beginning of another winter.

Last winter took a great deal out of many people and it will require some time to get the thought of the snow-burdened season out of their systems. They won't forget it, they will even in time boast of it for its blockades, its high banks of snow and the problem of clearing the sidewalks. Everyone will want a long summer and a very long fall besides a fine spring just ahead before he is ready to welcome the advent of another winter. And even at that he will want it a mild winter, quite unlike the snow period just gone.

Wednesday's last kick of dying winter for a brief spell plunged the country into semi-winter again but the snow disappeared almost as quickly as it came. Somewhat over twenty years ago about the same time in April there was a storm with about the same precipitation as on Wednesday when 1.3 inches fell, equivalent to about 13 inches of ordinary snow. Of course Wednesday's snow was unusually heavy, laden with moisture and there was also considerable rain accounted for in the 1.3 inches of precipitation.

Wednesday's white blanket suddenly changed the outlook back to winter scenery but the warmth of the sun's rays in about a day has wiped out almost every vestige of snow. Just as easy is it for the human mood to change.

Luck generally comes to those who look after it; and my notion is that it taps, once in a lifetime, at everybody's door, but if industry does not open it luck goes away.—Spurgeon.

BLUE HAIR

The lady with the sky-blue hair
Went lightly tripping by.
Though mother taught me not to stare,
Wide open-eyed was I.
I'm used to scarlet finger tips—
Unmoved such nails I view.
And, I am used to crimson lips.
But not to tresses blue.

At first I thought it was a hat
The little lady wore.
I'd seen a bonnet blue as that Displayed within a store.
A second look—and, oh, the shock
That struck me like a blow!
I'll swear the lady's every lock
Was blue as indigo.

Think not with woman I'd dispute
Or quarrel with the styles.
I know that man's a heartless brute,
A villain, when he smiles.
I know that woman must repair
The damage years will do;
But lady, all that sky-blue hair
Is not improving you.

Dear lady, if you'd fool us all
And hide the coming gray,
For red or brown or yellow call
Where dames for beauty pay.
But, if you fancy sky-blue hair,
As you appear to do,
The vulgar men you pass will stare
And loudly laugh at you.

Washington Spotlight

By CLYDE BLACKBURN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Washington, April 18 (CP)—President Truman effectively by-passed the United Nations when he launched his program for aid to Greece and Turkey, and, according to reliable information, did it deliberately.

It is being told in Washington that the president has as much hope and faith in the United Nations as any intelligent person. Similarly he has an intelligent and realistic understanding of its present weakness.

He is being blamed by friend and foe alike for the apparent ignoring of the world peace-keeping body when he launched the plan of unilateral action to help Greece and Turkey handle threatened Communistic infiltration and domination.

The story is that he gave every consideration to the significance of his unilateral proposal and decided to make it that way because he knew a prior reference to the United Nations would mean long delay and probable rejection.

Immediate action, which he believed necessary, would be impossible for the United Nations because of lack of enforcement facilities. Furthermore the very nature of the need, as he saw it, coupled with the record of Soviet voting in the United Nations, foredoomed the proposal to death by veto.

Curiosity about Canada

A rash of public desire to learn about Canada has sent Canadian speakers to a number of American centres this week.

Ambassador Hume Wrong made four speeches in Tennessee two at the University of Chattanooga and two at Oak Ridge, home of the main bomb factory. Theodore F. Newton, director of the Canadian information service in the United States, spoke twice at Rollins College, Winter Park, Fla., and to the Kiwanis Club of Greensboro, N. C. Prof. Reginald G. Trotter, history professor at Queen's University, Kingston, Ont., helped out with an address at Drake University Des Moines, Iowa.

All the talks were made on request and all dealt with Canada's place in world affairs with particular reference to her relations with the American Republics. The embassy here sometimes finds it difficult to fill all the requests for speakers on Canada.

HEIGHT OF MODESTY

Winnipeg, (CP)— The height of modesty was reached recently in a department store here. A young man walked up to the lingerie counter and handed the salesgirl a written list of articles he desired to buy. Thinking the man was deaft and dumb the girl pencilled a note that they were sold out of the things he wanted. Blushing deeply the man verbally thanked the astonished girl and left.

FIRST ACCIDENT IN 15 YEARS

Toronto, April 18 — (CP) — W. G. Taylor, 23, hydro employee, is in hospital with superficial burns to his right hand, after contact with a 2,300-volt circuit in suburban Weston. It was the first accident of this kind in 15 years.

ALEUTIAN HAMLET

The village of Attu in the Aleutians normally has a population of about 50 inhabitants.

R. 'RANSE' BUSH.

Doctor Called

Dr. Russell Scott went to the scene of the accident and after ascertaining the extent of Yorke's injuries ordered him to hospital. The Martin Funeral Home ambulance brought the body of Bush to the city while that of the Thompson Funeral Home conveyed Yorke to hospital where he was found to be suffering with severe bone fractures of the right hand and shoulder injuries.

Dr. R. S. Thompson, Wellington, chief coroner for Prince Edward County, stated last night that he would reserve his decision regarding an inquest until he had conferred with County Crown Attorney Gordon Walmsley.

Served in Army

Bush served in the army during the war, and up until Saturday night had been a driver in the employ of the Grotto Taxi Company here. He had started work on the new job on Monday morning. He leaves a wife and a fifteen-months-old baby. Three brothers, Frank, Earl and Don and six sisters survive him, besides his parents.

He was popular in athletic circles of the city and played with hockey, softball and baseball teams here.

Cal (Porky) Yorke is a well-known athlete of the city and played with the Army, Navy, Air Force Veterans Intermediate hockey squad last winter. He was also a member of the Kiwanis junior baseball team last summer. A brother Cecil was killed instantly last summer when he contacted a live wire while engaged in electrical work near Rossmore.

FLAMING TANKS

A "state of emergency" ruled the city as Governor Beaudord H. Jester of Texas issued a proclamation which also placed all law enforcement groups under direction of Col. Homer Garrison, director of the Texas Department of Public Safety.

Hundreds of persons who had fled in terror Wednesday slipped back into town yesterday, to stand before improvised morgues in mute hope of finding relatives and friends, to stare at ruined homes and stores.

Two tanks of propane, a petroleum gas, which had earlier been believed to have been in danger of exploding, apparently had been rendered harmless by removal of their caps.

Rescue workers evacuated the explosion area late yesterday and were issued gas masks against the possible spread of poisonous fumes from further explosions.

271 Bodies Counted

Two hundred and seventy-one bodies had been counted late last night and 194 had been identified.

Fire Captain J. B. Ruby of Houston estimated that anywhere from 75 to 100 bodies remained in the Monsanto plant alone.

After the lower part of town had been evacuated last night, Garrison telegraphed Jester that further evacuation was not necessary.

The entire city was scheduled to be spread with DDT today as a precautionary measure against disease.

OMNIBUS CONTROL

Some o the orders-in-council, he said, might be abrogated within the year.

A Liberal member, George Cruickshank (L—Fraser Valley) announced he would support the C.C.F. amendment, and he also declared he would oppose the bill itself if the return to farmers were to be reduced through dropping the 10-cent subsidy on butter.

Income Not Reduced

Agriculture Minister Gardiner assured him the farmers' income would not be reduced through removal of the subsidy. An announcement was to be made in a few days on changes in the prices of dairy products, effective May 1, and the new butter price would be the equivalent of the current floor price plus the subsidy.

Hon. Earl Row (Dufferin—Simcoe) called on the government to remove ceilage altogether from dairy products and bacon. He declared the government's "planning" had thrown Canadian agriculture into confusion and its wheat contract with Britain was "the most nonsensical the world has even known."

Farmers were forced to sell wheat to Britain at $200,000,000 less than they might obtain on the world market, Mr. Rowe said while Canadian lumbermen were able to export lumber at any price they could obtain.

Mr. Gardiner replied that, while he did not say farmers were getting all that was due them, they were better off under the present government than they ever had been.

GOOD TREATMENT BUT LATE

Whether it takes a year or thirty years to change bones or teeth the great mass of experimental evidence and the steadily accumulating clinical evidence seems convincing to me. There is nothing in medicinal or physical therapy that has better scientific support than the principle that the bones and teeth serve as a storehouse for calcium (and phosphorus) which may be drawn upon to supply the daily requirement of the blood and other soft tissues when or if the intake of calcium (and phosphorus) or the assimilation of these nutritional essentials from the food is deficient.

For instance, Boas states in his classical textbook on geratrics—the best textbook of four or five that have been published in the past few years, I think—that as a result of this constant long-continued calcium shortage the bones of adults of mature age becomes depleted of their calcium and therefore more fragile... so that the "osteoporosis of the aged may be the result of a dietary fault and not an inevitable accompaniment of aging."

Although I regard "The Patient Past Fifty," by Ernst P. Boas, M. D., Year Book Pubs., so highly I regret to note that Dr. Boas devotes a few lines to the subject of teeth and these lines merely mention the importance of seeing to it that chewing power is maintained — with functionally efficient dentures. I do hope that in the next edition (this present is the second edition) Dr. Boas will—wait a second, by golly, why doesn't somebody suggest something in a situation like this? I'll mail Dr. Boas a complimentary copy of the No. 1 Little Lesson in the Ways of Health —and it is number 1 not by accident, oldtimers — "Save Your Teeth." If the good doctor will dip into it occasionally, when there is nothing else within convenient reach, if you know what I mean, he may possibly get an inspiration to add a paragraph or so on the way to keep the natural dentures functioning adequately.

To my own satisfaction at least it has been proved that the rapid softening of the expectant mother which the old timers regarded as an inevitable accompaniment of pregnancy, can be prevented if the prospective mother supplements her diet with a suitable daily ration of calcium, phosphorus and vitamin D. Her bones and teeth serve as the calcium and phosphorus storehouse not only for her own blood and tissues but also for the li'l stranger's building activities. Here, I believe, is a good example of preventive or prophylactic treatment showing results within a year's time.

Depletion of the bones in the mature or aging adult does not become manifest until it has gone uncorrected for several years, as a rule. Less striking, therefore, are the results of this treatment in cases where aging is premature. I believe it is still good treatment, though a little late. But don't trifle with it, old timers. Either take your daily ration of calcium, phosphorus and D (not to mention the thiamine (B1), riboflavin (B2) and iodin which I recommended along with it)—either take it as regularly as you take any other food, or don't take it at all. It is nutritional treatment, remember, not medicinal.

Yesterday thirty-eight letters returned by the post-office for better address went into the chucker. Probably several of the correspondents who addressed the envelopes "City," "Local" etc, will write indignant complaint. To save everybody's time, please write the name of your home town.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

Why did Civil War soldiers wear havelocks?

A havelock is a military cap with a white cloth covering a rear flap hanging over the wearer's neck.

During the early days of the Civil War it was believed in the North that havelocks provided perfect protection for soldiers fighting under the hot sun of the South. Accordingly large quantities of white drilling were gathered by sewing circles and converted into havelocks for the volunteers by women anxious to help the cause.

But the volunteers found the heat of the havelocks less endurable than that of the sun and very few havelocks were worn by Federal soldiers after the summer of 1861.

This type of war bonnet was named after Sir Henry Havelock, who modeled it after the peculiar headgear worn by the Beduoin and other Arabs and introduced it to protect British soldiers in India against sunstroke, sandstorms and insects.

When the India (Sepoy) Mutiny broke out in 1757 several thousand British men, women and children were besieged at Cawnpore and Lucknow. Sir Henry Lawrence, leader of the 1,700 British in the residency at Lucknow, was killed at the outset.

Sir Henry Havelock, a seasoned soldier set to relieve the besieged, defeated overwhelming forces in a series of sanguinary battles but reached Cawnpore after the British there had been massacred. Moving toward Lucknow, Havelock fought eight bloody battles before he was compelled to retire to Cawnpore. Reinforced by Sir James Outram, he finally fought his way to the beleaguered British at Lucknow only to be besieged there himself.

Several months before Sir Colin Campbell with his Highlanders entered Lucknow in March, 1858, with their bagpipes playing "The Campbells Are Comin," Sir Henry Havelock, designer of the havelock, died of dysentery caused by exposure, fatigue and hardship.

HOLD "PRIDE WEEK"

Quebec — (CP)—The Committee for French Survival has fixed the week of May 17 as "National Pride Week" and "French Survival Week."

Seven Squadrons Operate in Various Parts of Canada

Ottawa, April 18. (CP) — The auxiliary Air Force, vital factor in Canada's plans for the peacetime R.C.A.F., now has seven squadrons operating in various parts of the Dominion and three more will be operative by the end of the year, it was learned today.

When Canada's peacetime Air Force plan was drawn up for a 16,500-man permanent force—later slashed 25 per cent— provision was made for a 4,500-man auxiliary force of 15 squadrons. The other five squadrons will be brought into being later but not before the end of this year.

The Auxiliaries were a major factor in the rapid mobilization and development of the R.C.A.F. for the war and Canada's peacetime plan calls for placing even more emphasis upon the auxiliary force as a component of the R.C.A.F.

In addition No. 411 Fighter Squadron, Toronto, and No. 406 Tactical Bomber Squadron, Saskatoon, Sask., have been recently formed and flying operations will commence this year. No. 420 Fighter Squadron will be formed at London, Ont., May 1 according to present plans and will become the tenth auxiliary squadron to become operative.

Squadrons No. 400, 401, 402, 411, 420 and 442 are to be equipped with Harvard planes and later with modern fighters, possibly jet-propelled. No. 424 Squadron will use Harvards and Nos. 406 and 418 will fly Mitchell light bombers, Harvards and Expeditors.

Cheque Presented To Great Britain

London, April 18 — (CP) —Dr. Fred Routley, National Commissioner for the Canadian Red Cross, Thursday presented a cheque for £375,000 ($1,500,000) to Sir Bracewell Smith, Lord Mayor of London, for the National Flood Distress Fund set up 3 weeks ago to aid victims of the March floods.

"The money is a purely voluntary gift from Canadian Red Cross war funds," Routley said. "There is a great surge of feeling in Canada towards Britain. We feel our sentimental responsibility towards Britain very greatly and we want to do everything we can to help you.

"This country is in our hearts more than any other."

McGLADE—CARTER

Thomasburg. (Special.)— At seven o'clock on the evening of April 3rd, Sherbourne Street United Church, Toronto, was the scene for the marriage of Miss Olive Irene Carter, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Earle Carter to Mr. Frank Joseph McGlade, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. P. McGlade. The officiating clergyman was Rev. J. D. Parks, and the wedding music was played by Mr. G. D. Atkinson, church organist.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Ernest Carter, was most attractively gowned in turquoise blue sheer over taffeta, with matching beaded headdress and fingertip veil. She carried an arm bouquet of Dream roses and white sweetpeas.

Miss Peggy Paterson, as maid-of-honor, wore a gown of pale blue net over taffeta, matching floral headdress, and carried a Colonial nosegay of roses, sweet-peas and forget-me-nots. The bridesmaid, Miss Betty Saunders, was similiarly gowned in pink net and carried Johanna Hill roses. For travelling to eastern points the bride chose a suit of navy blue, with matching hat and accessories and a grey top coat.

The bride is the granddaughter of Mr. Edward Carter, and is well known to many Thomasburg friends, having lived here for some time prior to going to Toronto.

Twenty-Five Yrs. Of Girl Guiding In Belleville

Twenty-five years ago this month Girl Guides were organized in the city. At the urgent request of a group of girls, Mrs. M. E. Branscombe called a meeting of those interested. Girls flocked and four companies were formed.

Co. 1 Captained by Miss Currie (now Mrs. W. H. Finkle).

Co. 2 Captained by Miss Anne Ponton (now Mrs. Logan of Hamilton).

Co. 3 Captained by Mrs. M. E Branscombe.

Co 4 Captained by Miss Mason.

Miss Clinton (now Mrs. Gaudler, Provincial Guide Commissioner of Alberta) came to enrol the girls. Due to the resignations, for various reasons, of three of the Captains, only Company 3 was left. Mrs. Branscombe with Grace Jackson (now Mrs. Hammecker of Lyons Falls, N.Y.) captained it for almost fourteen years when she passed it on to Guides who had grown up in the Company—Jean Dickens, Ciela Simmons (now Mrs. C. Dracup), Esther Moncrieff and Ann Schuster. Gradually other Guides from Company 3 took Companies — Mary Roberts (Mrs. McLean Haig), Audrey Licence (Mrs. E. McMurray), Margaret Forster (Mrs. M. Mitchell) and Jean Thompson. Several married Guides have carried on Guide work in their new homes.

In 1925 the 3rd Belleville Brownie Pack was registered — Helen McKeown (Mrs. C. D. McPherson of Woodstock) was first Brown Owl followed by Dorothy Boyle (Mrs. H. Blakely of Kingston), who grew up in Co. 3.

Guide Co. 2 and 3 have joined forces with Mrs. Haig, Captain and Mary and Margaret Aman as Lieutenants.

The aim of Guiding is to train a girl to put God in the centre of her life—to train her own individual powers to the utmost and use them in service to others.

Since 1924 a yearly camp has been held at various sites. Lord Baden-Powell (the founder of the organization) thought camp a marvellous training ground in citizenship for Guides. For those camping days that site was their country—ruled, kept clean and wholesome by them. They lived together out-of-doors and were responsible for the government, cleanliness and happiness of that community, surely instilling a deeper sense of their responsibility in their homes, country and the world as a whole.

February 22nd, birthday of both Lord and Lady Baden-Powell, has been set apart as Thinking Day for Guides and Scouts all over the world. On Thinking Day this year Mrs. Branscombe was greatly touched by a gift of twenty-five roses, from Guides old and new—one for each year since Guiding began in Belleville and from the 3rd Belleville Brownies a gold Thanks badge.

Painted Neckwear Is Odd Business

(From The Kiplinger Magazine)

The hand-painted necktie industry is a curious and lucrative boomer. Few American businesses have blossomed so suddenly and developed so quickly into such well-paying maturity.

The ties have become recognized in certain occupations as a gaudy symbol of success, a sort of sign to all other humans that the wearer is a big earner. And the men who sell them are cleaning up on this acceptance while it lasts.

Spreading to New York and Florida, the painted necktie industry has become a small big business, or perhaps a big small business, grossing at the retail end nearly a half million dollars annually, although the net profit lurks elsewhere.

There are three general classifications of the painted tie. At the top is the superpersonalized special, made for one man to wear. It will probably have cryptic or obvious references to his business or himself splashed from top to bottom. Sherman Billingsley, New York cafe owner, has a warm green creation, sprinkled with orange storks.

Next in line are authentic hand paints, depending for their charm on the talents of the designer. They are produced in signed and limited editions of 50 or 100. Category three consists of the hand-painted jobs which are as mass-produced as handwork can be. From 300 to 2,000 ties will be sold from one design.

There are also the fakes, which just aren't hand painted.

Retail prices of the legitimate creations range from $5 (a new low, reported recently) up to the all the traffic will stand brackets. They have sold for $200. But the average run of the mill jobs hold steady at about $25, which makes that quite a high grade mill.

The technique of hand painting a tie is not simple. The artist draws his design in tailor's chalk on silk or rayon stretched over an easel perhaps five feet long, three feet deep. The design is spaced to use every possible inch of silk. The painting is done with brushes or swabs, using a fast textile dye or oil. The artist must make no mistakes; he can't erase. A skilled workman can squeeze 10 to 12 ties from one easelful of silk, produce 20 ties a day.

Consecon Lake District

AN APRIL MORNING

Once more in fickle April
The world is white with snow.
And o'er the sullen water
The northeast breezes blow.

Beyond the snow-white meadows
The white-decked cedars rise
Like war-clad stately sentinels
Against a wintry sky.

In every wooded valley
The buds are nipped with frost,
As though the heart of Springtime
Its fervid fire had lost.

The robin and the blue-bird
Seek shelter from the blast;
'Mid branches of the cedars
They kept their April fast.

And in my neighbor's garden
The snow lies white and deep.
While all the flowers of Springtime
Are resting still in sleep.

—Helen B. Anderson.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Child Who is Victimized by Her Parents

here is no more contemptible hing in the world for parents to o, than victimize a child by arrying on, through her, their rivate fight. No doubt when uch a thing is done, it is usually more through stupidity than inentional cruelty, so far as the hild is concerned. They simply on't realize what they are dong.

Yet there are some parents, I m afraid, who are so malicious oward each other that even if hey did comprehend what they were doing to their child, it would seem less to them than he vindictive pleasure they deive from hitting at each other hrough their helpless offspring. Here is an excellent example f just this sort of thing:

ear Miss Fairfax

"For more than two years, I ave been crazy over a boy sevn years older than me. My other forbade me to see him. hat was about 20 months ago. was very much hurt, but I xplained the situation to him. e understood, and twice a eek we have secret meetings.

"My mother and father are eparated. My father says I may o out with this boy. This is a artial cause of their separation. don't know whom to obey, for live six months with my mothr and six with my father. I ove my mother, father and this oy, and I don't want to hurt ny of them. What should I do? am 16 years old. "Undecided"

Now unless this mother knows some very good reason why r daughter should not see this oy, the only reason for her takg a stand opposite from that of r husband in the matter is cause her illwill toward him is intense that she can't bear e thought of seeming to agree ith him in anything. Keeping r grudge in good working order is more important to her than her own child's welfare and happiness.

On the other hand it may be the father who is more at fault. He may be perfectly aware that the reason for the mother's disapproval of the boy is sound, yet because of his grudge against her, he wants to "get her goat" by allowing the girl to see the boy during the time she spends with him.

Whichever way the trouble lies between them these two have already hurt and bewildered a child whom presumably they love. As time goes on, they may also find that they have irreparably damaged her nervous development. She would be the one not either or both of them, who would have to pay in shell shock and battle fatigue for their warfare against each other.

All I can suggest to this pathetic and unhappy girl, caught between a mother and father who won't even get together on their one common interest, is that she try to make sure that this boy is the right sort of friend for her to have, and that, if so she continue to see him during the six months she is with her father. Then if her mother refuses to change her mind and grant permission for the other six months, she should try to persuade the young man that they should wait for other meetings until she is with her father again.

Secret meetings furnish fertile soil in which all sorts of unhealthy things may grow, specially where there is a girl as lost and distressed as this one. And even though it would be hard to wait the whole six month for further meetings, the young man is understanding, as he seems to be, and if he really cares about her the separation need not necessarily destroy their friendship. In two years, the girl will be of legal age to do as she pleases, and while two years seems a long time to her now, it will pass more quickly than she believes.

Feeling Tired Try Pep-Up Date

New York, (C)—Here's a new answer to the old question of how never to e tired—have dates. It comes om Dr. Lillian M. Gilbreth of urdue University, a pioneer thority on "motion study" fo conservation of energy in the ome; office and industry.

In explodir theories on the best use of e rgy she described "interesting evelations in the women's res room after hours" when she was making a survey of work in a large department store.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Noses Have Their Troubles, Too

Noses, like ears, are more utilitarian than decorative. Practically all teen-age girls are nose critics—not of other people's, but of their own. Their noses are not at all what they would have ordered. They are too large or too small, too wide or too long. Yet one seldom sees a human nose that is a good-looks liability. When it is, when it makes a woman or girl downright unhappy because it is unsightly and out of harmony with other features, a plastic surgeon may be induced to do a bit of remodeling. This work is accomplished skilfully, cleverly and successfully. It is an expensive beauty indulgence. The surgeon must be an artist, able to visualize how the patient will look when he gets through with his scissoring and stitching.

Practically all teen-age girls are nose critics

There are minor ills of the proboscis that require attention. Black heads are one of them. The victim can use a dry-cleaning method, pouring a little eau de cologne over a moist cloth, going over the skin surface lightly. The alcoholic content will remove the black points. Keep the cologne away from the eyes. Enlarged pores call for ice rubs and the daily application of an astringent.

A nose that flaunts a misplaced blush is an eyesore. Applications of ointment of zinc oxide may help; if they don't, hie yourself to a medical man who specializes in diseases of the skin and scalp; an infection may be on the way.

There is the nose that shines like a good deed in a naughty world ,and gosh! how a girl hates it. She plies the powder pad and some good is done—for a few moments. No doubt she is a cookie addict, fills up on sodas between meals, something she should not do because of the fatty content of ice cream. When too much fat is included in the diet, the sebaceous glands will rage, sending out their greasy fluids onto the skin surface. Sponging the offending feature with a solution of baking soda will help, one teaspoonful of soda dissolved in a cup of water. Apply at night, let it dry on.

The less friction with the powder pad the better, for some reason or other. The practice of drinking plenty of water daily will have a happy effect upon the complexion in general. All the avenues of elimination—the kidneys, intestinal tract, lungs and skin—should be functioning normally if the complexion is to be something that one feels like yodeling about.

If the nose is large, use a darker powder than that used on the rest of the facial area. Also, it is wise to widen the upper lip somewhat with the lipstick. It is a mistake to tweeze and tease the eyebrows down to a hairline; broader, better-defined eyebrows will make the large nose less conspicious. Eye shadows are a mistake. So. you see, Miss Nosey has her own make-up rules to follow.

Eggs Are Canvasses For Western Artist

Edmonton, (CP)—Mrs. James Paley, of Edmonton, is an artist in her own way. Her canvasses are hens' eggs; her equipment beeswax, dyes and a "kiska", a small penlike instrument which she uses in place of a brush.

For Mrs. Paley is a painter of the "Easter Egg" school. Every year during the Easter season she carries on an old Ukrainian custom— painting eggs in gay, springlike colors. This is the Easter tradition in the Ukraine, whence Mrs. Paley came to Canada in 1938.

Each egg is a miniature work of art, sporting intricate designs of vivid yellows, greens and reds. Mrs. Paley thinks up the design herself, but to save time she sometimes copies a needlework pattern.

It takes her about two hours to "do" one egg. Careful work is required for the eggs are unblown. After a time the contents of the eggs dry out, and only the glorified shells remain.

Mrs. Paley learned her art when only ten years old, from her stepmother in the Ukraine. She has carried it on ever since, painting the eggs for her family and friends and for the various Ukrainian bazaars.

FLY GUS THE SWAN TO CURE HIM OF BLUES

Los Angeles, April 17 (AP)—Gus, a swan who bosses the decorative flock in a cemetery pond at nearby Glendale, was en route by plane to Boston today as part of a long range plan to cure him of the blues.

Officials of Forest Lawn Memorial Park confided that Gus has grown gloomier since his mate, Elvira, died last month. Attempts were made, they said, to interest him in other female swans of the flock but to no avail.

GOOD MANNERS

Wedding Ring Put On Finger First

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have two questions to ask you concerning the wedding ring. I thought I knew the answer to both questions, but certain observations have made me feel uncertain.

1. I thought that the bride should not wear any other rings during the marriage ceremony. Is this true?

2. And I thought that, after the ceremony, the engagement ring was placed over the wedding ring. I have a new neighbor who has been married just a year, and who seems to know what's what about most questions of etiquette. She wears her rings the other way round . . . that is, with her wedding ring over her engagement ring. Is this something new, or have I been mistaken about this?

B. W.

1. The bride may leave her engagement ring at home during the ceremony, but usually she wears it on her right hand during the ceremony.

2. You are right—the wedding ring should be put on the finger first; that is, it should not be put above the engagement ring. Like you, I have noticed that some women wear the wedding ring above the engagement ring. Apparently the very definite rule about this has never been called to their attention. Putting the wedding ring on the finger first is the correct procedure.

Guest Book Doings

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it considered improper to look at your hostess' Guest Book? That is, when a Guest Book is passed to a guest, or passed around the room for guests' signatures and "hospitality messages", is it impolite to look through the book and perhaps comment enthusiastically on what other guests have written, or perhaps mention that one recognizes the name or names of previous guests? Your answer is to settle a bet!

Anne

I've never seen a hostess or host who considered the Guest Book in any sense a "secret". It has been my experience that they take for granted that present guests will, if they wish look at the names and comments of previous guests. That's considered part of the fun and memories of having a Guest Book. The book is usually "on view" and guests recognize names of friends and say appreciative things about the comments written in the book. However a meticulously polite guest if he or she has any doubt about the reaction of a hostess, might say, "Would you mind if I peek at the other pages of your attractive book?" But usually, without ado, all guests, if they wish to, share the Guest Book.

I'm not sure that this answer of mine will settle the bet you mention, because you did not tell me just what the bet is. If it is concerning whether or not you should have held up the signatures of the other guest while you browsed in the book recognizing signatures, reading comments, and making comments. . . then, of course, the answer is that this would have been inconsiderate, this browsing in the Guest Book should have been postponed until a time more convenient for the other guests.

Fashion Flashes

A BIG SPLASH of color enlivens some of the prettiest frocks A black, pure silk crepe dress made with a deep, square neckline, has one cap sleeve made of turquoise blue, sand and yellow silk ribbon, which winds its way from shoulder across the bodice and the hips to end as a draped sash low at one side.

ALL THE WAY it's the cape, judging from the latest showings. For Spring evenings one designer shows a head to toe cape of white wool, its attached hood and cape front encrusted with heavy silver thread and pearl embroidery.

WHAT A RELIEF to have hats that sit spang on the top of the head. For general wear — a nice balance between the dressy and the casual — one house shows a tall-crowned, wide-brimmed hat of vanilla yellow felt trimmed with a crushed crown band of gold-embroidered beige lace that makes a huge bow in back.

THE LONG AND THE SHORT OF IT is best exemplified by the long, fitted, tunic-type jacket sparring for honors with the brief bolero in the suit situation. There is something fresh and appealing about the youthful suit comprised of red woolen bolero, pleated navy woolen skirt and white blouse. It can't be duplicated by any other fashion.

COMING UP in the color card is pink — for suits and coats as well as for dresses. Such delicate shades as orchid and nile green are reappearing too. They are much liked for youthful evening frocks, bridesmaids' dresses, and lingerie. For next fall, it looks like plenty of pure purple for important frocks and suits.

Posh Feather Hats Favored by Aussies

Melbourne, Australia, (CP)—Feathers replaced flowers as favorite adornments in the millinery mannequin parade held at the Melbourne Town Hall to forecast fashion trends for the Australian autumn and winter seasons.

Australian designers showed it's always possible to start something new in women's hats by featuring models of every color, shape and size. The trend is for off-the-face hats, in striking color combinations, while feathers are most frequently used. Hats sport drench feathers, hackle strip and glycerine feathers.

Veiling is still popular, worn over the face to give a mystic air, under the chin, or hanging straight like a birdcage, while sequins, filigree work and, of course, ribbon always have admirers.

Doubts Shackleton Wrote Note Found In Antarctic

By CLYDE BLACKBURN

Washington, April 18 (CP)—As far as Rear Admiral Richard Cruzen is concerned, Kathleen Shackleton of Toronto is welcome to the manuscripts he found at windswept McMurdo Sound last winter—but he isn't sure it was written by Kathleen's explorer brother, who died in 1922 on an expedition to the South Pole.

Cruzen, who returned Monday from the Antarctic expedition led by Rear Admiral Richard Byrd said to day he will be "glad" to submit the yellowed manuscript to any tests that may determine whether it was written by Sir Ernest Shackleton, noted Irish-born explorer.

Cruzen found the message last February while ashore at McMurdo Sound. Inside a corroded copper tube sealed with rotting cork, he found a sheet of ruled paper with pencilled snatches of poetry inscribled to the memory of Liet. A. L. A. McIntosh, W. G. Hayward, and Rev. A H Spencer Smith who died in the area while members of a British exploration party in 1914-17

There was no date and no signature on the manuscript, but correspondents with the expedition identified the poetry as part of Robert Browning's "Prospice." When news of the discovery reached North America, colleagues of the late Sir Ernest expresed belief that he might have left the tube and its contents on the spot in memory of his fellow-explorers.

In Toronto, Kathleen Shackleton said she was sure her brother had written the message because of his fondness for quoting Browning. She said he always wore a locket bearing the inscription "Prospice."

Informed that Kathleen had expressed a desire to have the memorial as a keepsake, Cruzen said he would have to consult with his superiors on disposal of the relic, but added that he would be "perfectly willing" that it go to any proper custodian, or to Miss Shackleton if it is determined that the handwriting is her brother's.

"I could not believe it was Shackleton's because he was not there, as far as I know," said Cruzen. "He was on the other side of the continent."

He added, however, that Sir Ernest had sent a working party to McMurdo Bay. The possibility existed that the explorer might have sent the memorial with his working group to be dropped on the scene of the tragedy

Certain Brother There

Miss Kathleen Shackleton expressed confidence that the tribute to members of Sir Ernest Shackleton's 1914-17 Antarctic party which Rear Admiral Richard Cruzen of the United States Navy found at McMurdo Sound in February was written by her famous explorer brother.

Quoting from Hugh Robert Mill's book, "The Life of Sir Ernest Shackleton" Miss Shackleton said her brother visited McMurdo Sound early in 1917 with a rescue party that went to the aid of his expedition's working party there.

Mill's book says Sir Ernest signed on as a supernumerary officer on the Aurora when the rescue party was formed in New Zealand.

"The Aurora made several short excursions to search the coast and islands for a trace of the lost men, but none was found," Mill's treatise says. The party then left McMurdo Sound Jan. 18, 1917.

Washington, April 17 — (AP)— The United States government, expecting export demand to decline after this year, is planning to ask farmers to plant a slightly smaller 1948 wheat acreage.

Next year's production goal will be announced in either June or July, to give winter wheat growers time to make their plans before they start seeding in the fall.

Meanwhile, plans are being made to allot foreign shortage areas up to 350,000,000 bushels from this year's wheat crop — which may set a record of around 1,250,000,000 bushels. Exports from the 1946 crop are expected to total 360,000,000 bushels.

In another action, the Agriculture Department boosted the support prices of hogs $1.35 a hundred pounds for the remainder of the current marketing season ending Sept. 30. Support prices for this period will range from $15.25 to $17.25 Chicago basis.

This increase in support prices has no practical effect on present market prices, because hogs are bringing about $25. They would, however, act as a floor to halt a price drop at support levels should consumer demand shrink and prices start tumbling.

DE BRINON EXECUTED

Paris, April 17 (AP) — Fernand de Brinon, representative of the Vichy regime in the German-occupied zone of France during the war, died before a firing squad Tuesday in Fort de Montrouge, near Paris.

During de Brinon's trial, former Premier Edouard Daladier testified that accused had been a friend of high Nazis as early as 1933, when he had entertained the late Joachim von Ribbentrop, German foreign minister, as a house guest.

Undisclosed Plot To Kill Hitler Comes To Light

By RICHARD O'REGAN

Frankfurt, April 18—(AP)—Hints of a hitherto undisclosed plot to kill Adolf Hitler—after he had ruthlessly rounded up all suspected leaders of the abortive July 20, 1944, bomb attempt against his life — came to life today.

Details of the apparent plot were obscure and were mentioned only briefly in the shorthand notes of a conference Hitler had in his East Prussian headquarters Sept. 17, 1944.

Whether the plot was organized by anti-Nazi Germans, or by Germans in the pay of the Russians, was not made clear in the notes.

Almost the entire German leadership was gathered that September day in Hitler's headquarters. Hitler said: "We must be really very cautious now. The reports we are receiving should not be taken lightly. In fact, these reports are very serious."

"At the time (the July 20 bomb plot) the reports were exactly the same," he continued, "If you look back the whole matter seems like a fairy tale.

"But now they say: The man in the headquarters has been found and we need not worry, and that the German sources themselves will take care of the man who would remove the Fuehrer. You see now that such swines are to be found — and now they report they have a new one. We rather want to be on the safe side."

Apparently fearing a plot on his life, Hitler ordered that the Fuehrer Grenadier Brigade "must be kept here by all means."

"We must no longer take things lightly," he said again. "The possibility that a similar dirty trick (referring to the July 20 plot) may be played here must be considered by all means."

Cottam, Ont., April 17 —(CP) —Percy Birch suffered foot burns last night as he rescued his daughter, Geraldine, from a fire which destroyed their frame farmhouse near this Essex county village.

The Cottam fire brigade was called but was unable to save the building. Neighbors managed to remove some furniture from the blazing dwelling.

Porter Says Govt. Has Presented Plan for Control

Toronto, April 17. (CP)— The Ontario government has provided the legislative framework and presented a plan, and it is up to the people to move towards a "definite and practical goal" in solution of flood problems, Ontario Planning Minister Dana Porter said Wednesday night in a broadcast over an Ontario network.

Mr. Porter made an air survey last week of the flooded Thames Valley from London to Chatham, at which time he said he was "appalled" by the conditions, which since have ameliorated. His speech dealt with methods of organization by which practical steps might be taken in flood control measures in future.

He said that municipalities in the Thames valley had by no means been inactive in preliminary work towards flood control. Under the Conservation Act passed by the legislature in 1946 action was taken to set up an organization for the Thames, among other great Ontario river valleys.

Municipalities wishing further information had been given it by his department, he said. "It is only right that they should hesitate and not be rushed into a project of such important consequences."

A survey of the Thames above London had shown that controls needed to be exercised in the upper reaches, the Minister said. The real problem was one of water conservation. And methods of conservation included creation of storage basins and reforestation on lands that are unsuitable for agriculture.

Storage basins by building dams were the most obvious course but here were many problems created by the natural contour of the land. In the Thames valley most stretches are shallow and thus would hold only small volumes of water. An alternative scheme would be underground reservoirs.

As for reforestation, he said the government's reports indicated there were areas totalling 20,000 acres suitable for reforestation as a water conservation measure.

British-Italian Trade Agreement Has Been Signed

Rome, April 18 — (AP) — The British-Italian trade agreement was signed at the Italian foreign ministry Thursday while more than 1,000 unemployed demonstrated outside the building, clamoring for "work and bread."

The demonstrators blocked streets, held up traffic for more than two hours and delayed the arrival at the Ministry of Foreign Minister Carlo Sforza and British ambassador Sir Noel Charles. Sforza was a half hour late. Leaders of the demonstration, however, declared that it had "no connection whatever" with the trade agreement.

Sforza was obliged to leave his automobile. Unguarded, he walked two blocks to the Chamber of Deputies and there urged the demonstrators to remain calm. Some of the crowd shouted threats. Others, gathering around Sforza, counselled against violence.

The unemployed gradually dispersed after the Ministry of Interior took their names and promised to look for jobs for them.

Milton Reynolds and the "Bombshell's" other two crew members set an unofficial record for the Chicago-Washington flight

Reynolds and his fellow crew members will be received at the White House today by President Truman.

WANT ROAD PAVED

Welland, Ont., April 18—(CP)— Immediate action towards paving the section of the Queen Elizabeth Way from Lundy's Lane at Niagara Falls to Fort Erie is requested in a resolution from Welland county council forwarded to the Ontario Department of Highways.

Deputy Reeve Simon Corfield of Stamford said some action should be taken to complete the super highway before the tourist season reaches its peak.

Policemen Pose As Would-be Drug Purchasers

Whitby, April 18 — (CP) — Five district men Thursday were committed for trial on a charge of armed robbery arising from the theft of a large quantity of narcotics from the Ontario mental hospital here Feb. 28.

R. C. M. P. Constable J. A. McAuley said he and another officer posed as would-be drug purchasers to obtain evidence.

Charged at the preliminary hearing before Magistrate F. S. Ebbs were Donald Tucker of Oshawa and Frank and Mike Podvinsky, Robert Willis and Elgin Richards of Whitby.

Constable McAuley said he and a companion, posing as "Bill" and "Mike" and purporting to be eager to buy a quantity of drugs, were driven from Hamilton to a point near Whitby by some of the accused.

He said the automobile in which they were travelling stopped at a highway bridge in the Whitby area. Willis and Frank Podvinsky went to a hiding plant and returned with some drugs in which appeared to be a five-gallon cardboard barrel, he said.

With greater road gripping surface, the NEW B. F. Goodrich Tire hugs the road — drives you forward! AND NON-SKID STARTS MEAN LONGER TREAD LIFE!

THIS TIRE IS DIFFERENT...
THE TREAD IS FLAT

B.F.Goodrich
FIRST IN RUBBER

NEW B. F. Goodrich tread design is FLAT—the entire width of the tread grips the road. That means greater safety—longer mileage.

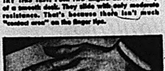
To make it, B. F. Goodrich developed tougher, cooler-running, longer-wearing rubber compounds. The tread was made flat. That puts more rubber on the road, distributes weight better. It means longer wear and greater safety—faster starts and quicker stops.

The massive body of the NEW B. F. Goodrich Tire is brand-new in engineering and design. It is 35% stronger than older type tire bodies. On the road the combination of stronger body and flat tread reduces sidewall flexing and friction. This tire runs cooler . . . wears longer. It gives you extra protection against sidewall breaks and blowouts.

The NEW B. F. Goodrich Tire has been thoroughly PROVED. In more than 21 MILLION miles of the most gruelling road tests this great NEW tire easily outwore the best pre-war tires. It's the longest mileage tire ever made by B. F. Goodrich.

This is the road-eager, quiet, greater-mileage post-war tire you've waited for. Your local B. F. Goodrich dealer has it on display! See him today!

TRY THIS TEST. Push two fingers across the top of a smooth desk. They slide with only moderate resistance. That's because there isn't much "contact area" on the finger tips.



Now—use the whole palm of your hand! Resistance is great, because there's much more "contact area." That's why the NEW B. F. Goodrich Tire with Flat Tread stops faster when you hit the brakes!

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Deep in the heart of Alexis are slams that he never gets at. Down where he came from in Texas they shootem for much less than that.

The boys were telling me about an interesting deal. The cards were as you see them here:

NORTH
♥4
♦10 9 6 5 3
♣9 6 5 4

WEST
♠Q J 6 4
♥10 8 2
♣J 8 7 2

EAST
♠10 9 8 5 3
♥J 9 7
♦Q 7
♣K Q 10

SOUTH
♥A K Q 6 5 3
♣A 3

Horse Sense takes cards like these and leads them gently and fondly to the altar. Every step on the way is paved with love and understanding. The bids go like this:

SOUTH	NORTH
2 H	2 NT
3 H	3 NT
4 D	5 D
5 NT	6 D
7 D	Pass

You know the intimate reasons for each bid shown here. So, the grand slam looks natural. But I have picked up a new reader the recent dry spell. He needs explanations that will take a few days.

First I tell him why south opens with two hearts. If this hand opened with only one heart, it would not force partner to bid. An opening one bid permits partner to pass with less than three tricks.

When a player is reasonably sure of making a game, he does not keep it dark. The first thing he tries to do is to tell his partner about it. So, he makes a jump bid; a signal that forces to game.

With this hand, south desires to force partner to bid. He does so by opening with a jump. The opening of two hearts is it. North is thus advised not to let the bidding stop short of game.

Then I advise my new reader that the two no-trump response is the signal for denying a sure trick. Naturally, this makes him very curious. Let's leave him there while I go out for more type (No, Mr. Printer, not tripe).

The Movie Column

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has the screen rights to "Non-Frat," a story of occupied Germany by George Tabori, with Walter Pidgeon in mind for the star role of an American Brigadier General. The film will tell of the association of five American officers and a German girl during the ban on fraternization.

On the Twentieth Century-Fox lot the producer of "The Iron Curtain," a projected film about Russian espionage in Canada and the United States, have purchased screen right to "Behind the Iron Curtain," by war correspondent George Moorad. The purchase clears rights to the picture's title for which Warner Brothers and Columbia were claiming prior registration.

Wilde, The Author

Cornel Wilde is following in the literary footsteps of his famous namesake, Oscar, and has turned out two original screen plays. His latest is "Hector," about a shy young man who inherits a harem. Cornel's current producer, Don Hartman, wants to buy it, not for Cornel but for Danny Kaye.

The other play is a life of Lord Byron which Cornel sold to Twentieth Century - Fox. There is a good chance he will star in it himself.

Star Briefs

Sonja Henie is reported getting a cold reception in Europe where she has taken her skating skill....maybe the Europeans wore themselves out cheering for Ottawa's Barbara Ann Scott.

Clark Gable is wanted for John Steinbeck's story, "The Wayward Bus," it's so much like "It Happened One Night" for which he won the Academy Award in 1934.

SOCCER PLAYERS ORGANIZE FOR COMING SEASON

Bill Colclough is President of First Association in Years; Will Promote Sport in City Schools

Soccer football got off to a good start here last night, as the first organization for promotion of the sport in Belleville in over a decade was completed.

At a meeting of enthusiasts of the game the Belleville Soccer Association came into being with a full executive being named. The officers of the new organization are:—William Colclough, president; Boyd Finlay, vice-president; Don Hurst, secretary-treasurer and directors Alex Nathan, Bob Cook and Allen Browning.

All members of the new executive with the exception perhaps of Mr. Hurst are veteran soccer players. Prior to the organization meeting practices were held under the supervision of Boyd Finlay who stated that a fine turnout of former and present players was in attendance The next practice will be held next Tuesday night with the locale to be announced later. It will start at 6:30 p.m.

There is a nucleus of a fine senior team here, it was learned at the meeting and after it is whipped into shape exhibition games will be arranged with teams from Kingston, Peterborough, Picton and possibly Trenton. The soccer feeling is beginning to show itself in Picton and it is likely the Prince Edward County town will field a strong squad.

There is at present, however, a dearth of equipment and efforts are being made to procure some on loan. Other efforts will be made to secure a sponsor which should not be too hard to get as $150 will secure sufficient equipment to start the team off on the right track.

The Association will endeavor to promote the sport among the younger men and boys of the city, especially students in the public schools, where, it is understood the game has already secured a strong foothold. Organization of public school teams will be attempted, with the co-operation of the principals and staff, in the near future. All soccer players, past, present and future are requested to turn out for the Tuesday night practice.

Canadiens Back in Stanley Cup Play by Win in Montreal; Two Leafs Injured

By SYD THOMAS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Montreal, April 18 — (CP) — Maybe it was the shades of the old "Flying Frenchmen" or the presence at the rink of Aurel Joliat and half a dozen others of the game's old stars, but Montreal Canadiens Thursday night roared back from a knockout to master Toronto Maple Leafs 3-1 and stay in the Stanley Cup race.

Leafs, who had taken three in a row before last night, still lead the best-of-seven cup final three games to two, but judging from the fight and fire Canadiens showed 12,898 customers here, the series might go the limit.

After the jammed rink had roared its tribute to little Aurel Joliat, the "mighty atom" with the black peaked cap who was formally welcomed into Hockey's Hall of Fame before the game, Canadiens stepped out and practically had the game in the bag in the first two minutes when Maurice Richard scored the first of his two goals.

Richard, one of the greats of modern hockey who was harried by injuries and a one-game suspension, broke loose for a pair of power goals last night and rookie Leo Gravelle sank the other one on a breakthrough.

Bud Poile went through for the Leafs only marker in the third period, taking a pass from Gaye Stewart, who rose to the heights he mounted a couple of seasons back and played a standout game for the Happy Day squad.

Canadiens, back at almost full strength for the first time in the final, came through without any injuries.

Leafs on the other hand came out a bit battered. Captain Syl Apps had a badly bruised heel from a tumble in the second period when his skates rammed the boards, and defenceman Wally Stanowski had an injured shoulder — perhaps dislocated though he continued to play — from another tumble into the boards.

Montreal's victory gave them another chance at Toronto Saturday night, and if they pull out a win the deciding game will be played back here next Tuesday.

By GAYLE TALBOT

New York, April 18 — (AP) — Joe DiMaggio, anxious to get his wounded left heel back in shape and to start producing base hits for New York Yankees, was grumbling and swearing sincerely as he stood outside the batting cage in pre-game practice.

"The jerk," he boiled, "throwing sliders at me when all I'm trying to do is get myself in shape. He's supposed to be pitching batting practice, but pitchers are all alike. They're always trying to get you out."

The object of Joe's wrath, one of the younger and more ambitious Yank hurlers, was indeed bearing down manfully on every pitch, mixing his fast ball with a slider that broke wickedly.

Joe himself doesn't know how soon he can take over centre field. He still is wearing a special high shoe to protect and strengthen the heel which the surgeons laid open in Baltimore last Jan. 6 for the removal of a spur, a calcium growth.

Cornish Knight Nominated For Preakness

(By The Canadian Press)

Cornish Knight — the Canadian-owned colt which has been the talk of the early New York racing season this year — was nominated yesterday with three other three-year-olds for the 57th running of the $100,000 Preakness Stakes at Pimlico May 10.

The Dominion Ornamental swimming championships will be held in Winnipeg April 26. last year's field of 25 entries competed at Peterboro. Defending champion Marnie Delaney of Toronto is entered along with two former champions, Jean Mowatt, Toronto and Marjorie Cochand, Montreal.

Al Pickard, vice president of the Canadian Amature Hockey Association, announced last night that there would be no change in tonight's officials at the Winnipeg Flyers - Calgary Stampeders Western Canada Senior Hockey final series. Previously, Calgary had protested the work of one of the officials, Jimmy Creighton of Brandon.

William Mills, 13-year-old Toronto schoolboy rolled 12 consecutive strikes for a perfect score of 450 in a five-pin bowling game yesterday. Toronto bowling authorities said they believe he is the youngest bowler in Canada to get the perfect five-pin score.

Russia, which has made application for membership in various international athletic bodies, was not listed among the countries to whom invitations for the Olympic Games were mailed by the British organizing committee. If the Russians are granted memberships in the international bodies controlling the individual sports and they form an Olympic committee of their own, indications are that they will receive a bid to the 1948 Olympic contests here July 26 - Aug. 19.

"A TRUE GEM"

Saskatoon, Sask. — (CP) — Rev. A. E. Longfellow of London, England, liked Saskatoon so well when attending Emmanuel College in 1932 that he asked to be sent here when the Anglican Church called for ministers to serve in the dominions. "Saskatoon is one of the prettiest cities I've seen. It is a true gem."

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor.

"Both Billy (The Whippah) and I are looking forward to meeting you all again in Belleville Friday night," writes Phil (The Voice) Lawson, manager and trainer of World champion Billy Watson who takes on tough Earl Moose McCready at Memorial Arena here tonight. "When I told him that Walt Gerow has asked for him to open the season in your city," Lawson goes on, "Billy said 'Clear the decks, Phil, Belleville fans and folks have always been mighty nice to me and if we can possibly take the date I want to be there."

• • •

And Lawson didn't pick any wrestling stumblebum to oppose the Whipper when he selected "The Moose" as the official opposition. McCready knocked off several champions down under, (Australia and New Zealand, that is) and feel he is ready for the Empire Championship. And that is what the big boys will be battling for tonight. One to retain it and the other to acquire it.

Incidentally the world's title is the third to be held by Watson. In addition to the Empire crown, he held the European light-heavy title for a while in 1939-40 until he outgrew the weight. The Whippah now tips the scales at 230 and is all "india-rubber and steel." He flew from Kentucky yesterday afternoon to keep his date with Wee Willie Davies in Toronto last night. And we must correct a statement written the other night in which we stated that the Whippah had occasional draws down south. The Whippah won all his tilts on the safari to the south except one which drew but later officials over ruled the referee and awarded the Whip the bout.

A spot of news that will be of much interest to football and other sports circles of the city hit the headlines today. It is to the effect that Don Huyck star halfback of the University of Western Ontario's Mustangs intercollegiate football champions for the past two years, will join the faculty of Albert College come September.

Huyck, a diminutive ballcarrier, was the leading ground gainer in the Intercollegiate football loop in 1945 and 1946, won the McCullough Trophy, emblematic of the most valuable man on the Mustang's team last year. Besides being a football star, Huyck who tips the scales at 145 lbs. is a star basketball player and played in the senior hoop loop while at university. As a matter of fact he and Johnny Hayman, present basketball coach at Albert College were teammates on the senior Varsity quintet in 1942 and 43.

• • •

He spent two years in the Navy during 1942-43 and on discharge returned to his Alma Mater. He has been assigned to the athletic staff of Albert College and besides these duties will teach upper school mathematics and lower school subjects. He will likely find time to do a spot of coaching in rugby besides teaming up with his old pal Hayman on the basketball floor.

• • •

Huyck is a welcome addition to sports circles of the city and the Albert College grid squads this year will no doubt benefit greatly through his coaching and general gridiron krowledge.

• • •

Belleville "Y" bantam basketballers will trek to Toronto on Saturday where they will take part in the OABA bantam championships. Four teams will battle in the tournament and these include besides Belleville, St. Catharines, London and Toronto Y. C. H. A.

• • •

The draw brings together Belleville and Toronto in the first round which will be played at 4:30 p. m., and St. Kitts and London will joust at 6:00 p. m. The games will be played at the Central YMCA. Winners will meet for the title at the same place at 9 o'clock.

• • •

Boys representing Belleville Bantams include, Don Dolan, captain; Lloyd Faulkner; John Batcheller; Bill Muirhead; Bill Lazenby; Laurie Button; Bill Scrymgeour; and Doug. Soule. Coach Ed. Shortt will go along to look after the lads. The boys are full of confidence and feel they can win the provincial title. And Ed Shortt predicts that if they play the brand of basketball they are capable of and don't get lost on the large floor, they will do just that thing.

The 73rd running of the classic Kentucky Derby will be broadcast over station CFRB on Saturday May 3 at 6:30 p. m. Clem McCarthy, veteran turf broadcaster will call the race with Bill Corum, popular sportscaster, giving the color and pageantry of the race. Some 135 three year old thoroughbreds have been nominated for the 1947 Derby which is run over a mile and a quarter with prize money exceeding $100,000.

Ken Colling, looking as chipper as a new fur coat, dropped in the sports emporium yesterday afternoon en route to Kitchener where he will attend the Ontario Baseball Association annual meeting. Ken has been a member of the OBA Exec for a number of years—and is one of its most popular members. He intimated that he won't run for office—but lemme see, he said that last year. But on the other hand, the laddie has other interests now.

The executive meeting gets under way tonight at 8:30 in the Hotel Walper and at 9:30 there is a get-together of delegates. The convention opens tomorrow morning at 10:15 and the Hon. George Drew, Ontario Premier will speak to the baseballers at the noon luncheon. Afternoon session gets underway at 2;15 and there is plenty of business on the agenda.

Picton and District Softball League has organized for the 1947 season and nine teams have been allowed to join the loop. We say allowed because there are three or four which can't "get in." And here's a tip to the Belleville Softball Association, if it ever comes to life. Over in Picton there is a smart softball team that caverted around Toronto last year in senior softball circles under the name of the 30th Battery. It is an army team which has been transferred to the permanent force base at Picton.

The team, was not permitted to join the Picton League because of its reported "A" rating so the soldier boys will be forced to sit around and watch, or play ex. games. We are told by an authoritative source that the sojers would welcome an invitation to join the Belleville loop, if such a thing could be arranged.

Paced by the mighty "Rocket" Richard, who flashed the form that has marked him the outstanding hockey player of the season, Montreal Canadiens, climbed back on the Stanley Cup bandwagon in Montreal last night, as roaring thousands of Les Habs fans cheered the home team to a 3-1 victory over the Toronto Maple Leafs. "The Rocket" plaiyng sensational hockey, rammed home two of his team's three goals and but for the spectacular work of Broda in the Leaf nets, might have made it a dozen.

It was a hockey game for the book, with mayhem and high sticks forgotten for the night as both squads unleashed sparkling hockey that had a packed Forum in a constant uproar. Canadiens were back to the form that has swept them to championships, and if they maintain the pace and calibre of hockey that they showed last night they will be tough to beat, even if they are down a couple of games. The series now stands at 3-2 for Leafs and Saturday night's game in Toronto will no doubt be the hockey classic of all time.

• • •

The soccer laddies got off on the right foot at their organization meeting last night and present plans point to a neat season, the first played here over a period of years. The boys named their executive and the new organization will be known as the Belleville Soccer Association. Those present showed plenty of enthusiasm, and reported a keen display of interest shown in recent practices. Activities will be extended to the young fellows especially in the schools, and the new organization hopes to promote and bring the sport to its rightful level. A practice will be held at 6.30 next Tuesday night, and all players are urged to turn out. The field will be announced later in this column.

Golfers Will Take Food With Them To Great Britain

(By The Canadian Press)

Steaks, hams and huge beef roasts will be standard equipment for the United States Walker Cup team when it invades the British Isles next month. Each team member who leaves next week to resume the international competition with Britain's best amateur golfers at St. Andrew's, May 16 and 17, will carry a 25-pound package of food with his clubs and personal baggage.

In addition the United States Golf Association plans to ship 300 pounds of fresh and smoked meat across to ensure three square meals a day for the Walker Cuppers without having to dip too deeply into Britain's rational food supply.

Taking command on the backstretch, Grand Parade won the $2,500 featured mile Grand Circuit harness trot yesterday at Hollywood Park. Time was 2:03 4-5.

A goal from a penalty kick 13 minutes before the end gave Ireland a 1-0 victory against Wales last night before a crowd of 43,000 in an international soccer match at Belfast.

Tudor Minstrel, three-year-old favorite for the Epsom by June 7, won the £500 ($2,000) Somerset stake at the Bath race track yesterday in his first start of the season.

May Sark, well-known softball pitcher who played with Hamilton ladies and also with Toronto Simpsons in the World's championship tournament at Cleveland in 1946, has accepted a contract to play in the American Professional Baseball League this season.

ASSUMPTION WINS SECOND PLACE

Windsor, April 18 (CP)—The Assumption College Purple Raiders, perennial contenders for Canadian senior basketball honors have earned another try at the Canadian championship.

Defending the eastern Canada title they won last year, the collegians toppled Montreal Y.M. H.A. 75-49 last night to win the best-of-three eastern final in two straight. They won the first by 58-49 Wednesday night.

The Assumption squad coached by Stan Nantais will leave Sunday for the west coast to tangle with Vancouver Meralomas in a best-of-five series for the Canadian championship. The first game will be played next Wednesday.

Thomas broke his own record of 31 points and ran his two-year total to 916. In Assumption's 29 games this year he has amassed 464 points.

PERFECT SCORE! — Bowling yesterday on the Plaza alleys, 14-year-old Bill Hill made a perfect score of 450. Bill, who lives at 36 Kimbourne Ave., Toronto, and goes to East York Collegiate, says his average score runs around 225, though he did once a year ago get up to 380. He started bowling about three years ago, is a left-handed bowler and plays in the East York League.

Billy Herman Has His Squad Tied for First Place With Brooks and Phillies

By JACK HAND

The same old Hank Greenberg! That was the cry echoing around Wrigley Field yesterday as big Hankus, coaxed out of "retirement" by Pittsburgh, lofted a Hank Wyse pitch into the bleaches for his first National League home run.

With the help of Hank's second-inning clout and six unearned runs on two boots by Lenny Merullo in the seventh inning, Billy Herman brings his Pirates home tied for first place with Brooklyn and the Phillies with two straight wins each against no defeats.

Manager Johnny Neun's campaign to inject more punch into the defence-minded Cincinnati Reds paid off with a 9-4 victory over St. Louis Cardinals, giving them a 2-1 edge over the champs in their opening series.

Rookie Helps To Win

Third baseman Johnny (Spider) Jorgensen, former Montreal Royal infielder, who knocked in six runs with two doubles and a homer in Brooklyn Dodgers 1-6 win over Boston. Jackie Robinson came up with his first big league hit, a bunt single.

Dutch Leonard turned in a workmanlike job for Philadelphia Phillies, recovering from a poor start for an 11-5 victory over New York as his mates pounded loser Bill Ayers, Larry Jansen and Woody Abernathy for 14 blows.

Boston Red Sox showed unmistakable signs of picking up where they left off last season, dumping Washington 4-1 with Joe Dobson doing the honors.

Floyd Bevens, New York Yankees "hard luck artist" of 1946, got a break in his first start although he had to throw a three-hitter at Philadelphia Ahletics to win 2-1. Ferris Fain booted Larry Berra's grounder to let in the winning run in the eighth. Toronto-born Dick Fowler was the loser although he gave up only six hits.

Rookie Paul Lehner came through with a pinch single with the bases loaded and two out for St. Louis Browns' 4-3 edge over Detroit in the 10th inning.

DEATH COST UP

RACING OPENING MAY BE DELAYED

Toronto, April 17. (CP)—Possibility of delays in opening the Canadian Racing Season—set for May 9 at Woodbine Park with the meeting of the Greenwood Park Jockey Club—was intimated last night by W. F. Morrissey, president of the Horsemen's Benevolent Protective Association.

Morrissey declared that members of the Association had been advised not to enter horses in any races where the purse is less than $1,500. Trainers also were warned not to make application for licences unless the Greenwood Park Club produces figures showing that it cannot boost the minimum purses to $1,500 or consents to arbitration with the Association.

TORONTO LEAFS SPOIL OPENING FOR BALTIMORE

Gene Desautels Hits Two Homers and Single to Rout Orioles 14-2

(By The Associated Press)

The International League, with its 64th consecutive opening day under its belt, is looking forward to an eventful year both on the field and at the gate.

President Frank Shaughnessy's triple a circuit began its 1947 campaign yesterday and the four games lured a total of 89,023 paid admissions.

As usual, Jersey City had the largest paid attendance of the day 52,538 and 37,281 of the rooters showed up at Roosevelt Stadium to watch the Jerseys trim Buffalo Bisons 11-5. Jack Graham and Bill Sinram clouted homers for the Giants and Ranse Moore and Manager Paul Richards for the Bisons.

Montreal's defending champion Royals outslugged Syracuse Chiefs, 11-10 before 8,950 fans at Syracuse, overcoming a 9-4 disadvantage by scoring seven runs in the last five innings.

At Newark the Bears trounced Rochester Red Wings 11-5 to the enjoyment of 13,779 fans with Joe Collins and Al Clark leading the attack on a trio of Red Wing flingers by connecting for the circuit.

Toronto Maple Leafs spoiled a 14,756 turnout at Baltimore by smashing the Orioles 14-2 under the lights. Catcher Gene Desautels led the Leaf attack by batting in eight runs on two homers one of the circuit blasts coming with the bases loaded, and a single. Veteran Luke Hamlin limited the Orioles to eight hits including round-trippers by Howie Moss and Jo Mellendick.

MUSIAL HELPS MARTY MARION IN HIS BATTING

St. Louis Cardinals Win First Game of Season on Marion's Home Run

By JJACK HAND
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Stan Musial's batting lessons to Marty Marion have paid off with the first St. Louis Cardinal victory of the season.

Coming up in the eighth inning of yesterday's only big league game, with the world champs sporting a slender 2-1 advantage over Cincinnati, Marion poled a two-run homer that assured George (Red) Munger of his first victory 3-2.

There have been years when Marion failed to hit a single homer in an entire campaign and he has hit only 17 out of the park in seven years. Last year his average slumped way off to .233 and there were stories that Mr. Shortstop was on the downgrade.

One day when Marion was taking batting practice in Florida, Musial, the 1946 batting king and most valuable player in the National League, caught a flaw in his stance.

"I think you would get a little more power if you didn't take such a wide stance," Musial advised his teammate.

Marion changed his stance and started hitting with more authority. Now he's aiming for the fences.

George Munger allowed eight hits but scattered them to earn the first decision of what Manager Eddie Dyer predicts will be a 20-win season.

All other games in both major leagues were postponed because of bad weather.

CALGARY SQUAD EXPECTED TO WIN WESTERN FINAL

Stampeders Need But One Game to Travel East for Allan Cup

Winnipeg, April 18. (CP)—The defending Allan Cup Champions, Calgary Stampeders, tangle here tonight with Winnipeg Flyers in the fifth and deciding game of their best-of-five Western Canada Senior Hockey final series. Each team has won two games.

The Alberta team, favored to top the round and advance into the Allan Cup final against Hamilton or Montreal, evened the series Wednesday night with a 7-3 victory over the Winnipeg Club after Flyers had taken the two preceding games 3-1 and 3-2. Calgary won the opening match 10-3.

Both teams will be at full strength for tonight's encounter. With the odds expected to go as high as 2-1 favoring Stampeders.

Both teams went through last minute workouts today in preparation for their final game. Stampeders, holding a 20-11 edge in goals for and against during the four games of the series to date, were expected to concentrate on a smooth-working offensive tonight which would give their speedy forwards a chance to roll in on the Flyers' defence.

Flyers were likely to seek a small goal advantage and then fall back on strong defensive tactics.

No Instructions Given By Coaches Says Mr. Adams

Boston, April 17. (AP)—President Weston Adams of the Boston Bruins said today that "no instructions by Bruins' managers have been given to high stick or 'get' an opposing player."

Adams made his statement in commenting on an assertion by Bill Cowley, retired Boston centre, that hockey "is getting out of control and that's the National Hockey League managers who should be made responsible."

"Cowley knows", said Adams, "from his 12 years with the Bruins that no (such) instructions by (Bruins managers) Art Ross and Dit Clapper have ever been given. . . .

Cowley made his statement yesterday in an interview at Ottawa asserting that "high sticking, clutching and charging is getting worse instead of better."

He also said, according to the interview with Bill Westwick, Ottawa Journal sports editor, "managers give the orders and it is a lot of this choppy sticking that is leading to the trouble"

ROYALS MEET HAMILTON TIGERS IN EAST FINAL

Score 6-0 Shutout Over Sherbrooke to Take the Series 3 to 1

Sherbrooke, Que., April 18. — (CP)—An opportunity to avenge last season's elimination in three straight games will be accorded Montreal Royals when they meet Hamilton Tigers in the Eastern Canada Allan Cup final, first game of which is in Montreal Saturday night. Royals moved into the final by eliminating Sherbrooke St. Francis 3-1 in games with a sparkling 6-0 shut out victory here last night.

Barefoot, playing a great game despite the score against him, was also beaten by Tod Campeau twice and diminutive Pete Morin once.

A great disappointment to the Sherbrooke fans was the ineffectiveness of the famed all-Negro line of Mannie McIntyre, Ossie and Herbie Carnegie, held scoreless for the past two games. Between them they scored seven goals as St. Francis won their only game of the series 10-3 in Montreal.

Bouncing Gerry McNeil was called upon to handle several toughies but came through in his usual style.

To Live With Love

By Margaret Gorman Nichols

CHAPTER 19

Carol, said, "I hope I haven't been too harsh with you." In a moment of anger she wished that she could be cruel and lash out at him, saying she knew what had been going on in his mind all these months. Instead she was going on the defensive, making him feel that it was she who was letting him down. She was making Scott's exit easy and dignified for him so that he could go away feeling that his secret had not been discovered. Because she hated scenes... No doubt he was thinking that he had handled it well with nothing gained and nothing lost.

He said, "If you don't love me enough, that—that settles it. I suppose I thought you did. I don't know... I'm all mixed up tonight. I think I'll be running along... You probably have things to do."

"Good-bye, Carol. I—I still think you're swell and I hope you have a great time. We'll get together when you get back. Drop me a line."

She nodded. Words. More words again. When she closed the door after him she thought, "Is this what always happens to your former husband's friend? There goes Scott... And there goes another friend. Outside getting into the new car which probably isn't paid for and which was bought to impress the people at the country club, he's probably congratulating himself that he came out free and not engaged to a woman who won't touch her capital. He's congratulating himself that all he wanted with me..was time."

Getting into the car on which he owed ten more instalments, Scott felt the perspiration on his forehead turn to icicles. She wouldn't touch that money... Lucky he'd found out in time. It was a close call, all right. How could he support two women and pay on the car?

On second thought he felt somewhat cheated that he had spent all those months and had not even had the excitement of kissing her. That she had been the second girl to refuse him also flattened his ego uncomfortably. To inflate it again he tried not to think how desirable Carol was even without her capital, but of a new girl, Kay Reynolds, who had just moved into town and who had tried quite obviously to make him aware of her. Now that was an idea... He'd call her up. Her old man had a big job He might also run out to see how Bill and Evelyn were coming along. Evelyn was so good to look at.

He whistled and drove back to Hilda in the snow.

But coming into the dark, shabby, cold little apartment he seemed to meet himself face to face, knowing that what had been built up with Carol during the long months was the finest and sincerest relationship he had ever known with either man or woman, far finer and far more sincere than his college madness for the frivolous Suzanne. And knowing, knowing that the emptiness in him would not soon be filled by anyone else and that tomorrow he would feel as a boy feels who begins his first day in business. He thought, "Oh, hell"... and began to whistle again.

Hilda, who never went to sleep until he came in and she knew that he was safely home, turned over on the narrow cot and smiled. Scott was whistling... He must be happy... She was so glad.

The trip to Florida was uneventful though there was boundless hospitality on the small ship. Spending her days in a deck chair, feeling the change from the damp cold to enervating warmth, Carol knew that now she could meet people without that cloud of self-pity hovering over her. When you look back upon your desperation in a time of crisis, you are not a little ashamed at your emotional outbursts, the waste of tears and the sleepless nights. You think you should have been braver and you are glad that no one knew your thoughts.

She did not miss Scott and what grimness and bitterness she had felt for his purely mercenery interest in her had gone. Poor Scott. He deserved a broad tolerance and pity. She would not miss him. Perhaps the hardest lesson a woman has to learn is to accept the loss of husband and friends and material objects. When she accepts their loss and lives a day not for its events but for its beauty, then is she cured and whole again?

The social doings of the country club set and the importance attached to a certain invitation seemed of little consequence to her now. Was loneliness a leveler? The hospital with its ceaseless coming and going of patients, the courage and bravery of small people had brought her close to the earth from which Bill's success had taken her.

How could the excitement of a dinner party compare with the deep excitement of seeing a little girl who had not walked for months take her first step across a room? How could the excitement for a beautiful dress even compare with the excitement of seeing a young mother leave the hospital with her baby and seeing a man, suffering from burns, breathe his first breath without pain. And at first her resignation from the club had seemed such a calamity.

She spent a day in Savannah and a day in Jacksonville. That evening she played bridge with the captain and went to bed early.

The next morning she awoke to the realization that the ship had docked. Was her father waiting? He had written that he would meet her. She dressed hurriedly in a white suit, finished her packing and stepped from the cabin to the deck. It was lovely ...the sun and warmth and palm trees.

She went in and down the steps wondering still whether her father had come and whether she should look for him before having breakfast. Coming down the steps, she saw a knot of passengers, saying good-bye. They glanced up at her and smiled... But her eyes slid past them to a figure standing apart and alone, laughing a great inner laughter, but not making a sound.

Clive! Where had he come from? How had he known? Then she knew how glad she was to see him and how incredibly good that strong figure, with the strong face still bronzed, looked at her If she had been prepared, she would have denied that she was glad to see him. But there wasn't time, and the glow in her face for him to see.

When they reached him, he laughed and said. "Come out on deck and I'll tell you all about it."

And when they were outside, he smiled and said, "I called your apartment. I called from New York. And your maid said that you were on a particular little ship reaching Miami on a particular day." He stopped, his eyes still very blue, still very intense and today very happy eyes, and added, "So I thought that Miami for Christmas was also a good idea—with you. I'm in temporary quarters because where you go. I'm going."

He seemed not quite as arrogant as he had seemed before. If a less startling person, he was a nicer person, she thought, trying to adjust herself to the surprise of seeing him again and thinking also of her father.

"Tell me you're glad, Carol."

"I'm very glad, Clive. I thought —I thought you were in South America."

"Which means you have thought of me. I've thought of you. I haven't been able ot get you out of my mind. And now—where do we go from here?"

Her father was coming up the gangplank. Wearing white linen, wrinkled after having been worn several times, he looked no older except that he stooped more and walked more slowly. He was thin greying, mild-looking man.

Seeing her, he quickened his steps. And Carol knew at once how glad she was to see him. His thin lips kissed her. His thin hands shook as he embraced her and then released her.

"You're looking—fine," he said in a voice much less sharp than it used to be.

Carol introduced the two men. Clive said, "I didn't know that Carol was being met, Mr. Brandt. Have you a car? If you haven't have mine, I drove down."

George Brandt said, "No, I don't keep a car here."

When Clive left, Carol turned to her father. "How is Uncle Jeff?"

"He's fine. He intended to meet you, too. But we have a new maid coming today and he had to stay and let her in. You see we have a woman come in in the morning a few times a week to keep the house clean and do some baking."

"Of course. I'm glad you do." And then because in the past he had always been suspicious, she said. "I didn't know that Clive was going to meet you. I didn't know that he was anywhere near here. When you came, he'd just been explaining how he came to take be my surprise. Shall we go over to the hotel and have breakfast? You'll spend the day with me, won't you? And tonight won't Uncle Jeff come in and have dinner with us? We'll call him from the hotel."

"All right if—if it doesn't interfere with your plans. I don't want to—"

She looked at him and smiled. One good thing about growing up was that you could look at your father as a human being and not as a hero who could do no wrong ..I haven't any plans. This is my vacation.

If Clive was chagrined that he had to share her, he showed no sign of it as he drove them to the beach and stopped the car before the hotel.

"I'll call you in the morning," he said and there was in his eyes the expression that again he was laughing at himself, that the joke was at his expense and that he was enjoying it thoroughly.

Carol spent the first day with her father, a difficult person to be with because he responded only to direct questions and his answers were brief and vague. Only one subject made the old fire come back to his eyes—the world situation. He seemed to see it, not as a world tragedy, but as a gripping drama. No printed matter, no radio program on his favorite subject escaped his notice.

Although he did not ask her about herself she told him about her work at the hospital, her apartment and her friends. And because she knew he wanted to hear of Bill, whom he had always liked, she said, "I haven't seen Bill for months. Not since just after the divorce. It's strange, I know, that we live in the same city and don't see each other. I haven't any money problems, either. I'm working because I want to and not getting paid for it."

When Jeff Brandt, who might have been George's twin, joined them for dinner, the talk was livelier. For Jeff was less inhibited than his brother and more curious. He asked about Clinton and talked lingeringly about his precious flowers. He wanted to know all about Carol and was eager for her to see his little house.

She had to think about him... about Clive. Then say to herself that it did not matter whether he vanished again would be to lie foolishly to herself. It mattered terribly. It had been mattering all day, when, sitting on the beach with her father she had been wondering where Clive was. She thought, "I'll have to get it straight. I don't understand it. I don't understand myself now. I don't know the woman who wants to see Clive again. I know only the woman who loved Bill. I hate not understanding myself These feelings that make you do things contrary to your true nature. These are the feelings Bill had when he wanted Evelyn more than he wanted me. Will I understand how Bill felt, that night when he became a man I didn't know any more? Will Clive, who has been coming and going in my mind for months, make me understand.

Turning, thinking she would sleep away these feelings, she walked back. But when she stepped on the veranda, Clive stepped from the shadows.

"I'm stopping here, too," he said. There was great amusement in his voice. "I hope I've made myself conspicuously absent all day. On the beach I wasn't more than a few feet from you and your father. Shall we stay here and have a cigarette or go some place for a drink?"

"Let's stay here."

Clive sat on the porch ledge. Carol sat in a white chair before him.

He said, "I suppose I must be unselfish and not be disgusted because I can't, as I had hoped, see you from morning until night. Driving down, I had visions of breakfast, luncheon and dinner completely undisrupted by any outside force. Let's get together on what days and nights are going to belong to me." When she turned her head slightly and looked directly at him, he said, "I know. It's been months. How many I've forgotten. I've been called repeatedly because I couldn't remember what a woman was wearing on a certain night or what I said on what was supposed to be a red-letter night. But I do remember the really important things... I remember that once. your cold hands became warm under mine. Sensations.. I'm very good at remembering sensations."

"Where have you been all these months?"

"Looking for another job. Or those South American things, as you probably don't know, they put a lump of money in your hand when you get back—for being a good boy. I've been enjoying that and looking for another job. I have one, a very good one which gives me a good bit of authority. I have a peculiar weakness for liking to be the boss. Suddenly, you see, all the engineers who couldn't find jobs during the depression are in great demand. But I don't report until January 15th and..I haven't spent all the lump."

He smiled. "But I want to know about you. Not what you've been doing, but what you've been feeling and thinking. I approve of your thoughts. You look—cured This morning you looked radiant when I first saw you. Radiant and free and liking your freedom. Liking it almost too much for my taste." He laughed, that rich, abandoned laugh. "Why don't you say something?"

Sylvanus Apps May be Named Commissioner

Toronto, April 18 — (CP) — The possibility arose yesterday that Sylvanus Apps, captain and centre ice star of Toronto Maple Leafs in the National Hockey League, may be in line for the appointment as provincial athletic commissioner by the Ontario government.

First suggestion of this new future for the 32-year-old native of Paris, Ont., came from Montreal where managing director Conny Smythe dropped a hint that Apps' name has been mentioned for the post, set up under legislation passed by the Ontario Legislature at its last session.

There was no official comment from government circles on the report, but political sources said it would be no surprise if the McMaster University graduate who was a point-winner for Canada in the pole-vaulting event at the 1936 Olympic Games ranked high among the possibilities.

They mentioned his popularity as a sports figure, his reputation for clean play and fairness and his integrity. Some recalled that in the 1940 Federal election he was a National government, or Conservative, candidate in Brant riding where he lost out by the narrow margin of 101 votes.

Big Liner Undamaged

Southampton, April 18 —(Reuters)—Painters spruced up the liner Queen Elizabeth for her next New York sailing Saturday after officials had decided that no material damage was suffered when the ship ran aground on a shingle bank near here Monday.

Divers went over the giant hull looking for the slightest sign of harm but one of the liner's officers said it was a "million-to-one chance" against their finding anything to prevent her sailing. "Nothing but very minor damage — scratched paintwork—has been reported so far" he said.

MAY PLAY IN NEW YORK

Dublin, April 18 —(Reuters)—The all-Ireland football final may be played in New York this summer for the first time since the war, it was disclosed today.

Patrick Okeefe, secretary of the Gaelic Athletic Association of Ireland, and T. Kilcoyle, secretary of the Connaught Council of the association, will leave for New York to discuss the practicability of holding the matches there.

Britain's Trade Problems Just One Big Headache

London, April 18 (CP)— If you're having business difficulties, consider just one of Britain's: Should she sell her highly-prized exports to European countries who pay with money that can be spent only on things Britain doesn't particularly want.

Tweeds sold in Toronto, for example bring in dollars and therefore the transaction is more rewarding than if it took place in Copenhagen or Paris on a soft currency basis.

Britain, however, cannot divert all her supplies to hard currency countries, although there are increasing signs that the government has decided to lean more heavily in that direction.

But in the meantime she has agreements—just as she has with Canada—to let in token shipments of European goods which sold here before the war. She has a vital interest in seeing sound economy restored in Europe.

In face value, trade with Europe exceeds that of 1938. Exports for that year were valued at £14,400,000 imports at £25,000,000. Last January exports reached £32,200,000, and imports £26,000,000.

Actual volume of trade was far below pre-war and much of what came in was not particularly wanted. But every sale that was not offset as an import meant an increase in the accumulation of currencies which cannot be converted for another five years to dollars.

The problem is one for constant study and trade delegations are or have been in most European countries trying to work out equitable agreements. Britain has been forced into a position of tougher bargaining by the fuel and weather crises which forced her to dip deeper into her dollar accounts.

Accused Woman Re-enacts Murder Aboard Yacht

By E. V. W. JONES

Havana, April 18 —(AP)— A jostling, jabbering, gesticulating crowd of curious Cubans turned the re-enactment of the fatal shooting of John Lester Mee aboard the yacht Satira into a Roman holiday yesterday.

Inquisitive spectators packed themselves so tightly into the cabin where Mee was shot April 8, that Patricia Schmidt, sloe-eyed 21-year-old dancer charged with homicide in connection with Mee's death, was unable to demonstrate in the cabin just what happened on the fatal day.

Miss Schmidt, billed in Caribbean capitals under the name "Satira," has informed Cuban officials that she shot the Chicago lawyer during an argument after she discovered he was married. Mee died five days after he was shot.

When police brought Miss Schmidt aboard the 72-foot yacht from her prison cell yesterday she burst into tears and was immediately surrounded by a curious crowd which piled aboard the vessel and refused to obey authorities trying to clear them away.

Thirty or more spectators were jammed into the small cabin where the re-enactment was to take place.

Miss Schmidt was ordered to show how she stood in the passageway, gun in hand. An investigator, enacting the role of Mee, entered and turned toward her.

"He lunged at me and I fired," Miss Schmidt explained.

The cabin was so jammed that the investigator couldn't even move, let alone lunge. Half a dozen heads were hanging through the hatch from the forward deck and there was an inquisitive face at every porthole.

The judge gave up and adjourned the meeting to the second floor of a nearby building, where the inquiry went on behind locked and guarded doors.

ST. MIKES WIN OVER MOOSE JAW BY 6 TO 1 COUNT

Irish Heavy Favorites to Lift Memorial Cup in Four Straight Games

Moose Jaw, Sask., April 18 — (CP)—A classy Toronto St. Michael's squad today found themselves within two games of their goal—the Memorial Cup and the 1947 Dominion Junior Hockey Championship—a title which evaded them last year when they dropped the final series four games to three to Winnipeg Monarchs.

St. Mikes, showing why they were made heavy favorites to capture the cup this year, overwhelmed Moose Jaw Canucks 6-1 here last night before 3,700 roaring fans. It was the second straight win in the best-of-seven final for the Double Blues who trounced Canucks 12-3 in the opener at Winnipeg Tuesday night. The third game is scheduled for Regina Saturday night.

The game was played at a blazing clip and was slowed only by the 22 penalties handed out by referees Lindquist and Mullins. Toronto received 12 and Canucks 10.

Kansas City Pla-Mors Retain Playoff Crown

(By The Associated Press)

With the playoff championship again in their possession, Kansas City Pla-Mors today shared United States Hockey League honors with Omaha Knights.

The Pla-Mors retained the playoff crown they won last year with a 5-2 victory over Omaha last night to take the best-of-seven final. They lost only the fourth game.

Previously Omaha, finishing the regular season in first place in the northern division, had defeated Dallas, Southern Division winner, for the league championship. Kansas City won the league title last year.

The Pla-Mors turned on a third period drive good for three goals last night after the two clubs entered the final stanza deadlocked 2-2.

Hope to Break Deadlock On Yugoslav Demands

Moscow, April 19. (AP)—The Big Four Foreign Ministers agreed today at the demand of State Secretary Marshall to take up the problem of Austria's frontiers tonight.

This involved chiefly Yugoslavia's demand for Southern Carinthia. Russia has favored and western powers have opposed this demand.

A final deadlock on this issue tonight—following up last night's stalemate on German assets—would be about the only thing needed to bury the Austrian treaty for the present.

While Marshall and Foreign Secretary Bevin have not declared themselves formally for an immediate windup of the conference, both are widely reported to be anxious to leave here as soon as possible in view of almost overwhelming evidence that no agreement can be reached on either a German or an Austrian treaty.

United States informants had suggested that apparently Russia had not wanted to finish an Austrian treaty in Moscow and had speculated that the Russians might be stalled on European change till they could evaluate the Truman aid program.

Blast Flattens U-Boat Pen At Helgoland

Cuxhaven Germany, April 19 (AP)—The south end of Hellgoland, wartime island bastion of the German Navy, was flattened and the U-boat pen has disappeared as a result of yesterday's big blast, detonated by 7,500tons of explosives, a British naval officer in a ship off the island reported today.

The officer, broadcasting to Cuxhaven naval base, said there appeared to be a "huge crater" where the main tunnel into the underground fortification used to be, adding that from the sea there appeared to be a landslide at the southern end of the island, which was flattened to sea level.

The lighthouse at the end of the harbor breakwater was still there, and some houses on the top of the island appeared battered but still standing, the officer said.

ORDERS DISREGARDED

Cuxhaven, Germany, (Reuters)—German fishermen, disregarding strict orders that no one may go near Helgoland until official inspection parties have declared the shattered island safe, are believed to have secretly landed there during the night in search of buried treasure and loot churned up by yesterday's explosion, radio messages from a Royal Navy vessel off the island said today.

The navy despatched at patrol to chase off the German fishing boats, which were reported to be moving along the coast of the island, and to fire warning shots if necessary.

Marshal of the R.A.F., Sir Sholto Douglas flew over the island after the explosion last night. Aircraft observers reported that the two massive coastal defence batteries on the northern and southern ends of the island had completely disappeared, and that the submarine pens had been demolished.

It was revealed today that there was a premature explosion of a detonator when two officers were preparing the final fusing arrangement on the island yesterday, but the detonator had not been connected to the fuse wire leading to the mass of explosives. The officers were slightly injured.

A vessel will anchor off the island tonight and it was expected that a naval reconnaissance party will go ashore in advance of the landing tomorrow morning of a small group of scientists and technical experts who are to study the effects of the explosion.

Observers' reports dispelled German fears that the island would be completely destroyed. A senior naval officer today said "our job was to demilitarize Helgoland fortifications only, and that is what we have done."

Officers Doubt Body of Wingate Has Been Found

Calcutta, April 19 (Reuters)—Officers who remember circumstances of the air crash in which Maj.-Gen. Wingate, commander of the famous Chindits, was killed in Burma in 1944, expressed doubt today in the reported discovery of his body by a Graves Commission unit.

Some doubted if recognizable remains could survive three years in the jungle, and suggested that the report, received from Shillong in Assam, may mean only that the unit has relocated the scene of the crash.

They recalled that a search party which reached the scene near Imphal, in Upper Burma, a few days after the crash found only a burned-out Mitchell bomber, with some papers and Wingate's hat near by.

A detailed report was expected within three days.

Will Give Princess 87 Diamonds As Birthday Gift

Kimberley, South Africa, April 19 (Reuters)—When Princess Elizabeth becomes 21 Monday, the Union of South Africa will present her with 87 diamonds as a birthday present.

The diamonds suitable for setting as a necklace, include 21 major stones to mark the years of the Princess' life and a centre stone of 9.55 carats.

All will be contained in a solid silver case emblazoned with the Union Coat of Arms in colored enamel.

Thus far, the Union's gifts to the Royal Family during its tour of South Africa total 540 matched diamonds to be presented in Capetown early next week

The diamonds making up the King's gift consist of 399 loose diamonds weighing 32.97 carats. Intended for the Garter Star, the stones have been arranged in a Springbok design for the presentation ceremony. Their case of solid gold is engraved with the Union Coat of Arms.

At Capetown, the Queen will be presented with a solitaire marquise of 8.55 carats in a gold cese and Princess Margaret will receive 53 diamonds suitable for setting a bracelet. Her diamonds weigh 41.57 carats.

Work on the diamonds has been performed by the Master Cutters Association of South Africa who also presented the cases for the Queen and the Princesses.

Princess Elizabeth's 21st Birthday To be Virtually Unobserved in Britain

By STUART UNDERHILL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, April 19—(CP) — The 21st birthday of the woman who may one day sit on the British throne will pass virtually unobserved Monday in her homeland despite Royal celebrations in South Africa where she now is touring with her parents and sister.

Flags will fly from government buildings to mark the latest milestone in the life of Princess Elizabeth but little else is planned. Arrangements for a gigantic search-light demonstration and a carnival have been cancelled in keeping with the campaign to save electricity.

There's no doubt, however, that the Princess occupies a warm spot in the hearts of the people and they probably will give her an extra cheer when the Royal Family returns from South Africa May 12.

In part, this affection is due to the modest manner with which she has met the glare of publicity focussed on her almost since her birth. Sentimental writers gushed about her all during her girlhood but she seems unaffected and most of those who have met her are impressed with her straightforward charm.

A girl in her position can have little private life. A typical example is the current curiosity about the prospects of her marrying tall, handsome Philip Mountbatten, former Prince Philip of Greece.

No. 2 on the list of speculations about the Princess is: What changes, if any, will be made in her way of life now that she's 21?

For one thing her income, paid from rent of Crown lands, will rise from £6,000 ($24,000) a year to £15,000.

For another, she'll be entitled to vote — legally she is a commoner. Her only title by right of birth is that of "Her Royal Highness." She cannot even be called hear apparent to the throne for no one can haye that title except the son of a sovereign or his direct male descendant.

Since she is not a peeress, she has no seat in the House of Lords but a special elevator is being built in the new House of Commons to enable her to go privately to a special section of the gallery where she can hear the Commons debates.

Probably no one outside of the Royal Family knows the thoughts of the level-eyed girl as she drives through cheering multitudes whose queen she is likely to be. It is obvious that their acclamation is based on something stronger than vocal honor — it is respect and affection for someone doing a tough job well.

CONFERENCE MAY MEAN PEACE OR STRIFE FOR STEEL

Decisions Will Come Before 175-Man Wage And Policy Committee For Approval

Pittsburgh, April 19 (AP) — Top-ranking strategists of the C.I.O.'s 850,000-member United Steelworkers Union gathered here today for important weekend sessions expected to go a long way toward determining whether peace or strife will rule in American steel industry.

The Union's powerful executive board meets today and tomorrow, with its decisions slated to come before the 175-man wage and policy committee Monday for approval. Prime subject will be contract negotiations now under way between the Union and the United States Steel Corporation, the country's top producer.

Possible results of current Union sessions could be a wage settlement, a new contract extension, or strike call after April 30, expiration date of the present pact between the Union and five major steel subsidiaries.

With negotiations between Big Steel and steelworkers currently at a standstill, a 23-cent an hour wage boost demand was sent by the Union to the Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation, fourth largest producer. No Union official would say that figure was also presented to Big Steel but it appeared much more to the liking of the Union than a 15-cent-an-hour increase offered and accepted in other industries:

The United Auto Workers (C.I.O.) have made a 23-cent wage boost demand on General Motors Corporation but the United Electrical Workers (C.I.O.) have settled for a 15-cent raise for 30,000 worker-members in the General Motors plants and for 75,000 members employed by the Westinghouse Electric Corporation. The Auto Workers called "unsatisfactory" a 15-cent offer made by General Motors.

Walter Reuther, president of the Auto Workers said here he plans to resume negotiations with General Motors in Detroit Monday.

FORGOTTEN TRADITION

Halifax — (CP) — There's an old British parliamentary tradition that speeches are to be said and not read. But Speaker George Romkey joined in the laughter following a statement by James E. Rutledge (L — Halifax Centre) that public utility strikes should be banned. "Why," he said "politicians wouldn't be able to give their speeches if electrical workers walked out." It was the only part of his speech he didn't read.

55 ARRESTED IN RAID

Toronto, April 19 (CP)—Police squads swooped on two alleged gambling places last night and arrested a total of 55 persons. At one place in Chinatown Lem Boo was charged with keeping and 18 with being found in. At the other on Denison Avenue Bill Chortyk and Mike Karda were charged with keeping, and 34 others with being found in.

Graphic Story of Wrecked Texas City Told by Editor

Galveston, Tex., April 19—(AP)—Roy E. Hanna, mainland editor for the Galveston News, risked arrest to enter the restricted area on the Texas City waterfront yesterday and returned with this graphic story:

So rigid was the guarding of Monsanto's stricken area against entry today that I resorted to posing as a litter bearer to pass the probing eyes of Texas Rangers, state highway patrolmen, police and soldiers, who were ordered to arrest any newspaper man inside the restricted grounds where newly-discovered bodies were being removed.

Weary of misinformation and false rumors which circulated like angry bees, I wanted to make a tour of inspection.

I made my way across a field in which parts of the exploded ships could be seen half buried in the earth.

A large fuel tank on my left which had been burning since the first blast, continued to boil thick, greasy smoke which rolled back over Texas City.

Walking along mangled walls of the concrete slip, which had been chopped off below the ground by the girders, stones and machinery which was exploded in all directions, I saw the remains of a fire-blackened face. Shouting for a stretcher as three stretcher bearers climbed over the rubble toward me, I tried to remove the steel reinforced concrete from the body.

Straining together, we pushed the masonry from the corpse.

A cry of "stretcher, over here!" came, from a smoke-blackened searcher. He had found less than half of what was once a girl office worker.

How many more bodies and pieces will be discovered after the fires have died completely? I don't know: Some will never be found.

PAUL ROBESON FORCED TO CANCEL ENGAGEMENT

Claims Peoria Under Wave of Terror That is Unbelievable

Peoria, Ill., April 19 (AP)—Singer Paul Robeson sidestepped a promised public appearance here last night because he said "The whole town is under a wave of terror that is unbelievable."

With his second scheduled concert cancelled by order of Mayor Carl O. Triebel, the Negro lifted his baritone voice against what he called "being branded a subversive without trial."

In a press conference at the home of a Negro Labor leader, the singer asserted that Peoria "goes on record as being taken over by the Fascist element." He decided against the promised public speech, he said, because Mayor Triebel had said "my appearance would be an incitement to riot."

Earlier, the mayor had withdrawn permission for Robeson to use a small assembly room in the city hall for a concert and Robeson replied that he would make a speech instead, "on a sidewalk if necessary."

Official action against the singer's appearance was first taken by the city council last Tuesday night after Robeson had been named by the House of Representatives committee on un-American activities as one group of persons "invariably found supporting the Communist Party and its front organization."

The council adopted a resolution disapproving of the appearance in Peoria of "any speaker or artist who is an avowed or active propagandist for un-American ideology."

Quads Are Born To English Mother

Eccles, Lancashire, England, April 19 (Reuters)—Doctors at Hope Hospital here are fighting to keep alive quads—two boys and two girls—who were born over a period of three hours early today to 38-year-old Mrs. Marian Lowe of Seedley, Salford. They were her first children.

Latest reports is that the babies who are two months premature, are feeble and too weak to be weighed, but Mrs. Lowe's general condition is "good."

Scientist's Death Caused by X-Rays

Grimsby, England (Reuters)—J. V. Doley, who died here after while carrying out radiography research was an "X-ray hero," said F. N. Robinson, chairman of the management committee of the hospital where Doley died.

Doley carried out his work even after dermatitis caused by constant exposure to X-rays led to the amputation of several fingers in 1937. For 18 months he was bedridden in the hospital where he had worked and of his final illness Robinson said:

LIST OF KNOWN DISASTER DEAD CLIMBS PAST 500

Grotesque Figures in Asbestos Suits Dig Grimly in Ruins for Bodies

Texas City, Tex., April 19 — (AP)—The list of known dead from a series of explosions and fires which have rocked this gulf coast industrial centre since Wednesday climbed above 500 today.

Names listed by the Red Cross carried the notation "identified dead," but the Post stated the list should be considered tentative.

Grotesque figures clad in asbestos suits dug grimly into smouldering wreckage last night in the ceaseless probe for bodies, working in the glare of still flaming oil tanks and powerful searchlights.

Heavy smoke boiled skyward and hung over the city from fires started Wednesday morning when the nitrate-laden French freighter Grandcamp exploded, setting off a chain of explosions that destroyed three ships, levelled a multimillion dollar chemical plant and left Texas City in shambles.

An investigating board of Coast Guard officers yesterday began hearing testimony in an inquiry into the cause of the Grandcamp explosion.

Rescue workers entered the Monsanto Chemical Corporation plant, still burning and with some parts inaccessible. About 35 bodies were removed from the plant. The exact number of dead brought out was difficult to ascertain. Many of the bodies were in pieces.

A "dead body commission" was appointed by Mayor J. C. Trahan after he revealed last night that there had been some unauthorized removals of bodies from the city before relatives could identify them.

The slow process of recovery was made more arduous by the mangled condition of the bodies.

"I've been bringing out the pieces all day," said John A. Rios, a Galveston longshoreman, "I guess they add up to about two people. I only found one whole man and he was burned black. I don't see how anything could be worse than this."

Three oil tank fires blazed defiantly late last night, and a number of smaller fires continued to burn. The heavy, black smoke deepened the gloom of this already dazed, tired little city, once a great congregation of industry and 15,000 population.

Rumors which persisted yesterday that some survivors had been found beneath the mountain of wreckage that was the Monsanto plant were unsubstantiated.

Weather Synopsis

Toronto, Apr. 19 (CP).—Air of polar origin covers all of Canada east of the Rockies and temperatures throughout are unseasonably low. In Southern Ontario temperatures this morning are near freezing and in Northern Ontario near zero. A narrow band of precipitation, partly snow, partly rain extends across southern Michigan and Lake Erie into western New York. A centre of low pressure should develop over the Mississippi valley this afternoon and move northeastward. Snow and rain will likely return to Southern Ontario beginning in the Windsor region late tonight and extending eastward across Southwestern Ontario during the day. Little change in temperature is expected for Sunday.

HOUSE APPROVES VITAL PROVISIONS OF CONTROL BILL

Ilsley Suggests "Free Vote" to Say When Prices Board Should Be Disbanded

By GEORGE KITCHEN

Ottawa April 19 (CP)— The vital price control provisions of the government's main control bill were approved by the Commons yesterday with comparatively little dissension and only one amendment.

The change, made by Justice Minister Ilsley, would make prices board officials subject to damage actions if, in the performance of their duties they deliberately harmed any individual or his business. It was based on opposition suggestions that board officials be made subject to court action.

The section amended was that authorizing the continuation of the prices board for another year. It was adopted as the House continued clause-by-clause study of the bill in committee stage.

When the House rose for the weekend, the discussion was on rentals regulations, with study centering on an amendment moved by Don Fleming (PC—Toronto Eglinton) which would enable veterans who have purchased homes since their return from overseas to obtain occupancy.

At the House opening, acting Prime Minister St. Laurent said a committee to study human rights and freedoms will not be established until after the emergency legislation is completed.

Mr. St. Laurent also told the House there has been some indication of "willingness" on the part of Russia to have Canada and other similar allies associated with the drafting of the German peace.

During study of Mr. Fleming's control amendment, Mr. Ilsley said the wording of the motion would cover not only veterans who served overseas but also the 200,000 to 300,000 who served in Canada.

Mr. Fleming said he would have the amendment apply only to veterans who have already purchased homes in the hope that they would be able to obtain occupany of them.

Reconstruction Minister Howe, who handled housing during the war years, said veterans had been granted all the priorities in housing that the State could give them while civilians had none. Eviction controls could not be further relaxed without creating difficulties.

In the early discussion of Prices Board Regulations, Mr. Ilsley told the House the Government was ready to leave it up to the members to decide whether parliament or the cabinet should have the power to disband the board.

He suggested the House take a "free vote" on an amendment that would give parliament the right to say when the board should be discontinued. A free vote enables members to vote any way they like regardless of party lines or policies.

Mr. Ilsley was referring to an amendment moved earlier by Stanley Knowles (CCF-Winnipeg North Centre) which would provide that only parliament could put the board out of existence.

While he could not accept Mr. Knowles' amendment, the minister offered a re-wording for the consideration of the House, at the same time making it clear that the government was not moving the amendment as a matter of government policy. The amendment would not prevent the government from removing ceilings or cancelling orders.

Aunt Hetty Fast Becoming Most Famous, Most Hated Woman in U.K.

By ED CREAGH

London, April 19 — (AP) — A pernickety old girl by the name of Aunt Hetty was fast becoming the most famous, and the most roundly hated, woman in the United Kingdom today — all because of her likes and dislikes.

Bartenders, members of parliament and jokers of all kinds insisted on telling you about her: "Aunt Hetty likes jazz but she doesn't like music. She likes cheese and butter but she dislikes dairy products. She likes . . ."

It made no difference that Aunt Hetty was imaginary. People kept talking about her anyway. They wrote letters to the papers about her. They sent 1,500 letters about her this week to the British Broadcasting Corporation which started the Aunt Hetty craze.

"Look, what is the point of all this?" enraged victims screamed. But all the Aunt Hetty fans would reply was: "Aunt Hetty likes beer but she can't stand intoxicants. She likes . . ."

It became a ritual, a chant. But 95 per cent of the people exposed to Aunt Hetty eventually got the point to her, estimated BBC quizmaster Michael Miles, who first inflicted her on the public six weeks ago.

"I just stuck her into the program for lack of anything else," explained Miles. "She's an old party game — hundreds of years ago. I knew that she'd either fall flat or become a national craze."

Aunt Hetty likes things that have double letters in them—beer, butter, grass, and so on. She dislikes everything else.

It doesn't take that much to drive people crazy, does it?

Irgun Promises New Terror Wave Against British

Claims Palestine Problem Must be Settled by Force

Paris, April 19 — (Reuters) — The leader of Irgun Zvai Leumi, Jewish terrorist organization, declared in an interview with a French newspaper correspondent, published in Le Parisien today, that Irgun and other terrorist organizations were about to start "a new series of operations against the British in Palestine."

Dov Bela Gruner, convicted Jewish terrorist executed Wednesday, was a martyr, he declared. "There is not only one Dov Gruner among us; there are thousands and tens of thousands ready to give their lives to fight the tyranny wherever it is found.

"Several weeks ago we declared war on Britain because there is no more justice left. We consider that the Palestine problem can only be settled by force."

The correspondent claimed to have interviewed the Irgun chief in the heart of Jerusalem.

Constable Wounded.

Jerusalem, April 19 —(AP)—A constable wounded in one of four attacks yesterday on British personnel died in a hospital during the night, raising to two the death toll from the first wave of apparent reprisals by Jewish underground extremists for the hanging Wednesday of four members of Irgun Zvai Leumi.

The constable had been felled by a bomb blast which destroyed an armored car on busy Allenby Road in the all-Jewish city of Tel Aviv. A second officer was wounded severely. The two officers, firing after their taxi-riding assailants, killed one civilian and wounded two.

The attacks seemed to have ceased with sundown last night, beginning of the Jewish Sabbath, after three ambushers of British police and military personnel and one raid on the Natanya military leave centre, where a sentry was shot dead.

Strikers Plan To Lay Case Before Truman

Washington, April 19. (AP)—A country-wide walkout of Western Union telegraphers was averted today while the still-striking telephone workers prepared to lay their case before President Truman and the United States Congress.

Under a tentative agreement announced early today in New York by union and management, 50,000 Western Union Telegraph Company employees are to receive a five-cent hourly wage hike and other benefits.

The Commercial Telegraphers Union (A.F.L.) had called a strike for May 4 in support of its demands, which included a 25-cent hourly pay increase.

Union officials said the agreement is subject to ratification by the C.T.U. as well as by the Telegraph Workers Union and the Telegraph Employees Union, both A.F.L., which participated in negotiations.

Ronald W. Haughton, federal conciliator, said the agreement would "guarantee peace" for six months after April 1 after which the wage clause may be reopened for further negotiation.

The telephone workers are hopeful that in presenting their case to Truman and Congress they can smoke out a wage increase offer from the Bell System for 340,000 workers.

Winnipeg, Apr. 19 (CP).—A 68-year-old waitress who has been serving other people since she was 14, has been willed $240,000 by a Minneapolis bachelor, Thomas B. Campbell, 77, who once owned the old Mariaggi Hotel here—and the first thing the waitress, Margaret Laxdal, will do is to "get a roof over my head."

"My fortune has always been down and out," she said in an interview today. "I was surprised when I heard of the will. I had no idea Campbell had so much money."

Yesterday Probate Judge James J. Kehoe at Minneapolis upheld the will, which Mr. Campbell's relatives contested. The judge ruled the will, made in Canada, is subject to Manitoba laws which provide a will needs no witness if it is written entirely by hand.

Miss Laxdal met Mr. Campbell in the early 1900's while she was head waitress of the Mariaggi Hotel.

"There was none finer than he," she said. While he owned the hotel he was also a salesman, his travels taking him from Alaska to Florida, and Miss Laxdal saw him only between trips.

"I won't spend the money foolishly," she said. "I'm going to use it for a good cause and that's all I'm going to say. First I'm going to get a roof over my head."

She now is living with friends, Mr. and Mrs. J. Gudlaugson, of Winnipeg.

Born in Iceland, she came to North Dakota at the age of eight with her parents and moved to Winnipeg when 19.

"I started working a year after I left Iceland," she recalled. "I looked after the house and the other kids. I started working in a hotel when I was 14." After the Mariaggi closed, she continued working as a waitress for 27 years. Now she caters for private parties.

"It's been hard to find a place to live," she said. She isn't "too certain" of her fortune even though the Minneapolis court has established her claim, and doesn't want to make plans.

"What about a trip to Iceland?"

"You never know," she mused. "I may see different countries, too."

Program Building Subject of Address By Padre Swan

"Program Building," was the subject of an address on the qualities needed for making one's individual life a success, an address heard with keen interest by members of the Belleville Life Underwriters' Association having as guest speaker at the monthly luncheon meeting in the Y.M.C.A. Squadron Leader Minto Swan, padre at the R. C. A. F. Station, Trenton. Squadron Leader Swan's outstanding ability as a public speaker is well known throughout the district and his stimulating address was an enriching experience for his hearers.

Mr. Don Williams, president was in the chair and Mr. Bill Navin acted as pianist contributing two numbers which were greatly enjoyed. During the business session it was decided that the concluding meeting in May would be held at the Old Dutch Mill. Mr. Eric Cooper, of the Imperial Life, was honored in the presentation of a National Quality Award by the Life Underwriters' Association of Canada the congratulations of his associates being conveyed by the president. Mr. J. J. Hibbard gave the minutes of the last meeting and also read a very welcome letter from Mr. Ralph B. Morden who is a patient in Kingston General Hospital. Mr. Morden reported successful progress toward recovery and expressed sincere appreciation for the beautiful bouquets of flowers which have been sent to him by the Association.

Canada Life In Charge

The meeting was in charge of the Canada Life Assurance Company and Mr. L. C. Monk, branch manager, Kingston, was a visitor at the gathering. Mr. Ralph Knowlton, of the Belleville office, introduced the guest speaker referring to his work in the ministry before entering the chaplaincy service and to his devotion to the men in the service.

Squadron Leader Swan had a particular understanding of the problems of life underwriters, since, during his college career, he had worked most successfully in selling insurance in his spare time.

In his address, Mr. Swan pointed out, that in any field of endeavour the practices of a good underwriter could be imitated....that of "planning the work and working that plan." It was essential in life to have some definite plan and to adhere to it. Complementing this was the essential factor of knowing in as comprehensive way as possible the details of the life of a prospect so that personal contact would have a firmer basis of understanding.

The speaker referred to qualities which were necessary in personal success. One of the most important was enthusiasm, a true enthusiasm springing from the spirit within, and reflecting in outward expression of one's personality. Synthetic enthusiasm soon worked itself out while true enthusiasm signifying the spirit within carried one through a lifetime. Such a personality, too, showed peace within, a very essential attitude.

With enthusiasm as a grand start, another vital quality was perseverance, with readiness to progress and accept new experiences was also most important.

Emphasizes Necessity

Squadron Leader Swan emphasized the necessity for extending one's program building to fields beyond one's own business horizons. As travelling resulted in expanding friendships, so interest in community problems, in social and economic developments of the country and in international affairs reflected a true conception of program building.

Appreciation of the Association was conveyed by Mr. J. J. Hibbard who referred to the address as one of the finest heard by the members during the season.

Commission Charges Greek Documents Stolen

New York, April 19. (CP)—The New York Times said in a Geneva dispatch today that the United Nations Balkan Investigating Commission session there yesterday were "marked by charges that documents had been stolen and efforts made to suppress 'the real truth about Greece' and a refusal by the Commission Secretary to tell the full groups the names of his contacts with the Greek guerilla leader 'General Markos'."

The dispatch said the commission met publicly yesterday for the first time since reaching Geneva but "argued and accomplished little."

The stolen document charge was made by the Soviet delegate, A. A. Lavrischev, the Times report said. He charged that documents submitted to the team that visited Greek islands in March had been stolen from a trip.

The Secretary, A. Roscher Lund of Norway, told the Commission he feared for the safety of his informents who unsuccessfully tried to bring about a meeting between Markos and the Commission, the report added.

Ontario President C.C.F. Party Urges Effective Partnership Between Farmer and Laborer

Andrew Brewin Addresses Dinner Party at "Y" on Policies of Party

The C.C.F. party since its inception back in 1933 has consistently worked for the effective partnership of Canada's two great producers—the farmers and the laborer—and until this partnership is gained nothing much can be done for the continued prosperity of the country as a whole.

This was what Andrew Brewin Ontario president of the C.C.F. party, told a representative gathering of local party members when at a dinner party at the Y.M.C.A., Friday evening he addressed a gathering of approximately 150 persons on the "Farmer and the C.C.F."

In illustrating what the C.C.F. party has to offer the farmer, the speaker pointed out that it was the farming province of Saskatchewan which first adopted a C.C.F. government in Canada. Today the government of the province was recognized as having the most advanced and effective legislation on the entire continent.

Labor Assured Place

Referring to the anti-strike legislation in effect in that province Mr. Brewin pointed out that labor was assured of its place in industry. "If the same type of legislation was in effect in Ontario we would not have disastrous strikes," he stated.

Admitting that today's farmer is better off than he has been for years, the speaker stated that far sighted agriculturists can see a recession in the future. "The time has come when farmers in Ontario should be asked to form a partnership with labor."

Enumerating the many points on which the policy of the C.C.F. is favorable to the farmer the speaker pointed out that this was a democratic party in which agriculturists can take full responsibility in forming the policies which are best for themselves.

Refuses Contribution

The C.C.F. party consistently refuses to accept contributions of money from large industrial organizations and therefore were free to adopt the policy wished for by the majority of its members The C.C.F. policy was declared to be much the same as that of the Federation of Agriculture and favored the establishment of boards for the marketing of farm produce.

The party was also partial to the co-operative movement, a movement in which farmers were vitally interested. In Saskatchewan the C.C.F. government fought measures that would have slowed up the co-operative movement.

The C.C.F. policy of urging public control of the industrial monopolies was also declared to be favorable to the farm in that machinery cartels would be broken up with resultant decrease in the price of farm machinery.

Claims Change-over Unnecessary

The party also favored the establishment of health measures and health services which would be extended throughout the rural areas and was also interested in flood control and conservation measures. The Hydro change-over from 25 to 60 cycles as projected by the Ontario Hydro was also mentioned by the speaker, he claiming that this was unnecessary as there would be few advantages to be gained.

The $200 million dollars that the change-over would cost could be used for further reduction of rates under the present system and for further electrification of the rural areas.

A constantly rising standard of living, both in the city and country with the power of the community organized in government to plan for decent healthy conditions was declared to be the basic philosophy of the C.C.F. party. It believed that this could be done without forfeiting freedom, it believed there could be a democratic socialism.

Civil Liberties Discussed

Touching briefly on civil liberties, Mr. Brewin referred to the C.C.F. opposition to the deportation of Canadian-born Japanese which he declared as "inhuman."

"The C.C.F. party was the only party to oppose this," said the speaker who declared that security and freedom must be granted to the minorities. "If liberties on the outposts are not protected then we will not be in position to protect our liberties when the attack comes on the community."

The philosophy of the C.C.F was soundly based on the highest traditions of democracy Mr Brewin declared in conclusion. The party policy was based on the participation of the people in contributing to the solving of their own problems. It was concerned with the humblest, as well as the least humble.

Arthur C. Cole of local Trades and Labor Union, acted as chairman for the evening and introduced the guest speaker. In expressing the appreciation of the guests he pointed out the need in Belleville of a community centre and urged that the ratepayers be cognizant of this fact and demand the city council to take some action in the matter.

Question Period

Following the address by Mr. Brewin the meeting was thrown open for questions with several inquiries being made regarding party policy.

Entertainment for the evening was provided by 10 of the Y.M.C.A. Jr. Boys' Choir under the direction of Ed Shortt. The boys sang four numbers, two of them Negro spirituals, and closed with "Goodbye My Lover, Goodbye." Don Charlton, young local cornetist, gave two much appreciated numbers with Lorraine May acting as piano accompanist, while ever popular Barbara Diment did two appropriate numbers in her typical night club style.

The years may wipe out many things,
But this they wipe out never—
The memory of those happy days
When we were together.

Educational Notes

As a measure to promote educational publicity and to assist in the stimulation of community interest in education and to give the public correct information regarding education both in Belleville and throughout the district, the Belleville Teachers' Council each week will contribute a column to appear in the Ontario Intelligencer under the heading "Educational Notes".

The Belleville Teachers' Council is an organization representing teachers of the four public schools and the Belleville Collegiate and Vocational School.

FIRST THINGS FIRST

In a series of lectures at Victoria College, Sir Richard Livingstone reminded his hearers that character is the chief aim of all education and that what a man knows is meaningless apart from what a man is.

He insisted that the school's chief concern must be to develop the right kind of people. Is Bill Jones a better member of society than he was at the opening week of school? Is Mary Smith a more effective member than when she first came shyly into the class room? These are truly important questions.

The pupil who learns that he can be a participating member of his school group, that by his conduct he can help or hinder that group, and that he can derive a lasting satisfaction from helping, has taken a long first step towards good citizenship.

The impulses toward good citizenship remain merely at the level of good intentions unless the child learns in school "to value excellence." This lesson can not begin at too early an age. To come to recognize what is really first-rate and to refuse to be satisfied with anything second or third rate is indeed the beginning and almost the end of wisdom.

When the pupil learns in school to tackle a solid job with enthusiasm and determination, when he learns to give serious and sustained effort to that job, and when he learns to work with his classmates to attain common purposes, the school does not lack friends or supporters.

That special effort is most likely to be made when we remember that limited successes are the real justification of the nation's educational undertaking.

PARENTAL APPROVAL

Parental approval is the prize award of children. They will do their utmost to win it. It warms their inner beings, and adds to their eagerness to do and to become the sort of children their parents want them to be.

I have in mind the father of four boys, all healthy, active, and intelligent. They do about everything most youngsters do from falling off roofs to bringing home notes from their teachers. They present about every problem healthy children can present.

The one award these children covet, the prize they strive hardest to win, is their father's praise: "Well done, mate; well, done!" Only on rare occasions, only for distinguished accomplishment is that commendation bestowed. And how those lads look for it!

When a report card shows fine marks, Father nods and says, "Very good. That's something like it! I'll sign that with thanks." And he does. When Mother reports a chore well and neatly done, work accomplished in a thorough and workmanlike manner, Father smiles and says, "Good boy. You're a real help in this world of grief;" and he gives the son a pat on the back, maybe an extra dime to his allowance.

But when one of his sons does something beyond the line of duty, then Father bestows his accolade with gravity and grace: "Well done, mate; well done." And the child accepts it as the highest reward good work can win. He walks on air for a few days.

Wise, hard-won approval does more to make children stretch their souls and bodies than any number of punishments, scoldings, and promises can effect. It is fundamental in human nature to want approval from those best loved, most honored. Children are human, very close to nature in their beings; and, even more than adults, they need a word of praise. And when a certain grade of praise is reserved for higher grades of behavior, they will go to great lengths to win the highest, the rarest of them all.

Try bestowing approval on children when they earn it. Try reserving high approval for high deeds and a dose of silence for deeds not so good and see what happens.

How about teachers trying it as well as parents?

AUDIO-VISUAL AIDS IN EDUCATION

Since over three quarters of a child's education is acquired through the sense of sight, the increase in the use of visual aids in recent years is of considerable importance. In particular, sixteen millimetre sound films used in modern projectors, as well as lantern slide projectors, have more than proved their value in local schools. While educationists were not slow to realize the immense value of the moving picture in furthering their work, the comparatively high initial cost of equipment was a deterring factor that has only recently been overcome. Today's pupil who sees on the screen living pictures of distant countries has a far better picture of those countries than had the pupil of twenty-five years ago, who obtained his knowledge from what books were available. No student can come away from a showing of such pictures as "River of Canada" and "Habitant Arts and Crafts" without a real conception of the Province of Quebec, and a better understanding of the importance of the St. Lawrence River to his country.

The sixteen millimetre sound projector is the main equipment in use in Belleville, and is in regular use. Films for the machines are obtainable from three main sources: the Department of Education maintains a good film library in Toronto, the local Film Council has a considerable stock of films, many of which are suitable for use in the schools, and films may be rented from commercial firms. Lantern slides are also stocked by the Department for use in the schools of the province. In addition to lantern slides and films, film strips, serving the same purpose as lantern slides, but employing much more economical equipment, are also tools of today's teachers.

The subjects covered by the films and other aids are wider than would at first be supposed. Social Studies, Science, Health, Agriculture and even Music are all covered in the wide range of film titles available.

The use of these aids requires a special technique if they are to be much more than mere amusement. The Department of Education, in recognizing this fact, has provided special summer courses for teachers to train instructors in getting the maximum of benefit from them.

It is certain that for some years to come there will be an increase in the use of all these aids, in particular the sound film. Its value was well proved by the armed forces during the war, when many hours of training were saved by their use.

Right Rev. T. W. Jones Will Address Joint Congregations at Bridge St. Church

Original members of the First Battalion, Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, will meet a former beloved comrade and friend here on Sunday when the Right Rev. T. W. Jones, D.D., Moderator of the United Church of Canada, will arrive in the city to address joint congregations, and the student body of Albert College.

The Moderator, according to a letter received here by former Regimental Sergeant Major Angus Duffy, is anxious to meet his old comrades of the regiment. He was a Y.M.C.A. supervisor in England during the dark days of late 1939 and 1940 and was in constant contact with the "Hasty Pees" when they were stationed near Aldershot. Strange as it may seem, the "boys" of the regiment, who held their Y supervisor in high regard and esteem, did not know for some time that he was a padre.

The Moderator has sent word, asking that as many as possible of his old comrades of the unit attend Bridge Street United Church on Sunday morning. He is especially anxious to meet them personally after the service.

RT. REV. T. W. JONES, M.A., D.D., Moderator of United Church of Canada.

Born in England.

Thomas William Jones was born at Launton, near Oxford, England, his father's family being of Welsh extraction. Dr. Jones came from Wolverhampton to Canada in 1910 where he became a student at the Congregational College. While pursuing his studies, he was appointed in 1912 as student pastor of Calvary Congregational Church, Westmount (now Calvary United Church.) He graduated with the degree of B.A. from McGill University in 1916, and B.D. from the Congregational College in 1921, receiving an honorary D.D. from Montreal United Theological College in 1935.

Dr. Jones served his country in two World Wars, both times with the Y.M.C.A. His college course was interrupted in 1916 when he joined the Y.M.C.A. Transport Services.

In World War II, Dr. Jones crossed to Great Britain in 1939, with the First Canadian Division as senior Y.M.C.A. officer, from which service he returned in 1941, being sent to lecture on overseas work in military camps across Canada. Following this he returned to his pastorate in Calvary Church.

Holds Many Offices.

Dr. Jones has served the United Church with distinction as Chairman of Montreal Presbytery; President of the Montreal and Ottawa Conference and Chairman of the Board of Christian Education of The United Church. He is a member of the Board of Governors of Divinity Hall; the United Theological College; Stanstead College and Sir George Williams College in Montreal; the Montreal Association for the Blind and the Verdun Protestant Hospital. He is a Past Grand Chaplain of No. 1 District of the Masonic Order; Padre of Remembrance Branch No. 75 of the Canadian Legion and Padre of the Montreal Gyro Club. Dr. Jones is also Vice-President of the World Brotherhood Federation and has served as President of the Montreal Auxiliary of the British and Foreign Bible Society.

Delegation Assured Road Will be Fixed

Toronto, April 19 (CP)—Highways Minister Doucett Friday assured a delegation from Algoma district Boards of Trade that "we will make a start" this year on bringing the 192-mile highways between Sudbury and Sault Ste. Marie "up to a high standard."

Mr. Doucett said a new stretch of highway would be built between the communities of Massey and Nairn so the road will pass through the growing pulp mill town of Espanola. Another new stretch will be built between Thessalon and Bruce Mines but he indicated the Massey-Nairn section will have priority.

The minister did not hold out hope for any immediate paving on the road but said the department would keep the surface in as good condition as possible for the present. Shortages of paving materials were still critical and there would not be sufficient to complete the government's road program for this year.

A delegation from Parry Sound urged on the minister construction of a Parry Sound — Sudbury highway and he replied that he had it in mind as a future project but that some other roads would come first.

The Algoma delegation urged that the Sault-Sudbury stretch be made into a first-class highway.

Plot Holders in Victoria Cemetery Elect Officers

Tweed (Special) — On Wednesday evening a meeting of the plot-holders of Victoria Cemetery held in the Township Hall was presided over by Rev. A. L. Sisco.

The property was transferred from United Church to a new group. A Board of seven Provisional Directors was chosen from the plot holders as follows: George H. Gordon, T. N. Beatty, Roy Hall, John A. Sager, Harold Varty, James L. McGowan and W. S. Moon.

Following the meeting the members of the Board met and elected their officers as follows: — Chairman, T. N. Beatty; Secretary, Harold Varty; Treasurer, George Gordon.

Cemeteries now come under the supervision of the Department of Health and it is the intention of the new Board to have a representative of that Department come to Tweed to look over the situation with a view to drawing up definite plans for beautifying it.

Blasting Heligoland

The greatest blast in history with ordinary explosives has been set off and it is expected that the German fortress island of Heligoland, used by the Germans as a naval base, has lost all semblance to what it was. Seven thousand tons of explosives, made up of torpedo war heads, depth charges, mines, shells, placed in the island's underground concrete-lined tunnels were detonated. Description of the blast which was discharged by a detonating impulse in a warship stationed with others nine miles away from the small island, indicated that blasted rock fragments rose like two mighty skyscrapers.

Heligoland is situated about forty miles northwest of the entrance of the Elbe River. It was a mile long and a third of a mile wide, the area being about a quarter of a square mile. It consisted of two parts, the Oberland, a flat-topped rock two hundred and six feet high, which, after the island was transferred in 1890 to Germany by Great Britain, was made into a fortress from which visitors were excluded by Germany. The Unterland is a small stretch of shore at its foot. The bathing facilities which formerly attracted many visitors were found in a dune or sandbank, separated from the main island by a channel about a mile wide. This Sandy Island, as it is called, has been gradually reduced by the inroads of the sea.

The island is mentioned as early as the seventh century or before and Christianity was first preached there by Saint Willibrod in the seventh century. It was taken from the Danes in 1807 and ceded to Britain in 1814. The island was once much larger than it has been latterly, its size having been reduced by the action of the waves.

In the Bight of Heligoland there was an engagement between British and German ships in 1914 a few weeks after the World War I broke out. Under the Treaty of Versailles, Germany was forced to dismantle the fortifications but in the recent war she used it as a base and as a nuisance value.

An interested world will await definite reports of the result of the blast. British experts had been cautious about making predictions that the old base would be completely destroyed once and for all. That its underground tunnels have been destroyed is taken for granted.

Germany had gradually removed most of the population after she began its fortification and lately the British have taken off all who remained. During World War II it caused considerable annoyance to the Allies.

Corfu Mines Dispute

The case of Albania will be the first to be tried by the International Court, which consists of fifteen judges elected by the General Assembly and the Security Council. Last week the Council of the United Nations adopted a resolution in favor of reference of the Corfu mines dispute to The Hague, all members voting in favor except Russia and Poland which abstained. Britain as a party to the dispute took no part in the vote.

On March 25th the finding by a majority of the Security Council that an unnotified minefield in which United Kingdom warships were damaged and United Kingdom sailors killed could not have been laid without the knowledge of the Albanian Government had been vetoed by Russia. It was after this that the United Kingdom Government decided to put forward the proposal to refer the dispute to the International Court.

Since the Russian abstention on the April 9th vote according to current interpretation of the Charter does not constitute a veto, the case will now go before the International Court and be subject to the processes of that organ of the United Nations.

Albania, though not a member of the United Nations, has accepted the obligations of a member for the present case. She is therefore bound by the result of the April 9th vote.

Article 94 of the Charter lays down that parties to a case tried by the International Court must undertake to comply with the decision of the Court. If either party fails to perform the obligations incumbent upon it under the judgment of the Court, the other party may have recourse to the Security Council to obtain enforcement of the judgment.

Britain is a member of the International Court while Albania is not. The Court's statute, however, provides that a party to a case who is not a member of the Court may choose a person to sit as judge for that case.

It may be recalled that the United Kingdom Government last year proposed to the Guatemala Government that the dispute between the two countries over British Honduras should be referred to the International Court, but the Guatemala Government did not accept this suggestion.

Conservation of Forest Wealth

In London, Viscount Bennett, and in Washington, President Truman, have called for replenishment of the world's supplies of standing timber on pain of a lumber famine in the not far distant future. In London the former Canadian prime minister calls for international action to stave off a lumber shortage. The huge inroads made by the necessities of war used up tremendous quantities of lumber, and replacements of trees are not at a sufficient rate.

Similar warnings have been issued regularly and tirelessly by American and Canadian conservationists for years, and while their preaching has borne some fruit in the way of tree planting, forest protection and Government control of timber reserves, the problem of conservation has only been scratched. North American forests, largest and finest in the world — saving those in Siberia — are being burned, cut and devastated at an alarming rate and it is no secret that replacement is not sufficient to offset this annual loss.

It is not merely that by this wasteful handling of our forests we are apt to face a lumber shortage; the collateral result is even more serious — that the loss of our forests will lead to soil erosion, floods, changes in climate, reduced rainfall, changes in the insect and bird life of the continent, and all sorts of penalties which we have not yet fully estimated.

—London Free Press.

Rocket Aircraft Tests

Britain is shortly to carry out exhaustive tests with supersonic rocket-propelled aircraft. These tests which will have an important bearing on developments in aviation are designed to pave the way for safe flying at supersonic speed. Robots will be used because little is known about the results of flying beyond the speed of sound, and the authorities do not wish to expose pilots to such great risks. The rocket-propelled aircraft, which has been developed by Vickers Armstrong, will be carried by Mosquito aircraft based in Cornwall. The robots' behavior in flight will be automatically recorded at a ground station in the Scilly Isles. A telemeter inside the machine records readings of instruments and transmits them to the ground station. The aircraft will also be tracked by radar and will be photographed by Gloster Meteor jet-propelled fighters of the type which holds the world speed record.

Food Parcels for Britain

There seems to be some confusion in the public mind about the rules governing food parcels to Britain.

Under present regulations, we are informed by the United Kingdom Information Office in Ottawa, unsolicited parcels of food up to 22 pounds may be sent to individuals in Britain, and the recipient is not charged duty, does not have to surrender coupon "points" for the goods.

There are no restrictions on the quantity or amount of any food, within the maximum of 22 pounds.

Thus the British Government has removed all the barriers to the generosity of Canadian friends.

CHEER UP

Cheer up! Things are never as bad
As they could have been, day by day
Look back, and the troubles you've had
Have somehow all faded away,
And the cause of your present fear
Will as suddenly disappear.

Cheer up! There are many near by
Who have suffered, and lived to smile,
You may come to a sunnier sky
At the end of another mile.
And what if it's dark today?
Tomorrow's not far away.

Cheer up! You are still alive!
There are those who have need of you,
Your courage and will to strive
And all that your strength can do.
So, hide all your doubts within.
Face life with a lifted chin.

Is there a tribe of people with tails?

After the Spanish-American War a report from the Philippines said that a U. S. Army exploring party had discovered in the Luzon jungles an Igorot tribe with tails and that the Government had taken charge of the tailed tribe to keep it isolated in the mountains until it should die out. Later what purported to be a photograph of a member of the tailed tribe was published. Postcards bearing the picture were sold in the Philippines and every year for many years thousands of them were carried to different parts of the world by credulous tourists, thus keeping alive the fable of the tailed people of Luzon.

Notwithstanding many veterans of the Philippines Insurrection and travellers were willing to swear under oath that they had seen members of the tailed tribe, scientists who have investigated the subject are unanimous in asserting that the tailed tribe is a myth. Similar reports have been published about tailed races in Africa, China, Borneo, New Guinea and other parts of the Malay Archipelago.

Such reports probably originate either in fraud or in careless observation of the costumes worn by some primitive peoples. Many of the Igorot headhunters of Luzon wore fantastic costumes with tails. That the photograph of the tailed man of Luzon was a fake was proved beyond a doubt. The U. S. National Museum, which obtained "photographs of the same man both with and without a tail," asserted that the report of "a tailed tribe in the Philippine Islands is a hoax which we have exposed."

Stories of tailed people were common in the Middle Ages. Of "Lambri" on an island off southeastern Asia, Marco Polo wrote: "In this kingdom are found men with tails, a span in length, like those of the dog, but not covered with hair. The greater number of them are formed in this manner, but they dwell in the mountains, and do not inhabit towns."

Although the tailed race is undoubtedly a myth, it is quite possible that there are individuals with tails in Malaysia as well as elsewhere. Embryologists tell us that every normal human being has a tail during the embryo stage of his existence. According to Dr. Adolph H. Schultz, research investigator for the Carnegie Institution of Washington, this tail is generally about one-sixth as long as the embryo itself. There are evidences of this rudimentary tail in the body of every adult. As a rule the tail becomes completely overgrown by neighboring parts as the child develops and it finally disappears from the surface. Occasionally, however, the tail does not completely disappear before birth and a child is born with an external tail.

"These so-called soft tails," wrote Dr. Schultz in the Scientific Monthly for August, 1925, "contain no vertebrae, but blood vessels, muscles and nerves, and are of the same consistency as the short tail of the Barbary ape." Many authentic cases of children born with such tails have been reported. A baby born in 1923 at Knoxville, Tenn., had a tail seven inches long, and several years later a boy was discovered in Baltimore with an external tail nearly nine inches in length.

Milkman 25 Years On the Same Route

Edmonton, — (CP)—W. T. (Billy) Peet estimates that in the 25 years he's been delivering milk on the same route in Edmonton he has "walked the legs off" about a dozen horses and peddled more than $400,000 worth of bottled milk.

Mr. Peet is a salesman for an Edmonton dairy company. He covers the route between 119th and 123rd Streets and Jasper and 105th Avenues. He's watched the district grow, and he's watched families grow up too. Now some of his customers are children and even grandchildren of his "originals".

"Never did figure how much milk I've carried in those 25 years," he said. "But I've had about a dozen horses in that time. Their legs go on the pavements and they can't stand the work too long."

At 56, the 120-pound milkman finds door-to-door deliveries tougher than when he began. He travels about six miles daily to get to his milk route. It means getting out of bed about 3.15 a.m., but in a quarter century he has become accustomed to that.

Mr. Peet served with the British Army in the First World War. He farmed in Saskatchewan for three years before coming to Edmonton. He has five sons and three daughters.

His record of 25 years on the same route is believed to be unique in Canada, although others have seen longer service on several routes.

Pert Tar Sparks Deep Sea Craft

Toronto, (CP)—Elizabeth Prescott always wanted to go to sea. Wireless telegraphy gave her an opportunity and since the end of the war she has travelled on Norwegian ships to many parts of the world.

An experienced wireless operator and secretary, the 24-year-old girl has visited Germany, Belgium, France and the British and Dutch West Indies. Early in her career at sea she was injured and flown to her Toronto home for an operation. On her recovery she got a job on an oil tanker.

Elizabeth found wartime work in a munitions factory tedious and took a wireless course. As a full-fledged graduate she obtained a job—on land—at Air Observers School in Quebec.

Her first sea job came just before the end of the war when she signed on as one of the two women operators aboard the Norwegian vessel Honningswaag, bound for Britain with a cargo of benzine.

VE-Day found the Toronto girl visiting an aunt in Scotland and she was in Bremen when Japan surrendered.

On her fourth voyage Elizabeth was injured during a storm and following a plastic surgery operation did secretarial work with CBC at Toronto. She returned to sea aboard the Harald Torsvik, an oil tanker. The only girl in the ship, she combined secretarial duties with her work as chief operator. Her latest ship is the Apollo, a converted war cargo carrier.

Miss Prescott, who wears a trim uniform with gold braid on the sleeves, admitted she was "terribly seasick" on her first voyage. Her parents get letters only occasionally, but they do not worry. They know she is happy doing the job she likes best.

PUDDLE SWALLOWS CAR

Stayner, Ont. — (CP) — It was only a shallow water hole on the road, thought James Rose of Stayner as he drove his car into it. The hole, five feet deep, swallowed up his car and he suffered minor cuts and bruises escaping from it.

DIGESTION STARTS IN THE MOUTH

It is a lonely, thankless and sometimes I think probably a bootless job trying to teach people that oral or mouth digestion is part of the digestive process. In the first place, how many practicing physicians ever give oral digestion so much as a passing thought in prescribing diet, eating rules and general treatment for patients? In the next place how much weight does the busy dentist give to the function of chewing as a factor of general vitality, efficiency, immunity, good looks and longevity when advising patients in regard to retention or extraction of teeth?

Since mouth digestion gets so little consideration from physicians and dentists—as their patients think the best physicians and dentists—it is easy to see why only an occasional reader takes seriously my yammerings about it.

Nevertheless I must keep hammering away—always sustained by the hope that this time some young reader may read and heed. It is not just my notion that oral or mouth digestion is so important. You may consult any authoritative textbook of physiology if you want to know about it. For instance Howell's textbook tells how the digestive enzyme or ferment called ptyalin in the saliva digests starch by converting it into maltose, which, after the food reaches the duodenum (small intestine) is further digested by an enzyme or ferment in the pancreatic juice called amylopsin converting it into dextrose. This digestion in the mouth continues only while the food is in the mouth (during mastication) of course. It was formerly supposed that ptyalin can act only in an alkaline or neutral medium and that therefore its action ceases when the food enters the stomach, which is highly acid. Perhaps that explains why many old timers in the medical and dental professions think mouth digestion is of little importance. But newer knowledge gained through actual observation of the digestive process shows that some of the food in an ordinary meal remains in the upper part of the stomach (fundus) for an hour or more untouched by the acid gastric juice, and here the salivary digestion continues for that length of time.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Heart Burn, Waterwash

For sometime I have been troubled with what some call heartburn and awful bitter taste in throat. (Mrs. F.M.)

Answer — Heartburn is the common name for the discomfort produced by excessive acidity in stomach. Waterbrash is the bad taste, sourness and irritation of throat produced by regurgitation or return of acid material to the throat or mouth.

Excess

Is coffee harmful to kidneys or bladder if you drink about twelve cups daily? (N. S.)

Answer—That's a lot of coffee. I believe a large cup of coffee at breakfast and for active people a small cup at lunch or dinner, is generally beneficient. Excessive indulgence is pretty certain to be harmful. For one thing it overstimulates the kidneys, to say nothing of the heart, blood vessels and cerebrum.

Bleeding Piles

I have bad bleeding piles. They bleed nearly all the time, also hemorrholds.... please tell me what to do. (G.E.K.)

Answer—Send stamped self addressed envelope and ask in writing (a clipping will not suffice) for pamphlet "It is Stupid to Suffer from Piles." Hemorrhoid is another name for pile. The best safest, least painful, least disabling method of treatment is the ambulant or injection method which the physician gives in his office.

CATS UNDERSTAND HER

Chicago, April 19 (AP)—Miss Helen Kelly, 60, appeared before Judge N. J. Bonelli in Municipal Court yesterday on an eviction action because she has 11 cats in her apartment.

She pleaded for permission to keep two.

"But what if those cats should have kittens?" the Judge inquired.

"There is no danger of that" Miss Kelly assured him. "I shall speak to them and warn them against it. They understand me."

Has Shangri-La Lacks Soul Mate

Pietermaritzburg, South Africa, (CP)—A former British Army officer, who has been travelling around the British Commonwealth since the end of the war looking for "the perfect woman for a wife" and the "right" place in which to live, thinks he will settle in Norfolk Island, without a wife.

He is Maj. James Hordern, who returned to England after the war and found himself the owner of a large estate left by an aunt.

Major Hordern has covered 30,000 miles in the last year. He says that he will know his future wife instinctively and he won't care if she is poor as a church mouse. She is not in New Zealand or Australia, but she may be in Capetown.

He has found his ideal home. It is Norfolk Island, almost in the middle of the Pacific Ocean.

He intends to tell all his tax-burdened friends in England that they should go to Norfolk Island, where they will be well off with only a few shillings.

The only taxation imposed on Norfolk Island is on men between the ages of 21 and 55. They are called on to do nine days' work in the year under administrative supervision or pay $1.20 a day for nine days.

All salaries earned on Norfolk Island are free of taxation, but anyone who earns money outside the island is subject to taxation. Only four articles are liable for tax, the biggest being liquor. The main occupations on the island are sleeping, going to parties and fishing.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

BY WINIFRED E. WILSON

Identification by Appearance

"As the sun was behind the bird, I can't be sure of the color, but I'm simply positive its tail was neither fan-shaped nor straight, but forked," Marion insisted.

"Then," Edith declared, "it must be a Purple Finch, because I saw the red flash when it flew. The stout bill, general appearance and size comparable to that of this Song Sparrow all fit together. Now supposing we had discovered that the bird was two inches bigger, according to the rest of our description it might be a Pine Grosbeak."

"Yes, that's right," Marion agreed. "And size is often very difficult to judge. Think of Hairy and Downy Woodpeckers. When you don't see the back view at close range you cannot be certain whether or not the tail has little dark dabs on the sides — which would proclaim it a Downy. So you must decide if it is 6 or 9 inches long. If a Song Sparrow conveniently comes along you can compare sizes, otherwise you must guess."

"Coloring can be deceptive too. The light makes a great difference. We should not depend on identification by color alone," said Edith.

"Oh, no," Marion exclaimed. "And a bird's shape is important also. Chicadees are chunky, Cedar Waxwings slim and looking as though their feathers had been oiled."

"Bills tell a lot too; and if you are close enough to distinguish them you may find the main clue to the identity. A seed eater's will be sturdy, a flycatcher's slender; and certain bills, as a Brown Creeper's, have a peculiar downward curve. A Nighthawk has hardly any bill, but lots of mouth," Marion laughed.

"Of course waders have long legs as well as long bills," Edith added.

"And it's often possible to identify a bird by its flight," her companion continued. "Woodpeckers fly straight as a dart; Goldfinches bounce up and down as though on a scenic railway. Buzzards, like the Red-shouldered Hawk, look as if they were climbing a spiral staircase as they soar with wings outstretched, while Crows keep flapping along. Cuckoos' movements are stealthy."

"But when it comes to identifying Warblers it is often handy to think of their patches of color. The Myrtle with its yellow blotches on head, rump and sides; the Black-throated Green with its wishbone-shaped black on a white ground, are both unmistakeable. It's fun watching for distinguishing marks."

Halifax to Send Tangible Aid To Texas City

Halifax April 18 (CP)—This East coast Canadian city which still bears the scars of the 1917 ship explosion that killed more than 1,600 persons took steps today to send tangible aid to citizens of blast-torn Texas City, Tex.

Fire Chief Fred C. Mac Gillivary announced today his department planned to contribute relief money to residents of the stricken area. At the same time, City Council meeting was called for tonight to discuss similar plans.

Telegrams of sympathy were sent by the city and other organizations yesterday.

The Halifax explosion 30 years ago occurred when the French freighter Mont Blanc, carrying 3,000 tons of trinitrotoluene, collided with the Norwegian freighter Imo in the narrows of the the harbor.

The north end of the city was flattened, ships were tossed high on shore and a ship's eight-ton anchor arched into the air and buried itself in a hillside three miles away.

KISSLESS BRIDEGROOM IS GRANTED ANNULMENT

San Jose, Calif., April 18—(AP) —An 84-year-old self-described "kissless bridegroom" yesterday was granted an annulment of his marriage to 18-year-old Oneida Stallings after he had told Judge M. G. Delmutolo that he was "through with women."

Benjamin F. Harris told the court that Oneida, her aunt and uncle rented a cabin in his auto court last September. First thing he knew, he testified, Oneida had become his fourth bride and the aunt and uncle were running the auto court.

VANCOUVER BUILT ON BIG COAL BED

Vancouver, (CP)—The city of Vancouver is sitting atop one vast coal deposit that is actually "pretty poor stuff", according to amateur geologist Philip Timms, city printer.

The deposit got there, said Mr. Timms, when prehistoric forests became entangled in glacial till moving down from the interior ages ago. The till, and the forests that came with it, caught on three fingers of rock at Prospect Point, Little Mountain and False Creek, and years since then, the buried growth has been transformed into low grade lignite.

"It hasn't been exerted to the tremendous pressures needed to make first class fuel," he explained.

When workmen digging a gas main here found they were cutting into a small vein of coal, Mr. Timms quickly laid hold of a piece of the strike.

In his "home university," a collection of geological samples kept in his basement, Mr. Timms has samples of coal taken from excavations throughout the city.

"There may be a coal mine sitting in your back yard, but it doesn't mean the answer to all your fuel problems," he said. "If you're thinking of digging up a winter's supply of fuel from the petunia bed, put away the pick, for Vancouver's coal is pretty poor stuff."

MONEY DROPS

Washington, April 18 —(AP)— Money in the hands of the American public has dropped $1,000,000,000 since Christmas and some government analysts cite the cost of living as a probable cause. They said high prices apparently are forcing many persons who kept their savings in the form of cash to dig into their hoarded bills.

FIVE-HOUR SWIM

Le Havre, France, April 18 — (AP)— Mrs. Helen Stafford, 31, of the Island of Guernsey was recovering today from effects of a five-hour swim in the English Channel yesterday during which she tried in vain to save her two-year-old daughter from drowning after a plane crash. Besides her daughter, two other persons were reported missing from the craft, which was on a chartered flight from Guernsey to London.

ACQUITTED OF ARSON

Redwood City, Calif., April 18 —(AP)— John B. Arlotti and his brother-in-law Henry R. Harkins were acquitted by a San Mateo county jury yesterday of arson charges in the burning of a Negro war veteran's home, last Dec. 2. John Walker, an overseas combat veteran, had virtually completed his new residence when it burned during a rainstorm — after he had received notes signed "K.K.K." warning him against trying to become a resident of that district.

London, April 18 — (AP)—The British Overseas Airways Corporation announced today that beginning May 8 its transatlantic service will be increased from 4 to five flights a week. One flight a week is being made between the United Kingdom and Montreal.

WEDDINGS

PARLIAMENT—CAMPBELL

A marriage of considerable interest to many people in Belleville and the surrounding district was quietly solemnized at two o'clock on the afternoon of Easter Monday, in St. John's United Church, Vancouver, B.C., when Rev. Mr. Henderson, in a double ring ceremony, united Colleen Stewart Campbell, of White Horse, Yukon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Campbell of Petrolia, Ont., with Staff Sergeant Ralph Spencer Parliament, of Fort Nelson, B.C., only son of Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Parliament of Belleville.

The bride was very attractive in a suit of poudre blue wool gabardine with brown hat and accessories, and wearing a corsage of red roses and lilies-of-valley.

Attending were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Spencer of Courtenay, B.C., uncle and aunt of the groom. Mrs. Spencer wore a dress of aqua shade with black picture hat and a corsage of carnations. Friends were also present from New Westminster,B.C.

Following a trip to Seattle, Washington, Victoria and Courtenay, B.C., Mr. and Mrs. Parliament will reside in Fort Nelson, B.C.

PIGDEN—KLEINSTEUBER

Holloway Street United Church was the setting for a quiet Spring wedding on Saturday morning, April 19th., at nine-thirty, when Mary Enid, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carmen Kleinsteuber of Actinolite, Ontario, was united in matrimony to Wallace James, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Pigden, of Madoc, Ontario. Reverend Oscar Wagar, B.A., was the officiating clergyman.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attractively attired in a suit of leaf brown gabardine with long fitted lines and flared peplum. She wore beige accessories and a corsage of Talisman roses.

Mrs. John Wheal, of Toronto, sister of the bride, was matron-of-honor. Her suit of mist grey was cut on military lines with silver buttons. Her accessories were green and she wore a corsage of Talisman roses.

Mr. Ross Pigden was his brother's groomsman.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the Quinte Hotel where the bridal couple received their guests assisted by the bride's mother, Mrs. C. Kleinsteuber, who was gowned in pearl-haze grey with a corsage of calla lilies, and the groom's mother, Mrs. W. Pigden, who wore a suit of two-tone brown and a corsage of deep red roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Pigden left by motor for Toronto from where they travelled via plane to Washington. On their return they will take up residence at Alliston, Ontario, where the groom is engaged as assistant agricultural representative.

Many Parties Held in Honor Of Miss McCabe

Miss Estella Burkett and Miss Agnes Gallagher entertained at a delightful miscellaneous shower held at the former's home, Hillcrest avenue, in honor of Miss Winnifred McCabe, bride-to-be. The evening was spent in playing cards with Mrs. Vincent Carroll being winner at bridge and Mrs. Albert Bunton at euchre. A dainty lunch was served after which the guest of honor was the recipient of lovely gifts presented in a gaily decorated basket. Miss McCabe graciously thanked her friends for their gifts and good wishes. On Thursday evening Miss McCabe was guest of honor at a charmingly-arranged miscellaneous shower at which Miss Helen Symons was hostess at her home, Bleecker avenue,. The guests enjoyed cards during the earlier part of the evening, the winners being Mrs. Stan Luffman, bridge, Miss Estella Burkett, euchre, and Mrs. R. Lawrenson, rummy. Delicious refreshments were served, the tea table being most attractive with its decorations centering about a tiny bride, and completed with tall pink tapers. The lovely gifts of silver, linen, china and crystal were cleverly concealed in a pink and white hat box. Appreciation of the very enjoyable party was suitably expressed by Miss McCabe.

Utilities Staff Honors Miss McCabe Before Marriage

Miss Winnifred McCabe, bride-to-be, was honored at a dinner party arranged by the staff of the Belleville Utilities previous to her approaching marriage. The interesting event at which twenty-four of her associates were present took place at the Queen's Hotel. Following dinner, Mr. Ross Stiver, on behalf of the staff, voiced the regret felt at the departure of a popular colleague and referred to Miss McCabe's loyal co-operation at all times.

As an expression of the good wishes of the staff, the guest of honor was presented with a beautiful tri-lite floor lamp by Miss Elizabeth Gladney.

Miss McCabe sincerely thanked the staff for the delightful entertainment and gift. She spoke of the very pleasant associations she had always enjoyed with the members of the staff and the many kindnesses she had received. ELIZABETH BECOMES OF AGE

Princess Elizabeth Told Her Parents When She Was 12 That One Day She Would Marry Prince Philip

By SHEILA HOWARTH

Princess Elizabeth's visit to South Africa will be an important turning point in her life. It is her first journey abroad, and it will be an exacting, exhausting, invaluable experience; part of her apprenticeship for a very difficult job.

When she returns she will be 21, her income will be considerably increased, and it is probable that she will have a residence of her own—perhaps St. James' Palace.

At the moment she has her own apartments at both Buckingham Palace and Windsor Castle. She has no key to her three-room flatlet at the Palace, and if she returns after the gates have been locked an attendant is there to wait for her return.

At Windsor, on the first floor of the Augusta Tower, the Princess has a bed-room, sitting-room, study, and audience room.

Likes Swing Music

She has a gramophone and a great collection of swing records (a taste which annoys the King), and most of Bing Crosby's latest songs. There is a radio, too, and a piano, for she sometimes plays and sings. But playing and singing, like the duets she used to play with the Queen, have almost slipped out of her full life.

In either of her suites Princess Elizabeth may entertain her personal friends, most of whom are children of the King and Queen's small circle of friends.

The King and Queen do not interfere in the matter of her escorts. She makes her own "dates", and has chosen her own friends since she was 18.

Princess Elizabeth has a mind of her own, but her determination is leavened by a charm which prevents it from becoming stubbornness. All who meet her are impressed by her quick wit, her thoughtfulness, her marvellous memory for detail, and her ability to talk on almost any subject.

Though she always keeps her calm dignity, there is never a hint of aloofness. She has the gift of making all she meets feel that she is interested in them and what they say. She never confuses the various interests of her hundreds of acquaintances, and always puts them at ease in a moment.

Never Expresses Opinion

But you will never hear her clear, unaffected, rather high-pitched voice expressing an opinion. For the Queen has taught her not to give a firm "Yes" or "No" when asked for her opinion.

It is the Queen, too, who insists on the Princess reading all the daily and Sunday papers. As she has a remarkable memory, her knowledge of current affairs is considerable.

Everything that the Princess wears is noted and criticized. She cannot alter her hair style without comment, or wear a new hat without having it described in detail in the Press next day. Nevertheless, she gets no extra coupons, and is very careful how she spends her allowance.

She enjoys shopping, if she can avoid public attention, and chooses all her own clothes. Sometimes the clothes clash, or do not flatter her 5 ft. 5 1-2 in., peach-and-cream complexion, grey-blue eyes, and fair brown hair. But mistakes have been fewer in later years, as her taste became more assured and settled. She weighs 137 pounds and sometimes, with a laugh, says she will start dieting, but she never does. She spends the whole of her sweet ration on chocolate.

Keeps Her Poise

Wherever she is, eyes are on her. She knows this, yet manages to remain unselfconscious. It is only occasionally, on some specially important occasion, that she is still nervous, and blushes slightly.

You see her at official receptions—a young woman with an easy grace which combines friendliness with dignity, slightly slow and measured in her walk, hanging back if her parents are there, but always ready to take her place and come forward with a quick smile and a handshake.

With a great many people watching her every reaction, at public engagements, at the theatre, at cabarets and private parties, the Princess is never quite free to let her face express what she is thinking.

She seems most at ease with her family in a box at the theatre, thoroughly enjoying a joke when she feels like it, though she may laugh alone.

But among younger people, at cabarets and private parties, she appears more guarded.

Interested in Stage

A good deal of her conversation is about the stage, of which she has a most up-to-date knowledge. Arthur Askey and Tommy Trinder have always been favorites of hers. She makes her own choice of the shows to be seen, and would rather sit in the stalls than a box.

Princess Elizabeth has public engagements almost every day and has social engagements almost every evening. Frequently she goes with the King and Queen and Princess Margaret to dinner parties given by relatives. The talk is family talk.

She addresses her parents as "Mummy" and "Daddy," but when referring to them in conversation calls them "The King" and "The Queen."

The young men who are her escorts find Princess Elizabeth a delightful companion, entertaining and broadminded. There is always plenty of lively conversation from her, and her quick, gay wit usually keeps a permanent smile on the face of her dancing partner. She likes the Conga, and those who have danced with her say she waltzes beautifully.

Is Democratic at Dances

At large parties she does not refuse anyone a dance. Any guest, introduced or not, a commoner or not, may go to the Princess and bow, with a 'Will you do me the honor, ma'am." Her reply is always made with a smile. If she has danced enough, then he sits down beside her till the dance is over. If she is engaged for that dance, then she promises him another.

Looking round a ballroom, it would be hard to pick out the Princess as she sits among the young debutantes. It is her energy and vitality which distinguish her when she gets up to dance. It is she who bustles her friends into their places for the Scots dances which are usually included when she is a guest. She seems tireless, dancing on when many of her friends are exhausted. Then she cheers them on to further efforts.

Sometimes she accepts invitations to dine and dance escorted by one Guards officer only. Her visit to a restaurant is then unofficial; she is treated exactly the same as the other guests. She seldom leaves until the band packs up.

Prefers "Ma'am" Address

Princess Elizabeth refuses to be called anything but "Ma'am." Normally she should be addressed first as "Your Royal Highness."

There are a good many things she dislikes for herself but never criticises in other people.

She seldom smokes, does not pluck her eyebrows thinly, or use nail varnish. Her make-up is very light, but her lipstick vivid. She drinks very little, managing to keep one small glass half-full throughout a cocktail party, and drinking not more than two glasses of champagne at dinner.

Each weekend she personally writes and addresses letters of thanks to all her hosts and hostesses of the past week. She addresses all her own Christmas cards, too.

Besides her public engagements there are long talks with the King to prepare the Princess for affairs of state, for her education will never be over. The King and Queen are glad to see her have as much freedom as possible now for they know the restrictions which face her.

She loves to drive a car, but the only time this was allowed was during her days in the A.T.S. She loves riding, and is a good shot with a sporting gun and revolver.

Princess Elizabeth began to show her determination at the age of 12. She told her parents then that one day she would marry the boy who so often played with her and Princess Margaret. She has an oil painting of him in her private sitting room at Buckingham Palace.... The boy is Prince Philip.

Guidance Outlined to Members South Hastings Educational Assoc. by James Musgrove

Parents, ratepayers, township officials and school teachers gathered in the Melrose Church Hall on Thursday evening as the Township of Tyendinaga held its second educational night sponsored by the South Hastings Educational Association.

The meeting was held for the purpose of discussing education in the township with its various problems and the progress being made. Reports from each board of education in the township were heard, while Mr. James Musgrove, vocational guidance director for the Belleville Board of Education was guest speaker.

Speaking on the subject of Guidance, Mr. Musgrove outlined the program which had been set up in Belleville schools indicating that this program could be dealt with under three headings — Self Analysis, Job Analysis and finally a general review of occupations to give the student a greater appreciation of the task of others in the work world.

Set up Records

The second phase of the guidance program involved the setting up of records for each student regarding all phases of school work, this representing the student's own personal picture to be used by him with the assistance of his counsellor to determine the career best suited.

The third phase of the program was individual counselling, this being non-directive in that the student was compelled to make his own decision with the counsellor supplying assistance in the way of information and advice on the most efficient way of obtaining objectives.

Suggestions as to what rural schools and parents can do toward assisting students into a collegiate program were given by the speaker. Students in Grades 7 and 8 should be encouraged to think and plan for future. When students show a definite interest in an occupation it was the duty of the parents and teachers to as far as possible obtain reliable information about this occupation.

Should Not Dictate Career

Both parents and teachers should endeavor to induce an attitude of enthusiasm in the student by example rather than by advice. The dangers of dictating a child's career were stressed, the ideal program being to merely offer advice where it was felt necessary. Care should also be taken not to urge students to goals which are impossible to obtain.

Bartley Walsh, reeve of Tyendinaga, acted as chairman for the evening's program which included moving pictures by the Foxboro and District Film Council, and greetings from the South Hastings Educational Association by its president J. A. Warren.

Mrs. Wanda Sine, secretary of the S.H.E.A., explained how fees and grants enable the organization to carry on public speaking contests in the schools. Scholarships were also provided while visual education in schools and adult organizations was also maintained. A brief report was given of the Thurlow Educational Night held in Cannifton in March.

Musical Program

Entertainment was offered by three musical numbers by pupils of Melrose school under the direction of their teacher Miss Price, while Miss Verna Fox led in a spirited community sing song.

Deputy Reeve Percy Moore led in a discussion on township school areas, while Mrs. Irene Boldrick spoke of the value of public speaking contests. Mrs. Isabelle Handley briefly referred to the work of the Ontario Educational Association.

Mr. Brooks Allen, past president of the S.H.E.A. reported for S.S. No. 10 having high praise for the home and school association and the dental clinic which had been in operation for three years. He asked that Tyendinaga council support the work of the S.H.E.A. as had Thurlow and Sidney in awarding grants of $50. Teachers Mrs. O'Neill, No. 15; Mrs. Boldrick No. 22 and Mrs. McGurn, No. 29, also gave brief reports.

Public school inspector R. H. Macklem expressed appreciation for all who had assisted in making the evening a success.

A TIME FOR DECISION ABOUT YOUR CHILDREN'S EDUCATION

The municipal school boards of Ontario stand at the crossroads. They can move toward higher salaries for teachers and thereby ensure a high standard of instruction in our secondary schools . . . or they can follow the path of false economy by keeping salaries at a low level and so endanger our whole social structure.

of granting increases to secondary school teachers. Although in some centres these increases have not been adequate, they indicate a desire to maintain high educational standards. To those communities and to the public-spirited citizens who supported such increases, the Secondary School Teachers of Ontario say, "Thank you".

Other Municipalities Continue to Ignore the Danger . . .

of losing experienced teachers and of discouraging good potential teachers, by failing to pay adequate salaries. To those municipalities and to their school trustees, every right-thinking citizen must say "Act now to ensure that men and women of the highest calibre are employed to teach the youth of your community".

DON'T FORGET . . .

The teachers of today mould the citizens of tomorrow. Teachers are highly trained professional men and women, yet their salaries are not adequate to allow a standard of living in keeping with the position they are expected to maintain in the community. If the best of our young people find that they cannot afford to enter this profession, then the community must accept something less than the best. For the sake of your children's future and the future of Ontario, you must not allow this to happen.

In the near future, many Ontario school boards will be budgeting for teachers' salaries for 1947-48. Let your trustees know that you want salaries paid that will attract and hold the best teachers in the high schools of your community.

Competitive Radio Networks Are Approved by Drew

Toronto, Apr. 19 (CP). — Premier Drew of Ontario last night declared that "until we have free competitive commercial (radio) networks in Canada our artists cannot hope for comparable returns" with those in the United States.

Addressing the Radio Arts dinner he said: "In extending my wishes for your future success I would be much less than frank if I did not say that all Canadian radio artists are entitled to particular commendation because of the unique handicap under which you carry oh your very important work.

"I hope that when another gathering of this kind makes awards to Canadian radio artists next year the shackles of monolithic radio control will have been broken so that we may have competitive networks which will assure to Canadian artists a highly paid competitive field, and to Canadian producers of good entertainment an opportunity to export profitable radio programs to the United States."

Mingled with the applause for the premier's statement was a percentage of booing. Someone at the rear of the hall stood up and shouted "dirty politics" and received some support from a few others in attendance.

A. Davidson Dunton, chairman of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, said that the standards of Canadian radio must continue to rise and that this responsibility rested on both public and private enterprise. He said public and private radio both had their place in Canada.

Among the several hundred dinner guests there was considerable discussion of Premier Drew's remarks. CBC officials were said to have pointed out that while other speeches were previously "cleared" through regular channels because of the National network broadcast, Premier Drew's text had been delayed until the last minute.

They said it was not a question of any censorship but merely one of regular practice in clearing scripts in advance.

Labor Congress Calls for Drive For Higher Wages

Montreal, Apr. 19 (CP). — Unions enrolled under the Canadian Congress of Labor banner gave study today to a directive issued by the National Executive Council of the C.C.L. calling for a drive towards substantial wage increases to offset "increasing prices".

The council in a 600-word statement of policy on wages and prices issues yesterday at conclusion of a one-day meeting here, said that the 325,000 members of the Congress had no alternative to seeking higher wages immediately since this was the "only means whereby a balance of purchasing power can be restored to the Canadian people."

Criticizing decontrol measures initiated by the government as developing an inflationary spiral in the price structure that would lead the country towards economic disaster, the council said that there had been no substantial public demands for decontrol but that the demand had been stimulated by employers and developed by the spokesmen in parliament.

The council said that the result of price decontrols had been a "severe reduction" in the buying value of the Canadian Dollar from the standpoint of the necessities of life. More purchasing power was needed immediately if Canada was to avoid a repetition of "the bread-lines and soup kitchens of the period of 1929 to 39."

"All warnings to the government to maintain an effective control of prices have failed," the statement added. "All warnings to employers to reduce prices have likewise failed. The Congress and its unions, representing a large section of the population of Canada now feel that the only solution is by a nationwide campaign to increase the wage and salary levels of all workers."

PUPILS' PEACE PACT

Regina — (CP) — A peace treaty was concluded between warring sexes among students at Victoria school here. The war, which prevented boy speaking to girl or vice versa, lasted for one week. Winner was the Canadian aid to China fund which received fines from students breaking the "state of war."

Care in Buying Oil Burning Stoves Can Reduce Fires

In the interest of saving lives and property more care should be exercised in the purchase of oil heating systems and use of the proper type of fuel oil, the Canadian Underwriters' Association said in a warning issued today following the report of several fires caused by defective stoves and the use of dangerous fuels as a substitute for distillate oil during the present shortage.

"Some months ago" the statement said: "The Canadian Underwriters' Association asked the public to be careful in purchasing oil heating systems, including stoves, as types were being sold which did not bear labels showing they had passed the necessary safety tests. Despite this warning, a number of fires have occurred directly attributable to faulty oil stoves.

"Since a shortage of distillate oil developed within the last few weeks, it is apparent that through lack of knowledge, people are using substitute fuels in oil stoves, which are extremely dangerous to life and property.

"Under no circumstances should such substances as alcohol, benzine or derivatives be used for oil stoves, because they are explosive when used under certain conditions.

"In order to protect life and property, therefore, it is advisable to issue another warning to the public to be careful both in the purchase of oil stoves and the use of the proper fuel. If oil stoves are purchased from manufacturers or dealers whose products bear an 'approved label' and are properly installed, proper fuel used and ordinary care taken, there is no reason why fires destructive to life and property should occur."

56,500 Horsepower Will be Developed On Mississaga R.

Toronto, April 19 (CP)—Premier George Drew announced yesterday the decision of the government to finance the construction of a new power development plant on the Mississaga River District of Algoma, 20 miles north of Thessalon and about 90 miles east of Sault Ste. Marie.

This is to be proceeded with by the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario on behalf of the Ontario Government under the special financing arrangements which govern the northern properties. Cost of the project one of the largest in hydro's current construction and expansion programs is $19,000,000. The development will produce 56,500 horsepower.

The hydro three-year program from 1947 to 1950 includes several developments now in course of construction or planned for commencement in the near future. The overall total expenditures for all these projects exceeds $150,000,000. More than 600,000 horsepower will be developed and nearly all of this power will be ready by 1950.

Tunnel Site

The site chosen for the development is known as the tunnel site development, located in a narrow rock gorge about 90 feet wide where a concrete dam will be erected to give the new plant an operating head of 215 head. The plant will be somewhat similar to Abitibi canyon development and calls for construction of a tempory tunnel driven through the rock to divert the river around the main dam and powerhouse. There will be a storage dam located at Rocky Island Lake, 40 miles north of the tunnel site.

The Mississaga development is the seventh project now in or coming into active construction by the hydro. These projects provide for expenditures of $86,000,000 and include:

Stewartville, Madawaska River 81,000 H. P. —$9,000,000.

Agussabon 54,000 H.P. — $8,500,000.

Decew Falls 70,000 H.P. — $7,500,000.

Scarboro Frequency changer $2,000,000.

450 miles of new transmission lines $7,000,000.

In addition to these arrangements have been further sites on the Ottawa River. These are at Cave Fourneaux and Chenaux to provide from the two sites of 200,000 horsepower.

AN ODD MANIA, BUT...

Breaking windows is an odd and expensive mania that most sane people manage to control. Breaking insulators on Hydro poles, or shattering street lights, is an even more costly pastime that an astonishing number of boys and men fail to curb.

An insulator or street light sits up so invitingly : : : and, to the uninformed, seems such a small and insignificant piece of equipment that it presents a tempting target. Few people would break insulators or street lights if they understood the damage that can result.

A broken insulator can cause a short circuit and cut the service on a line. The homes, the factory, the hospital or the stores depending on that line are cut off from power until the insulator can be replaced. Housewives are inconvenienced. Factories can be stopped with possible pay losses to the workers. Human lives can be endangered, especially in a hospital.

Broken street lights imperil both foot and vehicle traffic, and create an invitation to crime.

To repair damaged insulators and replace broken street lights requires men, trucks and possibly miles of travel. It all adds up to a big price for a target . . . and Hydro consumers pay that price.

Please use your influence at every opportunity to prevent the deliberate or careless destruction of public property.

The Movie Column

By HELEN BANNERMAN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Montreal, of all places, supplied the lion cubs which have a featured role in "Tarzan and the Huntress." When the picture went into production and Johnny Weissmueller and Brenda Joyce were all set to start scenes with the cubs, not a zoo in the United States could supply them.

Finally the present pair were discovered in Montreal, born in captivity to a lioness in the Clyde Beatty circus. The other animals and birds in the picture all came from American zoos.

The Pace Gets Her

Two weeks after she arrived in the United States to work for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Deborah Kerr was in the arms of Clark Gable.

"I had always heard things moved at a whirlwind pace in America," the British star commented, "but I never had any idea it would be like this!"

The embrace with Gable was in her screen test for "The Hucksters." Less than a week later, after she had won the role, she was right back where she started, in front of the cameras enacting one of the love scenes for the film.

Deborah probably thought of the scene in "Vacation from Marriage," in which she described her screen-husband, Robert Donat, as "He's no Clark Gable."

We Lose Evelyn

Evelyn Gould, the 21-year-old soprano who has sung with the Toronto Symphony Orchestra several times, has been lured down to the United States. She and her husband, Dr. Jack Teichman, have moved to New York and plan to become American citizens.

For some time she has been commuting between Toronto and New York for radio shows but New York has won because that's where the best operatic chances lie.

STREET TREES TAPPED

Norwich, April 19 (CP) —No need for horses to collect the maple syrup in this Oxford county town. The trees, ringed with pails, are on the main street where they can be tapped by anyone and the sap easily taken to the kitchen stove for boiling.

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Said the private to the sarge for a detail for a prank, "you remind me of the cards. Even suits will pull their rank."

Look again at this partnership pair:

SOUTH	NORTH
♠A	♠K 7 2
♥A K Q 6 5 3	♥4
♦A K J 4	♦10 9 6 5 3
♣A 3	♣9 6 5 4

South opens with two hearts; a forcing-to-game demand signal. North replies with two no-trump; the signal for denying a sure trick. What should south say now and why?

With two biddable suits, of equal length, first bid the higher rank. Then bid the lower rank. This tells partner you have not less than four in each. Because no three-card suit is biddable.

With different length biddable suits, first bid the longer. Then bid the other. This tells partner you have a five-carder and a four-carder if the first mentioned suit is of lower rank.

Having bid two different length suits in this manner, suppose you next bid the longer. You do not show any more cards in it. You announce only that your five-carder is rebiddable.

However, suppose one suit is two cards longer than the other. Then you bid the longer suit first, rebid that same suit next, and then bid your second suit for the first time on the third round.

This is the manner in which a player shows he has a six-carder and a four-carder. By bidding his six-carder twice before mentioning his four-carder. See how it looks on the table.

Decide now what the second bid by south should be. It is a bid of three hearts. This rebid of his suit shows a rebiddable suit of at least five cards. For the time being, that is.

On the third round this hand will bid diamonds. Then is when he will admit having four diamonds. Having bid twice in hearts before it, he will show six and four.

The best show of suits will reap the best fruits.

In Manhattan

By PAT USSHER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York, April 19 (CP)—Spring weather means Autumn planning for New York theatrical producers and while April showers fall they are already working on scripts that may blossom into shows when the leaves begin to turn.

Henry Sherek, a co-producer of "Message For Margaret" a domestic drama that opened here this week, brings word that the D'Oyly Carte Company of Savoyards may be back here around Christmas with Gilbert and Sullivan light operas.

The Theatre Guild's Autumn plans call for "Allegro," a Richard Rodgers-Oscar Hammerstein 2nd musical, to open the season. The Theatre Guild expects to have five other productions for 1947-48, including "Sweetest and Lowest," currently at hit in London.

Falling Curtains

Meanwhile, symbolic of the approaching end of the current season, the curtain is falling or about to fall on a number of Broadway hits—and some productions that don't belong in the hit category...folding tonight are Maurice Chevalier's one man stand of songs and impressions and "Bathscheba", starring James Mason..."Joan of Lorraine," which is sold out to the end of its run, closes May 10 because Ingrid Bergman, who plays the Maid of Orleans in the Maxwell Anderson drama, has Hollywood commitments..."O Mistress Mine," the current Alfred Lunt-Lynn Fontanne comedy vehicle, has only another six weeks to run... The two Oscar Wilde revivals also are in their last days. "Lady Windermere's Fan," with Cornelia Otis Skinner, closes April 26 The John Gielgud production of "The Importance of Being Ernest" plays for the last time May 10. . other recent departures include "Craig's Wife," with Judith Evelyn as the star, and "The Eagle Has Two Heads," the Tallulah Bankhead show which ran for 29 permormances.

Fridolin, celebrated Quebec French-speaking star, is reported here to be working on an English-language revue in which Eddie Dowling, producer of "The Glass Henagerie," is believed interested. Fridolin starred with Miriam Hopkins in a Chicago production of "St. Lazere's Pharmacy" in 1946 but the projected revue—if it materializes—would mark his first appearance on the New York stage.

AT THE BELLE — Gary Cooper essays a brand new type of role as a mild-tempered man of learning suddenly transformed into a man of action in Warners' "Cloak and Dagger." The film also features Robert Alda and Lilli Palmer.

LADIES' BOWLING SEASON CLOSED WITH BANQUET

Prizes Distributed for the Year and Social Evening Spent

The Ladies' Quinte Bowling League finished the 1946-47 season with a banquet served by the ladies of the Tabernacle Church. The tables were prettily decorated and a delicious chicken dinner was served with all the trimmings.

Captain Buchanan, with Mrs. Duff as accompanist, opened the meeting with "The Lord's Prayer". He also led in community singing and later sang two songs which were thoroughly enjoyed. The ladies also very much enjoyed two cornet solos by Don Charlton, accompanied by Miss L. May.

Mrs. Miller played for community singing and also delighted the listeners with two instrumental pieces. Mrs. Georgia Charlton and Mrs. Quincey favored with readings.

Several of the teams put on numbers which displayed much talent hitherto unknown. The distribution of prizes was followed by the election of officers for the 1947-48 season. This year's officers were re-elected, Mrs. Johnston, president, Miss Eleanor Johnson, treasurer and Mrs. E. Moore, secretary.

The Dodgers (R. Wright, G. Kelleher, I. Moreau, E. Johnson, D. Diamond, E. Moore, with Mrs. R. L. Johnston as captain) won first place with 99 points out of a possible 108 followed by the Leaders, Pirates, Happy Gang, Energetics, Minks, Merry Makers, Beavers, Sunbeams and Rinky Dinks. Mrs. Mascaro won the high single with 337, Mrs. T. White the high triple with 826 and Mrs. E. Moore the high average with 213.

During the evening pictures were taken and many of the ladies will have a souvenir of their first year at the Bowl-O-Drome.

At the close of the meeting the players were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Johnston who served delicious refreshments.

"Moose" McCready Extends Champion "Whipper" Watson To Limit, Before Defeat

Watson Wins on Referee's Decision as Bout Goes to Time Limit; Large Crowd Features Opening of Wrestling Season

(By G. H. C.)

The way of a world's heavyweight champion wrestler like that of the proverbial transgressor, is hard. In fact it's one degree harder. You hold the title, and the gentry usually selected to snatch the crown from the titular locks, is usually someone who is either as tough as you are, or is supposed to be, and what happens? A rip-roaring match that has the faithful in stitches.

And that is what happened at Memorial Arena last night when two stout-hearted Canadians, one a world's champion, the other a holder of various titles won in other parts of the world, to wit, "Whipper" Billy Watson, dashing holder of the global crown and Earl "Moose" McCready, both popular favorites with Belleville wrestledom, who formally opened the grunt season here.

True, the Whipper got the nod But only through the offices of one Bert Maxwell, of Toronto, west of here, the third man in the ring, and who at times with his avoirdupois, almost obliterated the view of several hundreds of the cash paying customers.

"Moose" Was Tough

For the "Moose," he of Aurora, Ontario, carried the fray to the handsome Pride of East York, and not in the least daunted by the fact that he was jousting with the wearer of the world's wrestling crown, battled valiantly until the gong ended the festivities. Referee Maxwell accorded the honors to the champion, and raised his hand in token of victory. In other words the "Whippah" won the bout by virtue of the referee's decision, after the champ had taken the first fall, the "Moose", the second, and the duo had battled until the gong announced the end of the mat festivities.

The Whippah was in the pink of condition as befits a world's champion. But according to the Moosian antics in the first fall, McCready cared little for reputation, or titles.

He threw punches at the Watsonian head, that the Whippah did not relish, only to have the champion retaliate with severe punishment on the McCready left arm. At times the Whippah beat a steady tattoo with his knees on the left flipper of the prostrate "Moose." After ten minutes of hectic action the Whippah finally pinned the opposition with a neat spread.

The second fall saw McCready deal out some more or less terrific punishment to the champion. He rabbit-punched the "Whip" and at times had him hoisted on the ropes with malice aforethought. He insisted on a punishing headlock that had the champ in a bad way and finally won the second fall in a mad and merry whirl-about-the-ring, a sort of over-and-over affair that had Watson in a daze.

Referee's Decision

Came the third and payoff fall. It was a flurry of holds with both resorting to some furious wrestling that had the faithful in an uproar. But the stuff that makes champions finally had its way. The Whippah definitely won the fall on points. He showed championship calibre and by his speed and wrestling ability deserved the ultimate verdict. The crowd was in an uproar as the referee awarded the bout to the champion.

In a rip-roaring semi-final, Toar Morgan, ex-marine who hails from Lindsay, after taking terrific punishment from Bulldog Drummond, finally pinned the lad from Detroit in a surprising comeback that was not to be denied. The Bulldog subjected the "Toar" to everything in the way of mat punishment, legal and otherwise, but apparently he did not know the comeback qualities of the lad from Lindsay.

Drummond, it seemed, when the odds were against him, resorted to ring-around-the-rosy tactics, and on one occasion leaped out of the ring, chased by the infuriated Morgan. The crowd howled its delight. But he came back to inflict further punishment on the marine, only to have the "Toar" suddenly flash into action that ended in his pinning the hated foeman to the vociferous approval of the fans.

Al. "Krusher" Korman, who proved to be the villain of the piece got an unpopular draw against Billy Stack of Bowmanville. Blame that one on the gong. The two battled for minutes after the bout was officially over.

It was announced that next week's card will be held on Saturday night, starting at 9 o'clock. A top-flight card of wrestlers will be on hand, and it will be another good show.

Here is George Polmanter, starry Belleville fighter, who is once again going great guns in the realm of leather-pushing. George, at 142, won a neat victory in Peterboro Thursday night over Pete Kolaski, 149. He is training faithfully and is rapidly rounding into shape that won laurels for him in Toronto not so long ago.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

Ted Williams, Red Sox — Hit his first home run of the season in Boston's victory over Philadelphia.

Stan Musial, Cardinals—Singled for his only hit in three run rally which enabled St. Louis to whip Chicago.

Jackie Robinson, Dodgers — Walloped his first major league home run, and also stroked a single in four trips to the plate.

HOME RUN FEVER IS CONTAGIOUS IN MAJOR LOOPS

Pittsburgh Players Hit Five Against Reds to Defeat Cincinnati 12-11

By JOE REICHLER

Association with Hank Greenberg and Ralph Kiner, the home run kings of the major leagues, apparently has become contagious.

Some of their four-ply charm was imparted yesterday on four of their Pittsburgh team-mates who availed themselves of five home runs, enough to give the Pirates a 12-11 victory over Cincinnati Reds before a record Pittsburgh opening-day crowd of 38,216.

Led by rookie Bobby Thomson and Billy Rigney, New York Giants smashed out six circuit wallops to hand the Brooklyn Dodgers their initial setback of the season 10-4.

Enjoys Perfect Day

Rookie Earl Torgeson enjoyed a perfect day with a home run, double, single and two walks as the Braves outscored Philadelphia 10-7. Bob Elliott added a home run for the Braves.

Andy Pafko's four-bagger was the only score made by the visiting Chicago Cubs as the World champion St. Louis Cardinals behind eight-hit pitching by Harry (The Cat) Brecheen, whipped the Bruins 4-1.

Ted Williams smacked his first home run of the season, with two aboard, to help Boston Red Sox defeat Philadelphia Athletics 9-3.

CALGARY WILL JOURNEY EAST FOR ALLAN CUP

Stampeders Defeat Winnipeg Flyers 4-3 in Fifth and Deciding Game

Winnipeg, April 19 — (CP) — Calgary Stampeders, defending Allan Cup champions, again will represent Western Canada in the Dominion senior hockey finals, meeting the winner of the eastern final between Montreal Royals and Hamilton Tigers.

Stampeders edged Winnipeg Flyers 4-3 here last night before 5,000 fans in the deciding game of their best-of-five western final.

Seldom considered a threat to Stampeders' crown, Flyers put up a stubborn battle, coupled with speed and fine club spirit, to force the Albertans to the limit in the series. After dropping the first game 10-3 at Calgary, the Winnipeg squad downed the Stamps 2-1 in the second contest, then moved to Winnipeg to win the third game 3-2, but lost the fourth 7-3.

Dunc Grant, speedy first-stringer, was the power behind the Calgary drive, scoring two goals and assisting in a third. Tony Desmarais and Bob Brownridge accounted for the others. Don Raleigh, former National Leaguer, equalled Grant's feat of two goals and an assist, while Bud Craig netted the third Flyer goal.

Both goalies were called on to play spectacularly in the third stanza, with first Calgary then Winnipeg taking the offensive in an effort to score, but neither team was successful. Flyers pulled Bun Nicholson in the dying minutes of play but a stubborn Calgary defence held until the final whistle was blown.

REMEMBER WHEN—

Patriotism kept Fred Perry, then world tennis champion, off the gold standard 12 years ago tonight when he turned down a $100,000 contract and left New York for England. He said he would "play for King and country another season anyway." He did, and the next year turned professional.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor.

"Tell me, my good man," boomed the backwoods Monte Woolley, gently caressing his silver-grey hirsute adornment, "do the alleged erudite gentry of the press who daily adorn the sports pages of the great metropolitan dailies, with not only pictures, or unreasonable caricaturic facsimiles of same, but their enlightening comment on things pertaining to the realm of athletics, feel they have been suffering from a lack of reader interest of late—that is, prior to the current Stanley Cup series?"

* * * *

"Have the morning mail pouches been conspicuous by the absence of the blasts of that great fraternity, Anonymous Unlimited, and the usual requests for something for nothing; ducats to the annual checker tournament etc., and been productive of only the monthly requests for payment of certain bills?"

* * * *

He lifted an admonitary finger. "Don't answer—yet." he boomed again in that barnyard baritone. "I am," he said, "the president of that great organization 'Perusers-of-the-Press-Sports-Especially-Association, a bevy of bodacious buckaroos, sometimes known as rinkside referees, armchair umpires, Monday morning quarterbacks, etc."

* * * *

He tossed part of a silken chin-mane lightly over a shoulder. "We have been following with great interest of late the gargantuan battles between those behemoths of the Ice Lanes, the Toronto Maple Leafs and Les Canadiens. There are some of us who lean toward the Men of Irvin, while others have a distinct yen for the calisthenics of those who gleam in the Light 'o Day."

* * * *

"But of late," he said, his voice reverberating in the morgue-like late-afternoon silence of the news room, "our attention has been diverted from the blood-letting, mayhemic tactics that are alleged to have taken place on the ice. Players have been mowed down in gory puddles. So many stitches have been necessary to close wounds caused by so-called berserk players, that the N.H.L. is thinking seriously of installing sewing machines in dressing rooms."

* * * *

"We have," he went out, "much against our will, had our attention diverted to the Cacophony of the Columnists. The eyes of the backwoods hockey cognoscenti have been riveted, forsooth, on the pillar duelling that has, in fact, imparted at times a delicate aroma to the heretofore enlightening masterpieces of sports literature. In short, the Battle of the Underwoods has been joined in bitter fray since Richard attempted to open the cranial door to the medullas oblongata of M'sieus Lynn and Ezenicki, puck-chasing variety of the doughty Leafs."

* * * *

"The scribes of both forces seized with avidity upon any juicy tidbit which meant copy. The managerial master-minds, perhaps in moments of badinage, or mayhap ambiguous remark, furnished ammunition for the columnar artillery. And some of this ammunition reached the huge effective proportions of the humble pea-shooter. The Underwoodian sharpshooters turning their weapons on one another, pooped off pop-gun remarks, that should take their place in the comic-strip hall of fame."

* * * *

"Then," said the burly critic, flipping his chin-shrubbery expertly back into position, "the well-known pay-off came, insofar as the Toronto scribes are concerned, when M'sieu Selke, the Richard of the Canadiens, closed the dressing room door of Les Habs to the Queen City scriveners. An unprecedented move, but one, egad, taken as a retaliatory measure to the printed whimsies of the Toronto columnists, and others."

* * * *

The bewhiskered one rose to go. "It looks now," he concluded" as though smoke of columnar battle is thinning out, since both teams have resorted to hockey as she should be played, in the last two games. But a dying salute, one that smacked of a below teen-age remark, came from a Montreal sports editor when he quoted "The Rocket" Richard as saying, (after he had listened to the game last Saturday night) "When they named Ezenicki a star, I threw the radio out the window."

* * * *

"That, my sparsely-thatched friend, was what is known in sports parlance as the pay-off to what has been a sometimes nauseating battle of the mills. And, by the way of suggestion," he said, as he hobbled toward the door, "why doesn't someone donate a Lord Whamley Cup for the writer voted the most valuable man to the opposition."

* * * *

Some remarkable indoor track events marks were recorded during the YMCA Easter Week of athletic activities, Director Ed Shortt says, and he produces marks to substantiate his statements. Five of his teen-age feminine track stars ran the 100 yards dash under 15 seconds with Erma Butcher breaking the tape in a brilliant 13 9-10 effort. George Bongard negotiated the distance in 14. flat and other boy athletes turned in exceptionally fine marks.

* * * *

Director Shortt justifiably sticks out his manly chest, with the statement that he has a team of 13-year-old girls which can kick dust in the eye of anything their age in the province in a relay race each girl to run 100 yards. Furthermore he is looking for the opportunity to pit them against competition. And in addition, Ed says, if the four fastest girls of his classes were pitted against the four speediest boys, the gals would break the tape ahead of the youthful males of the species in both 60 and 100 yard events. Story of the Easter athletic events appears on another page.

* * * *

The Belleville Softball Association will hold its annual meeting in the City Hall on Wednesday night at 8 o'clock, Secretary Harry Knott announced today. All team officials and other representatives are urged to attend as the annual election of officers will take place. Other agenda will include reports on the recent OASA convention. Pre-meeting reports indicate that a fine season in softball is ahead, with a larger number of teams planning to enter than comprised the loop roster last year. The meeting is an important one and all interested are requested to turn out.

HAMILTON TIGERS READYFORROYALS

Montreal, April 19 — (CP) — Led by coach George Redding, Hamilton's "shabby cats" moved into town last night hoping for their second victory in as many years over Montreal Royals in the Eastern Canada Allan Cup best-of-five final which opens here tonight.

Royals have a score to settle with the Tigers, who upset the favored Montrealers in 3 games in last year's final.

The first two games of the series will be played in Montreal, tonight and Monday, before moving to Toronto to finish the series.

Jack Locas and goalie Jerry McNeil are two standouts that Royals have high hopes of bringing Montreal's first Allan Cup home since 1930 when the Montreal Amateur Athletic Association copped the Canadian title.

McNeil has turned in two brilliant shutouts in the playdowns to date while Locas, touted the second Maurice Richard of Montreal, has scored three hat tricks in this year's playoffs.

GENE DESAUTELS CLUBS HOMER TO DEFEAT ORIOLES

Toronto Homer Has Driven Home 10 Runs Since the Season Started

(By The Associated Press)

Gene Desautels, 38-year-old catcher of Toronto Maple Leafs, is demonstrating emphatically that the Toronto management made no mistake when it signed him as a free agent.

The veteran major leaguer has belted three homers and driven in 10 runs to spark Leafs to two straight victories.

As the Leafs defeated the Orioles 8-5 in Baltimore last night Desautels clubbed Ray Poat for a two-run circuit in the fifth and Oscar Grimes batted in four runs on a homer and two singles.

The scheduled games between Buffalo and Jersey City and Montreal and Syracuse were postponed because of rain.

This Easter holiday saw some fine marks made, 11-year-old Donna McNish jumped 6 ft. 5½ in. in the standing broad, 12-year-old Joan Faulkner 6 ft. 8½ in. and half a dozen 13 and 14-year-old girls made jumps of over 6½ ft. Don Barclay and Bill Johnston, 13-year-olds, jumped 7 ft. 1¾ in. and 6 ft. 10 in. to make the best marks for the boys.

In the running high jump, 10-year-old Kay Mills cleared 3 ft. ft. 4 in., 11-year-old Alayne Ferguson and Nadine Lawrence cleared 3 ft. 7 in., 12-year-old Barbara Alexander and Joan Faulkner cleared 3 ft. 8 in., 13-year-old Ann Semark and Jean Doig cleared 3 ft. 11 in. and 3 ft. 10 in., and 14-year-old Gay Mills cleared 3 ft. 11 in. Parsons with 9 1/10, Johnson with 8 8/10, Barclay 8 7/10, Bongard 8 6/10 were outstanding among the boys. The 100 yards was run by Joanne Clarke in 15 4/10, Nadine Lawrence 15 4/10, Joan Faulkner 15 2/10, Erma Butcher the outstanding mark of 13 9/10 for a 13-year-old girl, with five of them under 15 seconds. Sports Roundup

By JOHN D. HAMILTON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York. (CP)— Branch Rickey's one-time "Sunday manager" has been named 1947 manager of Brooklyn Dodgers and baseball observers felt today that his appointment meant that the Mahatma intended to keep Leo Durocher around after his one-year suspension is over . . . The new manager, 60-year-old Burt Shotton, has been virtually forgotten by diamond fans and sports writers alike . . . While such illustrious names as Bill Terry, Joe McCarthy and Frankie Frisch were being bandied about as possible replacements for Leo, Shotton was working quietly as a Dodger scout.

Sunday Manager

Shotton is an old associate of Rickey's . . . When Branch was boss of St. Louis Cards in the 20s, Shotton had the strange post of "Sunday Manager". . . His job entailed looking after the birds in Sunday games —because of Rickey's lifelong refusal to take part in sport on the Sabbath. . . Rickey still refuses to attend ball games on Sunday.

Another Also Ran

Even Dixie Walker, the beloved Brooklyn veteran outfielder, was mentioned as Leo's successor. . . But his brief boom seemed to stem from affection rather than business methods.

Dodgers Vs Reds

Speaking of Dixie, Dan Parker of the New York Mirror has unearthed evidence that the Red scare in the United States has finally invaded sports. . . . Parker quotes a letter commenting on recent booing of Walker at Dodgers outing. . . Says Parker's correspondent: "The booing all came from our communist, extreme left-wing and bleeding heart groups. It was right up their sham-loving alley. They could boo Walker and then bask in that phony Liberal's paradise, looking at each other with the pride of two members of the same lodge or fraternity with that we-are-the-ones-who will-save-the-world look. . . ." The issue at stake, the correspondent wrote was Walker's alleged opposition to Negro Jackie Robinson joining the Dodgers.

CANADIENS MUST WIN TO STAY IN HUNT FOR TROPHY

Sixth Game of Series for Stanley Cup Will be Played in Toronto Tonight

Toronto, April 19 (CP)—For the second straight game of the Stanley Cup final, there's "sudden death" in the spring air today for the champion Montreal Canadiens—but with a difference. This time, the challenging Toronto Maple Leafs, too, can feel time running out on them.

In tonight's sixth clash of the best-of-seven series, the Leafs still can afford to gamble. One loss and the Canadiens, trailing 3-2 in games, are out. The Leafs can afford one, just one, setback. But they can't afford it too much.

For, should the champions repeat their 3-1 triumph of Thursday night, the Leafs would find the tables suddenly reversed — themselves underdogs and the Habitants favorites by virtue of drawing home ice for the seventh game that would be forced Tuesday night.

For that reason there was an air of pre-game uneasiness around both camps today—the Canadiens, if anything, more definite about their plans.

The champions planned to use just about the same lineup that fought back into contention Thursday after bowing three straight times to the Leafs. The only added probable starter is Johnny Quilty, the rugged centre who missed the last game through a foot injury.

Several Leafs Injured

The Leafs faced several uncertainties. Veteran defenceman Wally Stanowski is definitely out with a shoulder injury suffered Thursday night. Captain Syl Apps, who won the fifth game of the series with his overtime goal and rugged rearguard Garth Boesch are both on the ailing list.

Apps was limping from a bruised heel, not expected to keep him out of action, while Boesch, who missed much of the late season through a groin injury, was receiving penicillin treatment for laryngitis.

As replacements, Toronto could draw on seven Hornets, who arrived from Pittsburgh yesterday following their team's elimination by Hershey for the American Hockey League title. Manager Conn Smythe indicated his likely choices from them would be defenceman Elwyn Morris and winger Gus Bodnar, both of whom have seen National Hockey League action with Leafs.

BENNY LEONARD DIES SUDDENLY WHEN REFEREEING

By Sid Feder

New York, April 19. (AP)—Little Benny Leonard the greatest lightweight of them all, came to the end of the trail last night just as you would expect him to—in a fight ring, with the smell of rosin in his nostrils and the slide of the canvas under his black boxing shoes.

The smooth little fighter, who retired undefeated as king of the lightweights in 1924 after a seven-year reign, bowed out while referring a fight in St. Nicholas arena.

He had referred the entire St. Nick's Card, had finished handling the main bout in which Eddie Giosa, an up-and-coming Philadelphia lightweight, outpointed Julio Jiminez, a Mexican boxer. Then Mario Ramon, a Los Angeles welterweight, and Bobby Williams of York came on for the semi-windup.

Two minutes of their first round went by. Suddenly, Benny staggered into the ropes. He fell, face forward, with such force that later they found a bruise on his forehead.

One of the fighters stumbled over Benny's body. Dr. Vincent Nardiello, the State Commission physician, hurried into the ring. A stretcher was brought, and Benny was carefully carried into a dressing room. But he was already dead. Dr. Nardiello called it a cerebral hemorrhage. In the death certificate issued later, Dr. William Benenson, an assistant medical examiner, gave the cause as coronary thrombosis.

ST. MIKES ONLY COUPLE OF GAMES AWAY FROM CUP

Play Third Game for Canadian Junior Title in Regina Tonight

Regina, April 19. (CP)—Toronto St. Michael's only two games from the Dominion Junior Hockey title, went through a light workout yesterday in preparation for the third game of their best-of-seven Memorial Cup final against Moose Jaw Canucks here tonight.

St. Mike's, who waltzed through the first two games 12-3 at Winnipeg and 6-1 at Moose Jaw, will rely on the same lineup as used in previous games.

Despite his team's superiority to date, Coach Joe Primeau, former Toronto Maple Leaf star, refused to guess how many games the series would go, and continued to drive the Irish in practice as if they were going into a sudden-death game.

In the other camp, Coach Ken Doraty, also a former Leaf, was confident his boys "would make a better showing," a feeling also held by the Moose Jaw players.

Meanwhile, in most betting circles the odds have dropped to even money that St. Mike's will finish the series in straight games—with few takers.

Saga of Early West From Teacher's Pen

(By The Canadian Press)

More than 200 years ago—in 1738—a band of four white men, accompanied by 50 Indians, became the first major party of adventurers to travel through the Assiniboine Valley.

Martin Kavanagh, a school teacher at Brandon, Man., in "The Assiniboine Basin" has traced the history of the west from the period when it was inhabited only by Indians, to the early settlements—particularly in Manitoba. He deals with the lives of the people who eagerly awaited the coming of the railway and traces the history of his adopted home, Brandon, from its pioneer ox-cart days almost through to its present development.

The colorful story of early Indian tribes—the Pegans, Blackfeet, Crows —altogether with comments on their modes of life, religion and activities is related.

Mr. Kavanagh has also devoted some space to the life of fur traders and map-makers, such as David Thompson, the first cartographer of the west.

The establishment of trade and resultant rivalry between the Hudson's Bay Company and the Northwest Fur Company, the arrival of Lord Selkirk and the coming of settlers, the gradual rise of integrated communities are dealt with in detail by Mr. Kavanagh.

To complete the book, Mr. Kavanagh has added chapters on the early system of law, the beginning of prairie schools and the growth of newspapers.

KANLEE LOGICAL CONTENDER FOR KING'S PLATE

Sport Columnist Jim Coleman Has Leonforte Ready to Go for Guineas

By HARRY ECCLES
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, April 19 (CP)— The annual King's Plate fever began to simmer today as a few thoroughbreds under heavily-clad exercise boys worked out over a sloppy track at old Woodbine Park in the gloomy, chilly dawn.

It's only 20 days to the opening of the Canadian racing season, 35 days until the starter's bugle calls a field of probably 12 of the best Canadian-bred three-year-olds to the post for the 88th renewal of the Plate, the oldest race fixture run continuously on this continent.

There's a little colony of horsemen with their sleek four-legged charges already in possession of a few of the long rows of stables. More are coming daily, some fresh from the sunshine of the winter tracks down south, others from Ontario establishments where they have been pretty well confined to the barn during a winter that saw the heaviest snow in many a year.

On their performances as two-year-olds the logical contender would appear to be Kanlee, brown gelding by Kanuck-Vingt Cinq, owned by Harry Lahman of Toronto, Western Canadians—the race no longer is confined to Ontario-breds—are likely to support heavily the chestnut gelding Sir Achtoi, owned by J. V. Drumheller of Calgary.

Also high on the list of probable starters is Leonforte, chestnut colt from the Braeside stable owned by Jim Coleman, Toronto newspaper sport columnist. And there's R.W.R. Cowie's good bay fillie Yellowknife, Don Earl stable's Watch Wrack, Parkwood stable's Lochiel Lass, Duke stable's Mulligan.

The total reward is about $16,000, including the King's 50 guineas and $10,000 added by the Ontario Jockey Club.

Rocky Graziano Will Meet Zale In Chicago

(By The Canadian Press)

The Illinois Boxing Commission has approved a 15-round title bout between middleweight champion Tony Zale and Rocky Graziano, in Chicago sometime between June 25 and July 15.

The two battlers last fought in New York Sept. 26 when Zale retained his title with a sixth-round knockout of Graziano. Since that time Graziano was banned by the New York Boxing Commission for failure to report a $100,000 "fix" offer he said he thought was a joke.

The broken jaw received by Bruce Woodcock in losing to Joe Baksi of Kulpmont, Pa., in the London fight last Tuesday will keep the British champion out of the ring at least six months, his doctors have predicted.

Crooner Bing Crosby, one of the new owners of Pittsburgh Pirates, tried his hand as sports announcer yesterday when he broadcast the play by play account of several innings of the Bucs' home opener with the Cincinnati Reds at Forbes Field.

After a one-game setback, Brantford Redmen took the Ontario Hockey Association intermediate "A" title for 1947 by defeating Georgetown Raiders 7-4 at Brantford last night.

The Victoria Amateur Swimming Club last night set August 25-26 as the dates for staging the 1946 Canadian Swimming and Diving Championships at Victoria. The dates will be subject to the approval of the Canadian Amateur Swimming Association.

Ottawa, April 19 (CP)— The Commons last night gave its approval to the establishment in Canada of a National Wild Life week to begin each year on April 10, the birth date of the late Jack Miner, famed Kentville, wild-life conservationist.

In speedy fashion and with unanimous approval the House moved through all the legislative stages a bill introduced for this purpose by John R. MacNichol, (PC—Toronto Davenport).

In moving the bill, Mr. MacNichol said that an advocate of the conservation of Canada's wild life resources and an opponent of their useless destruction he was pleased to present the bill, which was seconded by Joseph Bradette (L—Cochrane.

Mr. Bradette said a national wild life week would extend the work done by Jack Miner in conserving the wild life of Canada.

To Live With Love

By Margaret Gorman Nichols

CHAPTER 20

Carol laughed, low. "I can't—when I'm listening."

"You can't indeed! I don't talk a great deal. I've lived too much in places where I had no one to talk to. There's one good thing about that. You lose the small talk this so-called civilization makes you cultivate."

His head outlined against a bright night sky, his back in the white coat was as straight as a plank. She could not remember a time when she had looked at a man as she was looking at Clive now. Often at Bill, of course, but as at no one else in her life. Looking and finding an immense richness and deepness of feeling. How long, how long had it been since she had felt like this—this heightened awareness coupled with something intangible, indescrible and infinitely warm and tender and lovely? She thought. "And I have been boasting to myself that I have lived without love as if it were something to boast about."

She knew when he arose and moved toward her. Instintively she arose. There was no awkardness in his arms. It was as though he had held her before. Their kiss was long and wonderful.

"You love me," he said. "And your poor, splendid mind is in a turmoil because you don't understand how you can be in love with two men at the same time. Don't fight it, darling. Accept it. Be happy with me. Be natural with me and we'll have a fine time.. the finest you've ever had.. You're lovely, Carol. I've seen you in my mind so often. I've seen 'us' in my mind so often And for all your marriage and divorce and unhappiness you're still so young in the way that make me love you...I love you ...I suppose you want to hear me say it. I love you. You're alive and intelligent and lovely and you—you bring back all my lost virtues."

"I don't know anything about you, Clive, except the way you make me feel."

"That's the most important thing to know about me—that I can make you happy and alive I'm going to make you so happy darling, that you'll be angry that you were ever unhappy."

"You knew when you came down."

"Of course I knew. I knew in Havana. "He kissed her again Then he said, "I don't want to talk, darling, I want to love you ...on your terms, your way. You win."

During the days that followed it was as though she had never been in love before. Is love always new? she wondered. They were always together, became conspicuous on the beach and people talked and wondered about them. He drove her to the small pink-shaded house where her father and uncle Jeff lived and talked with the men and made appropriate remarks about Uncle Jeff's tenderly tended flowers.

Carol regarded him with wonderment and with eyes that seemed to be seeing everything new. When had she ever laughed so much? Was it partly the magic of the place and the holiday spirit? There was a sense of unreality about Christmas midwarmth and sun and flowers... but an exciting unreality as a dream that makes one dread the wakening.

They went everywhere. And they were inseparable though only together did they form a whole personality. Once comparisons swept through her mind and she knew that no one had ever sensed her wishes or read her personality as Clive did. He seemed to be a mind functioning just for her. He seemed to know her as no one else had ever known her.

But there was no time to ponder or analyze. There was time only to be happy, to greet the new day, to meet him for breakfast, knowing the full hours ahead. There was time only to be more abandoned than she had ever before and lovelier than she had ever been before with less care given to he appearance. It was a time not for thinking but for feeling, not for glancing back but for the crowded moment. He made love articulate for her.

That he both stimulated her taciturn father and invited his admiration was evident. The two older men saw few new people. her father was solicitous and Clive made him laugh aloud one of the few times Carol had ever heard him laugh aloud. New energy seemed to flow into Uncle Jeff's stiff joints when Clive was there. She had said to Clive after they had left the pink house one afternoon, "You were very nice to them. Thanks. I appreciate that." And he had said, smiling "I'm very nice to you, darling."

They had been dancing one evening and she had worn her prettiest dress, a chiffon one of deep blue with a full tucked skirt. Coming back to the hotel he parked the car and they walked down the beach together.

Clive said, "You've made me very happy, Carol. You are not the only woman I've ever loved but you are the most lovable." He chuckled "You don't know this, but you have made the aroma of romance so heavy that nothing can penetrate it. I'm being serious. I hate being serious and serious things. I'm afraid of them. Don't ever make me see a play or a movie that makes people cry."

He chuckled again. "It's that exactly. How like you to know. You have the wonderful ability of being able to hit the nail on the proverbial head. It's too bad you've made a career only of marriage and men." Then quite abruptly, "You're not going back when you planned—that soon?"

"No. I haven't thought about going back at all. Must I? I'll write to the people at the hospital and to Freda. I've been sending only 'having-a-wonderful-time' postcards home."

"There's only one person I want to know. Freda. But I'm afraid I couldn't do justice to you on paper."

He laughed as he stopped and put his arms around her.

"And Bill let you go. You don't mind if I speak of him now, do you? It doesn't hurt so much. Some, yes. A little, I know The two worlds don't conflict. But I'm jealous of him; jealous of your past with him. You haven't told me you're jealous of your predecessors."

Tilting her face, he smiled at her. "A galaxy of lovely women you've sent packing. I shouldn't tell you this ....but whatever it is between us has made you the only one. I'm getting involved Getting involved when it's really so simple. This business of a man and woman in love isn't complicated at all. We make each other happy. Isn't that all that is important to know and be sure of?"

"Clive, I think what is best is knowing that the ability to fall in love doesn't exhaust itself. You say the same things you've read or heard or said before and yet they're new and.. and no less wonderful."

He smoothed away the frown between her eyes. "Was that there because you wonder where we're going from here? You wouldn't be a woman if you didn't wonder. But let's not talk about it until we must. It will bring up practical things like dates and reasons and plans. It will spoil it."

"I won't have it spoiled."

"Good. It's even almost perfect. You're tired, darling. Love does interfere with one's sleep doesn't it? Let's go back. You're shivering."

"Shivering, but happy. I seem to be above all the things that bothered me. They can't touch me here..."

"Only I can touch you? That's what I want."

"Kiss me Clive."

"I'll always take orders like that from you, darling."

Usually after Clive left her Carol slept. But tonight she lay awake with the frown between her eyes again. The moonlight made a path across the room as she thought, "I do wonder what comes after this. It can't go on like this. Nothing ever goes on being just the same. Like a book or a play, it has to have a middle and an end as well as a beginning."

It was with difficulty now that she recalled Bill. But when she made him live again in this room on the beach in Florida, she could feel the old nostalgia and longing creeping back. She loved Bill She loved Clive. But she could not weigh them against each other You could love Emerson for his quiet wisdom and Whitman for his stirring earthiness... but you loved them both. A woman could love two utterly different men at the same time. She had never believed that before.

Would she marry Clive? The thought made her sit up, made her heart move, made the room warm. Marry Clive?...Marry him and go west with him and live with him, be his wife, he her husband, in all the ways of marriage still familiar to her? She tried to picture it, but the picture wasn't clear. Why wasn't it? Of course she could see it ..Of course...They could still make each other happy. Proximity deepened and enriched. Why couldn't she be Clive's wife Why not indeed? Again she tried to make the picture clear, but it would not be clear. It was like tasting long-anticipated wine and finding it quite flat. She thought "Perhaps I want only the beginning and the middle...but not the end."

In the morning when she found him waiting in the shade of the veranda and went to him, wearing the gay red and white playsuit that he liked, her hair loose and flowing, she hoped that he would not see that she had slept little. When he stood up and looked at her as she walked to him, she felt his love and her own intensely. There was no frown, no wonder.

He smiled. "We're having papaya for breakfast. Then you're going to sit under an umbrella. I don't want people thinking my girl is a native of Hawaii."

It was all right again. Everything was all right again. You always think absurd dark thoughts in the darkness. But this morning the sun was shining on the sea and sand and this was another day of crowded moments.

She went quietly about making plans to return home

On the day that Clive had to have his car repaired, he dropped her at her father's house before going into town to a garage.

"Go home?" Uncle Jeff cried "Why? What have you to take you home? Neither chick nor child! Don't see any reason why you can't stay down all Winter."

"Yes," her father said, looking at her anxiously. "I don't see either why you don't stay, Carol."

She smiled at them. "There are several reasons why. I have an apartment in Clinton, a maid hired and a job I liked. I've—I've had a wonderful time, but I can't be on a vacation permanently. The hotel is expensive and—and Clive is going West, you know."

Uncle Jeff looked sober as he stroked his chin. "We've been thinking that maybe you'll be married again, Carol."

"He hasn't asked me."

Her father said, "Well, I'd think about it. I don't want to interfere but."

She nodded, feeling close to both of them, feeling their interest, their devotion and their sense of loss at her going.

Uncle Jeff said, "We sure will miss you. But you'll be coming back soon. This place gets you. They always come back. A lot of them come back to live the same as I did. The place isn't big enough to hold the people who are going to retire and live down here. But we are sure going to miss you."

Her father nodded.

Carol said, "I waited much too long to come."

The following morning when she left Clive to go to a hairdresser, she went also to the steamship office and bought a return ticket for Saturday. Catching a glimpse of her tanned face in a mirror in the steamship office, she saw that she looked grim again. It was so near the end now.

They had a lovely day. That evening she wore the blue dress Clive liked and they danced on a patio beneath the sky. To her it was as though she had been told she had only a little while to live and must see and seize all of life in the short time remaining.

Smiling at her across the small table, Clive said, "Come back to me." And when she looked at him, she saw that, he, too, looked at him, she saw that, he, too, looked pensive and grim. "Let's go, darling. Too many people here. We don't need them or the music. We make a very satisfactory kind of music all our own when we're together."

A little later he parked the car beneath a grove of trees. For a long time, it seemed, he said nothing. Then, still without words he turned to her and put his arms around her and held her.. held her for a long time.

"You've been thinking about this and dreading it, as I have," he said finally. "Why can't it go go on as it has been? Yes, I've been thinking that, too. It has been as perfect as anything could be, darling. But this isn't unfortunately the stuff that life is made of chiefly. Beauty and leisure and love. Life is made up chiefly of jobs and making money and that thing called doing one's duty and eating and going to the dentist twice a year and writing to one's relatives...We're lucky to have crowded in beauty and leisure and love. Very lucky. Don't overlook that."

He let her go gently and, holding her hand and looking ahead, said, "I'd make a rotten husband, darling. My life has been one of extremes—from building roads through the tropics to the chronium and red leather of New York cocktails bars. I've gone from the swamps and jungle to the Louvre...And there have been a good many other women ...extremes in women, too. I never believed I could ever be faithful to on woman even when I gloomily anticipated a lonely old age with no wife to bring me my slippers and no grandchildren to tell about my adventures. I told you about the girl in New York. You finished that in the cruel way that one person has of blotting out another...I have to confess that even though I knew I was hit hard, I didn't dream that it would ever bring me to a lengthy explanation of myself..I've never done it before. I never cared enough before."

"Clive, you don't have to."

Health Dept. Will Inquire into Value Of Vitamin E

Toronto, April 19 (CP)— Dr. Robert T. Noble, registrar of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Ontario, said in a statement yesterday that the college has asked the Ontario Department of Health to inquire into the value of vitamin E in treatment for cardiovascular, or heart disease and added that he understands the department already has the matter under advisement.

The statement reviews study by the council of the college of papers presented by Dr. Evan V. Shute of London, Ont., and Dr. Wilfred E. Shute of Guelph in support of their claims that vitamin E was a helpful theapeutic agent in treatment of coronary thrombosis and allied forms of heart disease.

It was the first official pronouncement by the college on the treatment, first anounced at London almost a year ago.

The statement said Dr. Even Shute presented a large number of papers to the council at a meeting last Nov. 13 also attended, by invitation, by two physicians from each of three universities, Queen's Toronto and Western. "These men represented our foremost specialists in cardiovascular diease and in internal clinic medicine."

The university representatives reported to the council that there was insufficient evidence to support the given diagnosis in any of the reported cases; evidence as submitted would indicate that in many cases diagnosis was incorrect; on the basis of the evidence the committee was not convinced that vitamin E had any place in the treatment of heart disease; it was considered adviseable that an impartial clinical investigation should be conducted with adequate controls.

The council, with the consent of the Drs. Shute, agreed that mimeographed copies of exhibits filed by Dr. Evan Shute should be forwarded to the chief of the medical department of each of the universities accompanied by a copy of the report of the medical group.

BEHIND SCHEDULE

Southampton, England, April 19 (AP)—The Queen Elizabeth sailed for New York today, 60 hours behind schedule because she ran on a sandbank early this week as she neared her home berth here.

A Cunard-White Star Line official said efforts would be made to make up the time during the next two round trips by cutting a half day off each turnaround.

Slow Response To Provisions Citizenship Act

Washington, April 19 — (CP)— Immigration and naturalization officials of the Justice Department are a little mystified and inclined to be gratified over the slow response to a provision set up last year facilitating return of citizenship to erring nationals abroad.

A year ago some citizens living in the United Kingdom and Canada discovered that they had lost their citizenship by voting in political elections in the countries where they resided.

They wanted to regain their status and Congress enacted a statute which offered them repatriation by merely going before a consular officer and making the appropriate oath.

The bill became effective last Aug. 7 and a time limit of one year from then was placed on the period in which simple repatriation could be effected.

Today the Justice Department checked the naturalization office in Philadelphia and found that only 105 citizens had returned to the fold by this method.

That number included many who had lost their citizenship by serving in the armed forces of another country. There was no breakdown available as to details of the lost citizenship nor the countries concerned.

Nor is there any way of knowing what number of citizens lost their status by voting in foreign elections. The only check the authorities have on that is when the citizen applies for a passport and is asked the routine question about such activities.

They thus violated the law of Jan. 14, 1941, which set forth a number of acts by which Americans abroad could forfeit their citizenship.

One of these acts was to vote in a political election outside the United States or take part in a plebiscite concerned with a move to change a government.

The department is inclined to believe that the small response to the repatriation offer indicates that very few Americans lost their citizenship by voting.

HUMAN ROAD BLOCK

Prince George, B. C. — (CP)— Because of a belligerent prospector whom he wished to avoid, Watson Moyese, Indian, had to go 125 miles out of his way to shop. Police moved the human road block and Moyese now can travel the comparatively short 75 miles to Fort Ware instead of 200 miles to Telegraph Creek for his groceries.

German Steel Magnate Flick Pleads Innocence

Nuerenberg, April 19 (AP)— German steel magnate Friederich Flick and five of his industrial associates pleaded innocent to war crimes charges today after an American prosecutor declared in a blistering opening statement that they shared the blame for German crimes equally with the militarists.

Flick was accompanied in the prisoners' dock before the four-man court by Otto Steinbrinck, Konrad Kaletsch, Bernhard Weiss, Hermann Tesberger and Otto Burkhart. Burkhart was a last minute addition to the list of defendants.

They were accused of boosting the Nazis to power, of financing the S. S. (Elite Guard), of exploiting slave labor, of cheating Jews out of property and of plundering occupied countries.

This the first war crimes trial of industrialists in history and is admittedly a testing ground inviting the interest of international lawyers, commerce and the military.

The shadowy Flick and his "concern" was larger and more important toward the end of the war than even the more well-known Krupp combine.

Brig.-Gen. Telford Taylor, American prosecutor, said industrialists gave "generously" to Nazi election funds and that "Flick contributed 100,000 marks a year to the S.S. During the war Taylor added, Flick used 40,000 slave laborers and concentration camp inmates.

Jagged Sea Crags Giants Weapons?

Halifax, (CP)—The mighty Glooscap— Indian Paul Bunyan of the Maritimes—may actually have lived in his storied home on the red cliffs of Blomidon, overlook Minas Basin on Nova Scotia's western shore. Such is the contention of Joe Cope.

Perhaps the fact that Joe, dwelling on the Indian reservation at nearby Shubenacadie, is a true descendant of Micmac warchiefs with close to 90 years to absorb Indian lore, has something to do with the sincerity of his story.

The tales of Glooscap standing atop the steep slope and hurling his gigantic spears into the muddy waters below were told to Joe by his Micmac ancestors.

But he also adds a modern touch. At low tide, he says, where the Blomidon meets the sea, are seen two huge spear shaped rocks. Might not these rocks be the heads of two of Glooscap's weapons thrown from the crests above?

With this convincing fact off his mind Joe will probably then puff on his well-aged pipe and launch into another of his pet subjects: the treatment of Indians.

"We're under what the white men call, I believe 'unconditional surrender' . . . we're a conquered people and we can't help it."

But he believes there is a future for young Indians wishing to take advantage of facilities offered them by the federal government. In typical Cope manner he'll say: "not only are the Indians becoming more civilized . . . but the white men too are becoming civilized."

RELIEVED OF PAIN

Baltimore, April 19 —(AP)— Through brain surgery performed at Johns Hopkins Hospital, four patients suffering from cancer have been relieved of intractible pain and nervousness in face of death within the last six months, hospital officials disclosed last night. The operation — prefontal lobotomy — has been used for years in the treatment of certain mental disorders.

Commons' Committees Perform Valuable Work in Nation's Affairs

By DOUGLAS HOW
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, April 19. (CP)—Another committee got rolling this week as a cog in the machinery that thrashes through the work of the Commons in any given session.

It was the External Affairs Committee, a 35-man body that finds itself confronted with problems arising from international developments. Its members promptly found themselves asked to get ready to consider reports on the United Nations Assembly, on the U.N. Atomic Commission, on the estimates of the External Affairs Department, on a bill that would bind Canada to U.N. sanctions.

They re-elected Joseph Arthur Bradette, cigar-smoking, amiable member for the Ontario constituency of Cochrane, as chairman, re-elected popular Gordon Graydon, (P.C.-Peel), as vice chairman, fell into a wrangle over whether they should visit U.N. headquarters near New York and finally decided they should. They were on their way.

Of the 23 standing and special committees named for this third session of the 21st parliament, external affairs was one of the few the public would ever hear about. The few get the fanfare and the publicity because some of the session's most contentious issues are drained of their heat within them.

This session, a special committee is trying to unravel the problem of picking 10 new Commons' seats; the radio committee will go back to war; another will study minor changes in the Elections Act; an Indian Affairs committee will continue its consideration of the Indian Act which started last session; a special committee will decide what to do with nearly $6,000,000 in wartime army canteen funds.

Meanwhile, less spectacular problems will be confronting groups working on agriculture, banking and commerce—one that occasionally flares into import— public accounts, marine and fisheries and numerous others.

Chairmanships Important

Their chairman will always be government supporters, will always be aware that a good job can lead to higher posts. Members will bear the same ratio to committee strength as their party bears to House strength.,

The committes differ, of course, from what are known as the committee of the whole or of supply or of ways and means. These are simply the whole House itself considering matters—such as the current Omnibus Controls Bill—which, for various reasons, are not sent to separate committees. The House in supply considers the estimates of public expenditures; in ways and means, it considers the budget proposals for raising the estimated expenses.

The difference between these committees and the House itself is that the Speaker leaves the chair and members can speak as often as they wish.

The Day in Parliament

Monday:

The Commons will discuss various topics.

The Senate will not sit.

Friday:

The Commons heard Justice Minister Ilsley sponsor an amendment to the government's Control Bill making Prices Board officials subject to damage actions; the Commons in committee approved vital price control sections of the bill with comparatively little dissension; heard Justice Minister Ilsley suggest a free vote should be taken on whether parliament or the cabinet should have power to disband the Prices Board, heard Acting Prime Minister St. Laurent say a Human Rights Committee would not be established until the control legislation is completed; heard him say there was some willingness on the part of Russia to have Canada and other smaller Allies participate in the making of the German peace. The Senate did not sit.

Possible Sharp Restrictions On Unions Cause for Step

Washington, April 21 — (AP)— The American Federation of Labor Executive Council today invited the C.I.O. Peace Committee to confer here Thursday on merger of the two big labor organizations.

A.F.L. president William Green announced the invitation after a meeting of the council to discuss general problems, including the prospect that Congress will enact sharp restrictions on labor union activities.

Green said a telegram was dispatched to C.I.O. president Philip Murray suggesting the meeting.

The groups have made frequent gestures toward union, but no real progress in that direction.

The council's decision to bring up the matter again at this time appeared to be traceable to the crisis building up for labor unions in the form of legislation in Congress.

The C.I.O. has insisted that before "organic unity" can be discussed, both organizations—with a total of more than 13,500,000 members — must co-operate in fighting restrictive legislation on Capitol Hill and in state legislatures.

Up to now, in the exchange of communications between the two groups, the A.F.L. has contended that effective co-operation in that field can only be achieved by actual merger of the two groups.

Toronto —(CP)— Possibility of a joint conference between Canadian labor's two governing bodies — the Canadian Congress of Labor (C.I.O.) and the Trades and Labor Congress (A.F.L.) — was predicted Saturday by Silby Barrett, Canadian director of the United Mine Workers (C.C.L.)

Barrett said he had been asked to call a conference of the two bodies and would ask Percy Bengough, president of the T.L.C. and A. R. Mosher, president of the C.C.L. to name delegates to the conference.

In the United States, the mine workers union is affiliated with the A.F.L., while in Canada the union's affiliation is with the C.C.L.-C.I.O.

Six Delegates May be Expelled

Montreal, April 21. (CP)—The Gazette said today in a newspage story that six delegates to the Montreal Trades and Labor Council would likely be expelled shortly from the organization, an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor, because they had been found "guilty of advocating Communism."

The paper quoted officers of the Council as saying that five of the delegates were officials of the Canadian Seamen's Union and that the sixth was an official of the International Chemical Workers' Union. The C.S.U. men were identified as: D. Daniels, G. E. McManus, Carl Sauras, Harry Davis and R. Read, the I.C.W.U. officer is W. Stirrup.

The paper said their case had been heard Saturday by an A.F.L. Inter-Union "Trial" Committee.

BURGLARS TRY TO STEAL COAL

Sydney, N. S., April 21—(CP)— The nine-weeks-old mine strike has made coal such a precious commodity in this industrial city even burglars are after it. Two attempts were made over the weekend without success to steal coal.

BUS STOLEN FROM STAND

Antigonish, N. S., April 21 — (CP) — A big red and ivory bus, stolen from it's stand in New Glasgow, 40 miles west of here early Saturday, was found here yesterday morning and returned to its owners, the Irving Bus Company of Pictou, N.S.

Weather Synopsis

Toronto, April 21—(CP)—Synopsis: Quebec and most of Ontario have clear cool weather this morning, with temperatures near or below freezing. Just to the south of Lake Erie and Ontario it is raining and this band of precipitation extends eastward. A disturbance centred over Southern Manitoba is causing snow in the western part of James Bay and White River regions. This snow will spread eastward to the Kirkland Lake region tonight or Tuesday morning. Slowly rising temperatures are expected for Southern Ontario today and Tuesday.

Judge Gives Armed Robbers Leave to Appeal

Ottawa, April 21 — (CP) — In a judgment announced today, Mr. Justice Rober Taschereau granted leave to appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada to Kenneth Green and George Constantine of Toronto, convicted as members of the notorious Polka Dot gang which staged a series of armed robberies in the Toronto area in 1945.

Green and Constantine were sentenced to 14-year terms by Judge James Parker on several armed robbery charges, and the terms were made concurrent.

An Ontario Appeal Court judgment quashed some of the armed robbery charges against Green and Constantine but did not alter the sentences.

Mr. Justice Taschereau said counsel for the defence had shown that the Ontario Appeal Court's decision, which was unanimous, conflicted with a previous appeal court decision in a similar case.

Radio Comedian Refuses to Make Change in Script

New York, April 21. (AP)—The National Broadcasting Company said the program of Fred Allen was cut off the air last night "for about 25 seconds" because the radio comedian refused to make certain changes in his script.

NBC explained the cut-off with the statement that "we asked that changes be made in the scrip. And the changes were not made. Therefore, the program was off the air for about 23 seconds at the beginning."

After the program, Allen said: "Last week, we ran over our time and the last part of the program was cut off. Tonight I decided to use this in the program and build a joke around it. But NBC told me I couldn't kid radio on the air."

Bd. Explains Reason For Price Increase Of Chocolate Bars

Ottawa, April 21 —(CP)— A Wartime Prices and Trade Board statement issued yesterday explained the widely criticized price increase of chocolate bars from six to eight cents. The statement noted that when chocolates were decontrolled the subsidy of 13½ cents a pound on raw cocoa beans had been cancelled and a one cent a pound increase in the price of sugar had become effective.

Spanish-Indian Peasant Became Chief of Tin Magnates of This Age

Buenos Aires, April 21 —(AP) —Simon I. Patino, Spanish-Indian peasant who turned a tin mine grubstake into one of the world's greatest fortunes and became the leading tin magnate of his time, died here yesterday in his hotel suite.

Patino had been ill for some time. The Bolivian embassy, where his body was placed in state, said death was caused by "general exhaustion" attributed to age. The embassy said he was 86 years old, although biographical records indicated he was 81.

With him when he died were his wife, Albina, and a son, Antenor, who in recent years had been in full charge of his father's far-flung industrial empire.

The world tin king forsook his native Bolivia in 1920 as doctors warned that he must shun the rarified air of the two-mile-high Bolivian plateau.

For almost a score of years, he lived luxuriously in Europe, gaining the reputation of a fabulous spender as he built palaces and villas along the Riviera and in Sicily. He made himself the Bolivian minister at Madrid and Paris. A daughter married a Spanish Marquis and his son Antenor married Princess Cristinia of Bourbon.

He returned to the Western Hemisphere at the outbreak of the Second World War and lived for a time in New York and Montreal before moving to Buenos Aires in 1945.

In 1905 Patino was a clerk in a general store, supporting a wife and family on $35 a month, when a miner came into the store for a grubstake. Patino guaranteed the miner's bill in return for a mortgage on the mine.

That holding became the rich Negra mine, and Patino quickly staked out other claims. The world was clamoring for tin in the new mass production of tin cans and automobiles, and Patino became wealthy overnight. His fortune at one time was estimated at $300,000,000.

TWO MILITARY JEEPS AMBUSHED BY UNDERGROUND

New Violence Rocks Palestine as Irgun Promises Vengeance For Executions

Jerusalem, April 21 (AP)—Two ropes fashioned into nooses were found by British authorities today near the spot where two military jeeps were ambushed in Jerusalem by men believed to be members of the Jewish underground.

The discovery recalled broadcast threats by Irgun Zvai Leumi, Jewish underground organization, to retaliate in kind for the hanging of four of its members by British authorities last week following their conviction for anti British violence.

Three men were detained after the ambushing, in which the jeeps were attacked with grenades and machine-gun fire near the edge of Jerusalem's Jewish quarter. Five soldiers who were riding in the jeeps escaped injury, but a civilian was reported injured.

Two other British military vehicles were blown up today in continuation of a new reign of violence in which 12 persons— including 10 British soldiers— were injured yesterday.

Six Soldiers Hurt

Six of the soldiers were injured when a bomb was thrown into a motion picture theatre at a leave centre near Nathanya. Four other soldiers were wounded—one seriously—when two military trucks were blown up by road mines while en route to investigate the theatre bombing.

Two Arab legion soldiers were wounded earlier when their truck hit a road mine north of Haifa.

Gunfire Exchanged

At the same time police reported an exchange of gunfire near Rishon Le Zion, south of Tel Aviv, when two unidentified men attempted to slip through the barbed wire barrier around a police station. The intruders escaped, apparently uninjured.

Two British army jeeps were blown up early today near the edge of the Jewish quarter in Jerusalem, but the occupants escaped injury though fired upon with machine-guns by hidden assailants.

Other communities along the Palestine coastal plain were kept in a state of tension by periodic explosions last night which police attributed to leaflet bombs set off by the underground.

No Martyr Complex.

New York, April 21 —(AP)— Dov Bela Gruner, Jewish underground leader hanged by the British in Palestine last Wednesday, refused to fight his conviction but, his sister says, he "definitely did not have a martyr complex."

Mrs. Helen Friedman of Lancaster, Pa., returned yesterday from Palestine where she had gone to urge Gruner to appeal to the privy council. She said that after talking to him a few times she "dropped the idea" but remained convinced the execution was "cowardly and uncivilized."

"He was willing to give his life for the cause for which he had fought and I am sure he hoped that the cause will not die, but he did not think of himself as a martyr," Mrs. Friedman told reporters.

Gruner, she said, "asked for a Rabbi and the British authorities refused. They gave out a statement that a Rabbi had seen him but it was only some layman."

Princess Pledges Life To Commonwealth, Asks Aid of Youth

Capetown, April 21—(Reuters) —Princess Elizabeth pledged in an Empire broadcast today to devote her life to the service of the British Commonwealth and urged the youth of the Empire to help her ease the burden of the older generation which bore the responsibilities of the Second World War.

The Speech

On my 21st birthday, I welcome the opportunity to speak to all the peoples of the British Commonwealth and Empire, wherever they live, whatever race they come from and whatever language they speak.

Let me begin by saying "thank you" to all the thousands of kind people who have sent me messages of good will. This is a happy day for me, but it is also one that brings serious thoughts—thoughts of life looming ahead with all its challenges and with all its opportunity.

At such a time it is a great help to know that there are multitudes of friends all round the world who are thinking of me and who wish me well. I am grateful, and I am deeply moved.

Feeling at Home

As I speak to you today from Capetown I am 6,000 miles from the country where I was born, but I am certainly not 6,000 miles from home. Everywhere I have travelled in these lovely lands of South Africa and Rhodesia my parents, my sister and I have been taken to the heart of their people and made to feel that we are just as much at home here as if we had lived among them all our lives.

That is the great privilege belonging to our place in the worldwide Commonwealth — that there are homes ready to welcome us in every continent of the earth. Before I am much older I hope I shall come to know many of them.

TAKE 2 PRINCESS PLEDGES

Although there is none of my father's subjects from the oldest to the youngest whom I do not wish to greet, I am thinking especially today of all the young men and women who were born about the same time as myself and have grown up like me in the terrible and glorious years of the Second World War. Will you, the youth of the British family of nations, let me speak on my birthday as your representative?

Share Burden of Elders

Now that we are coming to manhood and womanhood, it is surely a great joy to us all to think we shall be able to take some of the burden off the shoulders of our elders who have fought and worked and suffered to protect our children.

We must not be daunted by the anxieties and hardships that the war has left behind for every nation of our Commonwealth. We know that these things are the

POLICE BATTLE DETROIT PICKETS OF PHONE STRIKE

Thirty-Two Persons Including Two Union Leaders Arrested After Skirmish

Detroit, April 21 (AP)—Thirty-two persons, including two Union leaders, were arrested today and two persons were in hospital following an outbreak of picket-line violence of the headquarters building of the strike-bound Michigan Bell Telephone Company.

Fist fights, scuffling and name-calling greeted efforts of police to keep entrances open to the building for admittance of non-striking employees.

Police listed Walter Schaar, president of the Michigan Federation of Telephone Workers (Ind.) and J. Bernard Hawkins, strike director, among those taken into custody.

Inspector Ezra Johnson, in charge of the police detail at the scene, said he ordered the arrest of the two Union leaders after they refused to order that the strikers stop fighting. No charges were placed.

Union Secretary Helen Berthelot said the pickets offered no resistance to police, but added that "we are just tired of cops escorting scabs through our picket lines."

May Soon Clarify Troubling Question Of King Leopold

New York April 21 (CP)—The New York Times said today in a Brussels dispatch that the "troubling question" of King Leopold of Belgium may soon be clarified with publication of a report prepared by an impartial commission instructed to study "the attitude of the King since 1936."

"The best informed persons expect a mild statement clearing his name of the gravest charges against him while at the same time implying that the only solution lies in his abdication," the Times report said.

There will be "nothing in the nature of revelation" about the Monarch's activities before he retired to Switzerland and after the war, the dispatch continued, but "it is hoped, however, that the commission's findings will appease both sides in the dispute and pave the way to a peaceful settlement."

The commission, made up of "outstanding legal figures," was charged by Leopold last July with the task of writing "an objective and documented reported strictly conforming to the truth."

Leopold, who ordered surrender of the Belgian Army in 1940 shortly after the Germans invaded his country lived as a virtual prisoner throughout the occupation. His opponents charged that he betrayed the country.

TWO MURDER CHARGES LAID AGAINST YOUTH

Held for Slaying of Young Mother and Her Two-Year-Old Son in North Woods

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., April 21 —(CP) — Two charges of murder in the fatal northwoods shooting of a young mother and her two-year-old son were read today to Edgar James Simons, 19-year-old summer resort caretaker, in Magistrate's Court. Magistrate James McEwen remanded Simons in custody until April 29 for preliminary hearing.

The charges arose from the slaying of 24-year-old Mrs. Catharine Rupert and her son, Frederick Lee, about 10 a.m. Saturday.

Shows No Emotion

Simons, employed for the last 18 months at the Rupert's family's summer resort on a bay of Lake Superior, showed no emotion as the court clerk read the charges. The stocky brown-haired native of St. Joseph's Island, about 30 miles southeast of here, wore blue dungarees. After the reading of the charges he walked calmly from the court room under provincial police escort.

Provincial police said earlier Simons told them he shot the woman and child. They declined to say whether he had signed a confession.

The pretty young mother and her infant son were killed by rifle bullets in their cabin home at Pancake Bay, in the Algoma wilds 70 miles northwest of here, sometime Saturday afternoon. The husband and father, Frederick Rupert, was in Sault Ste. Marie Saturday on a shopping trip and discovered the crime on his return to the cabin.

When provincial police arrived at the tourist resort operated by Rupert, the latter told them he found the body of his wife in a pool of blood in the bedroom of the cabin. The child's body was in the kitchen.

Spattered with Blood

The entire cabin was spattered with blood. Police believed that Mrs. Rupert first was shot in the shoulder outside the home and struggled into the cabin to reach the telephone when she was shot again. Two other bullets were fired into the cabin walls. A fifth bullet was fired into the infant's head. The bullets were from a .22 calibre rifle.

Rupert said his wife's body was nude when he entered the cabin.

Police had made a brief search of the surrounding area when Simons' voice was heard calling from the bush. He asked "Is that you Fred?" Police talked to him for a few minutes before he came out, allegedly with a rifle in his possession.

Simons was the caretaker at the little tourist resort operated by Rupert. Rupert himself said last night "He was just like a brother to me. We gave him a good job and he did good work for us. We had even mapped out plans for our business this summer together. Both my wife and I thought a lot of him and I am sure he thought the same of us and little Frederick."

KING CHRISTIAN, DENMARK, DIES OF HEART ATTACK

Reigned for 35 Years Through Two World Wars and Was Highly Respected

By OLE LAUB

Copenhagen, April 21 (AP)— Frederick IX today was proclaimed King of Denmark from the balcony of historic Christiansborg Castle.

The 48-year-old lover of music seafaring and speed, mounted the throne as successor to his father, Christian X, whose death Sunday night at 76 ended a reign of 35 years, extending through two world wars.

The proclamation was read by Premier Knud Kristensen, who shouted three times: "King Christian X has died. Long live his Majesty King Frederick IX."

The proclamation made formal the automatic succession of Frederick, 38th of his line, to the throne on the death of his father. The proclamation was preceded by a meeting of the cabinet council, of which Frederick is a member.

Death came to Christian at 11:04 p.m. in his curtained, three-windowed bedroom of Amelienborg Castle in the centre of Copenhagen.

He had been ill 15 days since suffering a heart attack Easter Sunday, and unconscious almost eight hours. A doctor reported death due to heart failure. He also had developed lung trouble and gangrene.

With the king when he died were Queen Alexandrine, Crown Prince Frederik, Regent since April 8, Frederik's wife, Ingrid, and Christian's other son, Prince Knud, 46.

Outside waited some 5,000 of the King's subjects. To them the word was passed, "His Majesty died 10 minutes ago." Men took off their hats. Women bowed, some with tears in their eyes.

Became King in 1912

He became King May 12, 1912, in succession to his father, Frederik VIII. In the First World War, he kept his country neutral.

In the last war, the Germans invaded Denmark April 9, 1940, and Christian submitted to save Denmark from devastation. The invaders left him alone until 1943, when, evidently worried by the Danes' unco-operative attitude, they shut him up in Sorgenfri Castle.

He was an imposing ruler — six feet, seven inches tall.

He was born at Charlottenborg Sept. 26, 1870. In 1898 he married Princess Alexandrine of Meckelenburg. He was the elder brother of 75-year-old King Haakon VII of Norway.

Papa Seaman Sends Son Alligators

Manitou Springs, Colo., April 21 —(AP) — Barry B. Seaman, Jr., got out a hammer and pinch bar yesterday to open the big crate sent by Seaman, Sr., from Carruthersville, Mo.

The lid creaked back, and the "gift" gazed balefully at Seaman.

Seventeen years ago young Seaman captured two baby alligators while in Florida. Papa Seaman took them to their Carruthersville home and cared for them.

Recently he got tired of the dubious pets and decided to let his son have a crack at them.

Ottawa, April 21 (CP)—Canada's first national sportsmen's show, a showcase version of the Dominion's wild life resources, opens at the Ottawa Coliseum today complete with big-game hunters, stunt artists, wild animals and 80-odd displays by retail stores, provincial, federal and foreign governments.

Expected to attract large numbers of visitors from all parts of the Dominion and United States border cities, the show covers some 10 acres of floor space at Landsdowne Park, home of the capital's annual exhibition.

Central feature is a large aluminum tank in the main arena where expert fly-casters, log-rollers, canoe-tilters and Eskimo Kayak artists will give twice-daily demonstrations.

Theme of the tri-service defence department exhibit is a three-level series of revolving discs, each carrying naval, army and air force model equipment.

The National Film Board has set up a miniature motion picture theatre where some of the government new films of Canadian wild life will be shown.

The Mines and Resources Department will show lantern slides of the Dominion's playgrounds. The Fisheries Department has a display of the various types of fish found in the Dominion.

Opening today, the show will run until Saturday. Next week, many of the displays will be transferred to Winnipeg for Manitoba's first sportsmen's show

Truman Requests United Effort To Bring Prices Down

Claims Economic Situation In United States "Acute"

New York, April 21—(AP) — President Truman, cautioning that the economic situation in the United States is "acute," appealed today for a united effort to bring prices down and prevent a depression.

Addressing the annual luncheon of members of the Associated Press, the chief executive said there must be:

1. "Moderation on the part of business."
2. "Forbearance on the part of labor," plus greater productivity.
3. "All-out effort on the part of the farmer."
4. "Wise guidance and action on the part of the government." Here he reiterated his plea against cutting taxes now and called for extension of rent, export and credit controls.

The address was the highlight of Newspaper Convention Week here.

The president praised the service of the American press in wartime. Then he said in his prepared address:

"We are now at a stage in our national economic life when the American press can render similar service."

Although he did not refer by name either to Russia or to his plan for aiding Greece and Turkey resist Communism, the president declared:

Decision Forced on Them

"Many of these (Free) people are confronted with the choice between totalitarism and democracy. This decision has been forced upon them by the devastation of war which has so impoverished them that they are easy targets for external pressures and alien ideologies."

Comparing conditions now with those of 1929, the peak pre-war year of economic activity, he listed:

A 71 per cent rise in physical volume, distinct from dollar value, of industrial output; a 32 per cent increase in agricultural production;

10,000,000 more employed;

The national income at a rate of $176,000,000,000 as against $83,000,000,000;

Buying Power Rises

And average income, after taxes, up from $654 to 1,090. Converting the 1929 income average into terms of the 1947 dollar, Mr. Truman said the gain in actual buying power still shows a rise from $825 to $1,090.

"But," the president went on, "I must say in all frankness that the economic skies are not entirely clear. One cloud is shadowing our economic future.

"Some day this cloud is certain to burst. They are sure of a recession or a depression....I believe that we as a nation can prevent this economic cloudburst But it requires prompt, preventive steps."

Recalling his efforts last year to have Congress extend price controll, the President said private enterprise now has the responsibility for prices because:

"A group saw fit to sabotage price control and represented to the public that prices would come down in a free market.

"This has not taken place."

Problem to Keep Communists Out Of Captured Areas

Nanking, April 21 —(AP)— Chinese dispatches today highlighted the problem of keeping Chinese Communists out of areas which has led Chiang Kai Shek's tacticians to consider adoption of flying squads of heavily armed commando-type troops.

Dispatches reported substantial numbers of Red troops had infiltarated into the northern Kiangsu province, a region supposedly made secure by national armies months ago. Some reports said as many as 30,000 Communists were in the province—a dangerous number to be operating many miles behind the government's main armies.

Government leaders held an emergency conference on the Kiangsu problem at Nantung, 135 miles east of Nanking. Reliable sources said some commanders had expressed the belief that commando-type units, properly equipped and trained could outpreform the present larger, less mobil government armies.

2 Peterborough Boys Save Life Of Six-Year-Old

Peterborough, April 21 (CP)— Two Peterborough boys hauled the unconscious body of six-year-old Kenneth Johnston from the Jackson creek yesterday and a passing motorist, Manse Wilson applied artificial respiration that saved his life.

The lad had fallen off a bridge was swept for more than 100 yards through a cement viaduct and emerged into open water in the spring-swollen creek where he was spotted by Edward Hillier, 15 and Keith Dunsdale, 16. Hillier doffed his shoes and jacket and jumped in, grabbed the lad by the coat sleeve and hung on. Dinsdale picked up a long pole, dashed along the bank and hooked it into Hillier's clothing.

The swift water made it a difficult task to keep both boys afloat but ultimately they were pulled over to the bank. Wilson, driving past, stopped and helped the two out, sent Dinsdale for the fire department, and applied artificial respiration.

Johnston was just regaining consciousness when firemen arrived. He was wrapped in blankets and taken to his home.

H. & P. E. Regt. Reunion Planned For This Autumn

A regimental reunion of the First Battalion Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment is being planned for sometime this Autumn in Belleville, it was learned here today. While plans at present are in the tentative stages, it is understood that arrangements will be completed to have as many of the unit here as possible in the first get-together since the war.

The regiment is having a series of pamphlets printed which will contain matters of interest to the regiment. The pamphlets will be mailed individually to members of the regiment from time to time.

Moderator Meets Old Comrades Of World War 2

There was a heart-warming reunion in the Church Street Armouries on Sunday following the morning service at Bridge Street United Church, when the Rt. Rev. T. W. Jones, Montreal, Moderator of the United Church of Canada met for the first time since the cessation of hostilities, many of the original and other members of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment with whom he served in the early days of the war.

Battle-scarred veterans of the battles of Italy and France wiped away suspicious moisture from their eyes and cheeks as the "Padre", one who was loved by all the regiment from the colonel to the drummer-boy, entered the armouries in company with former Regimental Sergeant Major Angus Duffy and Principal Dr. Bert Howard of Albert College.

The Moderator who served with the regiment as a Y.M.C.A. supervisor ("I was told I was too old to be a padre,") greeted his old comrades with hearty handclasps and he, too, was visibly touched at the sight of these "young old sweats" none of whom he had seen in the garb of Civvy Street.

Reminiscences of the rigorous camp and training life in England during the early part of the war, and the battlefields of Europe flew thick and fast. The Moderator enjoyed the visit with his "boys" for nearly an hour and was loath to leave at this point.

He recalled many humorous incidents that took place in England especially before the "boys knew I was a padre."

Inter-Service Club Council Approves Pool Project

With the project formulated by the local Kinsmen Club the Inter-Service Club Council has wholeheartedly approved of a joint effort on the part of service clubs to raise funds for the construction of a community swimming pool in Belleville.

All clubs have expressed 100 per cent co-operation to raise money to be directed to the establishment of this much-needed project.

While details for the construction of the swimming pool have not yet been finalized, it is expected the pool will be built along similar lines to that at Sunnyside in Toronto. The pool will be of open air construction but it will be built with the idea in mind of eventually having it enclosed, providing for year round swimming activities.

Various plans and specifications have already been obtained for comparison with the needs of this city and it is expected the cost of construction will be in the neighborhood of $80,000. As stated above a definite plan has not yet been decided upon.

Several Sites Suggested

The matter of location for the proposed swimming pool has been the matter of much consideration by members of the Inter-Service Club Council and by Kinsmen Club members, who were first to broach the idea of a pool as a service club effort.

Several sites have been suggested, including the Exhibition Park, which appears to be the most advantageous with the view to later establishment of a community centre. It is pointed out that the Exhibition Park is city-owned and has all the facilities for the eventual establishment of a complete community centre, embracing a swimming pool, dance hall, bowling green and illuminated ball diamond, gridiron, track and tennis court.

To Run Radio Show

Already service clubs in the city are making plans and arrangements to raise money for the Community Swimming Pool Fund with the Kinsmen Club which suggested this as an Inter-Service Club project, venturing to start the fund with a stage and radio show at the McCarthy Theatre on Sunday, May 4th. The show will be broadcast for two hours over the local radio station. Persons donating an amount to the swimming pool fund will be given complimentary tickets to the show and radio broadcast.

"The young people of Canada are the guardians of a wonderful heritage. No people in the world have greater cause for pride in the future of their country than these splendid young men and women. They have the opportunity to make Canada the greatest country in the world," the Right Rev. T. W. Jones, D.D., Montreal, Moderator of the United Church of Canada declared here on Sunday morning.

Speaking to an overflow gathering of joint congregations of the United Church of the city and the student body and faculty of Albert College at Bridge Street Church, Dr. Jones urged the young people present, and those in general, to help Canada rise to her proper place among the nations by fostering God's causes; keep her government life clean and upright so that she like her citizens will forever ring true."

Beautiful Heritage.

"This beautiful heritage is theirs to have and to maintain. At this time of year we are surrounded by witnesses to this grand thing. The countryside is bursting into new life. Its color, its mountains, its prairies and its lakes and rivers, are evidences and indication of the greatness of Canada," he said.

Dr. Jones told the congregation that he had come to Canada as an immigrant in order to find an opportunity for Christian service. "The other day," he said, "I celebrated my 35th anniversary as a preacher in one church. I have been given a splendid insight into the lives of these of my people. I have watched them grow up, marry and have children. It has been a glorious experience sharing their joys and sorrows."

God Still Marching On.

"God is still marching on," he said, "and He issues the call to the young people of today to sound forth the trumpet that never blows retreat. Your glorious heritage is here. Strive to work for it and think of the religious freedom you enjoy that is part of this mighty heritage."

There are still parts of the world where men are not allowed to congregate in groups and worship as they see fit, Dr. Jones said. "You must never forget that your forefathers paid dearly for the religious and other liberties we now enjoy. Religious freedom came at as high a price as did other liberties."

"We should be traitors all if we did not keep the light of this freedom glowing and dedicate ourselves to God enrichened by the beauty of religious freedom."

"This service is unique in the fact that not only am I talking to joint congregations of the city and the young men and women of Albert College, but to a number of those splendid young men with whom I had the privilege to serve overseas in the Second Great War." Dr. Jones said. "I served in the First War as a chaplain, but they said I was too old to serve in a similar capacity in the second show. So I joined the YMCA and went overseas anyway."

Served with Hastings P.E. Regt.

"I served with the boys of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, the best unit in the Canadian Army. It was the greatest privilege of my life to serve with these gallant young men of your district. It has been one of my life's objectives to bring people together in fellowship, comradeship and I am ever grateful to have been with these men in the dark days in Britain; these gallant boys of the Hasty Pees who served their Lord and Master and dedicated their lives to His cause, and the service of humanity."

He urged that Canada never forget those who laid down their lives, and those gallant people of the British Isles for whom "the going still is difficult. We should be traitors indeed if we forget the debt of gratitude we owe them. For if these people of the islands had weakened and surrendered in the first two years of war we would not be meeting in Bridge Street Church today."

The people of Britain are still enduring because today they are paying the same price for their freedom as they did when war was raging, Dr. Jones said.

One Family of God

Speaking of the United Church, Dr. Jones said it is trying to join hands and create one great family of God. He hoped, he said, that the day of bitter denominational conflict has gone forever, for "we need to draw closer together and share God's blessings as one great family".

He spoke of the tremendous work being done by the church from Newfoundland to the Pacific. "It is making its way to the heart of the nation. It is sending her sons and daughters out with eager feet to far-flung missions. It is a great church. Give it your finest."

Work on Mission Field

He urged the young people of the church to think seriously of the work that lies ahead in the missionary fields. "The sun never sets on the work. Japan, China, Korea, the West Indies, Africa and India are calling. May God keep us humble in spirit for we are the trustees who hold and use all the resources available. We must give this task of trusteeship our finest if we are to win men and women for the Lord," Dr. Jones concluded.

The Reverend Don Amos, minister of the church, was in charge of the service and was assisted by the Reverend C. A. Perkins, Holloway Street Church and the Rev. F. R. Harback, minister of Tabernacle United Church. Principal Dr. Bert Howard, of Albert College, prior to introducing the Moderator, expressed regret at the inability to be present through family illness of the Chairman of the College Board of Governors, Mr. T. B. Warriner.

Beat Communism By American Aid Says Minister

Salonika, Greece, April 21 (AP)—Foreign Minister Constantin Tsaldaris told his countrymen yesterday, that American aid would defeat Communism in Greece and said the world now realized the nature of the struggle Greece has had to wage.

Tsaldaris said that five points proved the wisdom of Greece's policies since the monarchists regained control last March:

1. The recent assertion by Winston Churchill that Prime Minister Stalin at Potsdam had demanded Salonika or Alexandroupolis as Russian bases.

2. Recognition by the United States State Department that a lack of security prevent reconstruction of Greece and action by the United Nations Security Council in creating the Balkan investigating commission.

3. President Truman's speech March 19 asserting that Greece was threatened with totalitarianism.

4. Evidence before the U. N. Balkan Commission that Greece's northern neighbors wished to seize Macedonia and Thrace.

5. The Security Council's decision to maintain frontier observers along the northern Greek border.

Former English Teacher Tells Of School System

The Belleville Women Teachers' Association held their monthly meeting at the Y.M.C.A., Wednesday night. There were twenty-nine members present.

A committee was formed to do some research work on the local history. The executive was placed in charge of arrangements for the Regional Conference which is to be held in Belleville early in May.

The teachers were pleased to learn that Miss Bernice Blue is the President of the Primary Section of the Ontario Educational Association Miss Norma Arkley and Miss Grace Houston are also representatives on the council of the Primary Section.

Following the business a musical contest called "Signs of Spring" was conducted by Miss Houston and Miss Hillis

Talks on School System

Miss Hart the president introduced the speaker of the evening Mrs. Hitchon who was a teacher in England prior to coming to Canada as a war bride.

Mrs. Hitchon gave the teachers a splendid talk comparing the English school system with that of Canada. In England children may commence school at the age of two although attendance is not compulsory until the child is five years old.

For six years they attend a primary school. At the age of eleven they are required to try an examination in English, arithmetic and general knowledge Those who pass go to the Grammar School which is comparable to our Collegiates. If they fail they attend a Modern Secondary School until they are fourteen. At fourteen they are ready to be employed in factories.

Mrs. Hitchon mentioned that there are no one-room schools in England. She also told of the open-air schools which are theoretically so healthful but practically—so impossible.

Discipline Stricter

Discipline in England is much stricter than Canada. There are no "bobby-soxers". The teenagers and merely growing children. They wear a school uniform and no one hesitates to report a child to the school Head for misbehaving on the streets, in cinemas or in any public place

In closing Mrs. Hitchon charmed her listeners with a character sketch in Lancashire dialect of a typical pupil she had taught in order to show the large amount of responsibility children in England must assume.

Miss Grills thanked Mrs. Hitchon for her splendid contribution to the program.

Unique Wager Paid by Loser After the Game

It wasn't a riot, and it wasn't a dog fight. Traffic was held up for some length of time while a group of young men enjoyed the strange scene.

Centre of the near-midnight episode at the Front-Bridge Street intersection Saturday night, was a red-faced young man who had emerged on the losing end of an unique wager on the Toronto Maple Leafs - Montreal Canadiens Stanley Cup series.

It appears that two young men had wagered on the respective teams, the loser to get down on all fours and blow a cigarette across the main street near the intersection.

So being a good sport, he proceeded to pay the wager. He puffed and he blew, then he blew and he puffed. At a rate of speed that was near maddening in its slowness, the cigarette was slowly propelled across the street. Traffic was held up and a large crowd gathered to watch the fun.

Finally the last desperate gust came through pursed lips and the loser staggered to his feet with a wide grin on ruddy cheeks.

Two Picton Men Escape Injury In Car Crash

Two young Picton men, John J. Stewart and Douglas Porter, miraculously escaped injury Sunday evening when the car in which they were riding went out of control following sudden application of brakes and turned end-over-end on the highway.

The accident occurred just east of the city on Highway No. 2. According to Provincial Police who investigated the accident, the car driven by Stewart was proceeding west on the highway near the end of the four-lane road. Apparently travelling at a high rate of speed the car went out of control when the brakes were applied, the vehicle rolling across the boulevard to come to rest on its side on the south lane of the highway.

Butter Rationing Likely to End Sometime in June

Ottawa, April 21 —(CP)— Increasing support for reports that butter rationing may soon end in Canada — probably in June — came last night with disclosure that the Dominion's butter supplies were 16,000,000 pounds above the stocks on hand at this time last year.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics said that March suppiies of butter, including total stocks at the beginning of the month, imports and the month's production, totalled 43,000,000 pounds, compared with 27,000,000 pounds in March last year.

The bureau said, too, that production of creamery butter rose two per cent in March, totalling 12,076,000 pounds, compared with 11,839,000 in March, 1946, and the total make for the first quarter of this year was 1.2 per cent ahead of last year, totalling 30,557,000 pounds.

Production Cycle Factor.

With this favorable supply position as the country goes into the summer period of increasing butter production, it was believed the government would take the responsibility to lift the butter ration, probably in June, the month of the highest make. Should the ration not be dropped this summer, authorities would be forced to await another production cycle, since the ration could not suddenly be abolished during the low-production winter months.

At present the butter ration is six ounces per person per week.

Reports that the butter ration would end this summer were current last week, along with the belief that an increase of 10 cents a pound or more would be allowed in the retail butter prices if the current 10-per-cent subsidy on butter-fat is dropped April 30. This stemmed from a Commons statement by Agriculture Minister Gardiner that there would be no reduction in the return to the farmer should the subsidy be dropped, and it was believed the difference would be made up by a butter price increase.

Farm Labor Scarce.

In the matter of production, the Bureau of Statistics had one word of caution to offer, however. It said, though the feed supply outlook "is reasonably satisfactory," there is a shortage of labor, with fewer cows for milking purposes, and added:

"If this situation continues, it will have an adverse effect on milk production during the coming season."

Fluid milk sales in February totalled 284,776,000 pounds, a decline of two per cent from last year, while fluid cream sales registered a more pronounced decrease. Total sales of milk and cream were 331,612,000 pounds, a reduction of approximately 10,000,000 pounds from last year.

HELD ON MANSLAUGHTER COUNT IN DEATH OF SON

Bath, Me., April 21 — (AP) — Mrs. Stella Mae Cressey, 20, was held today on a manslaughter charge which police said resulted from the fatal scalding of her son, Frank, Jr., in a pail at their home Saturday. The boy, one of the Cressey's four children, died yesterday of third-degree burns.

Montreal Men Arrested After $45,000 Robbery

Windsor, Ont., April 21 —(CP) — Two Montreal men were arrested today in a downtown Brant Street house and held for Quebec Provincial Police in connection with a $45,000 burglary early Saturday at the offices of the Theodore Phoenix Flour Mills, Ltd., in St. Hyacinthe, Que.

Police said the two are Leo Paul Lombert, 47, and Peter Stepenoff, 28.

The pair were arrested after police received a tip as to their whereabouts.

Police said Lombert had about $1,400 cash, Stepenoff about $135.

The flour mill loot — $40,000 in bonds and $5,000 in cash — was taken after thieves gained entry to a strong-room by digging a three-foot-square hole in a cement wall.

New York, April 21 — (AP) — Elmer Patrick Gargan spent $15 last night to get word to his wife in suburban White Plains that he had missed the last train home and it was "worth every penny of it," he said.

Gargan couldn't call his wife directly because of the telephone strike, so he telephoned his aunt, Mrs. James McCann, explained the situation and had her call Mrs. Gargan.

Calls get through fine to Mrs. McCann; she lives in Tomebridge, County Antrim, Eire.

Havana, April 21 — (AP)—Cuban police today blamed an open water valve in the engine room of the yacht Satira—aboard which Chicago lawyer John Lester Mee was fatally wounded April 8—for almost causing the craft to founder at her mooring here yesterday. How the valve was opened was not immediately explained.

SAYS MORE CRITICISM NEEDED

Ithaca, N.Y., April 21 —(AP)— Newspapers, radio and motion pictures should give themselves more criticism, says Dr. Robert Leigh, staff director of a privately financed commission which reported recently on freedom of the press. Leigh, who spoke Saturday night at a Cornell University dinner, added that newspapers, radio and motion pictures were "the greatest uncriticized powers" in the United States.

POLICEMAN MEANT IT

Cambridge, Mass, April 19— (AP)—Patrolman Arthur McCarthy meant it yesterday when he told a man "your slip is showing."

Ashes of Goering And 10 Other Nazis Dumped into River Isar by Four Generals, Reliable Sources Say

Munich, April 21 (Reuters) — The bodies of Hermann Goering and the 10 other top Nazis who were hanged at Nuernberg last October were cremated, the ashes thrown together into an army garbage can, and then dumped into the River Isar near here by four Allied generals, reliable sources said last night.

The generals representing Britain, the United States, France and Russia, permitted no aides or assistants to accompany them, and kept secret the spot where, before daybreak on a cold, crisp morning, the last scene of the drama was played.

After the execution two army trucks were loaded within the Nuernberg prison yard on the morning of Oct. 16 with 12 unpainted boxes, 11 of which contained the bodies. The 12th was merely weighted. This apparently was to mislead suspicious Germans.

Coffins Opened

The drivers were told to travel fast, but "at all costs" to avoid any accident which might delay their mission.

Accompanying the secret convoy were jeeps carrying American soldiers armed with tommy-guns and two army motor cars containing four generals as official observers.

Military police met the convoy at Munich at 8:30 a.m. and escorted it to the crematorium in Ostfriedhof civilian cemetery in East Munich. The boxes were piled three high on the floor of the crematorium.

All German crematorium workers were ordered to leave the room, and at the request of the Russian and British generals the boxes containing Goering and Wilhelm Keitel, former chief of the German High Command, were opened by an American officer.

The Soviet representative looked in both boxes and pinched the cheek of Goering, the suicide, to satisfy himself that the No. 2 Nazi was really dead, according to this source.

The lids were replaced and two members of the United States graves registration units were called into the room to begin the task of burning the caskets.

Urns Unused

As soon as the boxes containing Goering and Keitel had gone into the oven, the four generals left the building, leaving a United States officer in charge.

Shortly before midnight the generals returned. The bodies had been reduced to ashes

One general suggested that it would be easier to dispose of the ashes in one common vessel than 11 small containers. So the remains of all 11 were poured into a convenient army garbage can.

The generals put the unpainted can in the back seat of an unmarked black German sedan bearing the characteristic orange Bavarian licence plates. They drove to the River Isar and dumped the remains in the swift-flowing river.

Eleven small metal urns which stood prominently in the crematorium were later picked up by a United States officer and removed. But they were empty, and had never contained the ashes of the Nazis.

Following the singing of the first hymn, the Last Post and Reveille were sounded by Comrade G. Brooks and the Two Minutes Silence observed.

H. & S. Association

The monthly meeting of the Marmbora Home and School Association was held in the Public Marmora Home and Public School on Friday evening, April 18th, with Mrs. H. Rennie presiding over an attendance of approximately 100. In the absence of the Secretary, Mrs. R. E. Bonter read the minutes of the March meeting which were approved. The treasurer's report presented by Mrs. J. W. Hickey, showed a favorable balance on hand. H. H. Sabine reported for the committee attending the Old Boys' Reunion meeting and W. J. Cottrell, convener of the Publicity Committee reported on literature received and distributed. E. C. Prentice asked for the co-operation of members, whereby shrubs might be planted and the grounds of the school levelled to make the same present a more attractive appearance. The president then announced that the next open meeting would be held on May 12th and the next executive meeting on April 23rd.

Seven scholars of the Public School under direction of Miss Rea Stringer, then sang Brahmn's "Lullaby" and "The Old Lamplighter."

Speaks on Denmark Visit

Rev. E. M. Cadigan then introduced the guest speaker of the evening Rev. Paul Christiansen of Springbrook who spoke on "Denmark as I Saw it". The speaker spoke on experiences and observations made in his native land in which he spent two months a year.

He noticed little physical damage to the country but he discerned that damage had been done to the minds of the people through persecution and fear. He extolled the Scandinavian form of government a collectivism which was not Communism. He mentioned that when he was in Denmark there were 200,000 German refugees there, many of them children. Although the number was now reduced by 20,000 the problem of dealing with the others was a stiff one for his country.

Attended Memorial Service

Mr. Christiansen also told of a memorial service for fallen airmen at which he had given the address, and other interesting incidents in connection therewith. The trip home on the Gripsholm furnished him with the opportunity to converse with some of a party of 300 Jews who showed the results of tortures they had been submitted to.

He eulogized Canadian citizenship and made the striking remark that he thought Canada must be the experimental country of God Himself. The speaker was accorded a hearty vote of thanks for his interesting address which was interspersed with humorous anecdotes. The attendance of parents and grandparents was taken according to rooms. Three new members joined the association to raise the membership to fifty-four.

History of W.A. Given.

The congregation of St. Paul's Church assembled in the Parish Hall on Sunday for morning prayer which was conducted by the rector, Rev. J. M. Brownlie. In keeping with all other churches in the Diocese of Ontario, the rector's address dealt with the history and objects of the Woman's Auxiliary founded in 1885. In the course of his remarks he touched upon the two texts identified with their organization, "She hath done what she could" and "The love of Christ constraineth." The hymn of that name was sung while the offertory was being taken, it being the W.A.'s special hymn.

Royal Princess 21 Years Old

The Princess Elizabeth, now 21 years of age, is the object of the prayers of millions of persons in the British Commonwealth and in other lands. This eventful occasion, the marking of the 21st birthday, occurs during the tour of the Royal Family in South Africa where one of the greatest royal tours of all history is nearing its close.

The British Princesses, Princess Elizabeth and Princess Margaret Rose, are most popular young ladies and have won acclamation wherever they have gone with their parents, the King and the Queen.

Science vs. Nature in Africa

The United Kingdom Government has recently announced a plan for converting three and a quarter million acres of waterless, fly-infested African land into a healthy farming region in five years. This land is to produce 600,000 tons of vegetable oil-seeds a year. The cost to the United Kingdom will be about $102,000,000.

There are three benefits to this imaginative scheme. To the Africans it will mean social and economic progress on a scale and at a rate that only the widespread application of scientific agricultural methods can make possible. This requires a large investment of capital. A complete break with the uncapitalised subsistence farming hitherto practised by the Africans is the only means of producing sufficient wealth from the country to give the people the standard of living necessary for progress and self-government. Welfare measures are an integral part of the scheme and include the building of new villages to house the workers and to serve as centres for the spread of modern standards of housing, health and nutrition. To Britain the plan will bring relief for her fat and oil shortage. To the world as a whole it will mean an important step towards the United Nations Food and Agricultural Organization's goal of a world free from want.

This is primarily a scheme for Africa. In the initial stages the undertaking will be managed by the United Africa Company. As soon as practicable it will be handed over to the local governments and it is intended that it shall be controlled by the Africans themselves.

The areas concerned in the present scheme are in Kenya, Tangányika, and Northern Rhodesia. The construction of railroads, ports, and roads, the eradication of the tsetse-fly and the development of the water supplies are all involved in the propect. And its success is seen as likely to have a profound effect upon the economy and the living standards of far wider regions.

Clean-up

The city has begun operation spring clean-up. After a winter roads and boulevards do not look as trim as they did in the autumn before the snowfall. Where all the grime and dirt came from people wonder. Or is it that the sight of snow for so long makes one look for everything to be spotless. The appearance of the public works men on the clean up job is a suggestion to many a citizen soon to become as active on the little plot of land which is his domain and sees to it that the backyard is worth looking over for its cleanliness. Backyards are not what they used to be. Garbage collection has been very effective in making for cleaner communities.

Fortunately many people take special delight in making their lawn and boulevard look a little better than might be. They take a little extra care and the result shows for it makes all the difference in the world.

Coming of the growing season brings a job that gets to be irksome to many, the work of mowing. Just now or just ahead is the time for the raking which precedes the growth of the grass and the mowing.

A New London is Being Born

Three great reconstruction schemes from which a new London will emerge were discussed and adopted recently by the London County Council. These constitute the first steps towards full implementation of the County of London Plan—prepared by Sir Patrick Abercrombie, Britain's noted town planning expert. The object of the plan is to co-ordinate all building and development projects into an architectural unity which will ensure that the regeneration of London's bomb-shattered areas shall take a pleasing and dignified shape worthy of the world's largest capital city. The first project is the construction of a river wall between Westminster and Waterloo Bridges as a prelude to the development and replanning of the South Bank of the Thames. The second project calls for the redevelopment of some 49 acres at Elephant and Castle at a cost of £4,000,000 in order to speed the flow of traffic at one of London's most congested points. Another of London's busiest road junctions is also being replanned and this is catered for by the third project which proposes a half-mile-long viaduct at Hammersmith.

Grow Fish in Manmade Sea

For the past five years, United Kingdom scientists have been experimenting with the mass production of fish in a man-made sea, in the hope of bringing more food to the empty tables of Britain and the Continent. They are speeding up nature's cycle by fertilizing th esea-water with chemicals. The results have been dramatic. Some fish are growing at twice their narmal rate, and sometimes even more quickly. A loch on the west coast of Scotland has been dammed off to provide an enclosed experimental area, and the water is fertilized by the continual addition of nitrogen and phosphorous, which cause the small sea plants on which fish feed to grow in greater abundance. In the fertilized water, fish reach a marketable size in three years instead of the normal size. Once operations can be extended to a really large field, it is expected that the fish market will be doubled.

Lesson For Canada

During the late war Canadians learned something of a neighbor usually somewhat neglected. Members of the Canadian Club of London had an opportunity to find out something more about the same neighbor—Greenland—from Dr. Trevor Lloyd, who told about the huge island and his experiences there when he served as Canadian consul during the war.

One lesson from his talk is the amount Canadians can learn from the Danes in regard to development of our Arctic population. There is no reason to believe that Canadian Eskimos are any less intelligent or gifted than their neighbors in Greenland. But certainly they are not securing the same opportunities for development that the Greenlanders are.

The joint Parliamentary commission investigating Indian affairs in Canada has already decided that an Eskimo is an Indian, as far as they are concerned. Perhaps they might go further and discover that both Indians and Eskimos are human beings with much the same capabilities as the rest of use, and that the country would be better off if they were given an opportunity to develop them.—London Free Press.

Indian Place-Names

When Spring comes to B.C. I envy the little mountain streams that break through their icy barriers and set out on the wild chase to the sea. I usually think first of the Illecillewaet, tumbling out of the Silkirks with such gay abandon at Revelstoke.

Surely no other stream in the world has such a musical name. It's hard to spell, and hard to pronounce . . . until you get the know-how . . but when you get used to it, the syllables ripple off your tongue like icy water rippling over the mountain pebbles.

For those who like their place-names harsh, there is a wider selection. Spuzzum is a dandy, There are scores of others, if you care to look for them, such as Kispiox and Qualicum, Squilax and Kokance. — Vancouver Province.

JOURNEY'S BEST

"What pleased you best throughout your trip?"
A loved one asked of me.
"It's good," said I "from care to slip
And light of heart to be,
But every time that I have strayed
To mountain, plain or shore,
The best of every journey made
Was getting home once more."

The moon upon the palms at night
Is beautiful to see.
There's always grandeur to delight
Whate'er the place may be;
But though I've been this land around
My courage to restore,
The best of every trip, I've found,
Was getting home once more.

'Tis wholesome wearied nerves to rest
And good new friends to find,
But home with all it holds is best,
For there is peace of mind,
And there are smiles I long to see
As open swings the door,
And so the best of joys for me
Is getting home once more.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BY-GONE YEARS.

20 YEARS AGO

April 21st, 1927

Building operations for the new Collegiate and Vocational School are expected to commence soon. The architect, J. Arnold Thompson, is waiting for final approval of the Railway and Municipal Board and this should be received shortly. The Bogart cottage will be moved to the south west corner of the property will be put in condition for the caretaker's residence. The tender of W. M. Morton for this work has been accepted and J. B. Ives and George Deline have been given the contracts to demolish the John Taylor brick house and the old stone school house directly behind the present building. The main entrance to the new building will face west instead of east as was at first decided.

At an early hour this morning Massey Hall at Albert College was destroyed by fire; nothing but a portion of the bare walls remains. It was a beautiful building and its destruction is a severe blow to the faculty and students at this old established seat of learning. The fire was discovered by James Doran, who resides on the south side of College Street facing the college. The building was commenced in 1895 and was opened in January, 1896. It cost $20,000.00; of this amount Mr. Hart A. Massey of Toronto gave $10,000.00 and the college board raised the balance. The loss on buildings and contents is estimated at $50,000.00. The building was insured for $16,000.00, the contents $1,006,000 and the pipe organ $2,000.00. The principal, the Rev. E. N. Baker lost some valuable papers.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

Why are glasses clinked before drinking toasts?

Two theories have been advanced to explain the origin of the custom of touching glasses before drinking healths. The first and more probable traces the custom to the ancient practice of pouring wine from one drinking vessel into the other to guard against treachery by the person offering the drink.

In those days strangers were suspicious of one another and all men were regarded as enemies in the absence of proof to the contrary. When a person was offered wine he would pour a little of the contents into the host's glass to make sure that the drink was not poisoned. The host gladly accepted the challenge to demonstrate his friendliness and he and his guest would therefore take the first sip simultaneously. Thus though originally denoting mistrust, the exchange became an act expressive of mutual confidence. In time the original reason for the practice was forgotten and it degenerated into merely clinking the glasses and then drinking together.

The second and less probable theory holds that the custom originated among the Jacobites of England after the flight of James II in 1688. For several generations the Stuart sympathizers were numerous, and military atfamily of the British throne were family o the British throne were made in 1690, 1715 and 1745.

The Jacobites had to be secretive about their attachment to the Stuarts. Frequently on social occasions they were called upon to drink the sovereign's health. It was understood among them that "the King," "the Queen," "his Majesty" and "her Majesty" did not refer to the reigning sovereign, but to the Stuart pretender "over the water," that is, across the Channel to France. To symbolize attachment to the King "over the water" they passed their wine glasses over the finger bowls before drinking the health of the sovereign. When the significance of the practice was discovered finger bowls were abolished from the banquet table. But the symbolism was so well established by that time that the Jacobites hereafter merely passed one wine glass over another or touched the bottom of one glass to the rim of another. The present custom of clinking the glasses together before drinking a toast is a relic of this old Jacobite practice, according to this elaborate theory concocted to explain the custom. Finger bowls, it is said, were not restored to the official banquet table in England until the accession of Edward VII in 1901.

SON OF DUCE SAID LIVING ON ESTATE IN ARGENTINA

Buenos Aires, April 21 — (AP) — The newspaper El Mundo said last night that Vittorio Mussolini, son of the late Duce, arrived in Argentina last January aboard the Pànamanian ship Filipe under the name of Carlo Batero. This account added that he now was living in a country estate in the province of Santa Fe which he bought some time ago.

BEAR OPENS CANS OF CONDENSED MILK

Cebu, Philippine Island, April 21 (AP)—The British minelaying cruiser Manxman, on tour of the Philippines, was thrown open to the public yesterday, but the ship's mascot attracted more attention than anything else aboard.

Canadian Farmers Loaned Nearly $10 Millions in '46

Ottawa, April 21 —(CP)— Nearly $10,000,000 was loaned to Canadian farmers under the Farm Improvement Loans Act in 1946, the government reported today.

Finance Minister Abbott tabled in the Commons a report of the first full year of operation of a measure designed primarily to assist the average farmer who "in the past has not always been able to obtain bank credit" to improve his property.

The report showed that 13,030 farmers, more than 10,000 of them in the three Prairie Provinces, obtained loans valued at $9,880,565 last year and that no banks had made any claims on the government to recover losses.

Loans are made through the 3,100 branches of the chartered banks for the improvement and development of farms and for the improvement of living conditions on farms. The interest rate is five per cent simple interest per annum, and loans may be made for periods up to 10 years.

Farm implements and farm trucks accounted for $7,488,347 of loans made during 1946. The loans represented an actual sales volume of approximately $12,580,000. From information available it was reasonable to assume that practically all farm implement sales in Canada requiring financing were being financed either through loans obtainable under the act or through regular bank loans. The report said that the result should be a substantial saving to the farmer, not only in the purchase price of his farm implements but also in finance charges and interest rates previously prevailing for this type of financing.

This table breaks down the number of loans and their amounts by provinces:

	Number	Amount
Alberta	4,798	$3,338,115
Saskatchewan	4,075	3,140,157
Manitoba	1,928	1,397,539
Ontario	1,443	1,369,371
Br. Columbia..	467	313,706
Quebec	193	146,639
Nova Scotia ..	76	55,617
N. Brunswick .	42	34,541

Auto Workers Resume Talks On Wage Hike

Detroit, April 21. (AP)—Faced with a 15-cent wage increase pattern shaping up in American industry, the United Automobile Workers (C.I.O.) resumed negotiations with General Motors and Chrysler today on demands for a 23 1-2 cent boost.

Union spokesmen would not indicate whether the United Steelworkers' (C.I.O.) acceptance of a 15-cent offer would affect the auto workers' negotiations.

U.A.W. President Walter Reuthere has termed a G.M. offer of 15 cents "unsatisfactory."

He will preside tomorrow at a meeting of the Union's 22-man executive board, which was recessed in New York last week at the time of the settlement between G.M. and the United Electrical Workers (C.I.O.), also for 15 cents.

The Union's G.M. Department, of which Reuther is co-director, will hold its national conference Wednesday. Both meetings will be held here.

Labor observerse recalled that last year, even after the prolonged G.M. Strike, the U.A.W. settled for 18 1-2 cents, the same figure that the steel and electrical workers had accepted earlier.

Hon. Paul Martin Criticizes Remark Of John Bracken

London, Ont., April 21. (CP) —Scoring a statement by Progressive Conservative Leader John Bracken made recently that the government should "tend to its own knitting, Hon. Paul Martin, Minister of Health of Welfare, and Liberal member of Parliament for Essex East, told a group of young London Liberals at a luncheon Saturday that the opposition Leader's remarks indicated the "incapacity of the man to be the first minister of the King in this country."

With the exception of three statesmen, whom he did not name, Mr. Martin said no world figure had the prestige and respect in the eyes of other countries that Prime Minister King enjoyed.

Lauding the leadership of the Prime Minister which he said had taken Canada to new heights, Mr. Martin declared the country now stands in the strongest financial and economic position in its history.

HOW MANY HO URS ASLEEP?

Eight hours of sleep may be harmless enough if you work or play or exercise vigorously enough every day to make eight hours of sleep necessary for repair of wear and tear and, if you are still young, for growth and development. But if you are a mature adult and live by your wits or as a parasite or a white collar or clerical worker, you still need eight hours of REST in each twenty-four hours, but it need not necessarily be sleep. Six or seven hours of sleep is enough for any one; the other hour or two of rest may be taken as you like—walking, dancing, reading, listening to the radio, playing rummy, watching a ball game or catching up with your letter-writing.

We ought to apply common sense and reasoning to this question of how much sleep we need. It is dumb to follow any old rule about it.

Of course infants should sleep most of the time. Children require long hours of sleep because they are not only burning up a lot of fuel by their incessant physical activity when awake but they are growing and developing and that takes a good deal of energy. A child may do a fair job of repair of wear and tear and grow and develop fairly well even though he or she sleeps less than normal children to, but as a rule the child who is extraordinarily wakeful as a matter of habit should have the benefit of a medical examination, in order to detect any physical or constitutional malady that may be developing.

There is no reason why one should sleep with head toward north or south. Every one should assume whatever posture he likes for sleeping. People who sleep flat on the back may find a thin pillow under the knees more comfortable than overextension of the knees.

In all circumstances the lighter the covers, with due regard for comfort, the better, for infant, child or adult, invalid or well.

There is no objection to raising the foot or the head of the bed several inches if desired.

A great many people, invalids and well people, would enjoy better sleep and find themselves more refreshed mornings if they would get rid of or destroy the old sagging, bulging, uneven mattress and invest in a new one. If such investment in comfort is beyond one's means, it is possible in some instances to improve the old sagging bed a lot by placing a wide board crosswise on the side rails under the mattress.

Sleep with two pillows or none, or with a very thin one or a very fat one, as you prefer. It has nothing to do with your brain, heart, circulation, spine or breathing—only your comfort.

Sleep alone. Sleeping partners disturb each other and are much more likely to share any communicable disease either may have, than are two persons sleeping in separate or twin beds or in separate rooms.

As already implied, the amount of sleep an individual needs depends largely upon the amount of physical work, play or exercise he or she does.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

At Least It Does No Harm

A note from one of those "vacant minds" you mentioned....I, too, wasted two semesters applying vaseline to eyelids in the vain hope of acquiring those sweeping lashes, but finally wakened to the fact that it has only nuisance value. I do believe that I am in much finer fettle since I began fortifying my breakfast with the vitamins and minerals you recommend in "Young Folks and Old Folks," and I think it has helped the growth of my hair. Anyway long life to you.

(Mrs. B. V. W.)

Answer—Thank you, Ma'am. Both nails and hair grow poorly when vite is lacking. Supplementing the deficient diet with thiamine, riboflavin and D, calcium phosphorus and iodine, generally builds vite. Any reader may obtain the pamphlet Young Folks and Old Folks by asking for it in writing and inclosing stamped self addressed envelope.

I have found that I get the best results by eliminating carbohydrate and confining my eating to the proteins, as much as possible. Hardening of the arteries is due to accumulation of....carbon in our food hardens the arteries just like starch hardens the clothes, or has the same effect as in stalling an automobile engine.

(M. A. H.)

Answer—You're briefing me? I'm sorry, Counsellor, but your ideas are plumb ridiculous. I haven't space to tell you why live but you might like to send 25c and a stamped envelope bearing your address, and let me send you the booklet CVD, dealing with what you say you have. Looking Ahead in Ottawa

By The Ottawa Staff of The Canadian Press

Ottawa, April 21 (CP) — The second post-war batch of Polish soldiers to be brought to Canada for farm labor is expected by government officials to arrive late next month. The tight Atlantic shipping situation may set back the date slightly but in any case it is expected they will land in good time for summer work on the farms.

This time, the screening will be more thorough than that of the last movement. That time, the winnowing-out process was conducted in Italy, where full facilities, such as medical equipment, were not available. One result was that some 70 of the 2,900 men turned up with tuberculosis when they were X-rayed on arrival.

The new group of 1,100 will be selected from Poles in Britain. The scrutiny will be "rigid" according to officials here, with particular attention to the medical aspect and aptitude for farm work.

Labor: In the making for more than six months, the government's new federal labor code will be ready for unveiling before parliament in about a fortnight. In the words of one high official, the bill will be a "middle-of-the-road" measure.

For instance, some employers have been exerting pressure for elimination of the closed shop and for legislating unions into financial responsibility for the employers' losses through unauthorized strikes. These are not included in the bill.

On the other hand, labor's right to strike—or even to call a strike vote—will be restricted until after a board of conciliation has reported on disputes in those industries coming under the code.

Wallace Attacks Churchill View On Disarmament

Copenhagen, April 21 —(AP)— Henry A. Wallace, here for a speaking engagement today, voiced disagreement last night with Winston Churchill's contention that British-American disarmament would bring on a third world war, and declared that "a harmonious economic approach is the road to peace."

"I have faith that what can be accomplished at the international trade conference in Geneva will have more effect than the great increase in armaments, which is what Churchill suggests," Wallace told reporters after they had read him the text of Churchill's statement in London.

The former Prime Minister had contended that another war "is not inevitable, but it would be inevitable if Britain and the United States were to follow the policy of appeasement and one-sided disarmament which brought about the last war."

"One of the causes of World War II," Wallace countered, "was the failure of the United States to act as a creditor nation must act after World War I. When the United States required foreign nations to pay war debts it was inevitable that these debtor nations in despair should engage in activities endangering the road to peace.

"I disagree fundamentally," Wallace continued, "with those who say the last war was caused by our failure to arm. It was caused by our failure to understand economic needs and relationships. I feel if we follow the path of heavy armaments a high percentage of the effort of Britain and the United States will be kept from producing needed goods. A shortage of goods and the trade barriers involved would do more to bring about war than anything else.

"While armaments mean temporary prosperity, in the long run it brings a worse depression. I am confident Russia does not want to have the percentage of her manpower devoted to armament and would welcome a sufficient measure of disarmament to turn more effectively to building up a shattered economy. I am confident it can be a planned economy worked out among Russia, Britain and the United States."

Oil-Field Leader Masterly Showman

Port of Spain, Trinidad (CP) —After years of wartime inactivity, Tubal Uriah Butler, flamboyant, bearded leader of thousands of Trinidad oil-field workers and self-styled "Chief Servant" of the British Empire Workers and Citizens Home Rule party, is back in the news of this colony.

By his actions the dark-skinned politician and labor leader is known to all Trinidadians although the man himself is hardly ever seen except when addressing a meeting of his followers in his high-pitched, emotional voice.

Some of his opponents call him a religious leader also because at political meetings he often expounds teachings which they claim are inspired by Father Divine, American Negro cult leader.

Butler always opens his meetings with the mass singing of "Lead Kindly Light" and he usually leads the singing himself with Bible in hand. In a political emergency he has been known to raise his hand and ask for prayers and mass hymn singing.

And he loves showmanship.

When police were making an island-wide search for him following riots by his oil-field workers in which a policeman was killed, Butler disappeared but soon after gave himself up with a flourish.

He communicated with the police saying he would arrive in Port of Spain on a certain day and at a certain hour. At the appointed time he drove into town in an impressive-looking open car, bade farewell to his followers, and then bowed politely into the custody of waiting policemen.

Newsmen in the city, who have followed his activities closely, report Butler is more of an emotional person with great insistence for what he considers his basic rights rather than a political leader.

PROSPECTS BRIGHT

Edmonton (CP)—O. S. Longman, deputy minister of agriculture for Alberta, says that farm labor conditions in the province this year appear satisfactory. Mr. Longman is also chairman of the Dominion-Provincial farm labor Board for Alberta.

U.S. Govt. May be Out Half Billion Or More as Result of Black Market Operations Overseas

Washington, April 21 (AP)— Losses to the United States government through money operations connected with black marketing overseas by military personnel may exceed $500,000,000.

This estimate—a figure double that which the British treasury recently announced it has suffered—was made today by a government official with access to much but not all such information. He emphasized that this is an estimate and referred reporters to the War Department. There the officially stated answer said only:

"Some United States military and civilian personnel overseas did participate in certain extra-legal sales in Germany of personal governmental or other dollar-acquired supplies during and after the war. These are commonly referred to as black market transactions.

"Today, the United States Army has a 'long' position in German marks which under present policy it is disposing of by normal processes. The present holdings do not, however, exceed future contemplated expenditures."

The War Department's statement that the accumulation ("lon" position) of marks does not exceed future needs indicates the American Army does not expect to get stuck with more of the German currency than it can spend. The loss therefore apparently will be the difference between the higher official rate of the mark and its actual buying power.

At the beginning of the major black market operations in 1945, the money profit methods were comparatively simple:

A soldier sold material for payment in inflated marks, then redeemed this in dollars by sending home a postal money order, bought in Germany with marks but payable in dollars.

When the army clamped restrictions on the postal money order system of conversion, a variety of plans arose.

One example was the ordering of flowers for relatives at home. The flowers were paid for abroad in marks and a hurried advisory note was sent to the relative. This person then visited the florist and asked him to substitute cash for the flowers, keeping a portion of the credit for himself.

The British government estimated last week a loss of about $240,000,000 as a result of money operations in European black markets by British servicemen during the last two years.

PROOF OF GRATITUDE

Chicago, April 21 (AP)— Patrolman Mike Brosnan has received a $5 payment he never expected.

About a year ago he lent that amount to a man who played a violin for handouts on the near North Side. Yesterday he received a letter from New York with the bill enclosed. The writer said he now is running a successful music school in New York.

31 Persons Await Trial For Killings at Buchenwald

By GUY BETTANY

Munich, (Reuters)—Men and women with ghastly records are among leading S.S. men and others who will shortly stand trial before a United States military court at Dachau.

For months three American officers have been collecting evidence against the accused. They have heard hundreds of witnesses from every country in Europe, many now occupying important positions, who were prisoners in Buchenwald.

Most of the victims who survived have suffered permanently in health. In the main they are free from hatred and desire for revenge, but when confronted with their former torturers many have great difficulty in suppressing their emotions.

Officers responsible for the prosecution are the chief prosecutor, William D. Denson, Robert L. Kunzig, and Salomon Surowitz.

Thirty-one principal accused are charged with violation of laws and usages of war in their treatment of Allied subjects, including Americans, Britons, Russians, Poles, French, Norwegians, Greeks, Yugoslavs and Belgians. They are accused of carrying out killings, beatings, tortures, starvation, abuses and indignities.

The prisoners comprise almost all who were responsible for running the concentration camp at Buchenwald, the missing few being mostly dead. Among the dead is camp commandant Koch, who ruled Buchenwald for many years and whose 40-year-old widow, Ilse Koch, or "Lampshade Ilse", is the only woman prisoner.

March of Death

Prinz Zu Waldeck was the military officer in charge of the district in which Buchenwald was situated; it was he who a few days before the arrival of American troops ordered the evacuation of the prisoners, a measure that resulted in the death of thousands.

Piester, Koch's successor as camp commandant, is a typical S.S. officer who in general matters carried out the orders given him from above and made his subordinates responsible for the maltreatment of the prisoners.

Ilse Koch, the former commandant's widow took part in the control of the camp and personally assisted in the beating and torturing of prisoners.

Her specialty was the collection of human skins, which she used for making lamp shades. She had a collection of lamp shades and used to talk about the history of the prisoners from whom the skins were taken. If she saw a particularly fine piece of tattooing on a prisoner she did not hesitate, it is alleged, to have the skin removed from the unhappy owner while he was still alive.

Another prisoner is 60-year-old Jewish doctor, whose activities in Buchenwald are notorious. A doctor in Leipzig, he went in 1905 to America, where he married and was later divorced. He claims American citizenship. He was arrested by the Gestapo in France in 1943. Sent to Buchenwald, he was appointed doctor of the so-called Little Camp where he is alleged to have sent thousands of prisoners to their graves either through experiment or neglect.

ENJOYS CLIMBING LOFTY MOUNTAINS

He accompanied the expedition which attained to within 850 feet of the top of 29,000-foot Mount Everest in 1935, after six weeks' struggle. The same year he was with the expedition that reached the top of 12,250-foot Watkins Peak in Greenland.

Longland, on a visit here, said lack of oxygen and the bitter cold prevented the party from reaching Everest's peak. In the Greenland trek there had been no time to train huskies and party members hauled their own sleds 130 miles across three mountain ranges.

At present he is county education officer for Dorset, England.

15 Fatalities In East Canada During Weekend

(By The Canadian Press)

A double murder at Pancake Bay in Northern Ontario, five traffic accidents, five drownings and two suspected suicides contributed a toll of 15 fatalities in Eastern Canada during the weekend. It was a tragic contrast to the previous weekend when but three deaths were recorded.

The murder of Mrs. Frederick Rupert and her two-year-old son, discovered by her husband on his return from a shopping trek to Sault Ste. Marie, shocked the northern community.

The weekend traffic toll that snuffed out lives in Ontario and Quebec was pointed by careless driving and several are in custody. The body of Basil Lesak, 50, of Toronto was found under a film of snow an estimated two hours after he had been hit by a car that didn't stop. Later a man reported to police he "thought he had hit someone." He was taken into custody.

Killed By Truck

Five-year-old Laurence Martin was killed by a truck when he ran across a street in Timmins, and another child, Claude Gareau three, met a similar fate at Sturgeon Falls.

At Hamilton a car went out of control, struck and killed John Balus, 76, a railroad employee. At Warden Que., Andre Robidoux, 26 was struck by a car as he walked on the highway near Waterloo and Paul Emile Beausoleil, 28, of St. Alexis De Montcalm who was riding a motorcycle crashed into a pole and was killed.

Husband Finds Body of Wife

At Kingston, tragedy dogged the family of Robert Luck. Eight years ago Luck retrieved the body of his only child from the lake near a wharf at the Kingston Yacht Club. Saturday morning another body was discovered by Luck, a steward at the club. It was that of his wife.

On a farm north of Baden, Ont., Delton Snyder missed his two-year-old son for a few minutes. On searching for the child he discovered his body in three feet of water where he had stumbled while apparently searching for his parent.

On Prince Edward Island three youths, Ivan Taylor, 19, Clarence Davison, 15, and Neil Jay, 19, drowned in fishing accidents. Taylor and Davison were fishing together at a hydro mill pond when they were plunged into the fast moving water. At Mount Stewart, Jay, also fishing in a mill pond, was dumped from his boat and swept away.

An investigation was ordered at Toronto into the death of John A. Fryer, fattally burned when a valve blew off a steam boiler on a construction job and enveloped him in live steam.

At Barrie, Charles McCool, 61, was found hanging in a jail cell a short time after he had been arrested on a drunk charge.

The smell of gas coming from a closed room led police to the discovery of the body of Benoit Boisvert, 55, of Montreal in his boarding house.

Mrs. Donald Richardson, sister of the bride, played the wedding music, and during the signing of the register, Mrs. Heywood sang "I Love You Truly".

DEVOLIN—CATHCART

Saturday, April 19, at three p.m., St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Belleville, was the scene of a very lovely Spring wedding, when the Rev. J. G. Hornsby united in marriage, Georgina Margaret (Marna) Cathcart, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Carthcart, of Belleville, to Mr. Grant E. Devolin, youngest son of Mr. Robert Devolin, Belleville. The double-ring ceremony was performed against a background of ferns and standards of multi-colored Spring flowers. Wedding music was played by Mr. W. E. Fletcher, church organist, and he also accompanied the soloist Mrs. Ralph Plumpton, Corbyville, who sang "Because", immediately before the ceremony and "Through the Years" during the signing of the register.

The bride given in marriage by her father, was a picture of loveliness, in her wedding dress of white satin and lace. The floor-length dress was designed with fitted satin bodice, satin peplum sloping low to a point at the back, full lace skirt, with the long lace sleeves coming to a point over the wrists. Her headdress was in Mary Queen of Scots style, outlined with pearls, the veil falling to the floor. Her only ornament was a necklace of silver and pearls, the locket being fashioned into a sprig of white heather. This "good luck" necklace was sent to the bride as a wedding gift from her aunt in Scotland. The bride carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses and a silver horseshoe also sent as a gift from Scotland. The matron-of-honor, Mrs. James Cathcart Jr., and the bridesmaid, Miss Shirley Warren, of Brantford, were very lovely in identical taffeta frocks, Mrs. Cathcart's being apple green and Miss Warren's in pale peach. Both were floor-length, long fitted bodice with the new draped front peplum and large bustle bow at the back. Their headdress was a coronet of tulle with shoulder veils in the exact shades of their dresses. Both wore white slippers and gloves and carried Colonial nosegays of sweetpeas and roses. Miss Gail Robinson, small cousin of the bride, made a very fetching picture as flower girl, in her long full skirted yellow taffeta dress with matching poke bonnet. She, too, carried a nosegay of sweetpeas and yellow roses.

The groom was ably supported by Mr. Hugh Sutherland, Belleville, as best man, and Mr. Ralph N. Plumpton, Corbyville and Mr. James Crawford, Madoc, were ushers.

Mrs. Fraser chose a suit of gold colored wool crepe with brown accessories and a corsage of carnations. During the reception, Miss Kaye Robinson of Toronto, supplied piano music. For the wedding supper, the tables were made beautiful with Spring flowers; the bride's table being centred with a lovely three-tiered wedding cake.

Mr. Ralph Plumpton, acted as master of ceremonies and Rev. J. G. Hornsby proposed a toast to the bride, to which the groom responded. Mr. Hugh Sutherland read a number of telegrams of congratulations to the bride and groom, among them, one from Mrs. Devolin's sister in Alberta, and one from her mother in Paisley, Scotland.

For a motor trip to New York City, the bride chose a pale blue dressmaker suit, the full sleeves having cuffs of blonde fur, and black accessories. The groom's gift to the bride was a set of matched luggage.

On their return Mr. and Mrs. Devolin will reside in Belleville.

The Easter program in the March "Missionary Monthly" was followed with the president Mrs. E. M. Cadigan taking the lead for the theme "God's Book of Life" with other members assisting in the readings. The Thank-offering was received and dedicated.

Mrs. Cadigan introduced the guest speaker of the afternoon. Opening her address with a tribute to former friend, Mrs. F. R. Harback wife of the Minister of Tabernacle United Curch, in Belleville, spoke of the friendship with Rev. and Mrs. Cadigan in Calgary which they had enjoyed in the West, and the pleasure it was to be so near them since moving to Ontario. Her address centred around the thought "How much do you thank God?" She told in the most arresting manner incidents in her life in the West stressing the need for untiring efforts, on the part of the W.M.S. to keep the hospitals in the West in operation as the need is very great. Comparisons of life in Canada with conditions in Germany and Russia were most enlightening and the audience listened with intense interest. At the close of the address, Mrs. Haacke thanked Mrs. Harback sincerely and all who had assisted in the service.

Refreshments were served in the church parlor, with Mrs. Barlow pouring tea and the committee assisting.

HOLLOWAY ST. W.A.

The program was presented by Mrs. Otha Denyes, leader of the group in charge. Mrs. Ross Bell led in the Devotional service, and Mrs. I. L. Moore was the guest speaker for the afternoon, giving a travelogue of her recent trip to Australia. Appreciation was expressed to Mrs. Moore for an interesting address.

The soloist, Mrs. F. Jeffrey contributed "Sing Me to Sleep," and the meeting closed with the Mizpah Benediction, after which refreshments were served by the group in charge.

Princess Elizabeth Receives Gifts And Greetings From All Over World

Capetown, April 21 — (Reuters)—Princess Elizabeth came down to breakfast on her 21st birthday today to receive a huge spread of presents and congratulatory telegrams from many parts of the world.

"Many-happy-returns" wishes ranged from Prime Minister Attlee, the Lord Mayor of London, Viscount Mountbatten, Viceroy of India and her second cousin once removed, and the Archbishop of Canterbury to Mrs. Eliza Mallows of Hadstock, Cambridge, England, who celebrated her 100th birthday today.

Today was proclaimed a gala festival and public holiday for Capetown and crowds waited all morning outside Government House in the hope of seeing Elizabeth.

To the disappointment of the Princess the first item on today's program — an ascent to the top of Table Mountain—had to be cancelled owing to cloudy weather.

After reviewing and taking the salute at a march past of troops, veterans and other organizations, the Princess was to broadcast her birthday speech to the youth of the Empire at 12:15 p. m. EST.

Persistent rumors that Lieut. Philip Mountbatten, formerly Prince Philip of Greece, would be here for the celebrations were described as "sheer nonsense" by a Government House spokesman today.

Many Gifts

It is the Royal Family's rule not to disclose what presents they give each other but birthday gifts for Elizabeth from others included:

Eighty-seven diamonds suitable for mounting as a necklace from the Union of South Africa;

A six-carat pure blue-white diamond worth £1,500 ($6,000) from the town of Kimberley;

A £600 brooch and a cheque for £10,000 to be used to finance an exchange of visits between young Britons and southern Rhodesians from the people of Southern Rhodesia;

Food and clothing worth $3,600 for British flood victims from the Royal Empire Society of Sydney, Australia;

A wing shaped brooch from the King's Flight; and a floral tribute in the form of the badge of the badge of the Grenadier Guards from all the press correspondents who have accompanied the Royal Tour.

After her broadcast Elizabeth will watch a fireworks display and finally attend a private ball for young people. She may drop in at a public ball at the city hall.

At ballrooms throughout the Union tonight the waltz "Princess," composed by a South African, will be played. Meanwhile H. M. S. Vanguard, waiting in harbor to take the Royal Family home Thursday after their 7,000-mile 29-day African tour was gaily decorated. At noon Vanguard fired a salute of 21 guns.

Mrs. Duncan Ketcheson, 91 Today, Still Alert and Well Despite Great Age

Stirling — Enjoying the sunset of her life with as much enthusiasm as she did twenty or thirty years ago, Mrs. Duncan Ketcheson, formerly of the 4th concession of Sidney township is today celebrating her 91st birthday in the quiet comfort of the Green Nursing Home at Stirling.

Time has been kind to the nonagenarian descendant of one of Hastings County's oldest families. Mrs. Ketcheson is very alert and active and derives keen enjoyment from her daily routine of life.

She is the only child of the late John Vandervoort and Margaret Merritt, former well-known Sidney township residents. She resided on the fourth concession for the greater part of her life, and gained much local prominence in her younger days as a musician, and teacher of music. She was intensively fond of anything musical and was organist at the Stone Church, Sidney, for a period of fifty years.

She is looking forward to more years of life among the people and community she has known so long and so well. She was the recipient today of messages of congratulation on the attainment of her 91st birthday.

Are You Eating Enough

A well-rounded diet is important if you want lovely hair and a complexion like Actress Lynn Bari's

By HELEN FOLLETT

MISGUIDED is the girl who lives on practically nothing a day, having coffee and toast for breakfast, a few lettuce leaves for luncheon, a nibble of this or that for dinner. She suffers from fat fear, is a slender as a lily but scared to death lest she lose the attenuated contour.

Someone should put her wise. She should be told that a long-continued food deficiency or a diet that does not supply all the elements that the body needs, will eventually lead to a state of malnutrition. The by-products may be impaired teeth, pale complexion, hair that goes into a state of depression, brittle nails and a fretful dispostion. It's a high price to pay for the doll waist and overly-slender ankles.

Weakness Appears

Weakness from underfeeding comes on insidiously. It creeps up on one like unpleasant memories. The victim awakens in the morning without a sense of refreshment, has little interest in the day's activities and, if she isn't watchful, little lines will appear on her sacred phiz.

When the food intake is low there is a weakening of the powers of digestion. Appetite departs. Every girl will sense inside her head knows that the entire human machine is constantly undergoing a system of decay and renewal, that a certain amount of nutritious food is necessary for repairs.

Prey to Infections

Undernourished individuals are easy prey to infections, especially the tubercle baccilus. Because the tissues of the face lose tone, wrinkles will appear; they can come in the early twenties if the system does not receive the required amount of fats, sweets and starches.

Every woman wants to look young, retain pleasing outline of figure. Then let every woman have due regard for the laws of health and hygiene. The one who fails to take care of herself is not going to make the pulchritude grade. She will age before her time.

Fashion Flashes

LOOKING OVER resort fashions, we note that colors are much darker than the usual order for Summer days. Cotton, in an Indian print design of black, rust and yellow on deep brown, is used for a neat play dress. A tiny ruffle marks the off-shoulder neckline of the brief bodice that ties under the bustline. A tiny ruffle across the skirt hemline in back curves up the skirt to center front.

BREAK OFF in gay Spring woolens. A nicely tailored suit has a jacket of mauve-pink woolen shadow-striped in lilac and navy. The slim skirt, slit at either side of the hem, is of navy blue woolen. The jacket is double-breasted with curved flap pockets.

REALLY LOVELY evening wraps are appearing at smart evening events. Deep cream colored satin is used for a wrap fashioned on long princess lines. It has draped dolman sleeves that taper to the wrist, and there are large patch pockets heavily embroidered in gold beads, pearls and gold sequins.

A NEW LOOK is achieved on fitted coats by cape accents. A fitted coat, cut on slim lines, buttons in front, has wide pocket flaps on the full skirt and is tied at the waist with a soft self belt. Added feature is a gracefully-falling cape over sleeves. Bodice buttons to a high neckline with small, turn-down collar.

NO DEPARTURE, we are glad to see, from the traditional wedding gown for this year's crop of Easter brides. White satin is in big demand, say bridal departments. White silk satin is used for a beauty of a wedding gown made with a peplum of soft satin roses on the full, soft, long-trained skirt.

Interesting Questions About Invitations and Replies

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you please answer several questions about invitations that have been bothering me lately?

1. Is it true that when my husband and I receive a formal engraved invitation to the church ceremony only, it is not required that we answer this? That we reply only if we are invited to the reception?

2. Should the reply to a formal invitation, such as a wedding reception invitation, be addressed to both "Mr. and Mrs." the parents of the bride-to-be, or only to "Mrs." the mother of the bride-to-be?

3. So often I hear my women friends making a great to-do as to whether an invitation not having R. s. v. p. written on it should be answered. Shouldn't any invitation to an occasion where the hostess obviously must provide for a certain number of guests, be answered, whether or not there is a request for an answer?

4. When I am writing a regret, is it necessary to repeat the hour?

5. Now that more parties are inclining toward formality, I am often uncertain what type of dress to wear. Is it proper to telephone the hostess to ask her what type of dress she is expecting her guests to wear at the party?

6. Must a formal invitation always be acknowledged formally (that is, in the third person).... even when the sender or senders are one's most intimate friends?

R. C. B.

1. Yes, a formal invitation to only the church ceremony does not require a reply. But if you are invited to the reception or wedding breakfast or other post-ceremony festivity, you must send a reply immediately, written formally.

2. The formal reply to a formal wedding reception invitation should be addressed to those who issue the invitation, usually the bride's parents; "Mr. and Mrs. John Allen Smith," for example.

3. You are completely right about this....and gracious in your reaction to the convenience of the hostess. For example, an invitation to a dinner, luncheon, buffet party or other party where the number of guests is a consideration, should be answered, and as soon as possible so that the hostess may make her plans. Any invitation that "requests the pleasure of your company" should be answered at once, whether or not it carries a request for an answer. And even in these busy days there are still many charmingly polite people who answer all invitations, and promptly whether or not they are "requested" to reply.

4. If you are writing a note of regret it is not necessary to repeat the hour.

5. Yes, it is always proper to telephone your hostess to ask her what type of dress she is expecting her guests to wear at the party, and hostesses are quite accustomed to this inquiry. If the invitation is by note or telephone, the thoughtful hostess generally gives some hint about dress expected.

Yes a formal invitation must always be acknowledged by a formally worded reply....even to intimate friends. But sometimes when for example a formal regret has been sent, an intimate friend may write a note that can, with more warmth than is possible in a formal acknowledgement, express his or her disappointment at not being able to accept the invitation.

Man's Pet Peeves About Women

Every so often, up pop's that old question, "Do women dress to please the men?" One can't generalize on that subject. Some women do, some women don't. Some men have sound ideas about feminine duds; others wouldn't know if their wives were dressed according to the fashions of this year or ten years back. There are men who adore ruffles, fluffles and curls; others will rave about a red hat or a red frock; still others admire conservative apparel, especially for their own women.

On certain subjects many men seem to agree, according to our survey. Men always notice the arrangement of a woman's hair If it looks blowsy, they give her a black mark. They are ready to scream if aslip shows even the least bit beneath the hem of the skirt. These errors of composition are evidence of shiftlessness and untidiness.

Some of them say it sickens them to see a woman wearing too much make-up. Lipstick applications that are nothing but irregular smears kill any ideas they may have as to kisses and embraces. It seems that these details have an influence upon romantic sentiments. One can understand that. A man's dream girl should be pleasing to the eye.

The slightest suggestion of perspiration odor will send a suitor away in a hurry, as well as unpleasant breath. These afflictions are not limited to the members of the female sex, and women will not tolerate them in men. Women also have their pet peeves.

Because men admire beautiful silhouettes and graceful movements, they prefer to escort slender girls when going places. But when it comes to falling in love and getting married, a little extra tonnage doesn't matter.

It appear that a larger percentage of bachelors prefer brunettes to blondes. Middle-aged men, as a rule have a dislike for dyed hair.

To a man they are reconciled to lipsticks when they are used cleverly and the color is not too vivid. When this beauty frenzy started, many of them had plenty to say about it; too much sometimes, and then they got a good bawling out and were told that they were not keeping in step with the times.

They aren't so lenient about brilliant nail polish. The average man past his twenties—one is tolerant in the twenties—still dislikes it.

Rustic Fun Motif Of New Bedspread

New York. (CP)—Hand-woven bedspreads and wall hangings in which sampler-like designs record the gaiety of a circus, the pace of a square dance, or prize-winning pigs at a country fair stand out here in an exhibit of fabric designs by Alexander Crane.

Brilliant colors carrying out the excitement of the circus were woven into a children's blanket after Mr. Crane took his small daughters to a performance. A dancer atop a grey horse waves a green scarf while a pair of graceful seals complete the panel.

"The Square Dance", large enough to be used as a spread on a double bed, shows eight dancers in a circle. Bold plaid shirts and full-skirted dresses of the dancers are woven in different textures as well as in varied colors.

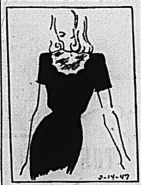
The designer works out the patterns on graph paper after which they are made up by weavers.

MAYOR SEEKS MATE FOR HUSKY MARINE

Bury, England.— (CP)— The Mayor of Bury, Ald. T .Taylor, said he proposed turning his mayoral parlor into a temporary matrimonial agency—all because a 200-pound marine told him he wanted a wife.

The wife he wants must be "a very nice young widow, 25 to 30 with or without a young child".

It's About Time . . .



By DOLORES BOLAND

IT'S ABOUT TIME to alter that dress with the too-low neckline. Insert a yoke of net or marquisette the color of dress. For evening or dinner dresses, have the yoke flesh colored. High round neckline for yoke. Close with tiny button and loop at center back.

Classic for Tennis

By PRUNELLA WOOD

The white rayon sports frock, for tennis, golf, badminton or even croquet, is a familiar fashion which never stales even for women who never indulge in any sport more strenuous than watching from the sidelines. In this particular model, the fabric of crisp, sparkling white is definiged, meaning that it has inherent shrinkage control which is a fine thing in any white frock. Being rayon moreover the white stays white through repeated washings, unless one carlessly scorches it with a too hot pressing iron. The widish belt is of many colors; you can wear any other belt you fancy, however, as the model is hospitable to individual whims.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Concealing The Truth Almost Always a Mistake

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My girl friend is going with a sailor who is stationed in a nearby naval base. They have been going together for about one month, but not steady.

He went home on leave a short time ago, and when he came back, he told us he was engaged to a girl back home. He didn't tell the girl friend from here, though. He asked us if he should tell her, and we told him not to, because he would probably be shipped out or transferred in a couple of months and she won't ever see him again, so why should she ever find out?

He went home again on a leave and came back and told us he is getting married in June. Now we are wondering if it would be right to tell her or not. He feels he should, but he feels we should know better than he.

Would you please give us your idea as to what we should do?

How would you like it yourself, "D. L. S." if you were ever to find out that your friends had deceived you in a matter like this? Wouldn't you feel that they had made a fool of you, even though their motives were kind?

Of course this boy should let this girl know about his approaching marriage. She should have been told immediately about his engagement. If she had been going with him no more than a month, and " not steady," as you say, the truth would not have hurt so much then as it may now, when she has had a longer time to get interested in the young man.

Concealing any truth is almost always a mistake. For when a person finds out he has been deceived, as he usually does sooner or later, he has two hurts—one about the thing itself, and the other that he has been made a fool of, by everybody knowing the truth but himself.

An Unmarried Mother-to-be

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a girl of 16, and I have been going with a boy who is 17 for two months. I love him a great deal.

I am now a month along toward motherhood, and he told me he does not love me any more and does not want to have anything to do with me. What am I to do in a case like this?

Dottie.

I'm afraid, Dottie, that in a case like this, the only thing for a girl to do is to tell her story to some woman she can trust, who can advise her wisely. I hope that will be your mother, but if for any reason you feel you cannot confide in her, then you had better go to some other woman relative, or perhaps some friend.

Perhaps there is a Y.W.C.A. you know of where you could talk to one of the workers. Your priest or the minister of your church would be another who would be in a position to guide you in what you should do. Perhaps he could talk to your mother, if you are afraid to do so yourself.

If this boy is contemptible enough to go off and leave you to face the consequences alone, there is nothing you can do about it. You cannot force him to stand by you. But I hope his behavior in the matter will make you realize the sort of weak character he is, and that you will stop telling yourself you love him.

And I hope you are a strong enough person yourself to realize that when you take something that is not lawfully yours, even if it is no more than an illicit pleasure, it is almost certain that sooner or later you will have to pay the penalty. If you frankly admit this, and make up your mind that you will remember it in the future, then this unhappy experience can be made to serve you in a constructive way, instead of being only a source of shame and regret to you for the rest of your life.

Nurses Shudder As Rouge Barred

Sunderland, England. (CP)—Forbidden to use cosmetics, some nurses at Sunderland Royal Infirmary said they would seek other jobs "where they have more modern ideas."

"We know the ban is unpopular," an infirmary official told reporters, "but it has been decided lipstick does not go well with nurses' uniforms."

The nurses disagreed and one said:

"When I'm passing a mirror while on duty I shudder at the sight of myself. It makes me wonder if I shouldn't change places with one of the patients. I'd hardly look worse if I'd just come out of an anaesthetic."

BOMBED WITH FOOD

Rangoon, Burma (CP)— For the fourt time since the end of the war R.A.F. pilots dropped food to starving natives in Burma. Five thousand pounds of rice and salt were dropped daily to 14,000 Karens after the first rice crop failure in 21 years.

METAL OF ANCIENTS

Certain countries used iron as far back as 1500 B.C.

Braved Ice, Fire Girls Win Awards

Toronto, (CP)—Two Ontario girls have won Canadian Council Girl Guides Association awards for lifesaving. They are Brownie Mary Jane Hatton of Napanee, and Guide Barbara Garr of Aldershot.

Mary Jane won the silver cross award for saving Donna Asselstine, 11-year-old Guide, from drowning Dec. 27, 1946, when she fell through the ice on the swift-running Napanee River.

Realizing her companion's danger, Mary Jane crawled out on the ice pushing a ski pole ahead of her until Donna grasped it. Then she crept back drawing her friend along to safety.

The gilt cross was won by Barbara Garr for her part in averting death by fire of five neighbor's children Feb. 15, 1947.

While passing the neighbor's house she noticed a flickering light in a window. Curious, she called to another girl and entered. The house was full of smoke and a mattress was in flames. Barbara carried two of the children out. Persons nearby rescued the other three children after the alarm had been given. The five tots were alone at the time of the blaze.

Nobody Wanted Eddie Miller But Now He is Mainspring In Reds' First Division Bid

Has Hit Four Home Runs in Seven Games and Playing Well at Short

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sport Writer)

Eddie Miller, who only a few weeks ago was put on display in a showcase window for disposal to the highest bidder without attracting an takers, definitely established himself today as the key to Cincinnati's chances for a first division berth.

The glue-fingered shortstop, currently pacing the major league hitters with four home runs in seven games, is still a member of the Reds only because no other club in the majors was willing to take a chance on his throwing arm.

Miller rejoined the Reds in the final week of spring training and while he had no occasion to tax his arm — injured last season — showed enough to cause Giles to change his mind. To date, Miller has accepted 30 chances with only one error and has figured in seven double plays.

Miller's two home runs yesterday helped the Reds gain an even break in their doubleheader with the Pirates at Pittsburgh. Augie Galan and Bobby Adams joined Miller in the home run parade to lead the Reds to a 13-5 victory over the Pirates in the opener. Three of Pittsburgh's runs resulted from Hank Greenberg's second home run of the campaign.

Pirates Split

The Pirates pleased a home crowd of 40,784 by bounding back to win the nightcap 7-3 in the second game, limited to 5½ innings because of darkness.

The American League champion Boston Red Sox, bit the dust for the first time when Washington Senators, behind Walter Masterson's superb three - hit slinging, downed them 3-1 in the capitol city.

With Joe DiMaggio playing his first full game of the season, New York Yankees turned on the Athletics twice to sweep a doubleheader in Philadelphia 6-1 and 3-2. Dimag celebrated his return with a three-run homer in the first game to enable Spud Chandler to win his first victory. Young Don Johnson bested Phil Marchildon of Penetangueshene, Ont., in a hurling duel, but had to go 10 innings to win.

Chicago Cubs, paced by Bill Nicholson's two home runs, good for six runs batted in, handed the world champion St. Louis Cardinals their fourth defeat in six games 7-4 and dumped them into the National League cellar.

Ben Chapman's Philadelphia Phillies made it three in a row over the Giants by trouncing the New Yorkers 10-1 at the Polo Grounds.

LANIER LOOKING FOR JOB

St. Petersburg, Fla., April 21 — (AP) — Max Lanier, just a year ago St. Louis Cardinals' leading pitcher, is looking for a job in semi-pro baseball.

Lanier, whose sudden jump to the Mexican League early last season made headlines, said he was through dickering with baseball officials there. He admitted he wanted to stay in baseball and was open to offers from American semi-pro clubs.

Premier Drew Addresses O.B.A.

Kitchener, April 21. (CP) — Sport develops in youth the spirit of co-operation and fair play needed today in personal and international relationships, Premier Drew told the 30th annual convention of the Ontario Baseball Association Saturday.

"I can't think of Hitler playing a decent game," he said. "I can't think of Mussolini playing a game. No, I can't remember of Stalin ever playing a decent game."

Nor could he imagine Hitler or Mussolini standing on the third base coaching lines and being booed—"it wouldn't have been tolerated."

The Premier said the type of sport fostered by such an organization as the O.B.A., which brings together organizations from many parts of the province, brought out the best in a community. He said he hoped that out of the development of amateur teams in many communities would come top-notch ball players who would make it unnecessary for Canadian teams to look for talent outside Canada.

Priest Slashed And Stabbed By Communicant

New Orleans, April 21 —(AP) —Slashed and stabbed as he bent toward his kneeling assailant to minister the Sacrament of Holy Communion, Rev. James W. Courtney, 46-year-old Roman Catholic priest, was in "fair" condition today.

The sudden and unexplained attack, which the priest made no attempt to ward off as he sought to protect the chalice he held, occurred at Sunday High Mass in the Church of the Immaculate Conception.

His assailant, identified by police as Don Louis Laurentz, 27, was jailed on a charge of aggravated battery.

Police gave this account of the attack:

As Father Courtney approached with the consecrated sacrificial wafers, this man, kneeling at the altar rail, rose suddenly and stabbed the priest in the throat with a pocket knife. Then, leaping the rail, he slashed Father Courtney on each side of the neck and plunged the knife into his back.

Father Courtney made no effort to protect himself but bowed his head and clutched the ciborium, which held the consecrated wafers, in his arms to protect it.

Other communicants were thrown into near panic. As women ran screaming from the sanctuary, men rushed forward to aid the stricken priest. They pinned the assailant to the floor until police arrived.

Later Archbishop Joseph Francis Rummel visited the church and ordered that it be reblessed at 5 a.m. today. Meanwhile, the chapel was closed and a 12:30 p.m. Sunday mass was cancelled.

Authorities could gain no information from the prisoner. Although obeying all orders without hesitation, officers said, he refused to answer questions and "looked into space with glassy eyes."

"Yipee! We're champs!" — Shouting like a bunch of excited school kids, members of the Toronto Maple Leafs hockey team leap over the sideboards after defeating Montreal Canadiens, 2-1, at Maple Leaf Gardens Saturday night. Victory gave the youngest team in N.H.L. history possession of the historic Stanley Cup, emblematic of world hockey supremacy. The three players to the fore in the victory leap are, from left: Harry Waison, Ted Kennedy and Syl Apps.

Sports Shorts from Britain

London, April 21. (CP) —Britain's National Coal Board entered the football ticket market but, like thousands of others, could get no seats for the Football Association Cup Final, April 26.

The board tackled the F.A. for 250 tickets, thinking it would be a good idea to use them as a "thank--you" gesture to hard-working miners who went all out to help raise output. The line-up for seats for this game started last December and were sold out before the end of 1946.

But the initial setback didn't stop board members. They got their hands on 100 tickets for the England-Scotland football game at Wembley Stadium April 12 and 100 men, named by the various collieries, joined 90,000 other lucky ticket-holders.

Seats for this game also were sold out for months and no one has yet asked the N.C.B. where they "dug up" the ducats.

Montcalm, brilliant eight-year-old steeplechase horse, was destroyed at Aldbourne, Wiltshire, after an unusual accident. The horse was cantering at half speed when his jockey heard a cracking noise and the animal came to a standstill.

Examination showed a broken leg and he was destroyed. A careful search failed to show any obstruction on the gallop which might have caused the accident.

Montcalm had won his last seven races.

Warwickshire county cricketers haven't let the weather interfere with training for the season opening in May. They have taken over one floor of a department store in Birmingham, put up nets and daily "toss the ball around."

About the end of August a team of footballers will step out of a plane in England and say: "Please we've come to play your best amateur teams".

They will be members of the Sing Tao Club from Hong Kong and the Football Association has arranged six matches in England against amateur teams.

George Reader, 49-year-old Southampton schoolmaster, has been appointed to referee the Great Britain versus Rest of Europe football game at Hampden Park, Glasgow, May 10. Reader also will be in charge of the Switzerland-France game at Lausanne, June 8.

CBC Chairman Says No Question Raised on Remarks

Montreal, April 21. (CP)—A. Davidson Dunton, CBC chairman, said Saturday that the CBC "has raised no question about the propriety" of remarks by Premier George Drew of Ontario.

Premier Drew said in Toronto, Saturday, that a statement attributed to CBC officials that the Premier's broadcast speech to the annual Radio World Awards dinner Friday night, should have been submitted in advance and "cleared" by the CBC "merely illustrates the attempted misuse of power to which my remarks were addressed."

Mr. Dunton commented in a statement that "it is hard to understand what Premier Drew is complaining about this morning."

"Last night he made his address carried on a national network with complete freedom," the CBC chairmen said.

"The Radio Arts dinner broadcast was a commercially-sponsored program. The regular policy of the CBC like that of privately-operated networks and stations is to review commercial scripts before their presentation. The reasons for this are obvious.

"This policy however was not enforced for some of the talks and commentaries at the dinner last night even though the program was commencially-sponsored.

"The CBC has raised no question about the propriety of Mr. Drew's remarks, as he suggests."

Explosion Dead Now Total 421, May Be 575

Texas City, Tex., April 21.—(AP)—Roy Wade, official of the Department of Public Safety, announced today that the explosion dead in this sorrowing city now totals 421 and said the death list will total not less than 575.

Wade said 295 persons still are missing and 132 victims remain unidentified. Thirty-five bodies were recovered yesterday, the majority from the 70-acre blast area.

Mayor J. C. Trahan reassured Texas City that there was no danger of new explosions from leaking naphtha gas.

Earlier Trahan had criticized the Red Cross for its handling of relief activities in the blast-torn town. An official of the Red Cross, however, assured him that the organization was doing everything possible to aid victims.

Trahan told Gerald Wesselius of St. Louis, local director of the Red Cross activities that "the real relief that has been given to the people of Texas City has not come from the Red Cross."

The mayor called on Wesselius to tell him that "too many people are coming to the city hall to tell us that they have appealed to the Red Cross for aid and that help has been denied them."

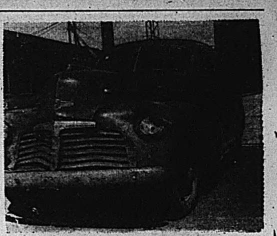
Wesselius answered: "In a disaster situation of this kind there are bound to be mistakes made. People are not normal under a pressure situation. There is bound to be a lot of erroneous thinking and misquoting."

A United States Coast Guard investigation into the cause of the explosion of the nitrate-laden French freighter Grandcamp was to continue today.

The explosion of the Grandcamp touched off a chain that destroyed three ships, the Monsanto Chemical Corporation plant and damaged a majority of the city. It started huge fires, some still burning.

LAPLAND TRAINING

Stockholm (CP)—Seven hundred men from the Swedish army's forest commando corps have completed a 200-mile cross-try march on skis in Arctic Lapland. The corps was complete with horse-drawn artillery, cook wagons, tents and army dogs.



Charged with dangerous driving and leaving the scene of an accident, George P. Roy, Ossington Ave., Toronto, admitted to police his car (above) may have struck and killed Basil Lesak, 50, of York Street., Toronto, Saturday night.

Con Men's Tricks Revealed by Radio

London, (Reuters) — The BBC is broadcasting a series of programs—entitled: "It's Your Mon- the public with devices used by confidence men.

"It's surprising how the same old tricksters go on finding victims year after year with the same old tricks," said Sir Harey They're After"—to acquaint old Scott, Commissioner of London's police force; introducing the series. "It is by no means always the young and inexperienced who get taken in."

If police were to control swindlers, public co-operation was necessary. Police should always be advised if a fraud were perpetrated and other members of the public also should have told how it was carried out.

We in Canada have now come through the hardest part of the post-war adjustment period. By buying in moderation only what we really needed, by resisting the natural desire to rush madly after long-absent luxuries, we have been able to keep prices at reasonable levels.
We have been able—so far—to escape the strife and the uselessness of inflation.
Knowing where we want to go, we have also known how to get there.
Credit for this lies with the foresighted planning of our Government—the wisdom of the people—and the Canadian habit of moderation in all things, which as The House of Seagram has long maintained,

HAMILTON TIGERS BLANKED 3 TO 0 BY THE ROYALS

Gerry McNeil Earns Third Shutout in Playoff Competition

Montreal April 21 (CP)—Little Gerry McNeil earned his third straight playoff goose-egg here Saturday night when Montreal Royals blanked the favored Hamilton Tigers 3-0 in the initial game of the Eastern Canada Senior best of five final. Second game will be played here today.

McNeil registered two perfect games against Sherbrooke St. Francis in the recently concluded Eastern Canada semi-final. He was sensational as he repeatedly turned back the barrage of rubber thrown at him by the "shabby cats" who looked little like the tired old men from Hamilton.

McNeil was put through a gymnastic workout as he dived, jumped and danced around his citadel entrance to keep 32 shots from hitting the cords. His rival, Art Childs at the other end of the rink was also kept busy stopping shots.

Tigers held a slight edge in play, outshooting their hosts in the first and last periods, but Royals wasted little skating energy waiting for the breaks, which came in the second and third periods with Cliff Malone, Tod Campeau and Jimmy Galbraith notching one apiece. Malone and Campeau also each earned an assist.

Royals, a youthful team whose average age is 24, had too much stamina for the veteran Tigers who averaged 32 years of age. The Montrealers played a tight checking game and their forwards were effective going both ways.

Belleville Bantams Trounced by Toronto

Toronto, April 21. (CP)—The Toronto Young Men's Hebrew Association won the Ontario Amateur Bantam Basketball Championship last night by dedefeating London Knox 25-19 at Central "Y".

In the afternoon semi-finals Toronto Y.M.H.A. trounced Belleville Y.M.C.A. 32-16 and London edged out St. Catharines 17-16.

Glick was high scorer with 15 points. Team mate Lederman potted nine, Faulkner of Belleville garnered nine points.

Belleville (16); Dolan Batchelor (2); Soule; Lazenby (2); Strahan; Scrymgeour (5); Muirhead (2); Faulkner (5).

Toronto (32); Nisker (2); Rosanblis; Lederman (9); Gootfel (3); Runstein (1); Glick (15); Groper (2); Sidlofsky; Serber; Tibando.

Dashing Young Maple Leafs Capture Stanley Cup From Canadiens by 4-2 in Games

Rookie Vic Lynn and Veteran Teeter Kennedy Fire the Tallies

By FRASER MACDOUGALL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, April 21. (CP)—The dashing young Toronto Maple Leafs held professional hockey's most coveted title today, conquerors of the defending champion Montreal Canadiens by a margin of four games to two in the best of seven series for the Stanley Cup and the world pro hockey championship.

The rookie-studded Leafs climaxed their successful drive for Toronto's seventh Stanley Cup in the trophy's 34-year-history with a fighting display Saturday night when they came from behind for a 2-1 triumph over the Canadiens in the decisive game of a tumultuous series.

Age and youth combined to give the Leafs their payoff punch. Veteran goalie Turk Broda, the fabulous fat man from Brandon, Man., gave one of the most sensational goaltending performances of his eight National Hockey League seasons and the two goals were fired by 22-year-old Vic Lynn, a rookie, and by 21-year-old Ted (Teeter) Kennedy, a youthful veteran of four National Hockey League seasons.

The Canadiens went into the lead after only 25 seconds of play with a stunning goal by Buddy O'Connor. Lynn scored his tying goal, assisted by Kennedy and rookie Meeker, early in the second period. Kennedy's goal, on a pass from Meeker, settled the issue with less than six minutes to play and sent the 14,546 fans into a frenzy.

The game, a rousing battle between the teams which finished one-two in the 60-game N.H.L. schedule with the Canadiens on top, held high drama from start to finish. Broda's goaltending skill was matched by the display of cool Bill Durnan of the Canadiens, the 32-year-old native of Toronto who won the Vezina trophy in each of his four seasons, making several breath-taking stops. Then in the final minute, the Canadiens pulled him from the nets and sent out a six-man attacking brigade in a futile last minute try for a goal which would tie the score and send the contest into overtime.

The championship Leafs represent a completely rebuilt team from the club which finished in fifth place and out of the playoffs a year ago. Seven rookies filled positions on the squad which ousted the Canadiens—four defencemen and three forwards.

Prediction Comes True .. .. ..

When the club began its campaign last Fall, managing director Conny Smythe's most optimistic prediction was that it would finish in the playoffs. It wound up in second place after setting the early-season pace. In the series with the Canadiens, he kept saying "we're still the challangers". But Saturday night he revised that to "we're not the challengers any more, we're the champions now."

Smythe, in a tumultuous dressing room which dozens of fans including Premier Drew of Ontario entered to congratulate the winners, said the achievement was due to the skilful coaching of Clarence (Hap) Day, the play of veterans from other Toronto Championship teams and the play of "the kids who wanted to be champions."

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor.

More or less flaming youth kicked around the old adage or sumpin that experience, the crafty wise teacher always comes out on top at the end on Saturday night in Toronto when the Maple-Leaf Teen-Age Society of Hockey Chasers once again tucked the battered old mug donated by Lord Stanley and emblematic of the best there is in professional hockey in the world.

Leafs came through with a sparkling 2-1 win that sent fifteen thousand spectators, or at least the most of them into a delirium. According to the experts the Leafs were slightly the better team in the series, although not a little of that folding money was plunked on the sturdy backs of Les Habs. However the Leafs won more games than did the Canucks—and after all that is what counts. Now the shouting and the tumults over and King Baseball and summer looms over the horizon—or does it?

In the semi-final will be Irish Tom Collins and Bulldog Drummond and opening the show will be none other than handsome Mike Sharp and rugged Toar Morgan. Remember its Saturday night this week and the first bout goes on at nine o'clock sharp.

Kenneth J. Colling headed the polls, so to speak, at the annual election of officers of the Ontario Baseball Association held in Kitchener on Saturday. By that we mean he was Number 1 Boy insofar as the executive is concerned. Ken has represented Eastern Ontario on that august body for a number of years now and his re-election will meet the approval of all baseball men this side of Oshawa and the other, too, as far as that is concerned. He has worked hard for baseball during his tenure of office and we don't know any body who knows more or shows as much enthusiam for the great summer game as does the former sports editor of the G. President Branch Rickey of the Dodgers has appealed to well-wishers to let Jackie Robinson alone and give him a chance to make the grade with the club.

Rickey appeared much disturbed over the tremendous publicity that has resulted from the bringing of Robinson, first Negro to reach the modern major leagues, to the Brooklyn team and the crowds that surround him after the games.

"He's not a ball player the way things are now, he's a sideshow attraction," Rickey said. "If I had my way, I would place a cordon of police around him to give him protection so that he might be a ball player."

According to Rickey, Robinson has received more than 5,000 invitations to social events and to make public appearances.

"He scarcely has time to change into his uniform," he said. "Why, the boy is on the road to complete prostration."

Boxing follows the hockey playoffs into Maple Leaf Gardens with "Lil Arthur" King set to trade punches with the rough and ready "Pistol Packing" Jimmy Ribbo of Hamilton next Friday night.

• • •

Conditions of the match call for Rizzo to make a weight of 136 pounds at 2 o'clock on the day of the fight, a mark that will give him a decided pull in the weights over the colored sensation.

King in his recent knockout win here over Joey Dolan of Spokane weighed 129 1/4 lbs.

The fact that Rizzo recently defeated Pete Zaduk, who scaled close to the 150 pound mark, indicates that "Lil Arthur" is in for a rough evening.

Just recently, Beckett fought none other than the great welterweight, "Sugar" Ray Robinson in a St. Louis match.

KOREAN STUDENT WINS MARATHON IN RECORD TIME

Gerard Cote, who Won Event Three Times Forced Back to Fourth by Bad Stomach

Boston, April 21 — (CP)—Yun Bok Eu, little Korean University student who ran at the end like a sprinter to break the Boston Marathon record, hopes to be the next Olympic champion over the 26 miles, 385 yards distance.

The small, wiry Su outran a brilliant international field of 156, including about a dozen Canadians, Saturday to win by two-thirds of a mile. Behind him was Finland's Mikko Hietanen. Ted Vogel of Tufts College, Me., was third.

Su's time — 2:25:39 — set a course record.

The Canadians all ran out of the money although Gerard Cote of St. Hyacinthe, Que., and Albert (Ab) Morton of Galt, came in fourth and fifth respectively. Lloyd Evans of Montreal was in 11th place.

Cote, who won the event on 3 previous occasions, was only 10 yards behind the leader when an upset stomach forced him to slow down at the 18-mile mark.

Other Canadians who finished were Bob Rankine and William Memmott of Galt, 18th and 30th respectively, and Pat Boulden of Montreal in 32nd spot.

Other Canadians, who either dropped out or came in too late for official recognition, included Wilfred Lawrence of Niagara Falls.

Ken. J. Colling Elected Member O.B.A. Executive

Kitchener, April 21 — (CP)—A proposed amendment to the constitution of the Ontario Baseball Association to allow semi - final and final play to be held on Sunday was defeated at the final session of the O.B.A. meeting here Saturday. It was felt by delegates that Sunday playdowns might take midget players from Sunday School.

Delegates were overwhelmingly in favor of disallowing teams "just outside the Ontario" to participate in O.B.A. playdowns.

In the election of officers, Ralph B. Hall of Port Colborne was re-elected president of the organization by acclamation. Also returned unopposed were Fred Bradley, of Hamilton as first vice president, Fred Young of Chippewa, second vice-president and W. J. Snyder, Hamilton, secretary-treasurer.

Elected to the executive were Ken. Colling, Belleville; Garret F. Frankland, Toronto; James Millman, London, W. F. Nickel, Stratford and Al Thurston, Hamilton.

BASKETBALL

Chicago, April 21 — (AP) — Philadelphia Warriors' rush to the Basketball Association of America playoff championship today has been derailed, temporarily at least, after Chicago Stags edged out a 74-73 victory — their first in four games of the series.

The Stags, western division titlists, gained their win in the best-of-seven series last night after checking a closing rally by the surprising Warriors that threatened to wipe out a 13-point lead.

The fifth game of the championship round will be played at Philadelphia tomorrow night with the Warriors needing but one more win to cinch the crown.

Mrs. Jean Houser, Simcoe, to Head Women's Softball

Toronto, April 21 (CP)—Delegates to the annual meeting of the Provincial Women's Softball Union Saturday re-elected almost entirely their 1946 executive, the sole newcomer being Mrs. Gladys Snor as 3rd vice president.

Mrs. Jean Houser of Simcoe, Ont., was returned as president with Mrs. Mae Brown of Galt and Mrs. Marjory Stewart of St. Catharines as her aides. Gladys Slipp and Mrs. Helen Garside, both of Guelph, were again made secretary and treasurer, respectively. George T. Fulford of Brockville and Ted Andrews of Toronto were named honorary presidents and James Grahamslaw was appointed the Union's chief advisor.

Delegates said it looked like a big year in girls' softball with entries coming from Toronto, Hamilton, Brantford, Guelph, London, Windsor, St. Catharines, Galt, Stratford, Peterborough and Simcoe. Definite entries made yesterday total 24 senior teams 33 intermediates and 29 juniors.

The assembly voted to double the entry fees for the 1947 season and cut the Union's take on games with American teams from $5 to $1. It also ruled that intermediates will now play on a diamond the same size as the seniors' and may legally wear steel spikes. A new intermediate "B" series comes into being for new teams in smaller centres.

ROYALS ARE OFF TO FLYING START IN INTERNATIONAL

Take Doubleheader From Baltimore Orioles and Go Ahead of Leafs

(By The Associated Press)

Monrteal Royals are off to a flying start in their bid to retain the International League pennant, playoff championship and Little World Series crown.

Yesterday, the Royals took a doubleheader from Baltimore Orioles to run their unbeaten skein to three straight games and move into first place in the standings, a half game ahead of Toronto Maple Leafs.

The Royals downed the Orioles 6-2 in the opener behind the four hit pitching of Erv Palica and then came back and took the seven-inning nightcap 8-2 behind the three-hit elbowing of veteran Al Gerheauser.

Buffalo Bisons took both ends of a twin bill from Newark Bears 2-1 and 5-3. Young Bill Pierce outpitched Marius Russo in the lid-lifter and Clem Hausmann and Pete Appleton collaborated in downing the Bears in the finale.

In another bargain bill, Rochester Red Wings and Jersey City Gians split, the Red Wings winning the opener 7-1 as Roy Yochim throttled the Giants with three hits, and the Giants bounced back and took the aftermath 5-2 behind the seven-hit pitching of rookie Jimmy Goodwin.

The scheduled doubleheader between Toronto and Syracuse was postponed because of snow.

Montreal, April 21 (CP)—The big question hereabouts is whether the Montreal fight fans will get a chance to see the busky bombshell, Joe Louis himself, in action against a pug of some sort.

Elmer (Montreal Herald) Ferguson, reporting on a conversation with Joe's business manager, Gene Lucas, says an attempt is being made to line up a Canadian tour for Louis, starting here in May.

"There won't be any June heavyweight title match," Lucas is quoted as saying. "So we're trying to arrange tour for Joe from coast to coast in Canada. He will actually fight, with opponents like Joe Maxim and others. He wants to fight, not just punch a lot of zombies around the ring. He wants to be in shape for an autumn bout."

Talisman Tale

Fergie also tells of a strange request that came to Michel Normandin, French-language sportscaster, before last Thursday's Stanley Cup game here. A letter came from a 14-year-old crippled girl, who enclosed 20 medals of St. Jude, the "patron saint of desperate causes, and I want you to give these to Canadiens."

The Habs, Catholic and Protestant alike, carried the medals into the fray with them — and you know the result. Canadiens, in truly desperate straits, came through with a 3-1 win to extend the series.

Olympic Entries To be Picked After Regatta

(By The Canadian Press)

The Olympic games scheduled for England in 1948 occupied most of the discussion at a meeting in Toronto Saturday of members of the Canadian Association of Amateur Oarsmen from Ottawa, Montreal, Hamilton, Toronto, St. Catharines and Winnipeg. They decided that Olympic entries would be picked from competitors at the Canadian Henley Regatta to be held at Port Dalhousie next July 24, 23, and 26.

A place in the sun for Canada and the international soccer was assured by Toronto Greenbacks Sunday when they won their second straight game in the North American soccer league by defeating Detroit Tickers 1-0 on a rain-soaked Detroit field.

Cornish Knight, a chestnut racehorse owned by E. P. Taylor of Toronto, and the only Canadian candidate for the Kentucky Derby, finished third in th eWood Memorial race at Jamaica Park, N.Y., Saturday. Canada's bid for a place in the derby suffered a setback with the Knight's placing as the Wood Memorial is a traditional springboard to the Kentucky classic.

Another Canadian horse, however, advanced in prestige on an American track during the weekend as Kingarvie, last year's winner of the King's Plate classic at Toronto, won the $15,000 Hallandale Handicap at Gulfstream Park, near Miami. Kingarvie, owned by R. S. McLaughlin of Oshawa, was ridden by Chris Rogers of Hamilton.

WEEKEND STARS

(By The Associated Press)

Hank Greenberg, Pirates — Rapped out two hits in six official times at bat including his second homer of the season in the sixth inning of the first game with two on. He also drove in a run in the second game with a single. He handled 18 chances at first base without an error, as Pittsburgh and Cincinnati split a double-header 13-5, 7-3.

Mickey Vernon, Senators — Failed to hit in four attempts, but his long fly to Williams scored Buddy Lewis from third in first inning against Boston.

Stan Musial, Cards—Went hisless and drew a walk against airtight pitching of Hank Borowy and Johhny Schmitz of Cubs as Cards lost another 7-4.

Jackie Robinson, Dodgers, idle as rain washed out Brookly-Boston game.

ST. MIKES WIN THIRD GAME FROM CANUCKS

Game is Called With Six Minutes to Play as Bottles Are Thrown to Ice

Regina, April 21 (CP)—Rowdies in the stands who continually hurled pop bottles and liquor bottles, peanuts and other missles at the players, forced officials to call the third game of the Memorial Cup final between Toronto St. Michaels and Moose Jaw Canucks with more than six minutes of play left Saturday night. The game was awarded St. Michael's leading 8-1 at the time, and marked Toronto's third straight victory in the best of seven junior title final.

The hockey game between the two great junior teams was secondary to the display of a section of the crowd of more than 6,300. No players were injured by the flying missiles but Angus Jackes, Moose Jaw right-winger, was hit on the back by a pop bottle and two Toronto players were struck glancing blows.

On four occasions the game was halted, with a total delay of 25 minutes while the ice was cleared of debris, before Al Pickard of Regina, vice-president of the C.A.H.A., warned that if the hoodlumism did not stop the game would be called.

Pickard had no sooner left the loud speaker system when another bottle was thrown, the game was called and teams skated to their dressing-rooms.

Group of Hooligans

The bombardments came from a group of hooligans in one section of the space allotted to fans from Moose Jaw. One of the groups from Moose Jaw appeared with signs depicting the Toronto players in the guise of "bullies" who had beaten their Canucks in the two previous games.

Pickard said that the fourth game would be played in Regina Tuesday night as scheduled, but if there is another outbreak like Saturday night, the game will be awarded to St. Michael's. That would hand them the Memorial Cup.

Six of the bottle throwers were caught by police and will face charges of creating a disturbance.

Coach Disgusted

Coach Ken Doraty of Moose Jaw was thoroughly downcast at the exhibition and the Moose Jaw players were as incensed as St. Michael's boys at the outburst.

For the entire first period Moose Jaw not only played as well as the great St. Michaels team but actually held a one-goal lead, on Wilson's counter at 13.52. Toronto ran in four goals in the second and four in the third before the game was halted, with Harrison getting three, Hannigan two and Paul, Costello and Migay the others.

KINGARVIE SCORES

Miami, Fla., April 21—Kingarvie, owned by R. S. McLaughlin of Oshawa, Ont., and ridden by Chris Rogers of Hamilton ,Ont., won the $15,000-added Hallandale Handicap at Gulfstream Park Saturday by five lengths from Statesman, with Darby Dimout third.

A crowd of 15.000 watching the closing day program of the Florida racing season saw the Canadian-foaled son of Teddy Wrack cover the 1 1/8 miles in 1:50 2/5 over a slow track to return a $9.50 straight mutuel.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

You must not blame on Dr. Grover the dieting of June. Unless she's busting out all over, she gives up much too soon.

Come again to this pair of partnership hands:

South	North
♠ A	♠ K 7 2
♥ A K Q 6 5 3	♥ 4
♦ A K J 4	♦ 10 9 6 5 3
♣ A 3	♣ 9 6 5 4

South opens with two hearts. North responds with two no-trump. North then bids three hearts. What is the next say by north and why?

South's two bid is forcing to game. Three hearts is not a game contract. So, north must not pass. At least that much is settled. So, we know that north must bid again.

His first response of two no-trump was nothing but the signal for showing no sure trick. After giving this information, he simply follows the normal routine choice of bids; T-A-N; takeout, assist, no-trump.

Now he has no biddable suit for a takeout. Nor has he adequate support for an assist of even a rebiddable heart suit. Consequently, only one type of bid remains. It is no-trump.

His bid here is three no-trump. Not because he may like no-trump. Not because he expects it to end there. He does it only to comply with the forcing to game signal.

When north comes in with this bid of three no-trump, what has south discovered so far? That partner lacks a sure trick, a suit that is biddable, adequate support for a rebiddable heart suit.

Should south be content with a game at no-trump? No. Despite the lacks admitted by north, there is still a chance that they have enough for a slam. And time to find out.

With the power he possesses in his own hand, south needs to find only a king in north for a slam. Furthermore, he must also find out whether their best trump suit is hearts or diamonds.

With all this in mind, south now bids four diamonds. If you dig deep enough, you may find lots of stuff.

The Movie Column

....In "La Cage Aux Rossignols" (the Cage off Nightingales) French writer-actor Noel-Noel and director Jean Dreville have deftly handled the story of a group of delinquent boys who find a new interest in life through their choir. This new French film handled with great charm its theme of the power of music and kindly treatment to help along the work of a reform school.

Playing the reform school boys, whose ages run from about 10 to 14, are the members of a fine boys' choir, the Little Singers of the Wooden Cross. They show themselves fine actors, too, the early scenes where they plague their teacher, Noel-Noel, through their increasing interest in music to the final sequence where they escape to sing at the teachers wedding.

Around the Lots

"Dick Turpin's Ride," the poem by Alfred Noyes, has been bought by producer James S. Burkett, who is also planning to film Mr. Noyes' "The Highwayman." The poet is working on the script for the production.

Irving Berlin, whose hit song, "Easter Parade," will be made into a musical, confesses that the tune was a flop when it first appeared as "Smile and Show Your Dimple." In 1933 he pulled the old song out of moth balls, wrote a new set of lyrics and the result was the ditty which sets the world humming every Spring.

Undated there are so many husband-and-wife teams in Hollywood these days it almost has the divorce figures toppling. In "Memory of Love," lovely Merle Oberon is being photographed by her husband, Lucien Ballard. She takes his orders meekly, but then he makes her look even lovelier on the screen.

In "The Pirate," star Judy Garland is taking orders from her husband, Director Vincente Minnelli, and on the set of "The Big Clock" star Maureen O'Sullivan gets ordered around by director John Farrow, who is also her husband. It's all for art.

Cops Like Cobb

If you liked Lee J. Cobb's portrayal of a smart, human, likeable cop in "Boomerang!" you weren't the only one. Cobb has stacks of fan mail from policemen all over the continent who have written to tell him how much they like his efforts to make a screen policeman into a real human being instead of just another dumb flatfoot.

"Thanks for giving us a break,.. wrote one policeman in Stamford, Conn., where the real story behind the picture actually took place. "If you ever come there'll be a voluntary guard of honor waiting to show you the town."

Other letters have promised he will be spared from traffic tickets.

Ottawan Tested

Three movie unknowns, from Ottawa, New Jersey and Iowa, will be tested at R.K.O.'s Hollywood studio for the feminine lead opposite Fred MacMurray and Frank Sinatra in "The Miracle of the Bells." The identity of the three is a secret for the present to save any or all of them embarrassment if she doesn't get the role.

Manpower Shortage At Monks Monastery

Winnipeg (CP)—Monasteries are feeling a manpower shortage. Father Marie Raymond, 27, business manager of the Trappist monastery, near St. Norbert, 10 miles south of here, says there is a pressing need for more monks.

There are 35 priests and lay brothers engaged in religious duties and handling the 1,600-acre farm at Notre Dame de la Prairies. These are not enough for the work that has to be done, he says, and 15 more are needed. The monks are agricultural specialists and have taken many prizes with pure-bred Holstein cattle. They have 235 head in the barns this year. Their 80 hives of bees produce honey sold in the market. They also make a Trappist cheese specialty.

Father Raymond says that despite abstinence from meat, fish and eggs, life at the monastery is healthy, Brother Alphonse, 89, who helped found it 55 years ago, is still in good health.

No further details were available immediately and it was not known whether any cash was stolen as well.

ONLY FM RADIO CAN BROADCAST SHEER SILENCE

Ear Can Hear 16,000 Sounds But Modern Frequency Modulation Can Carry 200,000 Variations

By EDWARD CHANTLER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Take a skipping rope and a few references to radio mechanics, twirl and mix well and you get a pretty fair idea what the term frequency modulation means — that is, if you don't get dizzy.

Paul Conn, Canadian science scribe, has the skipping-rope trick down pat in his "Science and Freedom."

Admitting that FM is a complicated matter requiring a round about explanation is a good start. Too, it should be kept in mind that sound travels through the air in waves. High-pitched tones are merely a swifter sequence of vibrations than those moanin' low notes. These vibrations of varying frequency, when spoken into a studio "mike", cause pulsations in the electrical current flowing through it, and these, in turn, are impressed on the grid —or "throttle"—of the transmitting tube.

The grid acts like the grip on a skipping-rope and controls the height of waves sent out by the transmitting stations.

Simultaneously, the station is radiating a series of waves all of the same length—whether anyone is speaking or not—called the "carrier wave." And, if you didn't know, the "carrier" is the cause of the hum you hear when your set is tuned to a station temporarily silent between programs.

It was to overcome this hum that FM was invented. Radio engineers simply twirl the skipping rope faster or slower to control frequency modulation.

What Ear Can Hear.

However, the new FM stations cannot stick to an exact frequency and so each is assigned a 'band' within which it can vary its frequency and transmit signals. Ordinary radio stations — those using amplitude modulation — are compelled by law to stay within a 10 kilocycle band. If they started to broadcast in FM each would have a limit of 10,000 frequencies without interfering with other stations.

The human ear can hear sounds as low as 16 vibrations per second (the sonorous large pipe in a pipe-organ) and as high as 16,000 vibrations per second (the squeak of a bat) so that stations using present standard broadcast bands for FM transmission could only send 10,000 of the 16,000 different sounds you and I could hear.

To meet this problem, FM now has been assigned to very short waves where bands are wider in terms of frequency. But here, too, difficulties arise. Television is also seeking shortwave channels and strict control is seen inevitable to satisfy the two.

Station W57A at Schenectady has an assigned frequency of 45,700 kilocycles and is allowed to use a 200-kilocycle-wide band. It can have 200,000 possible variations to accommodate the 16,000 one's ear can hear. This is why musical instruments heard over FM seem located in your parlor —every tone and overtone faithfully reproduced.

Lightning, street-cars and other interferences merely cause a change in amplitude of FM waves but many radios today are fitted with current-lightning devices to "iron out "these irirtations. So effective are they that concerts can be received in the middle of thunder storms.

Dark, Damp Homes for U.K. Elderly Deplored by Probe

London—(CP —Re-building of "dark, damp and unsanitary" almshouses scattered throughout Britain is recommended in the report of a survey of charitable trusts for old people published by the Nuffield Foundation.

Of 12,000 almshouses provided by 1,162 charities, the report said "nearly half are more than a century old, more than 6,400 have no kitchen and fewer than 400 have bathrooms."

"Even against the background of the low standard of rural housing generally, many of the buildings are in a deplorable state," the report added.

"There are dark, dingy rooms, windows that will not open, damp walls, falling plaster, steep narrow stairs, coal cupboards in the sitting room and loose coal in the kitchen. . . "

Lack of funds was given as one of the main reasons for existing conditions and, to provide funds for better homes, the committee recommended that granting of in-pensions should be restricted.

"Chaos and Frustration"

"A small rent should be charged to the beneficiaries and parochial committees should be amalgamated. Each charity should be allowed to charge a small rent for accommodation if the applicants are able and willing to pay."

Administration of many endowed charities was found to be "so confused and the trust deeds under which many are administered so archaic, that the whole picture is one of chaos and frustration of the spirit in which the charities were originally endowed."

The report showed that accommodation with board is provided by charities of all kinds for some 9,000 old peoples, of whom 6,200 live in homes maintained by 26 religious communities.

At least 18,000 other old people are accommodated without board in almshouses, cottages or flats. In all more than 65,500 receive out-pensions and similar benefits costing £2,000,000 ($8,000,000) yearly from charities other than parish doles or trade and professional funds.

Second Revolt Staged Against Portuguese Govt.

Lisbon, April 21 —(AP)— The Portuguese government announced yesterday that Left-Wing elements in the army had staged an abortive revolt April 10 against the regime of Premier Antonio de Oliviera Salazar and said some participants in the unsuccessful coup were still at large.

War Minister Santos Costa issued a communique blaming the attempted revolt—second against Salazar in seven months — on a small group of "irresponsibles" linked with a strike movement of Lisbon stevedores and industrial workers.

Costa said the plot was led by two ousted army officers, who indicted several military garrisons to revolt.

The last attempted revolt took place Oct. 10, 1946, when a young army officer led a mechanized cavalry group against the government in northern Portugal. Republican guardsmen persuaded the rebels to surrender.

Little Benny's Note Book

I was walking along with Shorty Judge just walking along. and we saw 2 kids taking terns doing leep frog over a fire plug. Both of them being bigger than us, but looking weaker on account of both wearing glasses, and I said to Shorty, Hay, let's pick a fite with them just to give them an excuse to back down and if they really want to fite we can always back out ourselfs by claiming we wouldn't hoit anybody with glasses on.

Sure we can claim it's against the law, Shorty said.

And we stopped and watched the 2 kids a while, and I said to them, Hello there, 8 eyes.

Meening both of them put together with their glasses and being a good insulting joke, and Shorty said, Were you born with all those eyes, or did you have some of them attached later?

Being a even werse of a insult, and one kid said, Hay, I'll show you who you think you're talking to. Put up your dukes, he said and the other kid said, And you put yours up.

Meening me, and I said, We wouldn't hit anybody with glasses on, would we, Shorty? and Shorty said, Certainly not, it wouldn't be fair, and it wouldn't even be legal.

Okay, then we'll take them off, the ferst kid said, and I said Nothing doing, that would be still unfairer, because then you couldn't see good.

Then we'll let you wear our glasses and one of us will see rite, the second kid said, and the ferst one said, Sure, and it's not against the law to knock your own glases off a cupple of other guys, and believe me we'll knock them off.

The result being me and Shorty had to kind of apollogize by saying we were only kidding.

Training in Hate Backfired on Army

London (CP) —"Hate training at army battle schools was stopped during the war because psychiatrists were against it, says a report on the work of psychiatrists in the services.

Training in hate, the report said, was done by stimulating excitement through savage, bloodthirsty cries, display of atrocity photographs, visits to slaughter houses and by throwing blood about the training area during exercises.

The training was later banned on the advice of a psychiatrist who said it might increase incidence of breakdown, fainting and vomiting."

To Live With Love

By Margaret Gorman Nichols

CHAPTER 21

"Wait darling. Let me finish. I don't want to make a mistake. I don't want you not to understand. I love you...but I'd not domesticate easily. My work takes me everywhere, and everywhere is home to me."

"You don't have to tell me what marriage is, Clive. I know." in the darkness she smiled thinking, "It's ordering food and having meals on time and sending clothes to the cleaner and having the boss and his wife to dinner and making excuses for a man who forgets."

"I've always thought of marriage as the end of a man's life."

"You don't know because you haven't experienced it. Marriage is a lot of duties, some not pleasant. But, the good moments, the moments when you feel that you belong and are possessed, the moments when you feel useful and loved and needed, make up for the unpleasant ones. And there are moments of beauty and leisure and love that unmarried people don't know exist. There are glamorous, romantic moments after years of marriage after things have gone wrong and are right again."

"I might not be good to you. There are times when I can't live with anyone except myself and even then it's difficult. I'd run away from me if I could."

She sat up with a start. "Oh, Clive, I'm not asking you to marry me!"

"I know you're not." Turning to her, he drew her close and pressed his lips against her throat. "But I'm asking you...Will you marry me, darling?" And when she did not answer, he said, "You didn't expect me at ask you, did you? I've been thinking about it all along. I've never said those words before. I've always thought those were words that sold a man's body and soul. Carol, will you marry me in June after I've had six months out there to find out if it's a place I can take you to? I'm going out cold I don't know what's there, darling. But I want you. I want you terribly."

She took a deep breath. "Yes, I'll marry you in June..."

Sitting up, he kissed her and smiled. "My body and soul.. And I like giving them to you.. And have to drive back and get a bottle of champagne and celebrate our engagement. I'm happy! I feel like a kid! Tell me you're happy and feel like a kid. You let me do all the talking but you look."

"How do I look, Clive?"

He laughed. "Anything but a hairdresser's delight. I've ruined it! No...You look as if you had never belonged to anyone else. And that...that's the way I want you to go on looking."

When she left on Saturday, her father, Uncle Jeff and Clive were there to see her off. Neither her father nor uncle Jeff knew of her engagement. In the first and lengthy good-bye with Clive that morning she had said that she hated lengthy explanations and that it would be simpler for all concerned if she told them just before she was married. Clive agreed.

In the brightness of that Florida afternoon with other passengers milling about them she said good-bye first to Clive who held her hand so tightly that it hurt, then to Uncle Jeff and then to her father. Her father looked so distressed that she was afraid he was going to cry.

Clive said, "I'll look after these two boys of yours, Carol, in the little time I have left. I'll make them take me fishing. I didn't dare suggest fishing to you."

"We'll look after him you mean," Uncle Jeff said.

Her father said nothing. But seeing his grief at her going she felt his devotion more than she had felt it before. Taking his hand, she said, "Take care of yourself and write...write often."

She watched them go down the gangplank. But her eyes lingered on Clive. The tears in them were for him, for separation, for love...It was to him chiefly that she raised her hand...And, as in all moments of parting, she wondered whether she had ever loved anyone more.

From a small window in the cocktail lounge Bill Sturtevant could see the flower vendors on the street selling jonquils. Putting the scotch and soda to his lips, he thought of the jonquils that had once bloomed in his own garden. Funny, he thought, remembering that, remembering that one of the neighbors had exclaimed, "Aren't they dear Aren't they just too sweet!" and he and Carol had looked at each other and smiled furtively. Funny, remembering any of that now when the worst crisis of his life was upon him and he had stopped at this small place for a drink to steady his nerves before going home to tell Evelyn.

Inside he felt sick and scared and angry. He had never felt quite so alone in his life. When he saw a couple at a near-by table chatting pleasantly. he thought, "Was I like that once? I didn't know how good it was then."

The scene with Tom Purnell, his boss, kept popping up like a puppet Satan. Bill lowered his eyes. He didn't want anyone to see how he looked, knowing that misery was written on his face.

Poor old Tom had tried to muffle the blow. He had said, moving his large, rough hands uneasily, "In a company of this size there are bound to be changes in personnel, Bill. I'm not head man around here, you know ...I...well, that is...the management has decided to bring in an outside man for your job and we want you to go back to one of the departments."

And Bill had felt heat rising about him. Sitting in Tom's handsome office, he could see that Thelma was behind this move, that this was Thelma's way of hurting and humiliating Evelyn. There was nothing Tom would not do for Thelma. He would even lose the best man he had ever had (he had said that often in Bill's hearing) so that Thelma could have her cheap revenge and triumph.

He had looked at Tom with pity. Not hate or anger or bitterness but pity for an aging man dominated by an ambitious, pretty wife. And Tom had had to acquiesce reluctantly to her demands, taking it to the management, pulling strings, lying...all so that Thelma could have her cheap revenge and triumph.

It made you sick. It made you want to cry out against all that was unfair and selfish and greedy. Then he had thought, "I was unfair and selfish and greedy where Carol was concerned. I was rotten to her. Maybe I had this coming to me."

Tom had said, "I'm, sorry, boy. You've done a fine job here. And if there's ever anything I can do for you."

Bill had said, "Thank you There is something you can do for me right now. I'd like you to accept my resignation. I don't deserve a demotion, sir."

Tom had started, "Don't be hasty, Bill! This may be only temporary. I'll see."

"Thank you. You've been awfully swell to me. I've enjoyed working with you every minute and you've taught me a lot. but I'd still like to resign. I'm sure that everyone concerned will be a lot happier."

"I wish you wouldn't do this. If I'd known."

Stepping from the office building, Bill had felt that first terrible moment of loneliness. And it came upon him again when he was in his car and he knew suddenly that he could not bear to go directly home. He had not the slightest wish to go home

And now, sitting in the lounge, he knew that if Carol were waiting, he'd have gone directly home and relieved himself of his burden and worry. He had always discussed his office problems with her and more than once had been amazed at her ideas and suggestions. It had occurred to him, too, lately, in moments of regret that he had never told Carol he had often used her suggestions as his own. With Evelyn, too, he had begun to speak of what had always been next dear to his heart, his job with Tom. But after one experience when he had been talking and Evelyn had interrupted with, "Didn't you forget to shave, Bill?" he had never mentioned his work again.

He could not get his thoughts in order. He could not think nearly as he liked to think solving one thing at a time. Nor when Evelyn sprang to his mind could he think of her save with compassion and pity. Her beauty did not stir him. It was like a house with a beautiful exterior, but empty and unfinished inside .. like all lovely things without soul or mind. Evelyn was like a pedigreed animal who takes for granted his special care, his soft pillow by the fire, his expensive food, the caress of his master.

Bill's thoughts of her made him stroke his forehead and shake his head. He could not tell her tonight. No, not tonight of all nights. Because Evelyn was anticipating tonight more than she had anticipated any social event since their marriage. For tonight was the annual charity ball at the Clinton armory and they had a party arranged and a table reserved. And Evelyn had a new and expensive dress.

The dress held his thoughts while he finished his drink. When you are madly in love with a girl, he thought, you never think of how much her dress cost or if she had difficulty getting into it or how much time she had spent on her face and hair. The time it required Evelyn to dress exhausted his patience. It made him uneasy now to think of her sitting at the dressing table putting cream on her face and taking off that cream and putting on another and ringing for the maid to bring her ice and the long, slow process of making up and fixing her hair. For only about her body and face did she take particular care and rather than appreciating the effort it annoyed him exceedingly that they were always late for engagements. When they were going to the theatre they had to grope their way down the darkened aisle to their seats and climb over an assortment of knees and feet.

Of late he who loved beauty in women had come to have an increasing respect and admiration for the plain athletic women at the club. He could look at them with pleasure, thinking that at least they never kept their husbands waiting.

No, he could not tell her tonight. He wouldn't spoil her fun. On second thought he wondered whether the news that he did not have a job would upset her very much. He doubted seriously that it would. To Evelyn his beloved work was a vacuum into which he disappeared each day and from which came the money to meet her needs. It had never occurred to her how much care and energy he put into his work and how important it was to him and that his salary was only secondary to his happiness in his job.

His job. His heart sank, and bit his lip. He thought, "If I'm sorry for myself, I'm licked before I start. But that's the only job I've ever had. Maybe I'll have to leave Clinton. His throat felt full and aching. He had not cried since his father had died. He had forgotten how it felt when you were afraid you were going to cry. He knew now. He knew how it felt when you were afraid you were going to cry...and when mentally you were beating strong fists against a stone wall with futility.

Sitting up straight, he reached for his wallet, paid for the drink and went out to his car. He had to go home. He had to go back to Evelyn. He had no other place to go. He would never have any place to go except to go back to her.

Inside the old gray Clinton Armory there was such gayety and color and music as the Clinton populace saw only on this annual event. In the centre of the vast floor was an orchestra for the occasion and around it on what seemed to be an endless ballroom the dancers moved in a crowded, colorful, human knot Flanking the ball room were white-clothed tables at which sat the city's popular and renown and politically potent as well as your neighbor and mine and anyone who could afford to buy a ticket. Next day the papers would tell you who had been there and how many and quote excerpts from the speeches. But the choicest stories were never told.

There were eight in Bill and Evelyn's party including themselves. Dee and Johnny Downs, Lila and Dutch Wescott, Barbara and Max Douglas. They had had cocktails at the Wescott's house and dinner at the Douglas' house. The girls looked beautiful, though there was not a superlative to describe Evelyn in a white dress studded with brilliants.

Looking at her across the Douglas' perfectly appointed table Bill had thought wretchedly, "She's more animated tonight. I wonder why she's all steamed up over a public affair. Lord, she's beautiful. Damn it, why don't I love her any more? She's my wife. Why don't I want her? Why can't I feel something other than pity because she tried to be nice and she doesn't know what it's all about and she can't help it?

Now at the ball he saw her dancing with Dutch. He saw other people looking at her—the men turning their heads away from their partners, women working their necks. Rather than the sense of triumph he supposed he should feel, he felt nothing, and he began to wonder whether Ian and Freda were here and Carol with them.

Then he saw Scott, but Scott did not see him. For Scott was omorously absorbed in the conversation of a small blonde with whom he was dancing. Bill's eyes followed them to their table on which there was an abundant supply of liquid refreshment.

How like Scott to get hooked-up with a free-spending party! Funny, it had been only recently when, in his unhappiness he had begun to look beneath the surface of people and things, it had occurred to him what a sponger Scott was. Scott had come out to see Evelyn and him, but his visits had been brief and not too pleasant. Bill suspected that in his (Bill's) new home Scott did not feel free to ask for food and liquor. In this second home Scott was a stranger, his charm wasted on Evelyn who expected people to entertain her and serve her But at least Carol had not married Scott. Thank God for that

He thought, "I had a prolonged adolescence where people are concerned. I depended on Carol's insight. I thought Scott was a good fellow. I thought he was a friend. And all he cared about was what he got out of us. To him everybody is or is not a contact!... I used to throw that word about a lot until Carol said it was a word to be used only in business and then cautiously. She hated it.

PRINCESS PLEDGES

price we cheerfully undertook to pay for the high honor of standing alone seven years ago in defence of the liberty of the world.

Let us say with Rupert Brooke "Now God be thanked who has matched us with His hour."

Difficulties Opportunity for Youth

I am sure that you will see our difficulties in the light that I see them, the great opportunity for you and me. Most of you have read in the history books the proud saying of William Pitt that England had saved herself by her exertions and would save Europe by her example. But in our time we may say that the British Empire has saved the world first and has now to save itself after the battle in won.

I think that is an even finer thing than was done in the days of the past, and it is for who have grown up in these years of danger and glory to see that it is accomplished in the long years of peace that we all hope stretch ahead.

Unwavering Faith

If we all go forward with an unwavering faith, a high courage and a quiet heart, we shall be able to make of this ancient Commonwealth which we all love dearly an even grander thing — more free, more prosperous, more happy and a more powerful influence for good in the world — that it has been in the greatest days of our forefathers. To accomplish that we must give nothing less than the whole of ourselves.

There is a motto which has been born by many of my ancestors—a noble motto, "I serve." Those words were an inspiration to many bygone heirs to the throne when they made their knightly dedication as they came to manhood.

I cannot do quite as they did, but through the inventions of science I can do what was not possible for any of them. I can make my solemn act of dedication with a whole empire listening.

Act of Dedication of Life

I should like to make that dedication now. It is very simple.

I declare before you all that my whole life, whether it be long or short, shall be devoted to your service and the service of our great Imperial Family to which we all belong, but I shall not have strength to carry out this resolution alone unless you join in it with me, as I now invite you to do.

I know that your support will be unfailingly given.

God help me to make good my vow and God bless all of you who are willing to share in it.

Father Divine Under Court Order

Syracuse, N. Y., April 21—(AP) —Father Divine is under court order to show cause in State Supreme Court today why a receiver should not be appointed to protect a fund of nearly $600,000 pending disposition of a legal action.

A summons and complaint have been served on the Negro cult leader seeking $350,000 damages and to prevent Divine and several co-defendants from disposing of the $600,000 left two of his "heavens" under terms of a will.

The complaint said the money was left to the "heavens" by Mary Sheldon Lyon, known in the cult as "peace dove," who died in New York City last Oct. 10.

The plaintiffs are Lucy Latham, Margaret Price and Cathrena Huophrey of Syracuse and Arthur Lyon of Rose, all of whom claim to be first cousins of Mrs. Lyon. The complaint alleges that Father Divine and several co-defendants "conspired to prevent Mrs. Lyon from executing a will in 1946. They contended that Mrs. Lyon intended to leave them approximately $350,000.

Arctic Trader Barters, Tends Ill

Flin Flon, Man. (CP)— The "medicine man" to seven Eskimo families at the bleak trading post on Nueltin Lake in the barren lands about 500 miles north of here, is 22-year-old Charles Schweder, trader and white fox trapper.

Schweder, who with his 17-year-old brother runs the post established by their father, Frederic, more than 15 years ago, tends to the Eskimos when they are ill, with the closest doctor hundreds of miles away.

While their father trades at Lac Du Brochet, 200 miles south of here, the youths exchange tobacco, blankets and ammunition for the Eskimo's white fox pelts, and also roam their own trap line up to 150 miles from their two-room cabin.

Goods for the post are hauled over the winter snows by tractor train from Flin Flon to Lac Du Brochet and from there dog teams pull supply sleds to the isolated cabin.

Barter Methods

The Schweders have evolved a new method of bartering with the Eskimos who can neither read nor write.

When the Eskimo trapper offers his skins, Schweder sets a number of sticks on the counter indicating what he will pay in merchandise. Then, as the customer chooses the articles, Schweder indicates how many sticks each will cost.

Transportations costs make prices soar with flour bringing 30 to 40 cents a pound and tea about $1.50.

The outpost has electric light generated by a wind-charged power. But heating facilities are confined to a pot-bellied stove.

Schweder enjoys life 500 miles from the Arctic circle.

"Up here, one can be free to do as you please," he says. "I don't mind the Arctic life — it's good, healthy and it's entertaining.

"Some mornings, right outside our door, a pack of timber wolves will gather..and wolf pelts have a $25 bounty. I hunt, read any book I can get my hands on and shoot cariboo."

Ready to Spring New Formula To Settle Strike

Washington, April 21 (AP)— Spurred by new peace pacts in steel and other industries, United States Labor Department conciliators indicated today they may be ready to spring a new formula for settling the country-wide telephone strike.

Although they declined to outline their next step publicly at this time, they told a reporter mands in arbitration.
a "crucial stage."

Entering its third week, the 340,000-worker phone tieup stood as the only major blot on an otherwise placid American labor relations picture.

Bell system subsidiaries of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company continued to argue for regional arbitration of the dispute while the unions plugged for a "down payment" wage increase before letting outsiders judge their remaining de-

FIGHT FOR RELIGION

Toronto, April 21 (CP)—James Cardinal McGuigan last night called on Roman Catholics to fight for "patriotism and religion in this hour when millions are being enslaved in Europe."

He addressed a gathering at Columbus Hall in tribute to the newly formed General Assembly, fourth degree Knights of Columbus, which includes the territory of Toronto, Oshawa, Barrie and Orillia.

Without referring directly to any particular nation he said "eastern Europe is a story of tragedy and sorrow unbelievable to us who breathe the air of freedom. Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty."

TINY SHACK TIPS PILOTS "PROB" DATA

R. C. A. F. Communication Centre Provides Northwest With Almost Fool-Proof Check on Flying

Edmonton (CP)—A tiny frame building on Edmonton's western outskirts has only a maze of steel and wooden antenna towers to distinguish it from a respectable shack—but in reality it's the life centre of an elaborate communications system, with more power at its disposal than the combined wattages of all radio broadcasting stations in Edmonton. And it operates 24 hours a day.

The equipment in the building powers numerous wireless channels in a system rated as among the finest of its kind on the continent, for the little building is the communications section of the North West Air Command of the R.C.A.F.

The section's personnel and equipment provide an almost foolproof safety check on all flying through navigational aids and weather information. No service aicraft can take off anywhere in the Canadian Northwest without an operator in a control centre at Edmonton airport headquarters knowing all about it.

If necessary, operators can communicate with the pilot either by voice or wireless code on an air-to-ground channel.

Should a pilot flying in the far north need weather forecasts and finds Edmonton's signals too week for efficient reception, the operator here will punch a wireless key, sending his message by land line to Fort Nelson. The message gets automatic transmission there, extending the range by hundreds of miles.

150,000 Power Watts

For blanket coverage, signals sent from here can activate a key in Fort Nelson and give simultaneous transmission from both centres. Equipment ranges from 300-watt to 10,000-watt units. In all, the small building can produce more than 50,000 watts.

Transmission of weather data to the Mackenzie river basin for photographic flights is a big job during the spring, summer and fall. Other channels give direct communication between Edmonton and Churchill; air-ground channels keep track of aircraft from White Horse to Winnipeg. This service recently was extended to United States army air force planes.

An important part of the work is the study of radio wave propagation. A channel linking Edmonton with Red Bank, N.J., headquarters for some of the continent's foremost electrical developments, is used to report on these studies.

Loran (long range navigational aid) stations in the north operate 23 hours out of 24. Transmitters for this highly-developed safety system are at Dawson Creek, B. C.; Hamlin, Sask., and Gimli, Man.

Signals from these points throw a pattern over nearly all northern Canada. Newest addition to N.W.A.C. equipment is the radio teletype machine, linking Edmonton and Winnipeg. It automatically types messages at either end without benefit of land lines. Commercial companies are reported to be watching R.C.A.F. operation of this equipment closely.

SAILORS UNDER FOREIGN FLAGS ENVY CANUCKS

18,000 Seamen From Ports in Europe Man 500 Ships Under the Flag of Panama

Vancouver (CP)—Men doomed to roam the seas under foreign flags, their own fleets of merchant-men destroyed during the war, come to the port of Vancouver bringing with them tales of privation in their homelands and shocked by the luxury of Canadian life.

Many of the international brigade come from Greece, where no longer jobs are available for seamen and hunger stalks thousands, while others are from ports in Italy, Spain and other European countries. Some are serving as deckhands, men who commanded their own ships during the war only to have a Nazi torpedo end their careers as masters.

Typical is Vassilias Avonaritis, a Greek first officer on the SS. Euripides flying the flag of Panama. He is one of 18,000 seamen from European ports now manning 500 ships under the flag of Panama.

"We are like poor relations, better kept out of sight and out of mind," said Avonaritis, who knows the hardships of post-war Europe. "You Canadians don't want to hear about the suffering of your former allies, as you called them during the war."

Many others, men who seldom laugh, are too proud to admit they would like to share the luxuries of Canadian life. Some would like to settle on Canada's fertile acres, but they are warned against illegal entry. The penalty would be jail and deportation.

They see little hope in their homelands, not for 10 years at least will misery and hunger be vanished.

Heavy Rainfall Extinguishes Fire

Tokyo, April 21 —(AP)— Heavy rainfall early today extinguished a fire which brought an estimated $24,000,000 damage in the small inland city of Iida and left nearly 19,000 homeless.

A United States army statement said the fire started in a geisha girls' boarding house Sunday noon and finally was extinguished at 3 a.m. today.

The Iida toll, added to those of recent fire losses in Aomori and Miyaga perfectures, made a total of 4,807 homes destroyed by fire and 25,376 left homeless on the main home island of Honshu in the last five days. There were three confirmed deaths.

BRITISH TROOP TRAIN BLOWN UP, EIGHT KILLED

Nine Believed Dead When Two Planes Crash in Landing

No Bodies Recovered As Both Planes Still Burning

Columbus, Ga., April 22 — (AP)—A Delta Airlines plane collided with a reconverted army basic trainer in landing here today and at least nine persons were believed dead in the crash. Attaches at Muscogee airport said no bodies had been recovered from either plane, both of which were burning at 11:15 a.m. EST.

Delta Airlines said its plane was a special flight carrying eight persons, seven of them company executives, on a survey flight. It listed the eight as 'apparently' dead. One man was reported in the plane.

"Apparently no one escaped," Delta's headquarters in the Atlanta reported, explaining that the burning ship made it impossible to rescue those aboard.

T. J. Peddy, manager of Eastern Air Lines here, said he was informed the training plane crashed into the tail of twin engined Delta plane as the latter approached the end of the landing strip.

The training plane fell underneath the tail of the Delta plane. Both caught fire.

Anglican Urges Catholics to Ask Co-operation

Montreal, April 22 (CP)—Rt. Rev. John Dixon, Anglican Bishop of Montreal, in his charge delivered today at the opening session of the 88th annual synod of the dioceses, called upon the Roman Catholic Church to ask the Anglican Church for "co-operation and support."

"In the province it is natural that leadership in many matters of public good should be taken by our Roman Catholic brethren," Bishop Dixon said. "I make bold to ask them to call upon us for co-operation and support."

Bishop Dixon told the synod that the report of the special Anglican committee which investigated the question of Union with the United Church of Canada had been placed before the church for study during the next three years.

The result of the conversations was a proposed form of mutual ordination whereby "each body might receive the ministry of the of the other as an experiment, not in corporate union, but in cooperation where it seemed advisable."

Tireless Dog Catcher Hears Chief Say Drive Must Intensify

Toronto, April 22 (CP)—For 24 years, except for one leave of two weeks, dog catcher Charles Burrows has been the nemesis of stray canines in suburban York township. Yesterday, wearily, he heard Chief Constable Robert Alexander tell the township council the drive against roving dogs was to be intensified.

"Councillors' phones will be ringing all day asking that the police be called off," the chief predicted. "It won't be a case of calling off the dogs."

Commented Burrows:

"My place is open 24 hours a day but there doesn't seem to be any let-up in the dogs roaming."

Honorary Degree Is Given Queen In South Africa

By LOUIS WULFF

Capetown, South Africa, April 22 (Reuters)—The Queen, attending her first function of the tour without the King, went to Capetown University today to receive the Honorary Degree of Doctor of Laws.

Her outstanding impressions of South Africa, she said in speech, were the beauty and richness of the country, and the kindliness and strength of its people.

Prime Minister Smuts, as Chancellor of the University, conferred the degree.

The Queen's presence on the tour with the King, he said, had meant much.

"Something of your gracious personality has gone out to us and entered into the spirit of South Africa. It will remain an abiding presence with us, a healthy influence among the differences which distract our society."

The Queen, wearing the red and mustard yellow robes of a Doctor of Laws, received an enthusiastic welcome from the students.

Princess Elizabeth spent a busy morning at Government House opening more birthday telegrams and messages which were still pouring in last night.

Warehouse of RR Terminal Burns In Texas City

Texas City, Tex., April 22 — (AP)— The warehouse of the Texas City Terminal Railway Company, stored with ammonium nitrate, burst into flames today seven days after the disastrous explosions, caused by the same chemical, killed an estimate of 575 persons.

Deputy Mayor John Hill said that "an explosion could occur at any time."

The cause of the fire was not determined, but a Houston Chronical reporter at the scene said it broke out shortly after 9:10 a.m. almost the same minute the first blaze occurred aboard the French ship Grandcamp last Wednesday.

Survivors of the Grandcamp were expected to testify before a coast guard investigating board later in the day. The board is seeking to determine the cause of last Wednesday's explosions which led to the death of hundreds and destruction of most of this city of 15,000.

Wants Rights of Religious Minorities To Practise Faiths Freely in UN Lands

London, April 22 —(AP)— The British Council of Churches endorsed today a committee report urging that the forthcoming United Nations declaration on human rights support the rights of religious minorities to practise their faiths freely in all member countries.

In a discussion of the report, several religious leaders said modern Socialist states constituted a threat to religious freedom because they put emphasis on the state rather than the individual. Some cited the "pressure" of Communism and legal restrictions on missionary activities.

One speaker said the report would be interpreted as an attack on Russia, but the Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, said "Russia is not the only, and I should be inclined to say not the greatest, danger in this particular field of threats to religious liberty."

The Bishop of Worcester, Dr. Wilson Cash, said "there is less religious freedom in the secular state of Turkey today than there was under the old Ottoman rule." He said the Egyptian government was trying to "exterminate" missionary work.

The report was prepared by Britain's joint committee on religious education, set up by all major Protestant organizations. It recommended that the U. N. establish a standard of religious freedom to which "all the members of the United Nations would be expected, and would expect one another, to conform." The report suggested the possibility of sanctions against countries failing to conform.

Compares With Profit Of $24,756,130 In 1945, Outlook This Year Not Bright

Ottawa, April 22 —(CP)— The annual report of Canadian National Railways was tabled in the Commons today showing the publicly-owned system came out of 1946 with a deficit of $8,961,570 compared with a profit of $24,756,130 earned in 1945 and with predictions that its outlook for 1947 was not at all financially bright.

President R. C. Vaughan reported that though railway traffic in train miles was almost as heavy as in 1945, return to peacetime normal was hampered by reconversion in industry, by strikes and by shortages of rolling stock and savings in operating costs "were far more than offset by increased rates of pay and increased prices for fuel and the materials used in railway operation and maintenance."

For the future outlook, the president had this to say:

"The higher costs, which have been obscured by peak traffic conditions, became apparent as traffic volume diminished and their impact has not yet been fully felt.

"The wage increases of June 1, 1946 will be in effect for the full year in 1947. It is estimated that material prices will be 10 per cent higher. Thus operating costs will be some $20,000,000 greater than in 1946."

Passenger Revenue Drops

The report disclosed that passenger train service decreased 31.4 per cent in miles and $17,267,000 in revenue as compared with 1945 while revenue from grain carriage slumped $14,726,000. It said the decreases in these two sources of revenue accounted in the main for the reduction in gross receipts.

The fact that passenger miles decreased 31.4 per cent and revenue from fares 23.1 per cent while train miles decreased only 4.1 per cent and passengers per car mile slumped 20 per cent reflected a change in the type of passenger traffic.

Although freight car loads were greater by 2.6 per cent than in 1945, revenue decreased 5.1 per cent and tons hauled by 1.2 per cent. The average length of the haul was down by 9.8 per cent and the volume of grain less by 27 per cent. These condi-

Russia Makes Proposal Korean Commission Resume Delayed Task

By EDDY GILMORE

Moscow, April 22 — (AP) — Russia — responding to a suggestion by the United States—proposed today that the joint Soviet-American Commission empowered to start Korea on the road to independence meet in Seoul May 20 to resume its work, interrupted by basic disagreements 11 months ago.

Foreign Minister Molotov, replying to a letter from State Secretary Marshall on the Korean question, blamed American members of the Commission for causing the breakdown last May in negotiations and suggested a three-point program for immediate action:

"1. The establishment of a provisional Korean Democratic government on the basis of broad participation by Korean Democratic parties and social organizations, in order to expedite the political and economic amalgamation of Korea as a self-government state, independent of foreign interference, which fact would eliminate the division of the country into two zones."

(Soviet troops now occupy the northern zone and American troops the southern zone.

(Failure to agree on what constituted "democratic" parties and organizations resulted in the breakdown of the Commission last year.)

"2. The establishment of democratic bodies of power throughout Korea by free elections on the basis of general and equal suffrage.

"3. Aid to the Korean nation in restoring Korea as an independent, democratic state and in developing the national economy and national culture."

This apparently was a proposal for joint Russian-American financial aid to Korea.

22 ARE INJURED AS AQUITANIA RIDES OUT GALE

Ship en Route to Britain From Halifax and Bermuda; Winds Reach 80 Miles Per Hour

Southampton, Eng., April 22 — (CP)— The liner Aquitania docked today after riding out Atlantic gales in which Cunard-White Star officials said 22 persons were injured Saturday night while the ship was en route to Britain from Halifax and Bermuda.

One of the vessel's 1,107 passengers was taken to hospital here with severe facial injuries. Treated in the ship's hospital among the other 21 injured passengers was Mrs. Judith Fraser of Vancouver, who suffered rib injuries and facial bruises.

The ship was reported undamaged by the buffetting.

At Liverpool, gusts reaching 80 miles an hour velocity prevented the liner Mauretania from docking after high-speed test runs preparatory to resuming trans-Atlantic passenger service. Officials said she would berth tomorrow, weather permitting.

Meanwhile the 31,000-ton battleship Warspite was adrift off Land's End, the southwestern tip of England. The warship broke loose while under tow to a shipyard for scrapping, but radioed it was in no immediate danger.

Capt. G. E. Cove, master of the Aquitania said the liner battled a westerly gale throughout most of the crossing and speed was reduced to minimize rolling.

The ship carried 1,107 passengers.

Cool Weather Delays Farmers

Toronto, April 22 —(CP)— Continued cool weather is delaying spring farm operations throughout Ontario, officials of the Ontario Department of Agriculture said today.

"There's no seeding being done at all anywhere in the province," said an official who deals with grain crops. "We don't expect seeding will start for another week at least. Perhaps it will be later than that if the weather doesn't warm up."

He added that severe frosts would damage winter wheat fields and pasture land, now bare of snow. Frost had been reported in the Peterborough area.

From the Niagara Peninsula came reports that cold weather was delaying appearance of buds on blossoms on the fruit district's peach or pear trees. Last year Blossom Sunday was observed April 21.

Weather Synopsis

Toronto, April 22 (CP) — Synopsis: Over most of Ontario and throughout the Great Lakes region the weather is cloudy and cool. Scattered showers are reported from Michigan and the Lake Superior area, snowflurries in western James Bay. The shower activity is expected to spread into Southern Ontario during the day. Temperatures should moderate slightly today and Wednesday.

NEW PACT WILL ASSURE PEACE FOR TWO YEARS

Top Officials of Steel Workers and U. S. Steel Corporation to Place Names

Pittsburgh, April 22. (AP)— Top officials of the United Steelworkers (C.I.O.) and the United States Steel Corporation today will put their signatures to a new pact which union president, Philip Murray declared "assures peace in the industry for two years."

The signing will climax more than three months of negotiations and will make official the agreement providing a $1-a-day increase for 140,000 employees of five corporation subsidiaries.

The steelworkers' executive board approved the agreement Sunday and the union's 175-man wage policy committee added its unanimous endorsement yesterday.

Murray termed the wage pact "an answer to all congressional labor baiters hell-bent on destruction of labor unions in America."

With its major task of signing "Big Steel" completed, the C.I.O.'s biggest union turned to the job of winning similar wage contracts for the remainder of the basic and fabricating steel industry which employs the bulk of its 853,000 members.

Murray said yesterday that he anticipated no troubles in negotiations with the remaining 86 basic firms with which the union holds contracts.

Last year's wage drive by the steelworkers, which precipitated a 30-day countrywide strike, resulted in an 18 1-2-cent hourly wage boost that did become the pattern for industry generally.

The new United States steel agreement provides hourly raises equivalent to slightly more than 15 cents. It is for two years but contains a wage reopening clause which can be employed after one year.

New Proposal Offered

Detroit April 22. (AP)—Negotiators for General Motors Corporation and the United Automobile Workers (C.I.O.) had a new union proposal before them today as they resumed contract discussions.

President Walter P. Reuther of the U.A.W. announced what he described as "an entirely new proposal" to the corporation yesterday, but said only that it would affect "overall negotiations" and that the plan would be reported fully to the G.M. Council of the union here Wednesday.

Soon after Reuther's disclosure came a report that the U.A.W. had discarded its original 23 1-2 cent hourly wage increase demand to accept a 15-cent corporation offer but Reuther described that statement as "a bad guess".

However, although there was no hint as to the contents of the offer from either company or union, recent settlements of other C.I.O. groups for less than the U.A.W. demand led to speculation that the auto union might be ready to agree to a lower figure than the 23 1-2 cent raise stipulated.

HOUSE REJECTS RENTAL, EVICTION AMENDMENTS

Government Handling Of Subsidies Draws Fire of Opposition Members

By DARCY O'DONNELL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, April 22. (CP)—The government's handling of anti-inflation subsidy payments drew criticism from opposition members in the Commons yesterday after Progressive Conservative members unsuccessfully sought relaxation of some rental and eviction control regulations.

By vocal votes members defeated amendments sponsored by Donald Fleming—(PC—Toronto Eglington) that would have made it possible for veterans with overseas service to obtain possession of homes purchased prior to March 31, 1947, and that would have lifted eviction regulations from shared accommodation tenancies hereafter created.

Finance Minister Abbott said the amendments were unacceptabel because it was feared that any change in existing regulations at this time would harm rather than improve the present housing situation.

On defeat of the amendments, members passed the "all-important" rental regulations section of the main Control Bill and then turned to regulations continuing the commodity stabilization corporation which handles subsidies paid in an effort to keep the cost of living down.

Wanted Definite Statement

On this section, one of 57 in the schedule of the control bill, Progressive Conservative, C.C.F. and Social Credit members called for a definite statement of government policy on the future of subsidy payments so as to remove the uncertainty which, they said, now was causing a drop in agricultural production.

Justice Minister Ilsley said subsidies were useful when inflation threatened and it was necessary to keep down the cost of goods to the consumer. However, there came a time when subsidies became nothing more than a transfer of purchasing power from the hands of the taxpayer to the hands of the consumer. When such a point was reached subsidies should be discontinued.

WINTER WHEAT UNHARMED

KILLED BY TRUCK

London, Ont., April 22—(CP)— Ralph J. Bickerton, 55, of Ingersoll, was instantly killed early today when struck by an automobile on No. 2 highway, east of the city limits. He is reported to have parked his car on the south side of the street and stepped into the path of an eastbound vehicle. Police said the car driver was Hume Cronyn, 23, of R. R. 6 London, Ont.

Admits Use of Cigaret Allocations To Buy Goods for Illegal Export

Hamburg, April 22 (Reuters)— Canadian born Theodore Reid Hartwick, former allied control commission officer, pleaded guilty in a control commission court here today to charges of using displaced persons' cigaret allocations to buy fur coats, jewelry and stockings for illegal export to Britain. Sentence will be pronounced tomorrow.

Hartwick, 37-year-old graduate of the University of Toronto, whose home now is in Surrey, acknowledged that he illegally exported jewelry, a silver fox fur, a squirrel coat, clothing and cameras and illegally converted to his use more than 100,000 cigarets allocated for issue to displaced persons in Bergedorf camp.

Prosecutor John Stevenson said Hartwick last October received an allocation of 1,500,00 cigarets for isue to displaced persons and allied prisoners in Bergedorf camp. Later a further 85,000 cigarets arrived from the British Red Cross.

The handling of cigarets by the accused formed the basis of most of the charges to which Hartwick pleaded guilty.

A German woman furrier gave evidence that Hartwick and his wife called at her shop and selected a sable coat at 40,000 marks ($4,000) and another fur coat at 38,000 marks (3,800), and later both coats were delivered to Hartwick.

She also sold a silver fox fur and a blue fox fur at 5,800 marks ($580) each which were collected and paid for by the wife of Hartwick's driver, she said.

Irgun Organization Machine-Guns Train Wreckage

Condemned Jews Commit Suicide by Blowing Selves Up

By CARTER L. DAVIDSON

Jerusalem, April 22 (AP) — Terrorists blew up a British troop train southeast of Tel Aviv today, killing at least eight persons, and then machine-gunned the wreckage. The attack was made two hours after two condemned Jews committed suicide with explosives just before they were to have mounted the gallows.

Army sources said they believed the "Egypt Express" bringing soldiers from that country, had been attacked by members of the Jewish underground group, Irgun Zvai Leumi. Four coaches were demolished, apparently by electrically-detonated mines under the rails.

Police said "from 150 to 200" persons aboard the wrecked train suffered cuts and bruises.

Troops and guards were reported to have exchanged fire with the attackers, but no one was captured. One of the dead was a child, two were civilians and five were soldiers. Those at the scene reported seeing arms, legs and other parts of mutilated bodies in the wreckage.

The doomed Jews, Meyer Feinstein and Moshe Barazani clasped explosives secreted in hollowed oranges to their breasts and died in mangled contortion in Jerusalem prison just before they were to have mounted the 13 steps leading to the hangman's noose. Both were underground members and had been condemned for anti-British violence. Four other members of Irgun were hanged last week, and Irgun had issued threats of vengeance.

Cordoned Property Off

While rescue squads hastened toward the scene from all parts of the coastal plain, military and police authorities cordoned off the entire Rehovot area — where the attack occurred. Several hundred Jews were hastily screened in a search for Extremists believed responsible.

The train was the regular morning "Egypt Express," which normally carries large numbers of troops and officers returning from leave to duty in Palestine. The express had left Ishaila before dawn and was due at Lydda in mid-morning.

After the blast, hidden gunmen were reported to have sprayed the train with grenades and small arms fire, which was returned by the troops.

Meanwhile, tension heightened by an official report that British naval vessels were escorting to Haifa the refugee ship Shair Yishuv, loaded with about 800 Jews lacking immigration certificates. The ship was intercepted and boarded off the Palestine coast.

Rigid Curfew Imposed

In anticipation of the impending execution of Feinstein and Barazini, British authorities late last night had imposed a rigid curfew on all Jewish quarters in Jerusalem, placing some 80,000 Jews under virtual house arrest in an effort to avert possible demonstrations.

The troops mounting guard to enforce the curfew received orders this morning to redouble their vigilance against an attempted mass curfew break during the funerals of the suicides, who were buried at 9 a.m. in the Jewish cemetery on the slopes of the Mount of Olives.

The curfew was suddenly lifted two hours after the funeral, but it was announced that it would be reimposed tonight and would remain in effect on a dusk-to-dawn basis until further notice.

Prof. Collip, CBE, Is Appointed Dean of Medicine

London, Ont., April 22 (CP)— One of Canada's most distinguished scientists and a co-worker with Sir Frederick Banting in the discovery of insulin, Prof. James Bertram Collip, CBE, has been named to replace Dr. G. E. Hall as dean of medicine and head of the Department of Medical Research of the University of Western Ontario.

City Will Take Active Part In British Flood Relief Campaign to Start on May 1

Groundwork for Belleville's share in the forthcoming British Flood Relief Campaign, sponsored by the Ontario Government, was laid at a meeting of several city organization representatives held last night in the City Hall under the chairmanship of Mayor Frank Follwell.

Represented were the Moose Lodge of Belleville; Canadian Legion; Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans; Ladies' Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion; the Ontario Government; St. Julien Chapter, I.O.D.E.; the Belleville Jewish Community and several interested private citizens.

Lengthy discussion on ways and means of collecting clothing and securing parcels of food for the crisis-torn people of Britain took place and the meeting was adjourned until Friday night of this week. The secretary of the newly formed committee, City Comptroller Harold Bateman, was instructed to notify all churches and city service clubs as well as other organizations to be present at the Friday night meeting so that all plans for the campaign can be completed. The drive for clothing and food starts on May 1 and lasts through to May 15.

Send Collection to Toronto.

According to information received from the Hon. Russell Kelly, Ontario Minister of Health, chairman of the General Committee, clothing collected and taken to central depots in various communities then sent to Toronto where it will be sorted, baled, prepared for shipment and sent overseas to Ontario House, London, for distribution.

Money donations for the purchase of food parcels are to be brought to the offices of the Ontario Intelligencer where Mr. W. H. Morton will act as treasurer. Proper receipts, etc., will be given donors at the newspaper office.

J. Fred Wilson, provincial member for Hastings West, in a brief address, pointed out the hardships suffered by the people of Britain during the past winter, and at the present time "the conditions over there are very serious," he said. "Britain just came through the worst winter in her history and there are at present serious shortages of food, clothing, fuel, etc. There is also a danger of a plague of insect pests due to the fact that a large number of birds were killed by the rigors of winter and flood. Livestock suffered heavily in many areas. Many cattle were killed and what is left is being conserved for breeding purposes."

Efficient Chairman.

"The Hon. Russell Kelly," the speaker said, "was selected as chairman of the General Campaign Committee due to his experience in campaigns of this nature. He is asking for one piece of clothing from every man, women and child in Ontario."

Other communities in the county will hold similar meetings, was Mr. Wilson's hope. "If the city service clubs, churches, and other organizations get behind the drive, which he was confident they would, "we can show the people of Britain that we know, partly at least what they are going through, and it will show them that we have not forgotten that they, and they alone, stood between Hitler and world supremacy in the early days of the war."

Mayor Follwell explained the method being adopted by the Mayor of Victoria, British Columbia will purchase food parcels for Britain and enclose identification cards with the names of the donors, and the city from which they were sent. He thought it was a good idea for Belleville to follow.

100 Per Cent Behind Project.

All representatives present told the chairman that their organizations were 100 per cent behind the campaign and could be depended upon for every assistance in their power.

Various suggestions as to the collection of clothing were discussed. Some were in favor of having church organizations handle original collections, and in this manner undesirable clothing could be discarded.

Others were in favor of using the same method of collection as did the Kiwanis Club a short time ago. In this manner the city was zoned. Service club volunteers manned donated trucks and picked up the clothing. The collection was made and taken to the Armouries in the space of a few hours.

Some Discussion.

There was also some discussion as to the kind of food to be sent overseas. Some representatives were in favor of having a department store pack the boxes, while others stated the people of Britain preferred home-packed parcels. It was also stressed that dried or dehydrated foods be sent instead of a lot of tinned foods. The British Government, it was stated, would let the food parcels in, free of duty.

Mr. Wilson told the meeting that he was going to Toronto today and would bring back all information regarding the campaign so it would be available for the Friday night meeting.

Merchants Favor May 26th As Public Holiday

Following several inquiries received by his committee as to whether May 24 will be observed on Saturday, the day on which it falls, or the following Monday, Chairman Harold Seldon of the Retail Merchants Division of the Chamber of Commerce at its meeting here today, told his committee that he had contacted Mayor Frank Follwell on the matter.

The Mayor, Chairman Seldon said, was most co-operative, and suggested that the Retail Merchants determine their preference on the matter and forward it in a rseolution to the City Council. The Merchants Division executive was wholly in favor of the holiday being held on Monday, May 26th., and will forward that decision to the city fathers. Mayor Follwell stated he would support the measure.

Members Tommy Tucker and Bryson Leslie of the executive presented a report re city parking. It was later moved and endorsed that a letter containing several suggestions to look after parking on the east bank of the Moira River be submitted to the Traffic Committee of the City Council through Alderman Bruce Lattimer.

The meeting felt that much could be done toward increasing available parking areas by cleaning up those locations along the east bank of the river. tions and a change in the character of commodities carried resulted in a lighter per car load of 7.9 per cent and net train load of 7.3 per cent.

"This condition—more cars carrying lighter loads for shorter distances—was one of the factors which made it impossible to reduce costs in proportion to the reduction in revenues," the president said.

Wage increases granted during the year to the average of 105,353 employees with an annual payroll of $237,335,781, added to operating costs and cost of fuel and materials continued to rise "resulting in an estimated increase in operating costs of $4,338,000 as compared with the previous year."

Labor costs increases 37.1 per cent between 1939 and 1946 and the cost of materials by 35.9 per cent during the same period. The additional operating costs in 1946 due to higher wage rates and material prices as compared with the 1939 price level, the report estimated total $88,767,000.

Canadian National Railways' capital expenditure during the year amounted to $16,309,797 and new equipment acquired included 16 diesel-electric locomotives and 856 box cars.

In September the lines of the Manitoba Railway Company, which had been under long-term lease, were purchased for $7,000,000 resulting in an annual saving of $106,000.

A bright spot in the report were figures for Canadian National Express. Total number of shipments during the war in collaboration increase of 1,873,991 over 1945 and the report said traffic handled and revenues earned were the "largest in the history of the department."

Canadian National Telegraphs handled more telegrams and cablegrams than in any previous year, the total exceeding 20,000,000.

The report also disclosed that experimental work was advanced during the war is collaboration with Canadian Pacific communications and the National Research Council on a radio relay system, Montreal-Ottawa-Toronto. It said a radio link between Toronto and Hamilton, will be included.

FINANCIAL YEARS COMPARED.

Operating revenues	$400,586,025.89	$433,773,393.56

Dr. Alferd Wilkes Entomologist at the Dominion Parasite Laboratory here was the guest speaker at the dinner meeting of the members of the Men's Club in connection with St. Thomas' Parish, which was held in the lower assembly room at the Parish House Monday evening. The lecture was illustrated by excellent moving pictures showing the various operations involved at the laboratory here in propagating and preparing the parasites for shipment to the infefsted areas.

Dr. Wilkes' lecture was highly interesting and most informative He was introduced by Mr. Roy Gibson and the appreciation of the members of the club was expressed to Dr. Wilkes by the Rector, the Rev. Arthur Smith.

The president of the Club, Neil D McNish, presided and community singing, which was lustily entered into, was led by Harold Carruthers with Bill Navin at the piano.

The dinner which was excellent, was prepared and served by members of D. and E. groups of the Women's Parochial Guild.

Care in Buying Oil Burning Stoves Can Reduce Fires

In the interest of saving lives and property more care should be exercised in the purchase of oil heating systems and use of the proper type of fuel oil, the Canadian Underwriters' Association said in a warning issued today following the report of several fires caused by defective stoves and the use of dangerous fuels as a substitute for distillate oil during the present shortage.

"Some months ago", the statement said: "The Canadian Underwriters' Association asked the public to be careful in purchasing oil heating systems, including stoves, as types were being sold which did not bear labels showing they had passed the necessary safety tests. Despite this warning, a number of fires have occurred directly attributable to faulty oil stoves.

"Since a shortage of distillate oil developed within the last few weeks, it is apparent that through lack of knowledge, people are using substitute fuels in oil stoves which are extremely dangerous to life and property.

"Under no circumstances should such substances as alcohol, benzine or derivatives be used for oil stoves, because they are explosive when used under certain conditions.

"In order to protect life and property, therefore, it is advisable to issue another warning to the public to be careful both in the purchase of oil stoves and the use of the proper fuel. If oil stoves are purchased from manufacturers or dealers whose products bear an 'approved label' and are properly installed, proper fuel used and ordinary care taken, there is no reason why fires destructive to life and property should occur."

Game Fish With Prize Tag in Tail! Yes, U.S. Anglers Are Offered Extra Lure in Fishing in Quinte

This is a fish story — but not one of the tall variety. In fact it is one for the little red books of advertising tycoons, and that for originality takes the proverbial cake.

In short, a large number of game fish at present swimming in the Bay of Quinte near Trenton, will be worth more than their weight in meal fodder, to American tourists this year.

And thereby hangs the tale—with a tag in it.

Mr. Ed. Hill, of Buffalo, owner of a tourist resort plus a large number of modern cabins on the Bay of Quinte near Twelve O'Clock Point, off Trenton, conceived the brilliant idea of making game fish in the bay, prize-winning beauties. Not by any scale of weight, length and ancestry, etc., but by what they will wear in their tails.

Here is the lowdown on the plot, which will have the wholehearted co-operation of the Retail Merchants Division of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce and it is expected, that of Trenton merchants.

Mr. Hill, will make personal trips with commercial fishermen of the Trenton Bay of Quinte area when they go out to lift their nets. As is a well-known fact, a large number of game fish such as lunge, bass, pickerel, come to the surface in the nets.

Now, Mr. Hill's idea is to attach a tag to the tail of each game fish as it is extricated from the net, and throw it back in the water. On the tag will be designated a cash or another form of prize. The American angler catching one of these tagged fish will be the winner of the prize marked on its tag.

Mr. Hill has close connections with Buffalo radio stations and it is his intention to broadcast the novel idea far and wide over that area.

The idea, presented to the executive of the Retail Merchants Division of the Chamber of Commerce this morning, met with the approval of that body. It has set aside a certain sum of money to be used for prize purposes, while a special committee consisting of Warren Jones and Steve Licence, will interview Trenton merchants with a request that they too, donate certain monies for same idea.

The tagging of the fish will start immediately, according to Mr. Hill and the novel idea is expected to attract American anglers here, especially those from the Buffalo area, in large numbers.

The "Fish Derby", as was stated before, will bring prizes to every fisherman, providing he is an American, hooking a tagged fish. It will not be a case of the biggest fish, or other rules usually associated with angler contests.

Mr. Hill stated that American tourists last year left approximately $83,000 in Trenton, Belleville and vicinity. By American tourists, he meant those who spent their vacations at his resort and cabins.

Chairman Harold Seldon of the Retail Merchants Division presided at the meeting, at which several other items of business were discussed and acted upon.

10-Per-Cent Cut in Income Tax Plus Increased Exemptions Foreseen

By GEORGE KITCHEN

Ottawa, April 22. (CP).—Personal income tax reductions in the approaching budget will take the form of an immediate flat 10-percent cut in all brackets plus increased basic exemptions for married and single, persons, it was learned today.

A reduction of this production, it was said, would dovetail closely into the 10-per-cent pattern which has been shaping up roughly in increases which have been granted by the Prices Board over recent months in the prices of rentals and other goods and services.

The basic exemptions may be boosted from $750 to $1,000 for single persons and from $1,500 to $1,750 for married persons, with the possibility that these may not become effective until next Jan. 1. This would follow the course in the 1946 budget when personal income tax cuts generally were made effective only Jan. 1 this year.

Informed sources also said the budget will be brought down the night of Thursday, May 1, provided emergency control legislation now before the Commons is passed by that date. Current progress indicates the legislation will be through in time for May 1 presentation.

While there have been predictions on tax cuts larger than the 10-per-cent figure, it was said the government held the view there still was substantial, unspent purchasing power in the country and that a bigger reduction was unwarranted, particularly in view of the fact a 16-per-cent decrease became effective at the start of this year—just four months ago.

It was thought possible the government might be able to announce delayed reductions—as was done last year—and make them effective next Jan. 1. However, when this was done in the 1946 budget it proved unpopular and laid the government open to wide Opposition criticism in the Commons.

Informed sources said the government felt an immediate 10-per-cent reduction would be sufficient to help meet the rising cost of living and by the same token serve to soften the expected demands of labor this summer for higher wages.

These sources said the government likely will move to eliminate entirely the war-imposed excess profits tax on business.

As far as the man on the street is concerned, in addition to personal tax reductions, he also will benefit from other cuts.

For instance, the 25-per-cent tax on the purchase of jewelry and silverware likely will be dropped along with the "nuisance" tax on soft drinks and other small items. Some reduction also may be made in the tax on cigarets and tobacco.

'Untouchables' Want Abolition Of Forced Labor

New Delhi, April 22 (AP)—J. N. Mandal, official of the scheduled castes (untouchables) Federation, declared last night that Mohandas K. Gandhi has done "nothing substantial" to relieve the plight of untouchables in India.

Referring to Gandhi's campaign to allow untouchables free entry into Hindu places of worship, Mandal said "what we want is not temple entry—we want abolition of forced labor."

Mandal nominated to the interim government by the Moslem League, said at a press conference that untouchables were forced to work without pay for caste Hundus in several Indian provinces, including Bihar, the Punjab and United.

Gandhi, spiritual leader of fthe predominantly-Hindu Congress Party, long has opposed maltreatment of untouchables.

Another attack on a Congress party leader was levelled by Nawabzada Liaquat Ali Khan, who accused Jamaharlal Nehru, vice-president of the Interim-Goverment, of attempting to "coerce" princely states "into submitting to the dictation of the Congress Party."

Political and Economic Conditions in Czechoslovakia Outlined to Kinsmen Club

Political and economic conditions existent today in Czechoslovakia were outlined to members of the Kinsmen Club at their regular meeting Monday evening by Squadron Leader John Gellnar, D.F.C. of the R.C.A.F. at Trenton.

Winner of the Distinguished Flying Cross while serving as a bomber pilot with the Allied airforce during the war, S/L Gellnar visited his native Czechoslovakia following the cessation of hostilities and since has enlisted in the permanent force of the R.C.A.F.

Describing Czechoslovakia as possibly the only Russian dominated country in Central Europe where Democracy is given the right of survival, the speaker nevertheless stated that all key government positions are controlled by the Communists who at the last election polled 38 per cent of the popular vote. Although the Communists are the strongest party, government is by a compromise of the four major parties. Elections were stated to have been fair.

Using Peaceful Means

Russians were seeking to win the Czechs over to Communism by peaceful rather than by forceful means and were using the country as exhibit "A" for visiting foreign newspapermen. However to assure party strength the voting age was reduced to 18 years through the Communist influence and persons suspected of co-operating with the Germans during the German occupation were disenfranchised.

Communists were permitted to hold government key positions because they controlled labor unions and could call crippling strikes.

Expulsion of three million Germans from the country had been politically necessary because this influence had been responsible for the breaking up of Czechoslovakia in 1938. Economically the removal of Germans had caused much difficulty as much skilled manpower had been lost. There was now insufficient manpower for reconstruction.

Lack of Transportation

Lack of transportation had considerably hampered the country in reconstruction with railroads being almost completely knocked out during the war. Lack of foreign credits had also hampered reconstruction. Practically the only customer Czechoslovakia had today was Russia.

Calling for a complete understanding of the part which the armed forces have in preserving Democracy, the speaker stated that in 1914 the Allied nations had cut the line fine — and they had cut it finer in 1939. He could not see how the line could be cut any finer and urged maintenance of a strong armed force to act in the emergency.

The threat of Communism was dangerous only where conditions were stressed and where the old type of Democracy had failed to work. "If we try half as hard to preserve Democracy as the Communists work to forward their party then the Communists cannot win," concluded the speaker.

Kinsmen Ross Bailey introduced the speaker with club member Dick Beare expressing club appreciation. The meeting was presided over by President Art Cruji.

Passing of King Christian

King Christian X of Denmark is dead at the age of 76 years after an illness of two weeks from heart trouble.

He was a king in every sense of the phrase and "every inch a king," six feet, seven inches tall and possessed of a spirit of freedom that showed during the German occupation when he boldly defied the aggressor and rode daily through the streets of the capital city, Copenhagen, to stir his people. Behind him were the stout-hearted Danish people, jealous of their liberty and hating the German intruders. During the days of World War II he was the centre of the Danish spirit of freedom and democracy. As a ruler he was democratic. Like the other monarchs of Northern Europe, King Christian ever preserved the good will of the people by his democracy.

Denmark is the second of the monarchies to lose its ruler within a few weeks of one another. Just recently Greece laid away King George who six months before had returned from exile. The latter had a reign of disturbances and he spent much of his time away from Greece in exile and was only recently recalled. King Christian of Denmark was in quite a different position. During the German occupation the King remained in his kingdom with his people. There was in his reign no strife such as that which made the reign of King George of Greece a sad one from the standpoint of the monarch.

King Frederick IX who succeeds his father has been regent during the last illness of King Christian. The new King is like his father a democratic figure, he is a lover of art, seafaring and speed and is much beloved by the people of the stout progressive little monarchy.

On Highways and Streets

With winter gone and pavements bare for traffic, the natural trend is to greatly increased use of the highways and streets. At the time the same urge to get out in the open is felt by children and many of them find their play on streets and roads. Here is the opportunity for the car driver to exercise every care for children's lives are more important than the most important message on which a car may be bound.

There is about a child a lack of experience which should prompt every motorist to be careful in order to protect him. It is hard to decide what a child may do under certain conditions. It is known that he will often run without looking into the path of traffic. Now the driver who is careful is on the lookout and has no accidents or near accidents to his name. He drives slowly in the presence of children so that if any make an unexpected move, he will not be caught unprepared—he will be able to stop his car and avoid any possibility of accident.

One of the areas for accidents is about the parked car. Children so often dart out from or around such a vehicle, unable to know whether another car is almost upon them. Here again it pays to be a careful driver. No one wants an accident or an approach to an accident. Accidents are often tragic occurrences and by their seriousness often leave indelible memories of events which anybody would wish to have blotted out of his mind. Those who have the opportunity of warning children, parents and teachers and others, should never neglect to impress upon the young the fact that danger lurks on the roads and that crossing of streets is always to be attempted with the greatest caution.

Spirit of Humanity

Against the lurid shadows of the disaster which struck with death, injury and havoc at Texas City last week, the spirit of brotherhood is seen which makes everyone proud of the common humanity as it inspired the people of the stricken city. Thought was not of self, but of others.

There were matters of such concern as the safety of friends and others, there was sorrow for the victims of the terrible series of mortal blows to which they were subject. Rescues were effected from the ruins and rubble in the face of grave danger. Heroic efforts were performed to save others from injury or death. There was the spirit of saving human beings, of risking life to halt the progress of the flames and explosions, so that others might be safeguarded. Comfort, relief, shelter and all forms of necessary help were provided. City officials and representatives, firemen, policemen, the clergy, doctors, nurses, members of relief organizations like the Red Cross and other relief organizations and religious bodies like the Salvation Army labored tirelessly and at great personal risk in the work of rescue, salvation of lives and of comfort and food in this scene of wreckage. It was the community spirit that was at work. It was a demonstration of the spirit of common brotherhood. Rescue, aid, comfort and shelter these heroic people brought to those in need.

Not only Texas City organizations but those of other communities around about bore their contribution to this magnificent proof of the spirit of brotherly love for stricken and suffering people.

The kindship of all people is shown in the hour of peril and trouble or should be. It speaks much for the soundness of heart of the world and humanity. The same spirit would be demonstrated in thousands of other centres for it is a quality of the human spirit to rise with danger should occasion call. This is not surprising because it is the very faith at the heart of the people that they show at such an hour. In periods of agony and suffering and anxiety many a man will surprise himself by the deeds of mercy he naturally performs.

Silence: Failure or Success?

Secretary Marshall saw Premier Stalin. They met in the Kremlin about 10 o'clock. Mr. Marshall was back in his own quarters by 11:45.

The rest is silence.

The easiest assumption is that the meeting was, like the Moscow Conference itself, caught in deadlock.

But there is another possible, and quite as probable, explanation. Had Premier Stalin said the very things Secretary Marshall hoped for, we should hardly be told this by either Mr. Marshall or Mr. Stalin or by their aides. Too many faces—from Mr. Molotov's down—would have to be saved first.

Only in events to come will we be able to read the meaning of the Marshall-Stalin encounter. Perhaps not even in frank events, but in semidiscernible trends. The Big Four got along better in New York after Messrs. Byrnes and Molotov talked privately. Later, when the success of the conference was assured, much of it was attributed to the secret talks.

If history repeats itself at Moscow, it will provide a welcome encore. — Christian Science Monitor.

Newfoundland Stays British

In the Newfoundland national convention dealing with the future of that colony (which once was a dominion) a proposal to explore the possibilities of union with the United States was rejected on a vote of 34 to 3. That seems to dispose of any faint chance that Newfoundland might be lost to the British Commonwealth through its own act of withdrawal.

Newfoundland still has three alternatives: continuation under government by a British commission, return to dominion status, and union with Canada. In the next few months committees from the national convention are to visit both London and Ottawa to discuss these proposals.

There never was much danger that Newfoundland would turn to Washington, but it was among the possibilities. Now we can be quite certain that whatever its choice Newfoundland will remain British, and that is good, says Ottawa Journal.

Two sentiments alone suffice for man, were he to live the age of the rocks,—love, and the contemplation of the Deity.—Watts.

NO CHILD

No child at night to want a drink;
No boy to leave his toys about;
No little girl to dress in pink,
And cry when you are going out!
Well, this is all I have to say:
I wouldn't want to live that way.

No child to climb upon your knee
Or watch for you at eve to come;
To search your pockets and to see
If you have purchased chewing gum,
And "God bless daddy!" none to pray.
I wouldn't want to live that way.

Fill up a house with costly things,
Hang masterpieces on the wall,
Make it a palace fit for kings;
If it were barred to children small,
With all the splendors on display,
I wouldn't want to live that way.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

How did Indiana get its name?

"Indiana" is simply "Indian" with "a" added to give it a Latin form.

By the treaty of Fort Stanwix (1768) the Iroquois Indians granted to William Trent, Samuel Wharton and George Morgan a tract of land on the upper Ohio below Pittsburgh in territory claimed by Virginia.

The claimants called the tract "Indiana" and formed the "Indiana Company" to sell the land and induce colonists to settle there. In 1769 Wharton and Trent went to London to get their dubious grant confirmed by the royal government. Later the Indiana project was merged with the larger Vandalia project, in which Benjamin Franklin and other prominent Americans and Englishmen were interested.

The venture petered out because the promoters were unable to get first the consent of the British government and later that of Virginia and Congress. But "Indiana" was not forgotten.

By an act approved May 7, 1800, "Indiana Territory" was formed with Vincennes on the Wabash as the capital. It comprised what are now Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin and parts of Michigan and Minnesota. The Louisiana purchase had not yet been made, and "Indiana" was an appropriate name because it was the last truly "Indian country" in the United States as then constituted.

Michigan Territory was detached from it in 1805 and Illinois Territory in 1809, when Indiana Territory acquired substantially its present limits. It became a State in 1816. "Indiana," Indian Land, finally attached itself to a territory in which few Indians made their permanent home, although many tribes hunted, fought and roamed in that region.

"Ain't God Good to Indiana!" is the title and first line of a poem written by William Herschell (1873-1939), who is said to have picked up the line from an old Hoosier fisherman whom he came across sitting on a log in the sun.

Vice President Thomas R. Marshall is reputed to have once remarked: "I come from Indiana, the home of more first-rate second-class men than any other State in the Union."

Life of Stabbed Priest Threatened By Three Men

New Orleans, April 22 — (AP) — New Orleans police today sought three men reported to have threatened the life of Rev. James W. Courtney, S. J., as he lay ill of stab wounds at Mercy Hospital.

The priest was stabbed several times in the throat, neck and back Sunday morning as he administered Holy Communion at the Church of the Immaculate Conception, of which he is assistant pastor.

Rev. Lawrence O'Neill, S. J., president of the Jesuit High School, told police that three men had entered the hospital, asked nurses where they could find Father Courtney, and said they were "going to get him."

Father O'Neill said he knew of no reason why anyone should "want 'to get' Father Courtney."

Meanwhile, steps were being taken to hasten to trial Don Louis Laurentz, held in Parish prison in lieu of $10,000 bond, on charges of aggravated battery as a result of the attack on Father Courtney.

Letters to the Editor

Editor, Ontario Intelligencer:

Recently the Premier of Ontario, the Hon. Col. George Drew asked the co-operation of the mayors and heads of all cities, towns and municipalities in a drive in aid of Britain. Up to now there has been nothing done in this city. Regardless of our political leanings this is one thing we can do in common to show the people in Britain we have not forgotten their heroic stand for two years alone when the rest of the world prepared.

This country is one of the centres of U.E.L., men and women who gave up all rather than their loyalty to their King and will their descendants shame them?

Can anyone who has a drop of British blood stand by and not give all the aid they can when we have had such abundance and in this country have not suffered from flood this spring?

Leadership is all that we need and the people will be glad to give in every way, much or little as we can, not forgetting, "He gives twice who gives quickly."

Thanking you for this space.

E. Adeline Reid

Editor's Note—Plans were initiated the week before last to start a campaign in Belleville in conjunction with other Communities across Canada for the praiseworthy purpose of sending gifts of food and clothing to Great Britain. The organization is now under way.

267 John Street,
Belleville, Ont.,
April 19, 1947.

Editor Ontario Intelligencer.

The Ontario Intelligencer issue of Friday, April 18, on page two carries an article relating to a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce on Thursday last at which members of the Property Owners' Association, Industrial Commission and City Council were in attendance.

At the meeting Alderman Lattimer gave a distribution of the ten mill raise in the tax rate and saddled the library with 1-2 mill of this total.

For the year 1947 the library levied at the rate of 50c. per capita for a total of $8,115.00. This is $1,715.00 more than the previous year. It represents an increase of less than three-twentieths of a mill or seventy per cent less than stated by the Alderman.

The Library Board has always tried to hold expenditures to a minimum while endeavoring to maintain its high standard of service to the public. I feel that no Civic Board has made the taxpayers money go further and given them so much for so little.

A. J. Black,
Member Corby Public Library Board.

HOUSE REJECTS

Following prolonged argument, members allowed the section to pass and then quickly cleared away three others dealing with the stabilization corporation and with the operations of coupon banking. This brought to 17 the number of sections already passed.

Amendment Turned Down

After the House opening Agriculture Minister Gardiner said the government still had under consideration a bill to extend the principle of the prairie farm rehabilitation Act to all farm areas in Canada.

In turning down Mr. Fleming's amendments, Mr. Abbott and Reconstruction Minister Howe stressed the hardships that likely would result from any easing in rental or eviction regulations at this time.

Mr. Howe said that if veterans were allowed to obtain possession of their own homes there likely would be a loss of two housing units instead of one. In many cases veterans were living with their families. When the veteran moved to his own home it was unlikely that his family would share their accommodation with others. Then the person evicted from the veteran's home would be without a dwelling.

This meant that where two families had accommodation before only one would have it then.

Sufficient Difficulties

Municipalities were having sufficient difficulties in the provision of housing without changes being made to add to their burden.

Mr. Howe said he did not know how many evictions would result from acceptance of the amendments and he believed the government would be "derelict" in its duty if it accepted them.

Mr. Abbott said he was sure the adoption of the amendments would work against the interests of the veterans themselves. There would be cases of a veteran ousting a veteran.

His main argument against the lifting of eviction regulations on shared accommodation tenancies hereafter created was that with such action the prices board would lose controls over rentals for such accommodation. In urban centres shared accommodation now provided homes for 20 to 40 per cent of the population.

Mr. Fleming disagreed with both ministers and said he was sure more shared accommodation would become available if the eviction regulations were lifted. Many persons now did not rent surplus rooms because of the fear that they might be saddled with an obnoxious tenant who could not be evicted for six months.

Not Many Cases Claim

He believed there would be very few cases where a veteran home owner would be in the position of evicting another veteran. In cases where this occurred the courts would be called upon to decide which party was more in need of the accommodation.

Mr. Abbott said consideration now was being given the possibility of extending the rental controller's powers to deal with cases of real hardship which resulted from owners being unable to move into their own homes.

In the commodity corporation debate, Hazen Argue (CCF — Wood Mountain) said the government should face the subsidy problem realistically or it might be faced with a non-delivery strike among farmers such as the one Western Canada last fall.

Subsidy Bill Down

Mr. Ilsley said the corporation's subsidy bill for 1947-48 likely would be about $50,000,000 compared with $95,000,000 in the 1946-47 fiscal year.

Solon Low Social Credit leader, John Blackmore (SC—Lethbridge) and Robert Fair (SC—Battle River) said their party wanted to see subsidies continued. Mr. Low said the subsidies could be used as a means of assuring farmers a fair share of the national income.

Labor Minister Mitchell argued that as subsidies came from taxes it was inconsistent for members to ask for continuation of subsidy payments and at the same time urge a reduction in taxes.

Several members criticized the government's action in reducing the milk subsidy last spring and mentioned reports that the subsidy on butter was to be lifted next month. John Sinnott (L—Springfield) said the people wanted both subsidies continued.

NO VITE

I do not advise or approve of denying to children reasonable indulgence in candy, cakes, ice cream, sweetened flavored carbonated drinks—by reasonable I mean, for instance, on the occasion of a birthday party or a day at the circus or any day when the sweet comes as a dessert—after real food has been eaten. Especially children or youths who play, exercise or work hard may profitably indulge in addition to the real food of the ordinary meals.

If a child or a youth is permitted to satisfy his or her appetite at will with sugar or starch in any of these forms, or even with sweetened gum, the normal appetite for real food—meat, vegetables, fruit, unrefined cereals, milk, eggs, fish, raw (salad) vegetables and greens—is dulled and consequently the youngster fails to get a sufficient daily ration of the minerals and vitamins which are essential for good nutrition or vite. This may not seem so serious if you have no concern about the functional weaknesses and the physical defects of childhood and youth. Among 45 million school children in the country a health survey 25 years ago showed that 6 million had "malnutrition"—and in those days the victims had to be in pretty poor condition before the doctors pronounced them malnourished.

Indeed it is only within the rank and file of the profession past ten or fifteen years that the have abandoned that vague term "malnutrition." You see the doctors have learned that it isn't just a euphemism for starvation, hunger or not enough to eat, but, with rare exceptions, one or another nutritional deficiency disease due rather to ignorance of what to eat and why than to poverty or deprivation. In the red book so titled (for copy send twenty-five cents and stamped self addressed envelope) I tell all you need to know to prevent such nutritional deficiency disease—the trouble is, so many people fail to read the red book carefully or, if they do remain awake through the 100 or more pages they dismiss the prophylactic or preventive suggestions in the book as applying to other people but not to themselves.

There is still a similar tendency on the part of the busy practitioners to give scant attention to the manifestations of moderate nutritional deficiency or to dismiss the symptoms or complaints as "nervousness," "overwork" or 'neurasthenia."

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Never to Late To Gain Freedom

I am nearly 88 and all my life have been addicted to cathartics. A year ago I obtained your booklet, decided to follow your advice and let nature take over. It was hard at first (I mean I worried about what might happen) but nothing untoward happened and, sure enough, precisely as you say in the booklet, nature did recover control. For more than eleven months now I have needed no artificial aid whatsover, and have never in my life been so regular and so comfortable. (C.W.R.)

Answer—It is sad to think of all the damage constant doping with laxatives can do where the habit is of such long standing. The ignorant, chuckle-headed, unteachable customers who buy and take the thousand and one physics are just too simple minded to stop and consider whether this weeks new symptoms may not be directly due to the drugs taken in last week's regulator, cleanser or corrective,the ninnyhammer!

Cold And Circulation

I have fallen into icy water duck hunting, wrung out my clothes and stayed all day, with no bad effects. But I wonder if those who challenge your teachings of the harmlessness of such exposure to cold or wet or both haven't something in this, that if the circulation is retarded by cold, locally or all over, the bugs would have a better chance to start something. (L.T.)

Answer—What bugs? Even if it is true that such exposure to cold or wet or both "retards circulation" (there is no scientific basis for the notion) there is still no scientific basis for the theory that retarded circulation infection or invasion of the tissues by germs. Getting your clothes or your skin wet in any circumstance is just an experience and has nothing whatever to do with illness.

No Prescription

Just how much iodine should one take and it it necessary to have a doctor's prescription, as a druggist said—he seemed offended when I asked about it and told me it is as dangerous as strychnine. (Mrs. C.H.A.)

Answer—Nonsense. No prescription is necessary. Send stamped self addressed envelope and ask for pamphlet "The Iodin Ration." That spelling applies to what I advise everybody not under medical care to take regularly, and not to any kind of iodine or iodide used as medicine.

COLLEGIATE NEWS

ASSEMBLY
By Roger White

With school back in full swing we enjoyed our first assembly since 'way before Easter. The band played with renewed vigor today, the result of a well-earned vacation, I presume. Artie Shaw could not have played "Stardust" any better than our band did this morning.

That boy with the silken tonsils—Ronald Elmy, favored us with a solo "If You Were the Only Girl in the World," encoring with "I'm Always Chasing Rainbows."

Lois Flindall announced our annual "At Home" formal dance to be held in the Collegiate on April 25. Dancing to the Commodores orchestra will be from 9 till 1, the admission will be $2 for students and $3 for outsiders, and a luncheon will be served. Roses will be available at the door.

A contest to find a suitable plaque to the boys who gave their lives overseas during the war is being conducted.

Mr. Gray our guest speaker who is an inspector of secondary schools, made us realize just how wonderful our school really is and wished us good luck for horizons unlimited.

GIRLS' SPORTS
By Ruth Meades

Well, with the beginning of the old grind again we naturally start back at sports. I hope everybody enjoyed their holidays? Not for what went before but for what lies ahead of us. Woe is for some. Not mentioning any names of course.

Here is the schedule for the week of April 14th.

Monday: 10A vs. 10F. Scored 11-4 for 10A and refereed by B. Young. At 5:00 p.m. the usual O.T.C. was held.

Tuesday: Grade IX had a practice. 10A played against 10C, scoring 6-2 for 10C. The referee was S. Mott.

Wednesday: The Badminton Club held their meeting and I understand their tournaments are coming up soon. 10B played against 10C, scoring 8-6 for 10B. The referee was M. Marinoff.

I guess that's just about all the sport news for this week as some of us are till receiving the cruel blows of "examination results" n'est-ce pas?

BOYS' SPORTS
By "MERT" MASSEY

Many a sports activity has happened since the last column. Take for instance the Toronto March 28-29 of the Senior and Junior boys' basketball teams. Maybe it was too much of shuffling cards back and forth or the bus or just plain being outlucked. Anyhow we both lost. The Juniors in their game against Niagara Falls Skyscrapers put up a valiant stand but just couldn't outreach the "goons" and came out on the short end of a 45-28 score. In the Senior game the seniors were outscored but certainly were not outfought. Merriton Seniors turned up with a smart, classy outfit which was too much for our boys, the final score being Merriton 37, B.C.I. 29.

Maybe it was too much roamin' around the streets and hotels of Toronto or playing cards? 'till 5 a.m. in the morning or the few gremlins who were running up and down the fire-escapes of the Walker House, but who was the guy who kept poking everybody in the ribs on the way back to keep us awake. Maybe "Red" Townsend could answer that one. We finally rolled home at 3:30 Sunday morning. Everyone had a swell time.

On Wednesday, April 9, a select group from B.C.I. journeyed to the "Limestone City" to participate in the Queen's invitation tournament. In the first game B.C.I. defeated the strong Regiopolis team 28-18. On Thursday, April 10, B.C.I. edged out a win over Cobourg 24-23. But at night our team was toppled by Cornwall 22-17 and then on Friday were eliminated from the finals, being defeated by Cobourg 34-20.

Vigorous practices are going on in preparation for boys' night. If you happen to look in the gym all you'll see is mats, the horse, parallel bars, trampolene and the high bar. Remember to keep May 8th and 9th open for this occasion.

Cuff Notes

Well friends, once again we welcome you back after the short absence known as vacation. To temper the unstrained joy of the festive season(parties until the adolescent hours of the morning) we were early greeted with the results of our Easter examinations. The job of student reconversion received a major setback.

It was indeed fortunate that the first two days were full of sunshine and warmth. If examinations are returned on gloomy days the double order of distress borders on the indecent.

Turning quickly from such morbid considerations we notice that the Spring At Home is being held this coming Friday, April 25, with the Commodores orchestra serving the swing. Corsages are being sold at the door for a fraction of their retail cost and we have been assured by the girls that it is the sentiment that counts rather than the size.

The radio club, on their program this Wednesday, will conduct a quiz, the winner of which will be given two complimentary tickets to the dance. The contestants will be chosen by lot at the assembly Wednesday morning. I hereby issue a standing offer to each contestant that if or she is unable or unwilling to participate I shall gladly take his or her place at no charge whatsoever.

The tramp of marching feet is echoing about the school these fine days, and it is not the militia looking for Herbert. It is our tireless cadet corps heroically braving tropic temperatures to be ready for their annual inspection to be held this year on May 8 at 10 a.m. A big day is being planned for the boys. A route march through downtown Belleville will be climaxed by the award of cash prizes to the best cadet and officer on parade. In the evening 'tis rumored that a dance will be held, the cadets and cadettes attending in uniform.

And so with the roll of drums sounding a soft farewell your reporter quietly sinks to rest.

Speaker Worried Over Rising Costs of Living

Toronto, April 22 (CP)—Rising costs of living concurrent with rising profits of big business "point to another depression—unless you stop it," said E. B. Jolliffe of Toronto, Ontario leader of the C.C.F. Party, in an address prepared for delivery last night over an Ontario network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

He said that profits of 79 important Canadian companies recently had increased by 51 percent over the previous year. The officials cost of living index had gone up and would go still higher with new rent ceilings permitted and removal of more price controls.

"Now that the lid is being taken off prices labor has no option. Labor pleaded with the government and with businesses to hold the cost of living. All the warnings fell on deaf ears. Mr. Donald Gordon is retiring, the controls are going off, prices and rents are going up.

"If big business wanted trouble they certainly did everything they could to get it. All the indications are that there will be a wage drive this year. Organized labor is forced to fight again in defence of Canadian workers whose standard of life is being driven down by rising prices. This is the most important industrial province and I have no doubt the struggle will centre here."

German Voters In British Zone Reject Red View

Essen, Germany, April 22 — (AP) — German voters in the British occupation zone Sunday rejected Communism as the cure for their food shortages and other troubles and gave their support to the Social Democratic party and Christian Democratic Union, complete official returns showed Monday.

The Social Democrats (SPD) won the greatest number of parliamentary seats in the states of Niedersachsen and Schleswig — Holstein, while the Christian Democrats (CDU) topped all rivals in North Rhine-Westphalia, which included the Ruhr.

The Communists scored substantial gains in North Rhine - Westphalia, winning 28 seats compared with 19 held previously but won only eight seats in Niedersachsen and none in Schleswig - Holstein.

Texas City, Tex., April 22 (AP)—Survivors of the French freighter Grandcamp were expected to testify before a United States Coast Guard Investigating Board today on the blast which led to the death of hundreds and destruction of most of this little gulf port.

WEDDINGS

BURSHAW—LEHMAN

A very pretty Spring wedding took place Saturday at three o'clock in the afternoon, Emmanuel Church, Belleville, when Ruth Alma Lehman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lehman, of Pembroke, Ont., became the bride of James Albert Burshaw, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Burshaw, of Belleville, with Rev. C. V. Freeman, of the Missionary Alliance Tabernacle, as the officiating clergyman, assisted by Rev. T. S. Russell, of Emmanuel church.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride entered the church to the strains of wedding music played by Miss Phoebe Wilder, organist of the church. She was very attractive in a gown of white sheer, fashioned with a net yoke, bishop sleeves, a circular train; her long veil held in place by a wreath of orange blossoms. She wore a corsage of red roses and carried a white prayer book, a gift of the groom, with a shower bouquet of red rosebuds.

The maid-of-honor, Miss Phyllis Rahn, wore a gown of white net over satin, and the bridesmaid, Miss Beatrice Gannon, wore a gown of blue sheer. Both wore matching shoulder length veils and corsages of red roses.

Mr. James Balyx ably supported the groom, and the ushers were Mr. Orval May and Mr. Dennis Gannon.

During the signing of the register, Mrs. T. S. Russell rendered the solo "O Perfect Love".

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Gannon, where the guests were received by the bride's mother, wearing an ensemble of poudre blue crepe, with a corsage of pink carnations. She was assisted by the groom's sister, Mrs. A. Brant, in a dress of turquoise blue with a corsage of pink roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Burshaw will later reside in Belleville.

Ex-Wrens Raise Ducks — West Coast epicures are now smacking their lips over just less than 300 ducks a month from the Burnaby, B.C., ranch of WRCNS veterans Gertrude Nunn of Vancouver (left) and Elizabeth Wimperley, Toronto. After 28 days' hatching, ducklings are ready for market in eight weeks.

Aims and Scope of V.O.N. Work Explained at Regular Monthly Meeting

Explaining, for the interest of new members of the Board, the aims and scope of the work of the Victorian Order of Nurses, the monthly report of nursing activities of the staff was presented by Miss V. Adair, nurse in charge at the regular meeting of the local Board held in the Chamber of Commerce Monday evening.

The president, Mr. C. B. Morgan, was in the chair. During the business of the meeting an adjustment was made on the fees for school nursing services at Cannifton School.

Miss Agnes Story was introduced to the members. Miss Story, who will work with the local staff for a month's field experience, is a graduate of Kenora General Hospital and prior to attending the University of Toronto had some public health work with the provincial Department of Health in Manitoba. She also spent nearly three years as a nursing sister in the Canadian Army with service in England and on the Continent.

Appreciation Expressed.

Appreciation was expressed to the Kiwanis Club for so generously providing tissues for the Child Welfare Conference; to the Men's Club of Bridge Street United Church for so kindly inviting the nurses to attend their supper meeting to hear Dr. Struthers from the Ontario Department of Health; and to Mr. Ted Follwell for the splendid sign which he made and which is now placed outside the door at the Kiwanis Centre.

In reviewing the work of the past month, Miss Adair pointed out that 83 new patients were admitted in March, representing 50 new families. There were 546 visits made divided as follows: maternity 290, communicable diseases 18, chronically ill 44, medical and surgical patients 79, health supervision of infants over four weeks and school children 90. In March the first home confinement case in over a year was taken care of. Four Child Health conferences were held with an attendance of 108 and one toxoid clinic under the direction of Dr. Cronk, M.O.H., with 23 children receiving inoculations for whooping cough and diphtheria.

Outlines V.O.N. Health Program.

The Belleville district covers the city and a three-mile radius beyond. V.O.N. work is primarily bedside nursing which includes health teaching in all homes, regardless of race, creed or family income, and greater publicity is being given the latter factor by head office in order that the advantages of Victorian Order work be further known. In communities where there are no official public health organizations some of this work is carried on by the Victorian Order. Such is the case in Belleville. With the approval of the local Board of Health a Child Welfare Conference is held weekly for children one month to five years. Immunization clinics under the direction of Dr. Cronk, Medical Officer of Health, and dental clinics under Dr. J. Marshall are held monthly.

Approximately fifty per cent of the work is devoted to maternal and infant supervision which includes prenatal visiting in the home, care to mother and infant on return from hospital or following home confinement. When dismissed from nursing care, return visits are made to the home weekly until the baby is six weeks of age. At the sixth week the Child Welfare Conferences are explained to the mother.

There is some supervision of older infants and pre-school children in the homes but this is limited to those cases coming to the nurses' notice which urgently require long term supervision such as tuberculosis contacts, poliomyelitis cases and cases of orthopedic defects. This includes the supervision of boarding homes under the local Board of Health or Children's Aid Society and any cases reported from the Ontario Department of Health.

All calls for a nurse are answered but when a nurse visits and finds that the patient is not under medical treatment, she explains to the patient or family that she cannot continue to give care unless a physician is called. The nurse may return for a second visit provided there is the understanding this will be done, but if on the second visit there is still not a doctor, the nurse dismisses the case. The only orders carried out by the nurse are those which are written by the doctor or given by him verbally to the nurse or to the Victorian Order office.

School work is undertaken at the request of the school board but with the approval of the local Board of Health.

Child Conferences Discussed.

Dr. R. L. Bird, representing the Medical Association, gave a report from that body regarding the Child Conferences, among the suggestions of which was that a doctor be in attendance at each clinic. Each phase of the recommendations of the Medical Association was thoroughly discussed and Dr. Bird will make a report to that group on the result of the discussions.

Women's Activities

REDNERSVILLE W.A.

The regular meeting of the W. A. was held at the home of Mrs. Rae and Mrs. George Roblin with an attendance of 17 members.

During the business meeting it reported that hymn books have been procured by the buying committee; $16 to be paid for same, and it was decided to take care of the premium due on the insurance policy. It was also decided that the time of meeting be changed to evening, starting with the month of May, with Mrs. Ross Roblin as convener, taking the place of Mrs. Harmer who is ill.

The program was presented under the leadership of Mrs. Leon Ward as follows:—A solo by Marilyn Adams; a reading by Mrs. Ralph Stafford. A contest of jumbled flower names was won by Mrs. Harry Adams, Mrs. McKay and Mrs. Hermon.

Collection for the day amounted to $4.40.

Mrs. Roy Wanamaker expressed appreciation to the hostesses for their hospitality, to Mrs. Ward for preparing the program and to all who assisted with it.

Refreshments were served by the committee in charge.

CENTENARY W.M.S.-W.A.

Mrs. E. Hart opened her home for the April 16th meeting of the W. M. S. Mrs. B. Roblin took charge of the meeting. The meeting was opened with an Easter hymn and the Easter story was read. The devotional was taken from the Missionary Monthly, the theme was "God's Book of Life."

Reports from the Convention were given by Mrs. J. Kelly on "Temperance," Mrs. D. Thrasher on "Community Friendship" and Mrs. G. McDonald on "Literature."

Several items of business were taken care of. Mrs. J. Kelly gave a Temperance talk which was very educational to all. The meeting closed with a prayer; and the W.A. meeting was held immediately with Mrs. L. Hall in charge. Several members felt they would like to help with the "Aid to Britain Campaign" which takes place in May. Mrs. J. Kelly offered her home for the next meeting. After the usual business the meeting closed with Mizpah Benediction.

The Experts Say . . .

By KAY REX
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, April 18. (CP)—What is more typical of the Canadian spring—than a dish of maple syrup. Jars of maple syrup and sugar and sugar-cakes appear in all the market places.

Since maple syrup may be classed as a luxury product, it often is desirable to extend its delicious flavor as far as possible. Home economists of the consumers section, Dominion department of agriculture, recommend maple biscuits as a means of serving six to eight persons with one cup of syrup.

Maple Biscuits

Two cups sifted flour; one teaspoon salt; five tablespoons shortening; two-thirds cup milk; four teaspoons baking powder; two cups maple syrup.

Sift dry ingredients. Cut in shortening until mixture is well blended. Add milk. Mix to make a soft dough. Pat out to one-inch thickness and cut into biscuits. Meanwhile pour syrup into a baking dish and bring to a boil on top of stove. Place biscuits in hot syrup. Bake uncovered in a hot oven for 12 minutes. Serve as dessert, using the syrup as sauce. Six to eight servings.

Hamburg Potatoes

That adage about a hard working man needing plenty of meat is not scientifically correct for a man really gets most of the energy he needs from such things as bread, sugar and fats. However, meat does furnish the mineral iron for the blood, and protein for building muscles.

Faced with rising prices and shortages among the more popular cuts of meat, housewives would do well to learn new and interesting ways of preparing what meat they are able to buy.

The Canadian Red Cross (Ontario Division) has a recipe for Hamburg Potatoes, an ideal luncheon dish.

Ingredients: 10 potatoes, milk, flour, seasoning, five medium onions, three-quarters of a pound of hamburg steak.

Pare potatoes and slice and place in layers as for scalloped potatoes. Slice or chop onions. Spread hamburg over top of potatoes and add sliced onions. Add just enough milk to come to the level of the potatoes, but do not cover the meat. Bake in moderate oven until potatoes are properly cooked, and hamburg lightly browned on top.

And here is a new method of preparing liver:

Ingredients: 1 1-2 pounds of beef or pork liver; two tablespoons fat; one teaspoon salt; one cup of celery or two teaspoons dried celery leaves; two small onions; six carrots; 1-2 cup of tomatoes; 1-4 cup vegetable water; two tablespoons flour.

Prepare celery, cut in pieces and put in bottom of greased baking dish, sprinkle with salt. Cut liver in pieces for serving, place on top of celery and dot with fat. Chop onion and dice carrots. Put these with the tomato and vegetable water, and add to liver. Bake in moderate oven 45 minutes, keeping dish covered during the first half hour of cooking. Thicken gravy with flour and serve hot.

Albert College Women's Guild Holds Meeting

Albert College Women's Guild met at the Manor, April 16th, with the president, Mrs. E. A. Baker, in charge of the devotional service.

During the business period plans were completed for the May Time Tea to be held in the Manor next month.

An interesting and entertaining program consisted of a piano duet by Mrs. F. Houston and Mrs. Ed. Hubbs; readings by Mrs. Chas. Hyde; piano duet by Miss Lazelle Brown and Mrs. Taylor Franklin; reading by Mrs. Fairfield, and a vocal solo by Mrs. F. Houston.

A highlight of the afternoon was an address by Mrs. H. W. Ackerman on "Florida." She entranced her listeners with vivid descriptions of the flowers, fruits, churches and college buildings. Relative to the religious life of the people in Florida, Mrs. Ackerman said that the churches were filled to overflowing.

The two outstanding industries of that land of sunshine are the growing of citrus fruits and catering to the tourist trade. This year the citrus growers have had to face a loss running into millions of dollars, on account of the heavy frosts, which have destroyed hundreds of trees. Since it will take new trees five years to develop sufficiently to bear fruit many Florida growers will not be in the market to Northern customers for some time.

Ladies of the social committee served refreshments.

CANNIFTON W.A.

The April dinner of the Cannifton W.A. was in charge of Mrs. Harry Twiddy and Mrs. Harry Pound, and was well attended. In the afternoon the president, Mrs. H. Farnham, opened the meeting proper, with Mrs. H. Empson at the piano accompanying the hymns, and solos. Mrs. A Loucks read the Scripture, and Mrs. F. Furmidge contributed an Easter solo, "Up Calvary's Hill"

Following a short business period Mrs. Trumpour dismissed the meeting and quilting was the order of the day, with one quilt being completed.

50th Anniversary Of Wedding Is Celebrated

Gore.— A large number of friends and neighbors of Centre Community gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Burton Redner on Friday evening to honor them previous to their golden wedding anniversary of April 21.

With Rev. E. W. Todd as chairman for the evening, the many friends were called to order and with Mrs. Roy Brickman at the organ and Mrs. Ronald Giles as leader, community singing was enjoyed followed by a guitar selection by Leo Fox. Mrs. Ronald Giles and Rev. E. W. Todd favored with a duet and Wilbert Green favored with guitar selection.

Mrs. Donald Spencer gave a reading which proved very humorous for the occasion. Carl Brickman then favored with a guitar selection.

Mr. and Mrs. Redner were then asked to take seats of honor and Mrs. Kenneth Green read an address with Mr. Donald Spencer presenting them with a beautiful chime clock on behalf of Centre neighborhood.

Mr. and Mrs. Redner though taken by surprise very graciously thanked everyone with Mr. Redner giving a very interesting talk on things that happened fifty years ago.

Several of the ladies served refreshments. All joined in singing Auld Lang Syne and then departed for home wishing Mr. and Mrs. Redner many more years together.

Pink and Pretty

By ALICE ALDEN

Spring bonnets are prettier than ever this year, as proven by Alexis Smith. Her pink felt poke bonnet is enhanced with a cluster of shaded pink roses, and the shiny green leaves offer a nice bit of contrast. Caspar-Davis design.

Fashion Flashes

IT'S NICE to point up a monotone suit with a bright hat. A shallow, off-the-face-sailor of pale pink felt draped in emerald green veiling, and trimmed in front with two green parrot quills and a red rose, would look beautiful with a gray suit.

THE ANSWER to the perennial "What shall I wear?" is always a fine silk print. A delicate Mexican leaf design, in solid and tracery green in various shades on black silk crepe, makes a handsome afternoon frock with a deep, to-one-side neckline. Intricate side drapery on the slim skirt.

THE ANSWER to the commuter who comes to town by train for an important party, is the ankle-length evening frock. A charming idea is a slim, strapless, ankle-length dress in black satin with an overskirt and long sleeved, buttoned-down-the-front peplum jacket of matching lace.

FLOWERS BLOOM to give a Spring look to late winter hats. A bonnet cloche in caramel beige felt has one rose at the crown, a nice cabbage rose in beige and a larger cabbage rose at the brim in moss green to match velvet ribbon trim. Veiling in rose beige lace.

OF COURSE navy capeskin gloves whip-stitched in white are smart with a navy suit, but, for real dress-up wear, a navy suit just demands a pair of snowy white doeskin or glace kid gloves. Newest gloves are plain except for whip-stitching, and have wide cuffs, wide enough to be worn, crushed, over jacket sleeve.

Mrs. C. Warren, 25 Richard Street, Brockville, writes: "Clothes certainly come out snowy-white from Super Suds' EXTRA-RICH suds, and my washable colours are as bright as new. Super Suds makes quick work of dishwashing, too. Grease goes in a jiffy. It's kind to the hands and very economical."

Thank you, Mrs. Warren, for your swell letter. You see, Ladies, Super Suds is Concentrated. Super Suds actually gives you far more washing-power, which means sudsier, longer-lasting suds, for easier and quicker washdays. And Super Suds costs no more than ordinary washday soap.

Thanks for Gifts at Shower

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have never been to a shower and now that I am engaged, several of my girl friends are planning to give a shower for me very soon. When the shower gifts are given to me, should I open them at once and thank the givers? Or should I thank them and open the gifts?

Anne

The girls will want you to open the gifts as they are presented to you. As each gift is presented to you say "Thank you" at once, then open the gift and comment on it most enthusiastically. Make it your charming resolution that you will say the things that will make the giver feel rewarded for the thought and time and expense she has put into this gift intended to make you happy. Please don't do what I have seen some girls do—appear so eager to see what the next gift is that their thanks for the gift in hand seem too hurried and therefore inadequate. Remember too, that you should as soon as possible after the shower, write a thank-you note for every shower gift you received.

Address on Envelope

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am going to have some letter paper printed with my name and address on the paper and on the envelope flaps. But in my case this presents a problem. We find it much more convenient to rent a postoffice box. Should my paper carry my street-address (my residence) or my box number (my mailing address)?

S.B.

This is a practical kind of letter-paper, and to make it as practicable as possible, I suggest you include both your street-address and your postoffice number. And to indicate to correspondents the convenience of using the box-number, it would be desirable to print it apart from the street-address. Like this.

Addressing Flowers to the Funeral

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have always been perplexed as to the correct way to address flowers to be sent to a funeral. The other day, for example, the widowed mother of some friends of mine died, and since I am equally devoted to her three daughters, I didn't want to single out any one of the daughters to address the flowers to, and so wrote only the last name on the card-envelope. But that didn't seem to me quite the right thing to do. Will you please, give me a good general rule for the answer to this question?

Reader

The usual way of addressing flowers sent to a funeral is "For the funeral of"....and then the name of the deceased. Whoever takes care of the funeral details collects the enclosed cards, and these are either assembled in a general group or some are given to the one in the family whom the person sending the flowers knows best. This is obviously the most convenient way, when possibly some members of the family may not even know some of the flower-senders.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Naturally Curly Hair

Considering the vast sums of money and hours of time that are required to sport the permanent and the finger wave, one would fancy that the girl whose fairy godmother blessed her with natural curls would treasure her inheritance. But no. She takes her curls for granted, often lets them get along as best they can, does nothing to help the locks to preserve the precious coil quality. She is envied by the straight-haired contingent, who would give their eye teeth and mortgage the old family home for hair that did not require professional services every four months. The beauty budget would be cut in half.

When you get a permanent you are told what to do with it, how to pet it, what's good for it if anything ails it. The girl with the natural undulation, having no need of skilled fingers to put pretty lines in her thatch, often does her own shampooing. Good enough. But let her take pains with this good-looks duty. The slightest film of soap scum will prove devastating. It puts a coating on each individual shaft, so that the coil quality is lost; the silky threads do not contract or fall into ringlets.

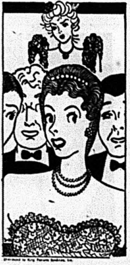
Never should the bar of soap be rubbed on the head; soap must be melted. If you have no favorite medium, place a small bar of castile soap in a quart mason jar, add a scant half-teaspoonful of borax, fill the jar with boiling water, let stand for three days before using.

Before applying any shampoo medium, the hair should have a vigorous brushing. And don't forget to have another clean brush to use afterwards. Throw the hair forward, brush up the back and sides hold the head over the bathtub and give your hair a brisk rinsing with the bath spray. This preliminary treatment will remove much of the surface dust. The final results of the ducking will be more satisfactory than if soap is applied first

Have the water as hot as the flesh can comfortably bear. Cold water should never be used on the natural undulation; it strings out the shafts. Half fill a cup with the clear top liquid, then fill the rest with hot water. Pour over the head a little at a time, frictioning well. The first soaping is not likely to fluff up to any extent; it is in contact with a combination of atmospheric dust and sebaceous oil, a tough combination to remove in a hurry.

Use the bath spray again, lifting the hair so the water will be well distributed. Be especially thorough when treating the forward growth. Then on with the lather again which, this time, should stand up like beaten egg white. Don't be stingy with the final rinsing. Use a current strong enough to make your brains rattle if you would have a shining, bright, clean head of hair.

While the hair is moist, run the comb through it, push it forward. The wave pattern will appear, strong and clear-cut.



She is envied by the straight-haired contingent

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Should He Marry a Girl Whose Loyalty He Doubts

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 20 years old, and have been engaged to a girl for three years. I have constantly suggested marriage, but she has kept putting me off, saying that we haven't enough money.

The other day she told me she was pregnant. I am not sure that I am the father. Shall I marry her with this doubt in my mind?

"Puzzled"

I take it, "Puzzled," that now this girl has become pregnant her reluctance to get married has disappeared. But what makes you so doubtful of your own responsibility in the matter? Have you reason to believe that your fiance has been playing around with other boys all this time that she has been doing the same with you? Could it be that the real reason she kept putting you off when you talked marriage was that she preferred to be free to do such playing around? Or are you one of those noble female who, having succeeded in seducing a girl, at once puts her down as the promiscuous type and is forever after suspicious of her?

No one but yourself can tell whether your suspicions of her are justified. But if this girl has been double crossing you all these years, it seems hardly likely that this is your first intimation of it. Before, why didn't you break off with her then? And since you didn't do it before, why now, just because matters have come to a crisis for which you may, or may not, be responsible?

I rather suspect that your own desire to marry this girl has cooled off and you are grasping at the possibility that another man may be involved as a way out for yourself. If you really loved her, you would hardly be considering ducking out at such a time. You'd want to stand by her and help her.

It is bad business to marry a girl with a doubt of her in your mind. I certainly agree. But it seems to me even worse to talk out on a situation which there is a good chance has been brought about by your own wrongdoing. Why not be man enough to give her the benefit of that doubt and show her, by making good on what you say is a long-standing wish to marry her, that you are a stronger, more sincere character than your conduct to date would make you appear?

Why Stay With a Violently Abusive Husband?

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a married woman, age 43 years, and have been married 22 years. My husband and I lived a very happy life until three years ago, when a woman who lives near us came and told me by brother-in-law was having an affair with her husband's cousin. I told my sister about it, and my husband has beat me and cursed me every day and night for three years over it. I didn't think it was a sin to tell my sister. She didn't get mad, neither did her husband.

My husband told me it was the only thing in life he ever got mad at me about. Would a husband that had been so devoted to his wife turn against her for just telling the truth a woman told me to my sister? Always before this, he would love and kiss me. Now he tells me he doesn't love me a damn bit and he wishes I was in the middle of hell. He has got the gun to blow my brains out three or four times. I have stood this for three years, hoping he would do better, but it seems now I can't stand it any longer.

"An Unloved Wife"

Since the piece of gossip which your neighbor told you did not in any way concern you, it was a great pity that you took it upon yourself to carry the story to your sister. However, if she did not get angry at you, I see no reason why your husband should have done so.

Obviously, your husband's present attitude toward you goes much deeper than the excuse he gives for mistreating you. However much he disapproved of your carrying tales, it would not be enough to make him behave in such a violent way and for so long.

Why do you continue to take this abuse? My advice to you is to have enough spirit to stand up for yourself, even to the point of walking out on him—provided you can work and support yourself—if there seems no other way to protect yourself.

Too Young For Marraige, But Not Too Young, They Think For Love

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My boy friend and I are so much in love, but we're too young to think of marriage. No doubt you will say it won't last, but we both know it will. He is always on my mind and he tells me he always thinks of me. Sometimes when he comes over, he doesn't want to go home.

What do you suggest we do? We both are at a loss. Sixteen is rather young to be thinking so seriously, but we both know there can never be anyone else.

"Miss R. M. S."

What I think you want me to understand from your letter is that you and your boy friend are a little afraid your feeling for each other might some time sweep you into something you would regret, and you'd like to know how to guard against anything of the sort.

If you are entirely sincere in this, and not just indulging in a little pleasant daydreaming about such things, and if you really intend to follow my advice then here it is. But I warn you, you're not going to find it easy to do, and I think you'll find it calls for considerable will power.

My advice is for you to stop concentrating on each other so hard that, as you put it, this boy is always on your mind and you are always on his. Resolve to think about other things most of the time, and to take part in a lot of interesting group activities. Don't try to be with each other all the time—each of you should spend a lot of time with your own friends—don't be alone by yourselves too much, and don't tease yourselves by "petting."

If you adopt this program and have the character to see it through for a couple of years anyhow, you'll know a lot better than you do today just how serious you are about each other. If your feelings for each other are the right kind, they'll stay the same, and if they don't survive this program, then it will simply mean that someone better suited to each other will be along in good time.

Mounties May Again Feature Musical Ride

Regina, April 22 — (CP)—The 45 coal-black steeds gambolling on the prairie near the historic Royal Canadian Mounted Police barracks at Regina herald revival of the Mounties' famed musical ride.

Since 1939 the spotless trappings of the precision, group - riding performers who have thrilled audiences in New York and San Francisco as well as many Canadian centres, have hung idle in the saddlery room of the 64-year-old barracks.

But with recent bolstering of the war-depleted R.C.M.P. ranks close to the authorized 3,544, horsemanship is expected to become again an important part of training for the force.

Equitation is not yet a feature of the tough six-months course being taken at the largest police training establishment in Canada by some 170 rookies, the majority veterans in their early 20s.

The recent arrival of the horses —all black and at least 15 hands two inches — from the R. C. M. P. remount depot in the southwestern ranchlands of Saskatchewan brings the forecast from oldtimers, however, that mettle of recruits will again be tested at the gallop.

The fledglings' curriculum which includes one hour of intensive physical training every day, stresses criminal and federal law and court procedure. They learn to fight crime with typewriter and microscope as well as to control nature in the form of fire and crowds.

With the possibility that he might be called on to repair any form of vehicle from a motor toboggan to an aircraft the recruit receives a grounding in motor maintenance.

The rigid physical tests required before initial engagement are followed by written examinations at the middle and end of the course, which has attracted men from all parts of Canada.

At the end of a successful training period, the recruits receive their traditional red coats and riding outfits and may be posted to all parts of Canada, including Arctic posts or office duties at Ottawa.

The Captain's on the job!

We know . . . being team captain has its responsibilities. But when you're rounding up your team, will you try not to make too many calls at once? Remember—some grown-up may need that party line in a hurry . . . Thanks a lot!

Putting it into practice on every call you make is your best guarantee that others will do the same for you.

1. Keep calls brief.
2. Space your calls.
3. Give right-of-way to urgent calls.

The two penstocks feeding new DeCew Falls Hydro installation in the St. Catharines area are seen above. Water comes from Welland Ship Canal through Lake Gibson, an artificial lake on top of Niagara Escarpment, originally designed as St. Catharines' water supply. Water drops 288 feet — about 20 feet more than at Niagara. Penstocks will conduct water at rate of 2,400 cubic feet per second into two generators, which will produce 140,000 horsepower, compared to 550,000 developed at old plant.

Adventures of Super Detective Most Popular of Britain's Radio Programs

By STUART UNDERHILL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

When teatime is over and bedtime is near, boys and girls of Britain—and some adults too—have a radio rendezvous that takes precedence over almost everything.

For 15 minutes nighfly starting at 6:45 the adventures of this imaginary super private detective crackle over the airwaves of the BBC. An estimated 15,000,000 listeners glue their ears to radios.

Kids are not only the faithful listeners. A legend says that Herbert Morrison, Lord President of the Council, and at least one High Court judge are fans.

Written in Peaceful Kent

Only one other radio character—comic Flying Officer Kyte whose personification of an RAF "type" has revived RAF slang—has such following. There are Barton stories by the dozen.

A favorite is the tale of the cockney urchin who asked by a Sunday school teacher whom he would call on if he were in great danger. The reply came smartly: "Dick Barton."

Barton is not a ripe old radio character. He first started his battles with the underworld over the air last summer. John McMillan, an Australian, is his creator but a Canadian, Bill MacIurg, head of the BBC's five-day serial unit, now helps shape Barton's progress. Formerly of Vancouver, he worked for the BBC before the war and is a veteran of the R. A. F.

Heavy Fan Mail

Thirty-year-old Noel Johnson of Birmingham plays the title role and copes with 2,000 weekly fan letters addressed not to him but to the mythical Dick.

This problem of being identified with the radio character is shared by Humphrey Lestoco, who plays Flying Officer Kyte on the comic program, Merry-Go-Round. His uproarious laugh and his approving "dash it, I rawther care for that" are aped throughout Britain.

There may be a deep psychological reason why these two have such a hold on the public. Or perhaps it is just that Britons have always liked a spot of adventure and enjoyed a good laugh.

Foreign Ministers' Council Adjourns, Treaty Discussed

Moscow, April 22 — (AP) — After nearly two hours in semi-secret session, the Council of Foreign Ministers adjourned Monday night with only the curt announcement that they had discussed the Austrian treaty.

Asked if Austria would be brought up again on the agenda an official spokesman said it was probable, but he declined to elaborate.

It was apparent, however, that the meeting had failed to reach any definite agreement on major issues.

A high official source said there still was a faint chance some agreement might be made on the Austrian treaty.

It was the second semi-secret session of this conference.

The action, taken on suggestion of State Secretary Marshall, followed a declaration by Russia's V. M. Molotov renewing his opposition to including in the Austrian treaty a clause guaranteeing Austrian's integrity.

Earlier, in a session on Trieste, Molotov said he feared that external assistance to the free territories might mean outside interference in its affairs.

WOULD EXPLOIT VAST IRONSANDS IN NEW ZEALAND

Seek to Extract Titanium From Huge Deposits of Iron Ore in North Island

By J. C. GRAHAM
Canadian Press Correspondent

Wanganui, N.Z. (CP)—Fabulous quantities of iron ore, not buried deep, but lying easily available on the surface, stretch for more than 100 miles along the west coast of the North Island of New Zealand north of this port, yet no way has so far been found for commercial exploitation. The ore is in the jet-black ironsands of which the beaches and much of the coastal belt of country in this vicinity are composed.

The ore is magnetic and can fairly easily be extracted, but technical difficulties in smelting have so far defeated all attempts at using it. Now, however, the sands have taken on a new significance through the visit of Dr. J. R. Gillson, chief geologist of the huge Due Pont De Nemours concern, to investigate the possibility of extracting titanium for commercial use. Titanium has a rapidly increasing use in the manufacture of paint pigments, enamels and ceramics.

In sand dune areas near Wanganui alone the New Zealand Department of Scientific and Industrial Research estimates that there are 143,000,000 tons of iron sand, containing 22,000,000 tons of magnetic iron ore. In addition ironsand underlies the coastal belt of farmland in the vicinity and the quantities available there are astronomical. It is believed that 250,000,000 tons of iron ore alone could be extracted from this area.

This survey applied to the coastal belt in the Wanganui area only. Further north toward New Plymouth the sands are even richer in iron ore. Whereas near Wanganui the concentration is only 10 to 20 per cent, in parts of the coast further north there are 50 to 80 per cent concentrations.

The ironsands of Transki are stated to be a phenomenon unique among the mineral sands of the world, for although similar sands exist elsewhere, nowhere are they found in such quantities or in such readily available form.

New Zealand is not rich in mineral resources and the discovery of an economic method of turning these vast ironsand deposits to use, either for their iron or for the other minerals they contain, would make a vast difference to the Dominion's general economy.

Congress Annual Has Wealth of Baseball Data

Witchita, Kan. — Cream of material in the major leagues is now being developed through the program of the National Baseball Congress, it is revealed in the latest edition of the National Baseball Annual.

Grady Hatton, third sacker for the Cincinnati Reds, and Eddie Waitkus, first baseman for the Chicago Cubs, rated as prize rookies in the major circuits in 1946—are graduates from this program, both having been looked over by the scouts in two National Tournaments at Wichita.

Among youngsters who previously played in the National Tournament, now major league stars, are David "Boo" Ferriss, Freddie Hutchinson, Joe Garagiola, John Ruckner, John Pesky and scores of others.

The 1947 National Tournament at Wichita will be preceded by 48 state championships events to qualify the nation's leading teams.

In addition to its tournament program the National Baseball Congress sponsors National Associations of Leagues, Umpires, Scorers and Oldtime groups. It also has a nation-wide player contract system, in which players are unable to jump to other non-professional clubs without release.

The complete program is featured in the 1947 National Baseball Annual at sporting goods stores and news stands.

Newfoundlanders Will Not Entertain Thought of Moving Allegiance From British Crown

St. John's, Nfld., April 22 — (CP) — Newfoundland wants closer trade relations with the United States but when it comes to talk about federal union or even a facsimile of it there are few people in this island colony who would entertain any thoughts of transferring their allegiance from the British Crown.

To estimate what proportion of the population has a leaning toward union with the United States would be a matter of guesswork but the national convention gave a fair idea when it recently rejected, by a vote of 34 to 3, a motion to send a delegation to Washington to ascertain under what conditions Newfoundland might reach federal union with the U. S.

The convention, made up of delegates representing the old electoral districts, is deciding on the political future of the colony which has been governed by a mixed British-Newfoundland commission since its bankruptcy in 1934.

Newfoundland's opinion was summed up by Reuben Vardy of Trinity North when he said that, although the colony had at times disagreed with Britain over matters of policy, "no one thought we could contemplate leaving the Empire and least of all when she is facing such difficulties."

About the only other source available whereby opinion on federal union can be gauged is the letters to the editor columns in the newspapers. From among the hundreds of writers many have favored a return to self-government, and some union with Canada but no more than a dozen have expressed a desire to become United States citizens through federal union.

The chief reason for this is not difficult to find. The people of Newfoundland are almost entirely of British stock and their devotion to what is symbolized by the Crown and the British flag is both a tradition and a sentiment that is real.

What desire exists for federal union springs from the increased employment enjoyed during the war years when the island bases were taken over by the Americans. At the same time there is some resentment over terms under which United States obtained 99-year leases on the three bases at Argentina, Stephenville and Fort Pepperell.

Some of this resentment has been expressed against Britain by those who argued that Britain negotiated the bases-for-destroyers deal without consulting Newfoundland.

Canadian-Born Japanese Given Death Sentence

Hong Kong, April 22 —(Reuters)— Janao Inouye, 30-year-old Kamloops, B.C.-born Japanese, today was sentenced to death by the Hong Kong supreme court which convicted him of high treason.

Inouye left Canada for Japan in 1935 for university education and military service but said shortly after the war he still was a British subject.

Ironically, he escaped other war crimes charged with this defence but it eventually led to his treason conviction.

Inouye served with the Japanese gendarmerie in Hong Kong and took part in the arrest and torture of many residents.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

This is a free country. You are a citizen. Determine your own legal way of deciding when a slam is reasonably safe. You are on the right track when applying the Horse Sense method.

Discover tricks enough and a good trump suit. Then with two aces and a king or better, bid four no-trump to ask partner how many aces and kings he has. With enough aces, bid five no-trump to ask how many kings he has.

We are just about ready to put to bed this deal:

NORTH
♠K 7 2
♥4
♦10 9 8 5 3
♣9 6 5 4

WEST	EAST
♠Q J 6 4	♠10 9 8 5 3
♥10 8 2	♥J 9 7
♦8 2	♦Q 7
♣J 8 7 2	♣K Q 10

♥A K Q 6 5 3
♣A 3

The bidding got this far:

SOUTH	NORTH
2 H	2 NT
3 H	3 NT
4 D

Having rebid hearts before bidding diamonds, south shows six and four cards in these red suits. North has adequate support for the diamonds and shows it here with an assist to five diamonds.

Knowing this, south now bids five no-trump North replies with six diamonds; the signal for showing only one king. This is all the information south needs to influence him into a bid of seven diamonds.

North has been told that south has six hearts and four diamonds. If he prefers diamonds as trumps he must have at least four of them. See how south now knows why a grand slam is worth trying.

With a king in north, south can sluff his small club on it. With north diamonds, south can trump a heart if necessary to establish that suit. A grand slam may depend on a successful trump finesse.

With opponent cards as they are, even the trump finesse happens to be unnecessary. Good luck often comes in bunches that way.

If you know a better method, tell me about it.

Sixty Years of the Hearst Empire

(From an article in Time Magazine, New York)

The Hearst empire is 60 years old. In the U.S. Senate, where its founder once hoped to sit, and in the House, ,where he once did, old acquaintances got off some carefully chosen but occasionally surprising words about William Randolph Hearst.

From coast to coast, 17 Hearst-papers dutifully spread fine phrases over the front pages. But the best anniversary story of the day appeared in only one Hearst paper. A directive over the private wire from San Simeon read: "Chief does not want published in cities outside of San Francisco the 2,500 word....story covering 60 years of San Francisco Examiner under ownership and direction of Mr. Hearst."

The Examiner's exclusive story, read like a chapter out of the authorized biography of the patriarch of U.S. chain journalism. It told that when young Hearst returned from Hartford to San Francisco (the story tactfully ignored his expulsion from Harvard), his father offered him "everything from the fabulous Homestake Mine to the baronial Mexican ranch." No, said Willie, all he wanted was the broken-down (circ. 5,000) Examiner, which Senator George Hearst had taken in on a $100,000 bad debt.

"In the musty little office on Montgomery Street," said the official biography, "the Examiner's new owner seemed a whirlwind to the sleepy staff. He was everywhere: supervising stories and head-lines, scribbling sketches for the cartoonists, writing editorials —breathing life into his foundling....Papers, unlike Topsy, don't 'just grow.' What germinated and nurtured the Examiner shaped the whole course of American journalism...."

The authorized version stopped suddenly with young Hearst's 1895 invasion of New York. Old Hearst (in whose presence age is not discussed) was still living out the last chapter last week. In his 84th year (his birthday is April 29), the gaunt old man with haunted eyes is no longer the whirlwind. Neither is life at San Simeon, his 275,000-acre sea; of empire, where Hearst once thought nothing of entertaining 80 house guests at a time.

Only a handful of friends, relatives, Hearstlings and other servants last week moved through the great halls at La Cuesta Encantada (The Enchanted Hill), midway between San Francisco and Los Angeles. Hearst was up each day at 11 ("he has always kept morning-paper hours," says Son W. R. Jr.) to read the papers and his mail, write the lordly editorials and memos that kept a copy boy running back and forth to the castle's wire room. His editors get no chance to forget that he is still the boss.

His guests do not see him until lunch, around 3. When lunch is over, he gives audiences to underlings, some of whom have to wait a week or more in uneasy luxury before seeing him. Dinner (9:30 p.m.) is only rarely a banquet these days; sometimes there are only W. R. and Marion Davies. Oftener guests say that San Simeon has gone domestic; the zoo full of wild animals is gone; and Old Man Hearst likes to watch his children and grandchildren, and Miss Davies' inlaws, enjoying San Simeon's simpler pleasures, like swimming in the massive pool. The women of the household go in for homey pursuits like crocheting bedspreads or making lamp shades.

Once a month or so the Old Man leaves San Simeon to visit Los Angeles, but he goes to few Hollywood parties. Mostly he sticks to business, firing directives to his editors with the familiar salutation "Chief suggests...."

Lucky Cat Lives With Attlee

(By H. Lewis Clark, in "Our Dumb Animals" Magazine)

Every day we hear interesting stories of famous men and women all over the world who are doing wonderful things; but what about animals, aren't there any celebrities in the animal kingdom? Aren't there any of those household pets, dogs or cats, that have interesting lives? Of course,—the world abounds with them.

One rather outstanding animal in the world today is a cat called "Bob," residing with the Prime Minister at No. 10 Downing street, London.

This cat is a lineal descendant of "Rufus" Cardinal Wolsey's favorite cat, and lived with Mr. and Mrs. Neville Chamberlain, but when they moved from Downing street they did not take Bob.

Visitors at the house will still find him on the doorstep to receive them, a habit of his, to rise up and purr and rub himself against the legs of the visitor.

• • •

He is a lucky cat. Whether or not he has the proverbial nine lives allotted to the feline family remains to be seen, but he escaped not only the political catastrophe which shook up the British Cabinet, but he also escaped the tragic destruction of London pets when war was declared.

Gas masks for dogs, cats, and horses are made in large quantities and it has been reported that they object less to wearing them than men and women do. They can be almost instantly adjusted and can't be shaken off.

One-wonders what has become of the pets in the ruined countries. It is said that of all animals, cats are best able to adjust themselves in new or different surroundings. Many have been found to be wearing tags with owner's name, street and number.

There have been many dog celebrities in the movie world, which have played their parts with distinction. There are the huskies of the Arctic regions, some of them celebrities trudging along through the deep snow pulling their sledges from station to station.

There is a story of a cat, the men's mascot in the trenches, told by Philip Gosse in his "Memoirs of a Camp Follower." They called the cat "Landlady"; she would be out all night hunting mice and other small animals, but always returned in the morning for her milk and, after being fed, would sleep all day. In the evening she would saunter up the trench to the front line and leap on the parapet. There she would at leisure make her toilet with the enemy so near they could easily have picked her off; but nothing happened. When her toilet was finished she would disappear into No Man's Land, where she doubtless spent the night hunting.

Don't be a Sucker!

EILEEN BEGG

Henley's Invictus, which says, "I am the master of my fate," is as true now as it ever was. It is still a definite possibility. However, mastery is not usually achieved in one fell swoop, and consquently many are often discouraged. Complete mastery takes more time and effort than most people are willing to devote. In the business world we see it constantly. Youths are charged with ambition; too often they are content to merely dream of wealth and success. The actual acquiring is too difficult and laborious a task for the majority. Some don't want wealth. Those that do, often permit easy money schemes to fire their ambition, warp their judgment and imperil their money.

There are different ways of being a sucker. Sometimes a swindler will entice money away from his victim. Sometimes, well-meaning but thoughtless friends plus the victim's self-confidence over-rate his ability so that his money is endangered.

Too Impatient For Success

Of late the Better Business Bureaux have been inundated by requests from people—chiefly ex-servicemen—who want to go into business. Considering the facts with which we are presented, we realize the amount of malarkey and flattery that has been handed out by unthinking and glib-tongued acquaintances. We also realize how futile some of the requests, of potential, would-be business men, for information are. It is too bad that some of the originators of this "Go into business for yourself" idea could not have been shot long ago.

Whether it is a trend of the times, or the fulfilment of a dream, we have no way of determining, but we do know that modern youth is impatient for success. He wants it overnight. Many of our young men, although totally lacking in experience, are imbued with the idea that to get into business for oneself is the only way to make money. Nor can sound sensible advice dissuade them. They are convinced that anyone who works for someone else is a sucker. With monotonous repetition they will tell you, "Why should I make money for someone else? I'd rather make it for myself. I'm going into business. It is easy. I don't need to know anything. If I need advice, I can write to one of the trade magazines and they will give me the information I require. Gees, look at the money some of the big-make. Why shouldn't I grab some of it?"

Bill Ignorant of Business

That sounds fantastic, doesn't it? I scarcely could credit it myself, until I talked to Bill last week. Bill is a young lad, not too far divorced from the services. Bill has his first job. He has only been on it a couple of months, but there is ample opportunity for Bill to carve a niche for himself in the company if he perseveres. Instead, Bill looks at the president of the company and compares the president's salary with his own.

I've got to concede that that there is a difference. But while to Bill the president's salary not take into consideration that might appear fabulous, Bill does just one error in judgment on the president's part would cost the company his salary many times over. Being president is not merely the occupying of the best office. It consists of hard work, ability, judgment, study and perseverence. Most companies are glad to pay well for anyone whose judgment they consider infallible.

Unfortunately, Bill lacks executive ability. Bill is one of those people who needs someone to encourage him and push him ahead. In short, Bill needs a boss. But you can't tell him that. Well-meaning, but ill-informed friends have persuaded him that he would be smart to use his gratuity to buy a business. And that is just what Bill is contemplating. Failure can be the only outcome.

Valuable Booklet Available

To counteract some of the "Go into Business for Yourself" propaganda, the Better Business Bureaux have recently published a booklet entitled "Facts You Should Know about Business." As a matter of record it is one of the most popular that the Bureau has had printed. Many of the Bureau members have ordered from 25 to 100 copies to be given to various executives and other employees. Also high school and Collegiates have been forwarded copies for distribution to pupils taking a commerce or business course. If you wish a copy, write to the Better Business Bureau, 350 Bay St., Toronto. Please enclose a 3-cent stamp to cover cost of mailing.

Mind you, the Better Business Bureaux have no wish to discourage private enterprise. They are delighted and happy to see anyone succeed in business. However, since they wish many financial headaches to be avoided, they caution anyone who is contemplating such a step, to be sure that they are well qualified. Fly-by-night businesses and business failures are no asset to any community, or individual.

"SOMETHING BETTER" THAN LOUD SPEAKERS

Ottawa, April 22 (CP)—Rev. Dan McIvor (L—Fort William) asked permission in the Commons yesterday to withdraw a resolution calling for the installation of loudspeakers in the House. "I have something better to put in its place," said Mr. McIvor without elaboration.

The Movie Column

By HELEN BANNERMAN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Falling box-office receipts and other movies troubles are taking their toll among young actors, singers and dancers with their eyes on a Hollywood career—the talent scouts have signed fewer names in the past six months than in any similar period for several years.

The film companies are still keeping their eyes and ears peeled for new talent but that is generally as far as it goes, with most studios working on a smaller budget and fewer pictures than formerly. With each picture set to play for a longer time at each stand the film moguls are retrenching and are not willing to gamble on unknown players.

The few new people who have signed movie contracts are mostly from the hit Broadway musicals.

Mason To Movies Again

When James Mason stopped off on Broadway to play in the stage play "Bathsheba," he postponed his plans to make at least one movie in the United States. With "Bathsheba" now closed he has announced plans to make "The King's General" in Hollywood, but not until next January. In the meantime he would like to make a small-scale film in New York.

Berlin's Songs

"Easter Parade," a big musical based on Irving Berlin's songs will have a story of backstage life in the period before the first World War, and, its writers frankly admit, no other purpose than to divert audiences with the Berlin music. The big problem is to integrate the songs and the story so they will not interfere with each other.

The composer has already written two new songs for the picture and plans to do six more.

AT THE CAPITOL — A warm greeting is extended by Mrs. Cole Porter (Alexis Smith) to Monty Woolley (himself) in the above scene from Warners' Technicolor musical extravaganza, "Night and Day," now at the Capitol Theatre. On the same program the thrilling drama "Her Kind of Man," starring Dane Clark, Zachary Scott and Janis Paige.

Coach Happy Day of Toronto Maple Leafs May be Lucky But He's Also Smart General

Has Had Three Stanley Cup Winners and in Playoffs Three Times in Seven Seasons

By FRASER MacDOUGALL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, April 22 (CP)—Either Clarence (Happy) Day ranks as the best playoff coach in the National Hockey League or he started life at Owen Sound, 46 years ago next June with the biggest bundle of 'rabbits' feet in the business.

He took up coaching in 1940-41—after 14 years as a player and two as a referee—and guided his Toronto Maple Leafs to three Stanley Cup championships in seven seasons, a record without parallel in the N. H. L.

His first Stanley Cup came in 1942 when he reorganized his squad after it took three defeats in a row from Detroit Red Wings and then led his team to four straight triumphs in the most sensational comeback in the trophy's history. He astounded all hands by guiding a relatively weak team to the championship in 1944-45. And the humbling of the powerful Canadiens this season is a matter of familiar history now.

Made Playoffs Three Times

Three other seasons, his team made the playoffs, once getting into the finals and twice being eliminated in the semi-finals. In the 1945-46 season they finished fifth in the league standings out of the playoffs. "We had an entry in the league," he says of that year. "That's all I can say."

Clean-cut and clean-living Day gets along well as a coach because he knows the game inside out. None is quicker at spotting weakness in opposing teams—and taking advantage of them. None is quicker to catch mistakes by his own players. Those qualities pay off in Stanley Cup play, where the team which wins is usually the one making the fewest mistakes.

Credit by Smythe

Conny Smythe, managing director of the Leafs, ranks Day's coaching and general handling of his players strength as first among the reasons the team won the Stanley Cup this season. Smythe gathered the material but Day was the man who moulded the collection of veterans and rookies into winning combination.

Seven rookies played on the team which beat the Canadiens. Four of these made up the defence. There was the combination of husky but baby faced Jimmy Thompson from Winnipeg and solid Gus Mortson from Kirkland Lake. Mortson ranks among the best defencemen to enter the N.H.L. in many years and holds promise of being a great star.

Boesch Recovered

Garth Boesch from Regina recovered from mid-season injuries sufficiently to play in the playoffs. And the fourth man was 20-year-old Bill Barilko from Timmins, called up from Hollywood late in the season. This young husky made a lot of mistakes, due to inexperience, but worked like a horse.

Vic Lynn from Saskatoon, Howie Meeker from New Hamburg and Joe Klukay from Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., were the three rookie forwards. Meeker ranks high among the possible winners of the Calder Trophy as the year's outstanding rookie.

Either Day knows how to develop rookies or the Leafs pick the good ones. For in the first six years, he had the rookie award winners three times, Gaye Stewart in 1942-43, Gus Bodnar in 1943-44 and Frank McCool in 1944-45—and he seems destined to have another this season to make that record look even better.

BOUCHER FINDS TWO GOOD ONES AT THE SCHOOL

Claims Two Defencemen and Forward Line Will Make Rangers Contenders

Winnipeg, April 22 — (CP) — All New York Rangers need to become a serious contender in the National Hockey League race next season are a forward line and two defencemen, coach Frank Boucher said here today as Rangers' first spring school ended.

This problem may have been eased somewhat as Boucher believed he has come up with what may prove to be two outstanding professional prospects in Dunc Fisher, a forward, and defenceman Bill Giokas. Both played this season with Regina Pats, Saskatchewan Junior League winners who were ousted in the playoffs by Moose Jaw Canucks.

"If either or both of these players live up to expectations, then the school, which lasted 10 days, was well worth while," Boucher said. They will attend Rangers' fall school where the final decision will be made.

While it may seem that selection of only two men from a school of close to 60 does not justify the school's existence, Rangers are doing some long-range planning, club officials said. The majority attending still have one or two years in junior company and are three or four years away from pro hockey.

Boucher said about a dozen other prospects had been picked to travel to the fall camp. They will be given close supervision and fitted into some spot in the Rangers' organization, either with Rangers or their farm clubs, New Haven Ramblers or New York Rovers, or possibly with St. Paul Saints, with whom Rangers have a working agreement.

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor.

Soccer enthusiasts will hold a practice at the Queen Alexandra School grounds tonight at 6:30. Vice President Boyd Finlay, of the Belleville Soccer Association announced today. All players past and present are urged to turn out as the Association officials are anxious to get the senior city squad started. All junior players will receive a cordial welcome and the practice will start sharp at the named time.

• • •

Tomorrow night the Belleville Softball Association Association holds its annual conclave; election of officers etc. The meeting should be attended by all those interested in the game as it is understood that four or five teams are desirous of entering the loop this year. The curtain goes up at 8 o'clock in the City Hall.

• • •

With the new grass beginning to poke curious tendrils through the winter-weary ground, the "gowfers" are beginning to feel the urge. The boys and gals who chase the little white pill around the links during the summer months are readying their equipment and doing other things preparatory to the start of the pastime.

• • •

And speaking of the royal and ancient game somebody a person with a satirical frame of mind, sent in the following regarding the game. The author is unknown but we pass it along to give you at least one Joe's idea of the sort of game golf those who play it.

• • •

"Golf," so the man says, "is a form of work made expensive enough for a rich man to enjoy. It is the physical and mental exertion made attractive by the fact that you have to dress for it in a $200,000 clubhouse."

• • •

"Golf," he goes on, is what letter carrying, ditch digging and carpet beating would be if these three tasks had to be performed on the same hot afternoon in short pants and colored socks by a gouty looking gentleman who required a different implement for every mood."

• • •

"Golf is the simplest looking game in the world when you decided to take it up and the toughest looking after you have been at it for ten or twelve years".

• • •

"It is probably the only known game a man can play as long as a quarter of a century and then discover it was too deep for him in the first place."

• • •

"The game is played on carefully selected grass with little white balls and as many clubs as the player can afford. These balls cost from 75 cents to $25.00 and it is possible to support a family of ten adults for five months on the money represented by the balls lost by some golfers in a single afternoon."

• • •

"A golf course has eighteen holes, seventeen of which are unnecessary and put in to make the game harder. A hole is a tin cup in the centre of a 'green'. A 'green' is a small parcel of grass costing about $1.95 a blade and usually located between a brook and a couple of apple trees or a lot of unfinished excavations."

• • •

"The idea," our unknown friend states, "is to get the golf ball from a given point into each of the eighteen cups in the fewest strokes possible and the greatest number of words. The ball must not be thrown, pushed or carried. It must be propelled by about $200 worth of curious looking implements especially designed to provoke the owner."

• • •

"Each implement has a specific purpose and ultimately some golfers get to know what the purpose is. They are the exceptions. After each hole has been completed, the golfer counts his strokes. Then he subtracts six and says "Made them in five." That's one above par. Shall we play for fifty cents on the next hole, too?"

• • •

"After the final, or eighteenth hole, the golfer adds up his score and stops when he reaches 86. He then has a swim, a pint of gin, sings 'Sweet Adeline' with six or eight other liars and calls it the end of a perfect day."

• • •

When Babe Ruth hit his three home runs in the fourth game of the Yankee-Cardinal World's Series in St. Louis, October 5, 1926, he literally called the turn during a breakfast discussion with a writer at the Yankees' hotel on the morning of the contest. Jess Haines had shut out the Yanks the day before. "But Haines didn't pitch smart to me," said the Babe. "He was pitching all day to where I like 'em. But, if they pitch to me that way again today, I'll knock two out of their park." He knocked out three!

• • •

To get off the sports trail for the moment, we were invited to the reunion held on Sunday between the Rt. Rev. T.W. Jones Montreal, Moderator of the United Church, and members of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment with whom he served as a YMCA supervisor. It was a touching scene as the "padre" visibly moved, greeted his old comrades of the dark days of war. The boys themselves were misty-eyed, as they shook hands with their beloved friend and adviser.

• • •

Reminiscences flew thick and fast as the boys let down their hair so to speak and once more relived the experiences of those fateful days. Names sprang to lips. Instances crowded back to memory as these men brought back the scenes and faces that will forever be with them.

• • •

And the Moderator enjoyed it. He, too, recounted several of his experiences. One story evoked roars of laughter from the assembled veterans. It was a yarn typical of the gallant British spirit and the sometimes strange British sense of humor. It appears that the "Padre" as the Hasty Pees affectionately term the Moderator, was one of a rescue party engaged in extricating bomb victims from the rubble of demolished buildings. He had assisted in rescuing a badly injured Cockney lady.

• • •

"Are there any children in there?" queried the padre of the woman as she lay on a stretcher.

"No guvnor, there aint. We aint got no little tykes," she replied.

"Is your husband in there?" asked the padre.

The woman raised up. "Me 'usband. Blimey, no, guvnor. That blinkin' coward is in Normandy."

Katan - McCready Headline Card Here Sat. Night

Earl McCready, who went a solid hour with World Champion Whipper Watson here last week will be back on Saturday's main event. The "Moose" lost a points decision to the Whip when each man gained one fall in the sixty minutes and now big Earl gets a chance to prove up for a re-match.

But first McCready has to get past none other than John Katan the big, grim Canadian-Ukrainian. The men, represent between them the most formidable challengers for Watson's British Empire title, will battle it out here next Saturday night for the right to another go at the Champion. And Walter Gerow has made good and sure that there will not be a draw in this bout by getting Commission permission to have the match time limit set at ninety minutes.

Both big wrestlers have been out of this country during the past year. McCready cleaning up all opposition in New Zealand Katan handing out the same medicine to the Australians. Neither has had a good go at each other since their last encounter here a year and a half ago. Katan edged Earl in that one but the "Moose" from Aurora says it will be a very different story this week. Fans are asked to specially note that for this one week the wrestling matches at the Memorial Arena will be on Saturday night.

Irish Tom Collins who has been making his weight felt in Chicago wrestling circles lately comes in for a semi-final match with Toar Morgan the transplanted Lindsayite. In the third bout Bulldog Drummond will be back, this time against Mike "The Body" Sharpe.

IRISH HEAVILY FAVORED TO LIFT MEMORIAL CUP

West Not Ready to Concede Hockey Better in East Than in the West

Regina, April 22 — (CP) — Western hockey fans are just about unanimous in conceding the Memorial Cup to Toronto St. Michael's College but they are as quick to deny that this denotes any general superiority of eastern junior hockey over the western brand.

Instead, they'll argue, it merely means that St. Mike's, head and shoulders over any eastern competition, also are too powerful for any western club. Take the Collegians out of the picture and Moose Jaw Canucks, Brandon Elks or Regina Pats would walk away from the best in the east, they say.

It's a thesis which never will be developed farther but on the basis of statistics, it's about a toss-up between the east — so far represented in the Memorial Cup winners list entirely by Ontario— and the west. If St. Mike's defeat Moose Jaw in the best-of-seven final now being played — and with the 3-0 lead in games no one expects any other outcome — it will be the 15th time in 29 years of play the east has won the cup.

One of those 15 times the champion was Fort William, now classed as a western club.

Nor has either section monopolized the trophy for more than three years at a time. Sudbury, Newmarket and St. Mike's supplied the east with a winning streak from 1932-34 and Winnipeg Rangers and Portage La Prairie kept it in the west from 1941-43. Those are the longest periods the cup stayed in one section.

Crowd Will Be Small

Regina, April 22 — (CP)—Toronto St. Michael's College were overwhelming favorites today to finish off their best-of-seven series with Moose Jaw Canucks in tonight's fourth game and take the Memorial Cup and the Canadian junior hockey championship east with them for the second time in three years.

Victims 12-3, 6-1 and 8-1 of the Toronto team's power in the first three games, Canucks were given only one chance in 1,000 of averting a clean sweep, first in the Memorial Cup series since Oshawa crushed Trail in straight games in 1944.

Vice-president Al Pickard of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association has warned that any repetition of the bottle-throwing which marred Saturday night's game will mean instant award of the contest — and the championship — to St. Mikes.

At the same time he expressed hope his home-town Regina fans would not boycott the game because of the "irresponsible few" who had caused the third meeting to be called with six minutes still to play.

There seemed little likelihood, however, of another sell-out crowd. Only about 600 tickets had been sold up to a late hour last night when about 5,000 had been snatched up for the previous game in an equivalent period.

CANADIAN SPORT SNAPSHOTS

By IRVING WHYNOT
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Halifax, April 22 — (CP) — With both Allan and Memorial Cup entries quickly eliminated from the Canadian hockey scene, the ice sport season closed early in the Maritimes and sports editors were left with little to draw their comment.

Choicest bit of caustic comment during the month, however, came on the subject of hockey from Don (Moncton Transcript) Fay.

Graciously admitting that the Maritimes' Moncton Hawks champs had met "a stronger team" in the Hamilton Tigers he quickly added that at any rate "there were no episodes of 'noggin cracking" during the series.

All this of course led to the Maurice Richard "episode."

Here Don had a suggestion:

"We think the sooner players are forcibly made aware that such behavior can actually be considered a criminal offence, the better . . . Richard could have been charged under the Criminal Code of Canada and, if convicted, he would have been liable to a three-year prison sentence."

Tiger Roars Again

The Tiger, known as a defensive fighter but one who could land a K.O. punch, has announced his intentions of again showing his wares in Martime rings next month.

15TH HOLE IN ONE

London, April 22 — (AP) — Britain's grand old man of golf—James Braid, five times Open champion — has turned in his 15th hole in one.

Now 77 years old, Braid was playing in a foursome on the new course Walton Heath, where he had been professional for 43 years, when he dodoed the 165-yard 10th hole.

The British Gold Handbook lists the world record for holes in one as being held by the late Sandy Herd. He did it 19 times.

Early Major Loop Attendance Indicates Crowds May Match Last Record-Breaking Year

Despite Poor Weather and Postponements 768,991 Fans Attend 42 Tilts

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Judging from early returns, attendance at the major league baseball parks this season should come pretty close to matching last year's record shattering figures.

Despite poor weather which has caused the postponement of 16 games, during the first week of action and cut into the crowds in others, the 16 big league clubs drew a combined total of 768,991 cash customers to 42 tilts—an average of 18,309 a game.

During the first week a year ago, the majors, taking advantage of perfect baseball weather, got in 50 of their 52 scheduled games which attracted 1,001,422 fans, an average of 20,028 a game.

The elements again played havoc with the program yesterday with only two of the five scheduled games played.

The limited action produced one big upset as the surprising Chicago White Sox, taking liberties with the lefthanded shoots of hurricane Hal Newhouser, the Detroit ace, slapped down the Tigers 6-4 to remain unbeaten as well as on top of the American League. In registering their third victory of the campaign, Ted Lyons' crew nudged Newhouser and two successors for 10 safeties, four of them for extra bases.

It was not until the fifth inning that the Tigers managed to score which gave Chicago pitchers a record of 22 straight scoreless innings since the start of the season. The other White Sox victories resulted in shutouts.

Newhouser uncorked a wild pitch in the first inning that conked Ralph Hodgin in the head and sent the Chicago outfielder to a Detroit hospital with a concussion and a bad bruise. Hodgin's condition later was reported as "satisfactory."

In the National League's only contest, Chicago Cubs ,behind Hank Wyse's three-hit pitching, won their third straight by blanking Cincinnati Reds 3-0 at Wrigley Field. A slow-rolling infield hit by Ray Lamanno in the second inning was the only safety allowed by Wyse until the ninth. Then Bobby Adams and Lamanno rapped out singles.

CASE IS CLOSED

Cincinnati, April 22 — (AP) — Four one-syllable words, "The case is closed," yesterday snuffed out hopes of the Brooklyn Dodgers that Leo Durocher might manage the team at least part of this season.

They came from baseball commissioner A. B. Chandler yesterday as he rejected a request by Branch Rickey, president of the Dodgers, and Ford Frick, National League president, that he reconsider the one-year suspension he imposed on the Brooklyn manager April 9.

LEAFS WILL TOUR BANQUET CIRCUIT DURING WEEK

Each of the Players and Coach Will Receive $2,500 Each

Toronto, April 22. (CP)—The men who make up the Toronto Maple Leafs, new Stanley Cup holders and world's professional hockey champions, today are figuring what they'll do with their financial rewards and the Summer to come.

Manager Conny Smythe announced last night that the Toronto Club had added $10,000 to the financial rewards set by the National Hockey League. The League awards $2,500 to each of 18 players on the cup winning team. The club addition provides another four shares—worth $10,000—to be split between trainer Tim Daley and other team assistants.

On the cup-winning roster coach Clarence Day and 19 players each receive the full share of $2,500 each.

The Leafs received exactly the same amount from the League as did the Canadiens, the team they beat in the cup final. Canadiens got $1,000 for finishing first in the league schedule, $1,000 for winning their semi-final, aud $500 for finishing second in the final. Leafs got $500 for second place in the League, $1,000 for winning their semi-final, $1,000 for winning the final

The Leafs won't disband for a few days yet. They're guests of the Ontario government at a banquet tonight and most of them are booked for social engagements the rest of the week. But by next Monday they'll be scattered at their homes across Canada.

Goalie Turk Broda is already away. He and his wife left last night for Winnipeg and Broda, native of Brandon, Man., will be in the nets for the All-Star N.H.L. team which Jack Adams of Boston ,is taking on tour with the Montreal Canadiens as opposition.

JACOB ALLAN DIES 96

Brantford, April 21 (CP)—Believed to be the oldest blacksmith in Ontario, Jacob Allan of Burtch, died in hospital here today. He was 96.

His wife, also a blacksmith, and a hard working assistant to her husband, predeceased him during the past year.

Probably the only known blacksmith couple in the province Mr. and Mrs. Allan's shop was located in the Burtch district, adjoining the Six Nations Indian Reservations.

He conducted his blacksmith shop until recently when ailing health forced him to retire.

HAMILTON TIGERS TRAIL ROYALS BY TWO GAMES

Old Men of Mountain Held One-Goal Lead Till Near End But Beaten 3-1

By BERT ALLEN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Montreal, April 22. (CP) — Montreal Royals and Hamilton Tigers move to Toronto for the third game of their eastern senior hockey final Wednesday night with the high-flying Montrealers heavy favorites to win the best-of-five series in straight games after their 3-1 triumph here last night. Royals won the opener Saturday 3-0.

A three-goal third period rally brought Royals victory. Before that, Hamilton Goalie Art Childs had kicked out everything in a sensational netminding display.

Childs was the star of the game and if his teammates hadn't tired in the final frame, he might have blanked Royals for the full distance.

Childs turned aside 45 drives while Gerry McNeil, who shut out his opposition in three previous playoff fixtures, had to block only 17 shots.

Tigers Open Scoring

Hamilton opened the scoring ice just 32 seconds before the end of the opening session. Clarence Shillington took the puck on a faceoff in the Montreal end and batted the puck out to Dillon Brady who fired a sizzler through the Montreal goalie's legs from forty feet out.

At 5:34 of the third Royals tied the score when Pete Morin worked his way around the Hamilton net and slid the puck under Child's falling body.

As the crowd of 10,035 fans roared, Royals went ahead 2-1 at 8:33 on a goal by Hughie Barlow, who performed for Hamilton Pats in the Senior O.H.A. during the regular season. His shot passed a maze of legs before entering the net.

Once behind, Tigers seemed to lose heart and it was Royals who carried the play for the rest of the period. Gerry Piamondon scored the clincher at 19:22 on pass from Morin and Tod Campeau.

Dazzling Display Sports Equipment At Sportsmen's Show

By SHANE McKAY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, April 22 (CP)—Canada's first national sportsmen's show, a dazzling display of the latest sports equipment, game animals and professional sideshows continued today after some 8,000 Ottawans and tourists passed through the civic coliseum yesterday to view the exhibition.

A nimrod's delight, the show's centrepiece is a 24-by-40 foot aluminum tank where log-rollers stunt divers, funnymen and swimmers put on a twice-daily performance.

Major attraction for sportsmen, however, are the 80-odd displays from the Dominion's major manufacturers—gleaming convertible cars, all-weather tents, canoes, motorboats, trailers, bicycles, fishing tackle and virtually every conceivable piece of outdoor equipment.

For fishermen, there are exhibits of delicately tied trout, salmon and dry flies, pliant rods and smooth, durable reels.

Hunters can see the new rifles, plywoood and aluminum punts and canoes and, if they lean to clothes, the latest war-developed outdoor garb.

In the animal section are live-exhibits of domestic fur-bearing animals, including an $800 ermine. The Dominion experimental farms have several cages of ducks, geese, beaver, fox and skunks. In the big-game field, there are moose, deer and elk.

The Federal Fisheries Department has a treat for anglers: a display of every type of fish found in the Dominion.

Open last night by Ottawa's Mayor Stanley Lewis the show continues for the rest of the week.

Guelph to Have Club in Junior 'A' Next Year

Guelph is to have a club in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series next season. Bob Dawson, first vice-president of the Ontario Baseball Association, has been named president of the proposed club and appointment of a coach is expected shortly.

R. S. McLaughlin's four-year-old gelding, Kingarvie, by winning the Hallandale Handicap at Gulfstream Park, Miami, last Saturday, established himself as the greatest money-making Canadian-bred racehorse of all time. His earnings to date of $65,615 passed the previous $57,070 mark of Tulachmore.

The National Hockey League yesterday officially announced that Max Bentley of Chicago Black Hawks received its approval as scoring champion of the 1946-47 league season. Bentley, with 29 goals and 43 assists for 72 points, nosed out Maurice Richard of Montreal Canadiens who had 45 goals and 26 assists for 71 points.

Joe McCarthy, now recovered from the illness which forced his retirement as manager of the New York Yankees, took the occasion of his 60th birthday yesterday to announce, "No more baseball." He says he is determined to forget the game.

American Amateur Athletic Union officials disclosed yesterday that two world weight lifting records were broken by Stanley Stanczyk of York, Pa., at the senior middle Atlantic weight lifting championships held in Easton, Pa. Stanczyk set a new snatch mark of 277 pounds and another for clean and jerk of 352½ pounds at a body weight of 165 pounds.

Sports Roundup

By ALAN HARVEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York, April 22 — (CP) — Any drum-beating on the 73rd running of the Kentucky Derby should be prefaced today by a note or two on Phalanx, a colt with a mind of his own and a world of speed when the real racing begins . . . Before they ran the Wood Memorial in two divisions last Saturday as a double feature dress-rehearsal for the Derby, Phalanx was 10-1 in the winter book, but anyone who saw the son of Pilate-Jacola sweep into Jamaica's short stretch, will tell you Phalanx is as close to a solid choice for the Derby as a horse can be two weeks before a race.

The Best

Even a jaded parlay player couldn't escape the impression that Phalanx was the best of the 20 horses on display in the two divisions of the Wood, and that opinion would be enthusiastically endorsed by the time students . . . Phalanx travelled the 1 1/16th miles in 1:43 4/5, fastest time for a Wood Renewal since Count Fleet did it four years ago in 1:43 flat, and considerably faster than I Will's time in the second division Saturday . . . I Will, which is not going in the Derby May 3, took 1:45 in disposing of Stepfather and the Canadian-owned campaigner, Cornish Knight.

Phalanx, Faultless and?—

The colt with the best chance of toppling Phalanx would seem to be Calumet Farm's Faultless, with Earl Stice's On Truest an outside possibility . . .

It would be pleasant to report that Cornish Knight might be good enough to do it for owner E. P. Taylor of Toronto, but the suspicion is strong that the Knight is just a good, honest horse, capable in his own class but not quite a classic performer.

ANOTHER HOCKEY VICTORY — Professionals only in jubiliation are these Brantford Redmen, shown in their dressing room after winning the OHA Intermediate "A" championship in a series with Georgetown Raiders. The happy, roaring lot includes players and all others connected with the team. Monday night a victory parade was held on downtown Brantford streets, with team members receiving civic congratulations on the city hall steps.

Painted for Calvert by Adam Sherriff Scott, R.C.A.

On November 27, 1829, the schooners "Annie and Jane" and "R. H. Boughton" made the first passage through the Welland Canal. Connecting link between the world's largest inland waters, this great engineering enterprise resulted from the bold vision of its promoter, William Hamilton Merritt. Also a distiller and saw-miller, this Canadian pioneer ultimately became President of the Executive Council of Canada and Commissioner of Public Works.

In 1855 MERRITT said:
"Form plans for the future"

In 1622 CALVERT said:
"Encourage the building of this country"

THREE HUNDRED YEARS AGO Calvert, Man of Vision and founder of colonies in the New World, said: "My resolution is to build . . . it is a good country."

Famous English statesman and Secretary of State to King James I, Calvert said to his settlers: "Be partners and assist your neighbours . . . for unity."

Calvert's ideals of unity have been shared by all men of vision since Calvert's time in the early 1600's. Let each of us be a man of vision now . . . and "form plans for the future."

The full measure of our stature as a nation depends upon unity of purpose. There is only one Canada for clear-headed Canadians.

To Live With Love

By Margaret Gorman Nichols

CHAPTER 22

Lila bent her curly brown head toward him. "We're out of soda, Bill. Will you see if you can catch the eye of the waiter? It's a madhouse, isn't it? I'm all for ducking out when the speeches start.. No, my conscience won't hurt. Dutch gave more than he could afford and I've been working like a Turk for the cause. I'm all for it, but I do hate speeches."

"I'm ready to go any time." He caught the eyes of the waiter who came, running. "Three more of soda and more ice..." And then to Lila, "Sure you don't want to dance?"

"Sure. The music is better to listen to. It's really wonderful. We have most of his recordings."

"He? Oh, you mean."

"Rand Andrews," Lila said. "and his Band. In catching up with movie gossip from reading magazines today at the hairdresser's, I see he's bound next for Hollywood to do a picture. Think of the money we are paying him that could go to charity. I don't think it should be necessary to throw a brawl in order to awaken people to give to the poor and sick. I'm all agin' this sort of thing."

Bill said absently, "I am too," And because he had nothing else to divert him he lifted his head and looked at Rand Andrews. "Not a bal looking guy," he said finally.

Lila laughed. "That's white of you, admitting that. As a matter of fact, darling, he's the lad of the Moment. Packs 'em in wherever he goes. —The fair-haired boy of my sometimes disgusting sex. He'll make a million this year. They have to make it while they're young and good at the kind of music the kids want He'll probably marry into society and take up polo.. Ho-hum!"

Bill smiled. But it wasn't easy to smile tonight. It was as though his face were frozen and he was trying to thaw it out. And every once in a while he thought, I'm not going to the office on Monday I haven't a job. I don't know where to start to look for another. But I've got to dig in and start. I can't let this beat me. I won't. I won't be all washed up because Thelma is jealous of Evelyn. Those are brave words, my boy. Very brave words. But you have 2 women to support, and Carol is going to get her money if I have to dig ditches for it. I don't want her to know what happened. Pride, I guess. I'm a fine one to have pride where she is concerned. I certainly ripped hers to pieces. I kicked her out. I held her up to everybody as a woman I wanted to get rid of. What wouldn't I give to undo it? It was pretty easy to do. It's the 'undoing that makes you sweat."

When Evelyn and the others returned to the table, Lila said, "I'm in favor of leaving before the speeches. Come out to our place. There's a fire going and lots to eat and drink and we have all of Rand Andrews' recordings. We can dance there. Oh, come on, please. It'll be much nicer. Everybody here has seen our new dresses; we've given until it hurts and the Mayor has nodded to us."

Barbara said, "I'm willing. It's such a mob here you really can't dance."

"And you can't get any service", Max said.

The docile Dee said, "I'd love to, Lila. And I can phone from your place about Diana. We left her with a new maid tonight and I'm a little anxious."

Johnny and Dutch were also agreeable.

Bill saw Evelyn turn pale.

"You don't want to leave?" he asked.

There was an odd pleading in her voice. "No," she said. "No, I don't. We don't have to go, do we, Bill? Oh, but suppose you go and I'll stay a while longer."

"If you stay, I'll stay, of course. I'm not going to leave you alone here."

She put her hand on his arm. That was odd, too, since she was never demonstrative. "No, no, please. I—I just want to stay and listen to the music and look at the people. Really, I want to. Leave the car for me and I'll come along in a few minutes. Don't delay the others. I won't stay long."

"I can't leave you here alone, Evelyn."

The color had come back to her face and she was smiling and her eyes were sparkling. "Please," she said. "Please go along with the others I—I want you to."

Under ordinary circumstances he would never have left her. But tonight was on ordinary night for him. He was desperately worried and the whole colorful, moving, noisy scene depressed him. He was sick at heart. He felt he couldn't bear to stay a minute longer and yet he hated to take Evelyn away when obviously she wanted so much to stay.

It was unlike her to want anything so much. Usually she was indifferent to her surroundings as long as she was comfortable. Nothing ever mattered tremendously to her, and he had never known her to be enthusiastic about anything. He had come to treat her as though she were a spoiled child, not realizing that a man is frequently extremely kind to a girl with whom he is no longer in love.

Lila said, "Oh, she'll be all right Bill. Dutch left me in a restaurant in New York once when he had an important phone call he'd forgotten to make earlier. I wasn't kidnapped."

Johnny said, "If we're going, let's go. The mayor is cleartng his throat."

Reluctantly Bill left them. At the entrance he almost went back when he saw Evelyn sitting at the table alone, her dark red wrap drown over her shoulders, her head high and sleek and beautiful...But she didn't look back at him.

Max put his hand on Bill's shoulder. "That's a woman for you. Always different. Let's go. Let's get out of this mob. Evelyn will be okay.

Evelyn was unconscious of the color and of the moving throng and of the people dancing by the table who stared at her. All evening she had moved in a happy daze, eating little, drinking little speaking little until the suggestion to leave had seemed to shake the earth: Ever since the day she had read that Rand would play at the charity ball, her mind for doing practical things had been poorer than ever and she had lived only for tonight to see Rand again and to be beautiful for him again. The moment Bill and the others left she forgot them as though they had never existed.

Evelyn did not question the right or wrong of her feelings. The few strong impulses she had had in her life she accepted as leaders and followed—just as when she was hungry she ate and when she was thirsty she drank and when Rand had come to Clinton, she had known that she must see him. Nor did she tell herself that she loved him. She told herself nothing but that she must be alone with him when the music ceased and the speeches began.

She had never told herself that she had been unhappy with Bill. Her marriage she had acccepted as a perfectly natural event. She had to marry somebody. The few scenes with Bill as the result of her failure to remember certain little things had upset her pure comfort but little.

Bill's good looks and popularity gave her pleasure and his practical mind she relied upon as heretofore she had always relied upon Charlotte's. That Bill recentl yhad been kind and gentle rather than ordent pleased her, too. Only once had her own slow ordor been awakened. Once and now again... by the sight of the same man.

She did not know that she could not go on being merely comfortable, living the conventional life as the wife of a conventional young man. She did not know that for a girl of her beauty and nature and little mind her marriage was but an interlude thrust upon her almost unwillingly by Charlotte and Dick and Bill. It had never occurred to her that while she would be a girl for many men, she had a fixation for only one...a boy who had been growing up in the slums while she had been at a fashionable school in Switzerland.

Rand's popularity and success meant little to her. That he was the leader of the country's most sought-after band and that he was the idol of millions meant little to her. All her life she had been accustomed to admiration and position. Money had never greatly concerned her because she had always had as much as she wnted and she took it for granted that she always would. She had no patience with poverty because she could not understand why anyone need be poor.

So it was not Rand's success or money. It was the man himself... his handsome, confident, smiling face with the mouth that could be brutal, his voice, his touch. She probably could have been poor with him and never questioned her poverty.

She was a girl who had given no thought to her destiny. Bill was only a small part of it and her marriage to him an interlude which in later years she would, in all probability, scarcely remember.

And now, looking not at the known in Miami, she was thinkhandsome leader of the orchestra but at the man she had known in Miami, she was thinking only of how she could be alone with him.

She did not have to wait long. The orchestra stopped playing and the dancers applauded wildly. After the rumble of the drums, all was silent and all eyes turned to the table of the speech-makers.

But not Evelyn's eyes. When she saw Rand leave the orchestra and walk hurriedly to the corridor, she got up and followed him. When for a moment she lost sight of him, she grew panicky and did not stop to glance back or apologize when she knocked a bottle from a table and someone barked, "Where do you think you're going"

The wide corridor which encircled the interior of the armory was deserted except for her and for Rand who, not seeing Evelyn and anxious to avoid autograph-hounds, was hurrying up the steps to a room where he and his men had left their wraps and instrument cases.

As she followed him up the steps she heard a voice bellowing from below, "Ladies and gentlemen, I greet you on this occasion when..."

That was all of the speech she heard, for she was standing at the entrance of the room, seeing Rand mop his face with his handkerchief and light a cigarette before he turned and saw her.

For a second, thinking that it was just another crazy woman running after him, he scowled severely. Then, knowing it was Evelyn, he laughed and came toward her.

In the room that had never been his, but always Evelyn's room Bill saw that spring dawn in an atmosphere of stale smoke. Wearing a blue silk robe over blue pajamas, he was standing by the window which overlooked the rear garden when Evelyn came home.

Seeing her as she put the car in the garage, he felt relief that she had come home safely and that none of the horrible things he had been imagining had happened to her. He was angry because once again she had considered only herself. He thought, then, "she probably met some people and had a good time and didn't think I was home waiting up for her and wondering what had happened to her."

When she came in the room, she looked tired and disheveled. Her face was shiny and her hair in disorder. But on closer inspection he saw in her face what he had never seen before—a determination and a certain wildness.

Controlling himself, he said, "I've been terribly worried about you, Evelyn. I suppose it's my fault. I shouldn't have left you. When you didn't show up at Lila's, I left and came home early because I thought you had decided to come home, too."

"Did you?" She seemed scarcely to be listening. Then, turning to him and breathing in short, quick breaths, she said, "I'm going, Bill...I'm sorry...I'm leaving."

"You're what?"

"I'm leaving—I've got to pack."

"Where are you going?"

She went to the dresser and opened all the drawers. Then she stopped and turned and faced him. It was obvious that the explanation annoyed her.

"I'm going to get a divorce, Bill. Then I'm going to Hollywood."

Bill blinked. He thought for a second that she was mad...or drunk. Then he asked, frowning, "Evelyn, where were you all last night? Stop and tell me. You're not making any sense."

She straightened. In the daylight glare the white dress studded with brilliants looked absurd —like the dress of a circus performer. Even her diamonds looked false. And the deep crimson of her long nails was distasteful to him.

"I told you," she said impatiently. "I'm going to get a divorce and then I'm going to Hollywood. I'm going to meet Rand there." She bit into her lip as a child does after it has told a secret.

Then he knew. All at once Bill knew a great deal more. Why she had anticipated the charity ball...Why she had bought the new dress...Why she had spent so much time on her face that they had been late again last night...Why she had insisted on staying alone...Why she had not come home all night.

He sat on his bed and looked at her. "Rand...I see...How long has this been going on, Evelyn?" He was ashamed. It was all so tawdry, so cheap.

"I've known him for a long time, but I haven't seen him for a long time."

"You mean you haven't seen him since we were married? Do you know what you're doing, Evelyn? Have you thought about it? This is a marriage you're breaking up. This is a home. It's serious. Don't you know that?"

She seemed scarcely to be listening. Turning to the dresser again, taking her belongings out hurriedly, she said, "I'm sorry, Bill, but I have to do it...I'm terribly sorry."

"You love him?"

She merely nodded.

Bill asked, "Then there's nothing I can say that will make you change your mind?"

She shook her head again and went on gathering up her things.

Getting up, he went out of the room to the balcony. The air outside was good. Good and clean. He could see the dew on the grass and a bird drinking at the little pool. All around him was the slow, warm beauty of wakening things. April...Another April.

Sports Shorts from Britain

By JACK SULLIVAN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, April 19. (CP) —The latest sports wrinkle is a pool on county cricket to be known as the "L.B.W. (leg-before-wicket) Cricket Fund Pool."

Chairman R. A. Parkes of Sydenham Club, well-known London team, is one of the men behind a company formed to operate the pool. Object is to form a trust fund so that amateur clubs throughout the country can buy their own grounds, to help professionals who have fallen on evil days and to organize a national coaching scheme.

Parkes emphasizes the scheme is non-profit-making. Opposition is expected from the Cricket Club Conference and probably the Marylebone Cricket Club.

Details of the coupon to be used have not yet been definitely decided. Suggestions include: three highest scoring and three lowest scoring counties from a list of 16 (first innings only) and six batsmen making highest first-innings scores from a given list.

Many amateur cricketers support the scheme but a couple of hitches are paper supplies and manpower to operate it.

The Anglican bishop of Thetford, Rt. Rev. J. W. Woodhouse, is an enthusiastic, but modest, golf fan. In a recent game he holed out his 168-yard drive. But let him tell the story:

"When I reached the green I could not see my ball. I looked in the hole and there it was, and I said to my partner, 'Hello, here's my ball in the hole.' "

News of his feat made the circuit of the course and at the clubhouse later he opined he was a "very bad golfer, but I don't suppose many bishops have holed in one."

Stamina is a point in soccer, but three Chesterfield players found the wind and rain on Burnley's waterlogged ground a bit too much for them. The English league second divisions clubs battled to a 90-minute 1-1 draw, and then things happened in the Chesterfield dressing-room.

Three players collapsed and were revived after several minutes with whisky and heart-massage. They didn't remember coming off the field.

The English Rugby League schedule, upset by cancellation of 174 games rue to snowbound grounds, has been extended to complete fixtures.

Windup of the 1946-47 season was scheduled for April 26 but league officials made an extension to June 14.

DELAYED BY TARDY OPENING OF CANAL

Albany, N. Y., April 22—(AP) —Charles F. Sweatman, Toronto industrialist whose $11,000 yacht was threatened with seizure because he overstayed his tourist permit here, says that Washington customs authorities have drafted an informal clearance procedure for him. Sweatman's boat has been delayed here because high waters forced postponement of the opening of the Oswego division of the barge canal.

SENDS CONGRATULATIONS

D., Commanding Officer of the Argyll and Sutherland Regiment of Hamilton had a pleasant duty yesterday: He cabled congratulations to the parent regiment in Scotland on the appointment of Princess Elizabeth as its honorary colonel-in-chief. She automatically becomes Honorary Commanding Officer of the Hamilton Highlanders.

Premier Drew Says Persons Allow Names to be Used

St. Thomas April 22 —(CP)— Premier Drew of Ontario said last night that a lot of people who would not willingly be members of any Communist organization are permitting their names to be used by organizations that are promoted and sponsored by the Communist Party of Canada or its sympathizers.

In an address prepared for delivery to the 60th anniversary gathering of Unity Lodge of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen here, Premier Drew cited opposition to cadet training in Ontario Schools as an example of what he meant.

He said that within recent weeks he had received a letter signed jointly by the president of the Toronto Civil Liberties League, the Secretary of the League for Reconciliation, and two individuals, urging discontinuance of cadet training. Later he received a letter from the Women's League for Peace and Freedom, also opposing cadet training.

"The interesting thing," he said "is that all these communications come from the same address. They are all part of one organized program. Now let me make it clear if English words can make it clear, that I am not suggesting that those whose names appear on these communications are members of the Communist Party."

Scottish-Born Player Making Good in Majors

New York, April 22 — (AP) — When Master Mel Ott remarked that the New York Giants had a youngster on the club who was bound to become a top ranking star, nearly everybody thought he was referring to Clint Hartung, the fabulous Texas rookie.

As if reading the newspaper boys' minds, the National League's home run king smiled and said:

"No I don't mean Hartung, although he's plenty good. I'm referring to our Scotch second baseman, Bobby Thomson.

Already this season the 23-year-old Glasgow-born youngster has belted three homers.

Likely to Block Move Planned By Arab League

Lake Success, N. Y., April 22 — (AP) — A preliminary survey indicated today that the United States and Great Britain would be able to muster enough support in the United Nations to block a move by the Arab states to give Palestine immediate independence.

Egypt formally proposed last night that the forthcoming special session of the United Nations Assembly put an immediate end to Britain's 25-year-old mandate and declare the Holy Land an independent country.

Both American and British sources, however, were confident that the Arab states would not be able to obtain the required two-thirds vote of the Assembly necessary to place the item on the agenda of the extraordinary session which opens next Monday.

The Latin American nations, with a bloc of 20 votes, were said to be getting ready to assume a neutral position in the battle over Palestine, but there were strong indications they would support the United States and Britain in opposing inclusion of the Egyptian proposal on this session's agenda.

The special session of the Assembly, initiated by Britain, was called to consider only establishment of a committee of inquiry to prepare the case for full-scale debate at the regular fall meeting.

Nazi-Hoarded Hungarian Silver Shipped Home

Frankfurt, April 22 —(AP)— The United States shipped $25,000,000 worth of Nazi-hoarded Hungarian silver and art objects back to Budapest today in a new gesture of friendship.

One hundred and twenty tons of silver—needed by Hungary to keep her economy on a sound basis—and 370 priceless cultural pieces were returned to the former enemy country under an agreement between the United States State Department and a Hungarian Economic Mission.

The previous cargo enroute to Hungary's capital city aboard a heavily armed United States Army train which reached Vienna this morning after passing in almost total military secrecy across Germany and Austria. It is scheduled to reach Budapest tonight or tomorrow.

The silver is the property of the Hungarian National Bank. Valued by army appraisers at $4,000,000, it is the last of the monetary assets of Hungary removed to Germany from Budapest vaults as the Germans fell back in southeastern Europe before Russia's advancing armies.

The cultural objects—priceless paintings, jewelry, and porcelain —are valued by Hungarian experts at $21,000,000.

Placing greater political value on the silver, diplomatic quarters in Germany said the bullion would help keep Hungary's economy on the stable basis established last year after the wildest inflation in modern history.

This inflation ended when the United States returned $35,000,000 worth of gold to Budapest.

Illegal Refugee Ship Boarded, Twelve Injured

Believed to Be Carrying 600 Jews Without Visas

Jerusalem, April 23 — (AP)—Twelve Jews and British sailors were reported injured today in the boarding at sea of the illegal refugee ship Calata, which an official announcement said was due in Haifa under tow at about noon. The ship was believed to be carrying about 600 Jews without visas.

She was first sighted by the R.A.F. Sunday northwest of the Suez Canal and was boarded at 9 a.m. today, against what the announcement termed "considerable resistance."

Tear and smoke bombs were said to have been used, but no firearms. Two of the injured Jews were reported in serious condition.

Strict security measures were imposed on the Haifa port area, where the refugees are to be transferred to transports for deportation to detention camps on the island of Cyprus.

Jewish sources said the Calata had been re-named the Shair Yishuv, meaning "remnants of Jewry."

Hidden Inside Oranges

London, April 23 (Reuters) — Explosives hidden inside oranges were smuggled into the Palestine jail where two Jewish Terrorists awaiting execution committed suicide last weekend, Lord Hall, First Lord of the Admiralty, told the House of Lords today.

Hall said the juice was sucked from the oranges and the explosives inserted in its place.

Replying to a question, Hall said that since Aug. 1, 1945, the death toll due to Terrorist activities in Palestine had been 68 members of the armed forces, 30 police and 15 civilians. The wounded included 191 troops, 49 police and nine civilians.

Casualties in the recent Palestinian railway disaster, in which seven were reported killed, were not included in these figures because full reports had not yet been received.

During the same period 168 Jews were convicted for Terrorist activities and 28 sentenced to death. Four were executed and 22 sentences commuted to life imprisonment.

Thirty-three Terrorists were killed in clashes with police.

Wallace Outlines Plan of World Reconstruction

Paris, April 23 (AP) —Henry A. Wallace declared today that Soviet Russia should get $10,000,000,000 to $17,000,000,000 worth of goods and services under a $50,000,000,000 world construction program.

In return, the former American vice-president said in an interview the Soviet Union should be required to forego her heavy reparations demands on Germany and to become a member of the international bank.

"The world cannot afford to allow reparations claims to shift from devastated Russia to Germany the misery and deprivation that create in Europe a danger spot," said Wallace, who arrived in Paris yesterday.

Wallace told a group of 150 French members of Parliament he had been "trying to struggle against" the point of view that "we must settle with Russia before they obtain the secret of the atomic bomb."

Capitalism

Saying "I believe in Russia," Wallace declared the world was divided equally among Communists, Socialists and Capitalists and added that "American capitalism has a difficult task ahead of it."

"I believe it is necessary to make changes in the capitalist system but I also believe it is necessary to continue the Capitalist system," he said.

Wallace's discussion of Russian Aid was an elaboration of an informal radio interview last night, in which he told French listeners that the United States, as centre of the world's wealth, should finance most of the huge world reconstruction program through the United Nations.

"The reconstruction program should be administered on a priority basis by a U.N. commission" he said today. "Russia, as the greatest war sufferer, would of course require the most aid. Greece and other hard-hit countries would be given their share."

More than 150 members of France's two Houses of Parliament gathered to hear Wallace in his first official appearance as a guest of the Foreign Affairs committee of the National Assembly.

Criticism Of Loans

The session was closed, but parliamentary correspondents learned that Wallace repeated criticism of the American loans to Greece and Turkey.

The French press split widely today in its reaction to Wallace's arrival in Paris.

Churchill Pleads For Admiral Keyes Memorial Fund

London, April 23 (Reuters) —Winston Churchill, Britain's Wartime Premier under whom the late Admiral of Fleet Lord Keyes created and built up the Commandos, appealed today through London newspapers for subscriptions to the "Keyes Memorial Fund."

Recalling that this was not only St. George's Day but also the anniversary by Zeebrugge when Keyes broke a protective U-boat blockade of a submarine base at Zeebrugge, Belgium, in the First World War, Churchill said: "The tale of his exploits afloat and ashore will long be read with delight by the youth of Britain."

The money, Churchill said, will go towards a stone and bronze tablet in St. Paul's Cathedral. Any surplus donated will be devoted to the endowment and furnishing of a "Keyes Memorial Ward" in a convalescent home for former servicemen at Portsmouth, England.

Bullets Miss When French Actress And Critic Meet on Field of Honor

Paris, April 23 —(Reuters)— French actress Lise Merville, reputed to be a crack shot, has challenged critic Roger Dornes to a pistol duel because he described her as "a skeleton whose skimpy gesticulations are those of a jibbering jumping jack."

Her seconds, Jacques Dalles and Pierre Cante who are appearing with her in the play "Detective Story," in which she takes the leading part, announced her challenge to Dornes this morning. So far, he has declined to accept.

"I am accustomed to dramatic criticism, both good and bad," Miss Merville said, "and I welcome it but what I won't accept are terms chosen by Dornes."

This is the fourth duel challenge within two months reported in the French press. So far, no one has been injured. Two former French Ministers settled a point of honor last month in the first duel near Paris for many years. All their shots missed.

MURDER CHARGE LAID AGAINST NICK STOYAN, 71

Alleged to Have Slashed To Death With Razor John Starchuk, 75, In Lonely Cabin

Leamington, April 23 (CP)—Nick Stoyan, 71-year-old onion-grower, was arraigned in Windsor today on a charge of murder in the razor slaying of his Russian-born friend, John Starchuk, 75, slashed to death a few hours earlier in a lonely marsh cabin they shared near here.

Stoyan was remanded to April 29.

He was arrested by Ontario Provincial Police early today a short time after Starchuk was slain in a bedroom of their tiny dwelling. Two other persons—the victim's wife and a small boy—were in an adjoining room when Starchuk was murdered.

The elderly men were sharecroppers on the rich onion marshes of Point Pelee in Mersea township.

Police said that Stoyan, who is a Bessarabian, tried to commit suicide with the razor he allegedly used to kill his cabin mate. The dwelling was padlocked pending further investigation.

Starchuk's wife, Mary and their grandson, 12-year-old Nick Klus, were asleep in a rear room of the tiny cabin at the time of the killing. The boy said he and his grandmother were awakened shortly after midnight by "a noise."

Boy Gives Interview

In an interview, the boy said he heard his grandfather say "what are you walking around for?" he continued: "then I heard 'Why are you standing over my bed? What are you doing here?' Then all we heard was 'ugh ugh.' We ran away to Bennie Cousins' house and Bennie called the police."

Stoyan was reported to have been arrested after police struggled along flood-damaged roads to the cabin. He was treated by Dr. H. R. Nicklin for superficial throat wounds. Meanwhile police sought an interpeter to facilitate questioning of Stoyan, a Bessarabian.

Starchuk's body was examined by Dr. E. K. Lyon, coroner, of Leamington, and removed to a funeral home here.

Little is known of either the slain man or the man in custody. Scores of persons, mostly of foreign extraction, live in the lonely marsh areas and they are seldom seen here or in neighboring smaller communities.

Royal Family On Table Mountain

Capetown, April 23 — (Reuters) — The Royal Family ascended Table Mountain by cable railway this morning in brilliant sunshine.

Prime Minister Smuts, who received them at the top of the 3,582-foot mountain, pointed out to them features of the magnificent view of both the Atlantic and Indian Oceans.

While the King and Queen were strolling on the top of Table Mountain the Queen's hat blew off. Smuts retrieved it, picked out one of the beautifully-shaded feathers and stuck it in his own hat.

Princess Elizabeth, as Chief Ranger of the British Empire, accompanied by Princess Margaret, inspected thousands of Girl Guides, Boy Scouts and Sea Scouts at Rosebank near here and thanked them for their good wishes on her 21st birthday Monday.

All Hope of Completing Austrian Peace Treaty In Moscow is Gone

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Moscow, April 23 — (AP) — American officials said today it appeared that all hope of completing an Austrian peace treaty in Moscow is gone and that the last session of the Council of Foreign Ministers here probably will be held tonight or tomorrow.

While still granting the chance of a "miracle" to break up the deadlock on key issues, informants said the best opinion now, based on results of three secret sessions held Monday and Tuesday, is that the Austrian peace pact is "out the window" for the present.

Meanwhile, delegations were packing, and from all appearances the visiting diplomats and their staffs expected to be gone from Moscow within three or four days after the conference ends.

The French are scheduled to go aboard a special train leaving as soon as possible after the final session. Luggage from the French Embassy was reported being stowed aboard the train today.

State Secretary Marshall and most of the Americans will fly back to the United States in special planes. Marshall was reported to have ordered his plane here from Berlin and it was said to be due here tomorrow.

If estimates of the Austrian situation are correct — that the Russians will remain unyielding in their stand against the other three powers to the end — the only work remaining for the foreign ministers is the job of turning back to their deputies and to the four-power control council at Berlin the German problems on which the Big Four was unable to agree.

Suitcase Full of Documents Disappears as Commission On Way From Greece to Geneva

Lake Success, N.Y., April 23—(AP)— Trygve Lie, Secretary-General of the United Nations, said today that a suitcase full of documents disappeared while the Security Council's Balkan investigation commission was en route from Greece to Geneva.

Lie said, however, that there was still no evidence that the documents had been stolen and that the commission is trying to trace the suitcase.

The Secretary-General made these other disclosures at a press conference.

1. That he had received a confidential communication from Britain on the question of illegal immigration into Palestine but had been asked to hold up action on it.

2. That Saudi Arabia had joined the four other Arab states in the U.N.—Syria, Lebanon, Egypt and Iraq—in demanding that the special Palestine session of the General Assembly consider immediate independence for the Holy Land. He said the five requests would be handled as one proposal.

3. That the U. N. secretariat had no authority to provide $5,000,000 for the initial financing of the Trieste government, as recommended by the Council of Foreign Ministers in Moscow, without special action by the Assembly.

COMMON CLAIMS CHIEF JUSTICE 'WRONG IN LAW'

Crown Opens Appeal Before Court Against Acquittal Of Mrs. Evelyn Dick

Toronto, April 23. (CP)—Speaking for two hours without interruption, W. B. Common today opened the Crown's appeal against acquittal of Mrs. Evelyn Dick on a charge of murdering her husband, John, at Hamilton, March 6, 1946.

Reading portions of evidence from the Crown's 1,062-page brief, Mr. Common said there was "one ground only" for the appeal—that Mr. Justice J. C. McRuer was "wrong in law" when he rejected Mrs. Dick's statements to police as evidence at her trial.

Hearing the Crown's appeal are Chief Justice R. S. Robertson and Mr. Justices F. D. Hogg, W. T. Henderson, R. E. Laidlaw and J. B. Aylesworth.

Mr. Common read lengthy statements made by police regarding how Mrs. Dick was questioned. The police statements said no promises or threats were made to the accused.

Mrs. Dick had been duly warned that she was being held in connection with the death of her husband. She was told that she need not say anything in relation to the charge, and that anything she said could be used against her as evidence.

Corrected Policemen

Mr. Common continued that when Police Inspector Charlesworth read the murder charge, Mrs. Dick interrupted to say: "Well, I know I didn't." The inspector said to the accused that she had given police three statements. Mrs. Dick said that was correct.

"'Are they true . . .'" the Inspector started to ask, Mr. Common said. Mrs. Dick interpected: "'Only one, the third.'"

Mrs. Dick said she would not complete the statement since her lawyer had told her to keep her mouth shut.

A later statement read in the court said John Bohozuk, Mrs. Dick's former friend, fired two shots into Dick's head and then fired a third into his body, while the three of them were driving outside of Hamilton. Afterwards Mrs. Dick told Bohozuk to dispose of the body and arrangements were made to do so the next day, the statement continued.

Bought Cleaning Fluid.

Mrs. Dick said she bought a cleaning fluid to clean blood spots off the car seat.

BRITAIN AND U.S. UNABLE TO AGREE ON WHEAT PRICE

Conference Passes Draft Agreement On To International Wheat Council

By JAMES McCOOK
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, April 23 — (CP) — The International Wheat Conference adjourned today after deciding to pass on a draft agreement covering wheat trade to the International Wheat Council, rather than to the governments concerned, for ratification.

The United Kingdom stated bluntly it was unable to accept the draft, produced after month-long discussions, because it felt the scheme proposed to keep prices too high.

Without participation by the biggest wheat importer, the other countries were unwilling to commit themselves.

Sir Gerald Clauson, conference chairman, said at a press conference there still could be a wheat agreement this year, however, if the countries in the wheat council decided to proceed on the basis of the draft agreement.

He said discussions had narrowed down to one point of disagreement — the question of prices — which might be overcome by bargaining.

The Canadian High Commissioner, Norman Robertson, disclosed the United Kingdom and the United States had been unable to agree on the future price range. It was impossible to think of an agreement to which they were both not parties, he said. Other countries might share Canada's feeling that a fixed price for the first year of the agreement's operation would be "more realistic and appropriate than the suggested range."

"We cannot let understandable impatience and a real sense of urgency deter us from doing a really thorough job," Robertson said, adding further meetings to reconcile varying views might be necessary.

He said Canada accepted the proposal that the draft agreement go to the wheat council.

The conference later agreed that countries not now members of the council should be invited to join the discussion.

As drafted, the agreement provides basic minimum and maximum prices shall be $1 and $1.80 in Canadian funds. Maximum prices for the 1947-48 and 1948-49 wheat years would be respectively $1.40 and $1.80 and minimum prices for the same years $1.30 and $1.70.

FUTURE OF JAPS IN DOMINION OCCUPIES HOUSE

Movements of Japanese In Parts of Canada East of B. C. Not Restricted

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, April 23 —(CP)— The question of what should be done with the Japanese in Canada was raised in the Commons again yesterday but the debate mainly proved to be a revival of arguments used in similar discussions on the contentious issue at previous sessions.

One of the few new developments in the discussions, scheduled to continue today, was an announcement by Labor Minister Mitchell that the Dominion Government had lifted its restrictions on the movements of Japanese in parts of Canada east of British Columbia. He said the restrictions had been lifted April 14 and since that time the Japanese were free to go where they liked east of the Pacific coast province.

The announcement came amid requests from C.C.F. members that racial discrimination against Japanese be eliminated. Countering these requests were demands by some Progressive Conservative and some Liberal members—most of them from British Columbia— that the Japanese not be allowed to return to Pacific coastal areas.

In the latter group was Veterans Minister Mackenzie who said that if the House took from British Columbia the right of adequate internal security it would be striking a blow against the Canadian federation. The rest of Canada should not "interfere" with the policies of British Columbia.

The debate was set off when members reached a section of the government's main control bill that would continue the power to deny Pacific coast fishing licences to persons of the Japanese origin. Ross Thatcher (CCF—Moose Jaw) moved an amendment to have the section withdrawn and once he took his seat the full fledged debate was on.

Among other speakers were John Sinnott (L—Springfield), Alistair Stewart (CCF—Winnipeg North); Angus MacInnus (CCF—Vancouver East); Howard Green (PC—Vancouver South) H. W. Herridge (People's CCF—Kootenay West).

Negro's Plea Fails

New Orleans, April 23. (AP)—The Louisiana Pardon Board yesterday denied a plea to save Willie Francis, 18-year-old Negro, from a second trip to the electric chair. Francis, who was sentenced to death for the slaying of a St. Martinville druggist, escaped electrocution last May 3 when the death chair failed because of a loose wire.

Comedians Allen, Hope, Skelton Find Network Takes Dim View of Kidding

Hollywood, April 23 (AP)—It's no joke to the National Broadcasting Company when its high-priced comedians poke fun at their bosses.

The network, which cut Fred Allen off the air briefly Sunday when he sought to comment on the activities of a mythical NBC Vice-President, gave Bob Hope and Red Skelton the same treatment last night when they essayed a little ribbing on the Allen case.

Red was silenced for about 12 seconds when, after an exchange of quips with his straight man, he said:

"Be careful, we might ad lib something that will hurt the dignity of some NBC Vice-President. Did you hear them cut Fred Allen off Sunday?"

That's when they pulled the plug on Red, but he went right on for the benefit of his studio audience:

"You know what NBC means, don't you? Nothing but cuts, nothing but confusion, nobody certain."

He had the last word, anyway, because when they put him back on the air he commented "well, we have now joined the parade of stars."

Hope got in bad after referring to Las Vegas, Nev., wide-open gambling resort city, as the "only place in the world where you can get tanned and faded at the same time." He then added "of course, Fred Allen can be faded anytime" and the switch was thrown.

Network officials were silent beyond the brief statement that the censored material was "objectionable to NBC." Edna Skelton, Red's writer and former wife, said the deleted material in the script had been disapproved by the network but that "Red was determined to use it, anyway."

Allen started the whole thing Sunday night in New York when he referred to a non-existent NBC Vice-President who, he said, was "in charge of program ends" and "noted the time saved when programs ran overtime."

Allen explained that this functionary saved up seconds, minutes and hours until he had amassed two weeks, then took a two-week vacation. His sponsor's advertising agency claimed Allen was cut off the air for 25 seconds, and said it would bill NBC for the lost time.

14-Foot Ice-Bridge Across Inlet Of Niagara R. Breaks

Threat of Curtailment Of Hydro Power Removed

Niagara Falls, Ont., April 23—(CP)— An ice-bridge 14 feet in thickness stretching across the inlet of the Niagara River at Fort Erie broke away today and relieved a threat of curtailment of Ontario Hydro-Electric power, supplied by giant turbines here. Partly dammed up waters of the river were permitted to surge toward the falls.

Sharply rising temperatures during the night weakened the ice formation and there was gradually increased flow all night but at 11 a.m. today the great mass suddenly broke away.

J. E. Lawson, president of the Canadian Niagara Power Company, said trouble was not anticipated as long as the ice remains in the upper river region but "there is a certain amount of danger to the intakes of the power houses."

Water Flow Increased.

Release of the ice during the night has increased the flow of water from the upper lakes, raising the water levels in the intakes almost to normal. All plants today are operating on peak loads.

The water pouring over the Canadian and American falls here, 15 miles from the river's start at Lake Erie, yesterday was reduced to a point where the falls looked more bare than anyone could remember. Only a fine mist rose from the Canadian falls instead of the age-old cloud of spray.

From both the Canadian and American sides it was possible to walk over bare rock for more than 100 feet, almost to the horseshoe curve of the great cataract.

Apart from the diminished water volume, the threat to the Ontario hydro plant lay in the possibility of giant masses of ice jamming into the turbine inlets when the ice jam finally breaks.

"It has all the earmarks of trouble," said R. M. Laurie, engineer of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission.

It was just such a situation as existed in the spring of 1938 when a disastrous ice break-up resulted in flooding of the Ontario hydro plant and the old Rainbow Bridge, weakened at supports on both sides of the canyon, crashed into the river.

Hydro officials were keeping constant watch on the ive-jam for sudden changes in temperature or wind direction might have major results. If strong westerly winds should prevail when the jam breaks, mountains of ice will be carried irresistibly down the river, over the falls and into the powerhouse inlets.

Old-timers said the water had not been so low in the past 50 years. Yesterday adults and school children were engaged in "treasure-hunts" among bare rocks— normally covered with torrents of water—looking for any kind of rewards. There was no report of any valuable finds.

Mr. Laurie said that a reduction o 35,000 kilowatts of Niagara power plant output yesterday was almost entirely on the American side. Maximum output of both the United States and Canadian plants is around 1,000,000 kilowatts.

Report Denied

Toronto, April 23 (CP)—Officials of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission here today denied reports of a threatened power shortage in the province because of ice conditions at Niagara Falls.

"There is no appreciable danger and the reports of a threatened power shortage are greatly exaggerated," said Osborne Mitchell, Secretary to Hydro Commissioner George H. Challies.

Mr. Mitchell said the water level at Niagara Falls is normal and there has been no reduction in the power output from the plant. He added that the commission is "not worried" over the ice condition of the Falls.

Train Accident Takes Life Of J. Burton Calvert

Burton Calvert, 43-year-old resident of Thomasburg, died in Belleville General Hospital shortly after 8:30 Tuesday night as a result of severe injuries received in a train accident near Ivanhoe.

Calvert, an employee of the Consolidated Sand and Gravel Company, formerly the Fuller Sand and Gravel Company, was assisting in shunting gravel-laden railway cars in the company's pit near Ivanhoe when, it is believed, he lost his balance and fell from a car to the tracks. He is said to have rolled beneath the wheels of the car. Both Calvert's legs were cut off below the knees.

Calvert was given first aid and rushed to Belleville General Hospital by Martin's Ambulance, but he failed to rally and succumbed to his injuries three hours after admittance.

Dr. J. J. Robertson, chief coroner here, ordered an inquest and the preliminary hearing took place at the Martin Funeral Home at nine o'clock this morning. Following identification by the jury, the inquest was adjourned until Friday, May 2 at 2 p. m. in the county courthouse.

Calvert is married and leaves a wife and four children. His father was killed in a railway accident 26 years ago.

The preliminary hearing was conducted by Gordon Robertson with County Constable Thomas Thorne acting as coroner's constable. The jury is composed of George Aselstine, foreman, Armor Bennett, Ed. Branton, M. Barriage, and Ed. Pine.

City Policemen Taking Course In Commando Tactics To Assist Members in Duties

Liniments and lotions are in keen demand by members of the local police department this week following the inauguration of their two weeks' course in police commando tactics which members of the Trenton and local police forces are taking.

The course is one devised by William Underwood of Toronto, to assist members of police forces in the discharge of their duties and is patterned along training given to army commandos with viciousness eliminated. Popularly termed as "Judo" the course embraces teaching of the fundamentals of Jiu Jitsu as it is employed to disarm armed men and to control drunks and other persons required to be handled by police.

The auditorium of the local city court room took on the aspect of a wrestling ring Tuesday night as stocky and "fiftyish" Mr. Underwood and his assistant Cliff Jessop gave demonstrations in the art of handling men much bigger and stronger. Burly police constables grimaced and said "uncle" as introductory demonstrations in course fundamentals were given.

The proper method of handling drunks, taking men into and out of cars, breaking all manner of body grips and strangle holds and how to deal with fighters and kickers and the defence against knives, blackjacks and firearms, is included in the course. The course lasts for 40 hours extended over a period of two weeks following which class members give a general demonstration in warding off attacks.

R.F.C. Member

A member of the Royal Flying Corps in the First World War, Mr. Underwood learned the fundamentals of Judo back in 1906. At the outset of the last war he again offered his services to the Air Force but was declared too old. It was then that his Judo method of commando training tactics was accepted by the armed services.

Police departments in many parts of Canada have taken advantage of the Underwood course for the training of its personnel.

"I have worked out an effective defence for every move or mode of attack which the opponent might make," stated Mr. Underwood as he talked briefly with the Ontario Intelligencer. "By the use of simple little tricks any opponent can be made completely helpless."

As evidence of the popularity of the system of training Mr. Underwood has scores of official Army and Airforce photographs showing action shots of active service members taking the course. The training is also recommended for women to enable them to ward off any attack.

The course is not confined solely to police department personnel and can be taken by others whose reputation in the community is in good standing.

Col. R.J. Cash and W.K. Cartwright Feted by Industrial Commission, Col. Cash Optimistic on Outlook

English representatives of the J. and J. Cash Ltd., of Belleville, Col. Reginald J. Cash, and W.K. Cartwright, were guests of the Belleville Industrial Commission at a dinner party held at the Queen's Hotel Tuesday evening. The two English industrialists are visiting the city in connection with the proposed expansion of the Belleville plant on Grier Street.

Members of the Industrial Commission, and local Chamber of Commerce directors attended the meeting.

Belleville Firm's 'Home'

Introduced to the meeting by Arthur Wesley, manager of the local plant of J. and J. Cash Ltd., Col. Cash expressed his pleasure at returning to the city. Referring to the proposed expansion of his company's plant, the speaker stated the firm would claim Belleville as its home "as long as you will keep us."

Touching on the current political situation in England the speaker termed Britain as a land of considerable changes, many of them not for the better. Many of the more far-sighted people in Britain foresaw the change would come he stated.

One of the first climaxes in post war period in Britain was the unusual winter which was made more critical by the coal shortage forcing industry to close down with domestic power restrictions being placed in force from nine to twelve in the morning and from two to four in the afternoon.

Future prospects of British coal mining were not bright as many mines were antiquated in equipment and the problem was to get more workers down to mine more coal. This was necessary if substantial stocks of coal were to be built up.

Mismanagement had in some respects been to blame for the crises but general exhaustion as result of two world wars had also been a contributing factor.

Britain Will Recover

But Britain would recover from her present dilemma. Often in the past England had found herself in complete despair and had ultimately found its way out. The British have infinite patience despite consistent grumbling and given a lead they will turn the corner.

Tribute to the British housewife was paid by the speaker who declared she had been the hero of the entire crisis. The continual hunting for food and the necessity of standing in lineups for many hours to make necessary purchases had been a terrible drain on the physical strength and had its effect on the general morale.

Thanks of the meeting to the speaker was expressed by Fred H. Deacon who declared that Canada would not sell the United Kingdom short "for we realize what is needed and we want to give help in the form of some tangible aid." Canadian valued English enterprise which was known throughout the world for its quality products.

Robt. A. Pringle as chairman of the Industrial Commission in his chairman's remarks welcomed the two English industrialists to Belleville and assured that it was a pleasure for the Commission to entertain members of the Chamber of Commerce. "The Industrial Commission owes a great deal to the Chamber of Commerce," stated the Industrial chairman. "It has given splendid co-operation and has contributed a great deal to the general well being."

Chamber members J. G. Galloway, Clarence Jewell and Irvine Hefkey were named Chamber members who had especially co-operated.

Ex-Mayor Harry Rollins, as vice-chairman of the Industrial Commission, expressed appreciation to J. and J. Cash for the confidence which its directors had in Belleville as was shown by the decision to extend the local plant.

Some citizens, he said, were not as enthusiastic about Belleville as was Col. Cash.

Referring to the British, Mr. Rollins declared that through good management they had become, and are, the greatest people on earth.

He was glad to see members of the Chamber of Commerce at the meeting. The Chamber, he said, had laid the foundation for building a greater Belleville and the Industrial Commission was only too glad to co-ordinate its efforts with that of the Chamber.

Harold Seldon, Chairman of the Retail Merchants' division of the Chamber, referred to charges of lack of co-operation between the Chamber and the Industrial Commission and stated that although this criticism had come from a member of the Chamber this opinion was not that of the majority of the directorate.

Others heard briefly during the meeting include Mr. Cartwright and J. G. Galloway.

ICE CREAM HABITS CITED

Detroit, April 23 (AP)—The ice-cream habits of Charles Kahn chilled the affection of his wife, Eva, she charged in a divorce suit yesterday.

She testified that once her husband bought a single ice cream cone for their two sons and then ate it himself, and on another occasion he ordered a dish of ice cream and "only let the kids lick the spoon."

The Judge granted her divorce.

Trenton Rotarians Entertained by Smithfield W.A.

On Monday evenng, the ladies of Smithfield W.A. served a banquet to the Rotary Club of Trenton, including a number of Smithfield men, when covers were laid for one hundred and twenty-five guests.

Among the guests at the head table were Rotary President, Mr. C. Saylor, Capt. Holmes of the Salvation Army; Padre, M. Swan of Trenton Airport, (the guest speaker); Rev. W. Sunter, pastor of Smithfield United Church; Mr. K. Couch, Mayor of Trenton, and Mr. F. K. Denyes, Deputy Reeve of Brighton township.

With Mr. C. Saylor as chairman for the program, a sing-song led by Mr. Maxwell was much enjoyed. After a short business period, Mr. Sunter welcomed the club to the church and spoke briefly from the words, "Behold I Send You Forth as Sheep Among Wolves." He said, "Sheep are meek and mild; have poor teeth for defence purposes. If one gets down it has to be helped by the shepherd. But, sheep are of great service, supplying wool and meat. Wolves are of no good use. They have sharp teeth and long claws and they tear, kill and destroy. In England, where there are thousands of sheep, the wolves have been practically exterminated. The wolf is the symbol of greed and selfishness, while the sheep stands for usefulness and service."

On behalf of the guests, Capt. Holmes expressed appreciation to the ladies for the very fine supper. Mr. Maxwell contributed two solos, and Mayor Couch introduced the guest speaker, Padre Swan, who told of some of his experiences overseas and at home in Vancouver. He told of how he "chummed" with the young men of the forces, gaining their confidence and of how he "sold his goods" when thrown into the company of strangers. He appealed to his listeners for enthusiasm for the higher things in life, and in service for others. Mr. Denyes moved a vote of appreciation to Padre Swan, in which all present heartily concurred.

After the singing of "O Canada" the meeting adjourned.

Soup Kitchens Used in Pictou, Coal Strike Area

Stellarton, N. S., April 23 (CP) Industrial Pictou County, where the highest rate of unemployment in Canada has been aggravated by the nine-week-old coal strike, today had soup kitchens for the first time in 22 years.

The soup, cooked in huge army dixies by volunteers working in a potato chip plant, was trucked to two central homes in the colliery area for distribution to needy families among those of the 1,400 miners on strike.

Only 100 of the 200 certified by the United Mine Workers (C.C.L.) as needy were served as the kitchens opened yesterday. But Lieut. George Clark of the Salvation Army, originator of the project, said the number might eventually run as high as 300 or 400 a day.

While Lieut Clark spent yesterday rounding up food offered by county residents—one farmer donated seven bags of potatoes—four women cooked the soup in Bob Lowe's commercial kitchen.

Sinclair Munro donated the use of a truck he bought from War Assets Corporation.

The soup kitchens were the first opened here since the long strike of 1925. Although the married miner gets $5 every eight days in strike relief plus $1 for each child, many have found it difficult to get along.

FUELLESS MINERS

Clydach, Wales — (CP) — Some 1,400 mine workers at Cambrian colliery are consistently beating their coal target; but union officials say the men are not getting coal for their own homes.

Polish Veterans Entertained By Canadian Legion

Polish veterans of this district to the number of seventeen were entertained at a social evening sponsored by the Canadian Legion branch in their clubrooms on Tuesday night and it was one of the finest meetings held in some time. The women folk of the members were out and the entertainment provided for these veterans so far away from home was greatly appreciated. They were welcomed by President Angus Duffy through an interpreter and Monsignor J. F. Nicholson, himself a veteran of World War I gave a most inspiring address to these men. He traced the history of Poland and praised the fighting qualities of her sons, who were forced to undergo severe privations and sufferings at the hands of the German hordes.

Everett Liddle, D.V.A. officer, informed the meeting of the circumstances under which these Polish veterans came to Canada stating that many in Italy did not wish to return to their own country due to unsettled conditions. These veterans brought to Canada were selected for their agricultural experiences, Mr. Liddle stated, and they have fitted into the picture and will in time become citizens and worthy ones of this great Dominion. More veterans will be brought to Canada and Hastings County farmers have 27 applications on file in the Unemployment Office but it is not expected all will be filled due to the demand for this type of man.

A splendid program was provided with Walter Harden acting as chairman. Nancy David gave a number of readings; Mr. Hockaday and Willie gave a talented ventriloquist act, while Bruce Sills gave a number of selections on the musical saw, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Bradley. Jamie Clark entertained with the pipes and wee Miss Nash gave out with a number of dances. Alf. Cooper and his boys' orchestra entertained with a number of selections and all enjoyed the community sing. Delightful refreshments were served and then the floor was cleared and dancing was continued for some time with Bruce Sills and his orchestra supplying the music. A number of draws were held, the winners being presented with splendid prizes.

Four-day Voyage Nightmare For Motley Crew

St. George's Bermuda, April 23 (CP)—A ship's company that would have made a little League of Nations by themselves were awaiting diplomatic aid today after a four-day voyage that turned out to be a gastronomic nightmare.

The 18 men—nine of different nationalities—in the crew of the tramp steamer Colony Trader went to their respective consular representatives yesterday demanding that the freighter's captain sign on a good cook or let them sign off the ship.

The trouble started when the 500-ton vessel, registered in Halifax and flying the Costa Rican flag while said to be Greek-owned, left, Jacksonville, Fla., for Naples with a cargo of old rubber tires.

Meanwhile the crew discovered the American cook signed on at Jacksonville was bogus and had to fend for themselves by raiding food lockers and preparing their own meals.

When the ship had steamed within a day of Bermuda, an engineroom hand fell ill and course was altered. Scarcely had the sick man been taken to hospital after the ship docked than another had to be administered a sedative to quiet his nerves.

The remainder of the crew sought consular aid rather than face the long Atlantic voyage without a good man in the galley.

Fire Destroys Home and Barn, Six Calves

A substantial farm home and barn owned by John Dick, resident of Gilead, two miles northeast of Wellington, was destroyed by fire shortly before noon today despite the heroic efforts of pumpers from Bloomfield and Wellington and from Bonn Motor Sales of Belleville, who sent a "jeep" with attached pumper to the scene. The cause of the fire is unknown and the damage has not been estimated although it will be considerable. Six calves were burned in the barn. Helpful neighbors removed the furniture from the home and their efforts prevented a neighboring home from being destroyed by the blaze.

The fire started in the barn and then spread to the drive house, pig pen and other buildings. So great was the blaze that the grass about the buildings was set afire and still burning according to the latest reports. So fast did the flames spread that helpers were unable to control the flames with the bucket brigade that was formed. On the arrival of the several pumpers from various sections, the firefighters were able to control the blaze to the immediate vicinity. The amount of insurance carried was not stated in the report.

COMMON CLAIMS

She said she saw Dick's body in the car in her garage the next day. The arms and legs had been severed but the head still was partially on. Mrs. Dick said the limbs were burned after the torso was duped.

The appeal is the second heard by the Ontario Appeal Court since Mrs. Dick first came to trial. It is based on the Crown's contention that Chief Justice J. C. McRuer was wrong in rejecting as evidence statements made by the accused woman to police.

Chief Justice McRuer, trial judge at Mrs. Dick's second hearing last February, said he had rejected these statements because they had previously been ruled out as evidence by the Court of Appeal. That Appeal Court ruling was made in the appeal by the defence after Mrs. Dick had been sentenced to death by Mr. Justice F. H. Barlow in her first trial.

W. B. Common and C. R. Magone represent the Crown in the appeal and John J. Robinette the defence. The appeal memorandum cites 20 court decisions as authorities to show that Chief Justice McRuer was wrong in law by rejecting the statements.

The Court of Appeal set aside the death sentence on grounds Mr. Justice Barlow had erred in directing the jury. Among the points of its decision, the Appeal Court said statements made by Mrs. Dick to police should not have been admitted as evidence.

Mrs. Dick then was acquitted by a jury after her retrial before Chief Justice McRuer, but later was sentenced to life imprisonment on a manslaughter charge arising from the death of a newly-born child, Peter David White MacLean, found encased in cement in a suitcase in Mrs. Dick's house.

Dick, 40-year-old Russian-born Hamilton street railway operator, was found on Hamilton mountain, March 16, 1946. His head and limbs had been cut off. After Mrs. Dick was arrested, her father, Donald MacLean, and a friend, William Bohozuk, were apprehended and charged with Dick's murder. Bohozuk and Mrs. Dick also were charged with murdering the new-born child.

Bohozuk later was acquitted of both murder charges and MacLean was given five years in the Dick murder.

The Day in Parliament

(By The Canadian Press)

The Senate will sit.

Tuesday:

Justice Minister Ilsley deny the government had discriminated against the sugar beet industry; External Affairs Minister St. Laurent say consideration of Canada's role in world relief had not reached the policy-announcing stage; Labor Minister Mitchell say the provinces were prepared to re-assume May 15 jurisdiction over labor matters placed in government hands during wartime; Justice Minister Ilsley say a bill providing for changes in the Criminal Code soon would be introduced; heard the question of the dispersal of Japanese in Canada discussed at length.

The Senate gave first reading to five private bills.

Prices Knocked Down 10 Per Cent

Newburyport, Mass., April 23—(AP)— A cost-of-living splash, which saw prices knocked down a flat 10 per cent in this American seaport city in response to President Truman's appeal for price reductions across the country spread to at least one nearby community today and plans were underway to adopt the program in others.

Merchants of the neighboring town of Amesbury voted unanimously last night to adopt the "Newburyport plan" after observers reported that the first day of the experiment appeared to be "highly successful."

Portsmouth, N.H., businessmen, who also sent a delegation to Newburyport yesterday — first day of the experiment — took steps to obtain price-cut pledges which would put the program in operation in that ship-building city.

Observers from other communities, including the heavily populated industrial city of Lowell, said they were impressed with the plan and would make favorable reports to their merchants.

Under the local program, more than 90 per cent of the retail merchants agreed to reduce prices 10 per cent in a 10-day experiment and were pledged not to buy supplies from wholesalers who would not grant similar reductions.

Merchants said full effects of the experiment would not be known until the weekend.

Shoppers made the first day a gala event as they crowded into this city of 15,000 from a shopping area covering a population of 45,000.

For England and St. George!

St. George's Day serves to pay honor to the English people whose place in history is linked with the main outstanding events in the rise of democracy and the expansion of civilization. St. George is the Patron Saint of England and of chivalry. In the Middle Ages his name had a deep significance for the world, just when the rise of England among the powers of that time came to mean so much to the progress of constitutional government and the exploration of the world. Englishmen in the long ago went into battle with the cry "With God for England and St. George," which is yet the spirit of this great people.

There is something attractive in the fact that England chose the hero martyr as her tutelary saint. To the English he signified the highest principle and devotion and courage in the face of the greatest odds. The spirit of the tradition attaching to the saint was the expression that suited the spirit of the England that chose him as patron. One of the traditions linked with the obscure and legendary life of the saint is that of St. George's battle with the dragon to overcome it. In her history many a time England has fought the dragon typified in her enemies and she has conquered. Chivalry is so closely related with the life of St. George and in the chivalry of the Middle Ages Englishmen and their patron saint proved the very embodiment of the chivalrous life.

England with the rest of the British Isles can look around the world today and take pride in the service she has given to advance civilization. She has been foremost in the vanguard of progress, the world's greatest colonizing power and exponent of constitutional liberty. What the world owes to this "tight little island set in the silver sea" history cannot neglect to record. It is written all over the globe.

On this same day of the year was born one of the great men of all civilization, William Shakespeare, who became the world's greatest figure in the theatre and in literature, the most perfect expression in any writings of the virtues and qualities of ideal manhood and of life in action. To read the historical plays of Shakespeare, as they deal with British history and with the history of Rome, is to have the best guide to the spirit of the ages of which he wrote and which he made live again in his lines. Nearly forty plays and some other verse besides the great series of Sonnets came from his mind and pen. In these are found the finest interpretation and understanding of human life and conduct in literature.

The poet himself again and again paid tribute to St. George for to him St. George and England signified the same ideal.

Not so far away in history is another anniversary of the same day, that was when the British forces in 1918 raided the German submarine bases at Zeebrugge and Ostend in one of the great feats of all time.

St .George's Day, 1947, finds Britain struggling against an unusual combination of events, the consequences of the sacrifices made in two wars, and the most unusual weather conditions of the past winter and early spring which have caused the nation immense loss in agriculture and in lifestock and has delayed the work of reconstruction and rehabilitation. But in the same spirit as that which fired Englishmen in the days of old, England valiantly and with the innate courage of the race which has been accustomed to face and to triumph over gigantic odds through their very intrepidity of courage, fights on, despite dire predictions, and the wild guesses of gloomsters. Her history is proof of her emergence from the present situation.

To England, Scotland and Ireland the world has always looked for guidance and their leadership still is the vital force that spells triumph in every cause Britain has undertaken and will undertake. Her contribution to the spirit and the development of the world has for ages been written and will continue to be so written for the principles which have guided her are as close to the ideal as it is possible to have them in a practical world. Britain has been the world's greatest friend, she has opened up continents and the world in the very spirit of St. George.

Air Power in Agriculture

An interesting and novel experiment in agricultural technique is being carried out in Britain today. Wheat is being sown from the air by spraying it from a low flying aeroplane. This enterprising way of harnessing air power for the assistance of agriculture has for its object overcoming the result of the serious hold-up in farming operations — and spring sowing in particular—caused by the calamitous weather of the last six months. The experiment is taking place over an area fifty acres in size and a Miles Aerovan aircraft is being used for the job. The plane will be flown at about 75 m.p.h. at an average height of 50 ft. and will be carrying five tons of wheat seed. This will be scattered over the land through bomb apertures in the bottom of the plane and the force of the wind will do the work of spreading the seed evenly over the fields. This operation will be followed up by harrowing with mechanical tractors. Land on the majority of farms in Britain is still too sodden to permit surface sowing and this experiment in air-spraying seed is being watched with the greatest interest by the agricultural community.

"Smoke a Little Slower—"

This philosophical injunction from the lips of Hugh Dalton is scarcely likely to reconcile British smokers to a fifty per cent increase in tobacco prices.

The reason for the British budget provision which imposes it is obvious, however. Britons were smoking up the dollars from the U. S. and a prohibitive tax on imported tobaccos was the only effective way of slowing the destruction.

Britain has no money to burn. Those shrinking dollars are more urgently needed today than when they were borrowed. The smoker appears the only goat available for the sacrifice required.

We imagine British smokers will accept the new austerity without undue grousing, recognizing it as part of the price exacted for "a mighty victory."

—Montreal Herald.

"Back in the Army Again—"

Backed by a War Department blessing, a bill to perpetuate Uncle Sam's "WAC" as "an integral component of the regular army" is now before Congress.

The bill suggests a sharp contract between the attitude of Washington and Ottawa attitudes toward ladies in uniform.

Disbanding of the women's services was Canada's first demobilization move. It seemed as though our bachelor-headed government couldn't get the ladies out of khaki fast enough.

We imagine that many a Canadian woman will suffer a nostalgic twinge on reading this news from Washington.

Home-hunting husband-watching and the other horrors of civilian life may well inspire the wish that she were "back in the army again."

—Montreal Herald.

Hon. George Dunbar, who has just observed his 69th birthday, is the oldest member of the Ontario cabinet but one of the most energetic and, as proved by his record, a highly competent administrator. Mr. Dunbar finds, as many others have found, that training in civic government is a tremendous asset in the supposedly higher ranks of public life, according to the Ottawa Journal.

MARBLE TIME

Wonder where the agates are
That I treasured years ago?
Some like opals with a star,
Others with a cherry glow.
Wonder are the boys today
Proud and glad as I was then,
As I watch them at their play,
Now it's marble time again?

As I passed some youngsters by,
On their knees, a ring about,
"No fair fudging! came a cry,
Phrase I loudly used to shout.
Something deep inside of me
Took me from the world of men.
Boy once more I seemed to be.
Spring—and marble time again!

Set my finger and my thumb
Round an agate as of old,
Felt the long-passed yearning come,
For the skill I once controlled.
"No fair fudging!" did I cry?
Is it fancy that I pen?
Do such memories never die?
Now it's marble time again.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

How are the sizes of men's hats determined?

The number used to designate the size of a man's hat represents the average of the length and width of the crown in inches

One can roughly compute the size of any hat without recourse to a regular size ring by measuring the length and width of the crown, adding these two figures together and dividing the result by two.

The numbers do not always correspond exactly to the sizes because hat blocks vary considerably and hats often stretch with wear.

Theoretically, however, the number denoting the size of a hat may be regarded as the diameter of a circle equal to the oval of the crown. Hat sizes have not been standardized throughout the world and the American-British, French and Spanish systems of numbering differ considerably.

The one in most general use is the American-British system in which the numbers range from 6½ to 7½.

Even this system as used in the United States and the United Kingdom is not exactly the same. English hat sizes differ from American by one size, an English hat numbered 7 being actually as large as an American one numbered seven and one-eighth, because the English cover their hat blocks with a felt cover that makes a difference of one size or an eighth of an inch.

Hat manufacturers report that the great majority of American men wear hats ranging in size from six and seven-eighths to 7½, seven representing the average size, although 25 per cent of all men's hats sold are size six and seven-eighths.

Among the Presidents of the United States, Garfield wore the largest hat — seven and three-fourths. Grant, Taft and Franklin D. Roosevelt wore over-sized hats — seven and five-eighths. Cleveland and Benjamin Harrison wore a 7½, the largest standard size, while Theodore Roosevelt and Harding wore seven and three eighths. Lincoln wore a seven and one-eighth, and it is an interesting fact that no President since his time with the single exception has worn a hat that small. The hats of all the Presidents from Grant to Truman ranged in size from seven and three-eighths to seven and three-fourths.

FUTURE OF JAPS

Before the control debate swung to matters affecting the Japanese, members passed orders-in-council dealing with labor relations, fishing, government-purchase of sugar, compensation for crown company employees, and appeals in cases involving breach of wartime regulations.

Mr. Mitchell cancelled six orders relating to the administration of wartime labor relations in the provinces. He said the provinces had advised that they were prepared to re-assume, effective May 15, those labor relations regulations which came under their jurisdiction but were turned over to the Dominion during the war.

At the same time he obtained passage of an order that will continue certain federal wartime labor regulations which later will be absorbed in a new federal labor code. Mr. Mitchell said it was hoped the new code would be the basis for uniform labor legislation across the country.

Matter of Policy

Finance Minister Abbott, in response to a question, told the House that abolition of butter rationing was a matter of government policy which would be announced "in due course."

During an hour developed to private bills following the dinner recess, Justice Minister Ilsley disclosed that a bill making "important" changes in the criminal code has been drafted and likely will be submitted to the Commons later this session. He indicated that some of the changes would tighten up sections dealing with careless driving and the handling of firearms.

In moving his amendment that would give Japanese back their west coast fishing licences, Mr. Thatcher said the prohibition might have been necessary during the war but that excuse no longer held. He believed the only reason why they were being continued was because of "racial discrimination."

Mr. Mitchell said the order was passed at a time when the Allies in the Pacific were "hanging on the ropes." He did not regret the policy and would impose it again if necessary.

"I would like to think," he said, "that our boys at Hong Kong were as well treated as we treated the Japanese."

Discuss Variety of Topics

In earlier discussion on a variety of topics, John Diefenbaker (PC—Lake Centre) urged that more encouragement be given the Dominion's sugar beet industry. He contended that an increase in domestic sugar production would boost the supply available for the Canadian ration and would save much of the exchange Canada had to disburse on sugar imports.

Mr. Ilsley said the government had given encouragement through an increased subsidy and argued that increased production would be a question of "paying more money" by way of further subsidy or by erecting high tariff walls against cane sugar, tariffs which would have the effect of excluding imports from Empire countries.

He denied charges of John Blackmore (SC—Lethbridge) that the Canadian sugar controller had discriminated against the sugar beet industry to the advantage of the cane industry.

Summer Cottages Undermined by Waves

Leamington, Ont., April 23 — (CP) — A strong northeast wind Monday shipped up heavy waves which flooded part of Point Pelee National Park, washed out roads, undermined summer cottages at nearby beaches and kept fishing boats huddling in port.

More than 75 men sandbagged the East Lake road in Mersea township's "lowlands," but at several points the road was washed out. Two-thirds of the National Park area fenced off as a game preserve was under water.

PERSONAL HEALTH TALKS

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

(Signed letters pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Letters should be brief and written in ink. Owing to the large number of letters receivd only a few can be answered here. No reply can be made to queries not conforming to instructions. Address Dr. William Brady, care of this Newspaper.)

NO CURES SERVED HERE

It is painfully evident (to me) that nine of ten correspondents do not heed if they notice at all the paragraph which, I stipulate and hope, appears at the top of bottom of this column ferquently if not daily. The paragrph is:

Signed letters not more than one page or 100 words long, pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis or treatment" etc.

Away back in goosestep days when there were usually only two or three hundred letters a day to read I tried to send a personal reply to every correspondent who provided a stamped envelope bearing his or her address even though the correspondent's letter was actually a request for advice about symptoms, diagnosis or treatment. The answer in such instances was necessarily a stereotyped explanation that without examination and study of the individual case I could not form an opinion as to the diagnosis or treatment.

After years of experience trying to make the rejection slip as painless as possible I gave up. Too many correspondents who mistook this service for a clinc or a dispensary go hot under the collar and wrote bitter comments to the editor or came right back at me with a more or less stereotyped:

"I didn't ask for diagnosis or treatment. I merely asked whether there is any cure, for .."

If I had to answer that the answer would be no, of course. If I said yes or perhaps or in some cases or if taken in time, you see, the correspondent could reasonably ask for further elucidation or explanation of my answer.... so I decided years ago that there is no cure for the disease about which the correspondent writes.

But that wasn't the right answer either. Indeed it seemed to give many of our readers a kind of satisfaction or pleasure to cite medical authorities in rebuttal—and there they had me stymied, for in such circumstances if I express my opinion of medical authorities the amenities are over and the brawl begins.

Finally I came to my senses. Why go to all the trouble of sending apologies, explanations or rejection slips to people who ignore or break the rules? After all, I undertake to answer only certain letters pertaining to health or hygiene, if correspondents supply properly stamped and addressed return envelopes. Yes, that's it.

I complain about the great number of letters that are out of order here because it takes time just to open and scan two or three thousand letters—time that rightfully belongs to correspondents who comply with the rules.

Ideally there should be no demand or occasion for a health column or service such as this. Every question or problem submitted by our readers or discussed here should be submitted to and discussed by the family physician. Ideally, I say. I know as well as you do that few good doctors can afford to give their time to such questions and few shrewd Yankees (North Americas) are willing to pay a fee to the family physician for such advice.

As a practical application of this lesson to your own health economy take the pamphlet "preparing for Marriage" by Paul Popenoe, Sc D., (25Cts.), Americin Institute of Family Relations, 607 S. Hill St. Los Angeles 14, Calif., or Dr. Popenoe's book "Marriage Before and After" ($2), Wilfred Funk, Inc., New York, N. Y. These forms of instruction and advice are excellent and I recommend every young person who contemplates marriage and to every married couple who may need instruction and advice on the biology of courtship, marriage and parenthood.

Although Dr. Popenoe and the Institute are doing a fine job in the sadly neglected field of sex education, with these and many other pamphlets and publications it seems pertinent to ask why every young couple preparing for marriage should not prepare for it in the right way—namely, by having a series of formal instructions by their rabbi, minister or priest and by their physician?

WEDDINGS

ORR—CRONKWRIGHT

On the afternoon of April 16th, at two-thirty o'clock St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church was the scene of a very pretty wedding with floral decorations of snapdragons daffodils and potted ferns, when Audrey Stella Cronkwright, daughter of Mrs. Stella Cronkwright, of Holloway, was united in marriage with Kenneth Orr, son of Mr. and Mrs. Van Orr, Glen Miller, Ont. Rev. J. G. Hornsby was the officiating clergyman.

Given in marriage by Mr. Harry Hennley, the bride entered the church to the strains of wedding music provided by Mr. W. E. Fletcher, organist of the church. She wore a gown of gleaming white satin fashioned with a long torso, dropped yoke and lace shoulders and long sleeves ending in points over the wrists. Her fingertip veil fell in graceful folds from a floral headdress of white carnations, and she carried an arm bouquet of American Beauty roses.

The bride was attended by Miss Evelyn Cronkwright, her sister, as maid of honor, wearing a gown of pink taffeta, with matching Juliet cap and shoulder-length veil and Mrs. Olive Gryce, the bride's aunt, wearing a gown of blue taffeta, with matching Juliet cap and shoulder-length veil. Both of the attendants carried Colonial nosegays of sweetpeas.

Mr. Ralph Orr, of Glen Miller, ably supported the groom.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Bar-B-Q restaurant on Bridge Street, where the bride's mother received wearing a brown pin-stripe suit, with matching hat and accessories, and a corsage of sweetpeas. She was assisted by the groom's mother wearing a dress of black crepe, with matching hat and accessories and a corsage of sweetpeas and roses.

For a wedding journey to Niagara Falls and the United States, the bride chose a suit of grey wool, with black top coat, hat and accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Orr will reside at Glen Miller.

Out-of-town guests were from Glen Miller, Plainfield and Holloway.

SOULE—BARNUM

At three o'clock on the afternoon of April 11th., at the parsonage of Tabernacle United Church Rev. F. R. Harback united in marriage Kathleen Shirley, daughter of Mrs. Frank Barnum and the late Mr. Barnum, and Douglas Warren, son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Soule.

The bride was very lovely in a street-length dress of poudre blue crepe, with brown accessories, and wore a corsage of American Beauty roses. Her cousin, Miss Mary Cannons, was her only attendant, wearing a dress of rose silk jersey, with a corsage of American Beauty roses and pink and white carnations.

Mr. James Graham ably supported the groom.

Following the ceremony a reception for about thirty guests was held at the home of the bride, where Mrs. Barnum received wearing a dress of grey crepe, with black accessories. Her corsage was of pink carnations. She was assisted by the groom's mother, wearing a suit of navy blue wool.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Soule motored to Sandy Creek, N.Y., after their return they will take up residence in Belleville.

BURSHAW—SILLS

A quiet wedding was solemnized at Christ Church on Thursday, April 17, when Elizabeth Jean Sills, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Sills, was united in marriage to Joseph Edward Burshaw, second son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Burshaw. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. Grant Sparling.

The bride wore a grey suit with black accessories and a corsage of American Beauty roses.

Miss Marion Pauline Sills was her cousin's only attendant and wore a blue suit with matching accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

Mr and Mrs. Burshaw will reside in Belleville.

WHALEN—HANSON

The Church of St. Michael the Archangel was the scene of a very lovely wedding ceremony on Monday, April 21, at 10 o'clock a.m., when Eileen, daughter of Mr. W. Hanson and the late Mrs. Hanson of Rockwood, Ont., became the bride of Ambrose Daniel Whalen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Whalen, of Belleville. The ceremony was performed by Rt. Rev. Monsignor Nicholson, P.A., V.G., D.P.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attractively attired in a white satin gown with veil, and carried a bouquet of lilies.

Miss Catherine Whalen, Reg.N., of Toronto, was bridesmaid and looked very lovely in a gown of pink satin, with veil and necklace of pearls and carried a bouquet of roses.

Mr. Roy Lovell, of Acton, Ont., nephew of the bride was groomsman and Mr. George Whalen acted as usher.

The music for the Nuptial Mass was beautifully rendered by Rev. Sister M. Bibiana, aunt of the groom, and Miss Anna Lafferty was soloist.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Jewell. The wedding breakfast was served at the Queen's Hotel, where some 35 guests were received by Mrs. Jewell. The dining room was attractively decorated with streamers, the table centred with a three-tiered wedding cake and flanked by tall tapers. The toast to the bride was proposed by Mr. Jewell, to which the groom fittingly replied.

Out-of-town guests included Mrs. Lovell, of Rockwood, sister of the bride,, Mr. Tom Kellty Sr., and Mr. and Mrs. George Kellty of Stoco.

After a motor trip to Western points, Mr. and Mrs. Whalen will reside in Belleville, where the groom is a popular member of the staff of Bateman Motors Limited.

Women's Activities

MADOC W.I.

Madoc.—The annual meeting of the Madoc Branch of Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. C. N. Whytock on Friday afternoon. With the President, Mrs. Hill, in charge a short time was spent in community singing. Several communications were read and discussed and arrangements made for catering to a banquet for the Legion. The Secretary, Mrs. Moon, presented the financial statement for the past year, which proved to be a very successful one, with many achievements accomplished and a splendid balance on hand. Reports of standing committees followed. Mrs. E. Moore, District President of North Hastings, paid her official visit to the Madoc Branch and gave a talk on program planning. Miss Van Kleek in charge of Current Events gave a short resume of the highlights of the month. Mrs. Frost contributed two vocal solos accompanied by Mrs. L. Ashley. The president of Plainfield W.M.S. presided over the opening exercises of the W.M.S. of Plainfield United Church, when twenty ladies met for the Easter Thank-offering meeting at the home of Mrs. William Sills.

An Easter service of worship was in charge of Mrs. Prindle. A recitation "The Betrayer" was acceptably rendered by Hazel Prindle, an appropriate Easter solo by Mrs. Bernice Moore was much appreciated and readings were given by Mrs. Fred Hall and Mrs. Norman Hall Sr.

The group leader, Mrs. Cronkright, introduced the Easter program with a poem, and a duet "Ivory Palaces" contributed by Mrs. Campbell and Miss Marion Prindle was very much enjoyed. The guest speaker was Mrs. Seldon Homan of Carmel, who gave an interesting and inspiring address, for which appreciation was expressed.

A poem by Mrs. Cronkright was read and a poem "Eastertide" by Mrs. Norman Hall, brought the program to a close.

During the business period Mrs. Blanche Emerson presented a Christian Stewardship appeal. The treasurer reported $50.00 sent to the Presbyterial Treasurer; the Easter offering amounting to $20.50, and $15 was realized from the presentation of a play by Holloway Street Church Y.P.U. It was decided to send $15 to the missionaries at Maynooth, for their work there. A card of thanks was read from Mr. and Mrs. Don Hall for sympathy recently expressed.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistants.

PLAINFIELD MISSION CIRCLE

The Mission Circle of Plainfield United Church met at the parsonage April 15, with the president in charge for the opening exercises. During the business period a letter was read from Mrs. P. MacMullen. The devotional period was in charge of Miss Marion Prindle, the Scripture lesson being read by Isabelle Elliott and an Easter story given by Joan Rollins. An appropriate duet by Hazel and Marion Prindle was much appreciated. Miss Verna Prindle had charge of the study book, assisted by Helen Beatty.

Evelyn Campbell accepted the offering and the treasurer reported having sent $15 to Mrs. Truscott at Napanee. The meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction, after which Mrs. Norman Hall Sr. conducted a contest, and refreshments were served by the hostess.

A euchre and rummy was held, prizes were won as follows: First prize in euchre by co-worker Nellie Haslip, second prize by co-worker Mary Haslip, the rummy prize was won by co-worker Eda McGinnis. A supper was then served which climaxed a very delightful evening.

Msgr. Nicholson Addresses Children of Mary

On Monday evening members of the Children of Mary, held their April meeting in John Street High School. The president, Mary McDougal, first congratulated the sodalists on their successful presentation of "You Can't Beat the Irish." The members of the sodality publicly debated on having a mother-daughter breakfast on May 12. This was decided upon along with a procession in honor of the Blessed Virgin to be held the night of May 12. Then it was suggested that the Sodality hold a May Ball in the Auditorium of St. Michael's Academy which was approved of heartily by all the members.

When Monsignor Nicholson arrived the Children of Mary presented him with an engraved lighter and cigars in honor of his appointment as Protonotary Apostolic. Miss McDougal read the address, Sheila Doyle recited "The Hands of a Priest" and the Sodalists sang "Vivat Pastor Bonis" Monsignor Nicholson thanked the sodalists and spoke for a few moments.

Seven Petitions in Prayer

Monsignor Nicholson said: When we recite the Lord's Prayer, we formulate seven petitions. The first is 'Hallowed be Thy Name," it means God's name is to be praised in all the world, that every man is to bow humbly before the Lord, that respect for Him is to fill our hearts and that we are to think of God and all that is connected with Him in deep devotion and piety. In the first place we must hallow the name of God in a negative sense. This signifies that we must not revile God's name in conversation or take His name in vain. This poster can be seen at many Dutch railway stations. "If you believe in an Almighty God, honor Him and do not take His name in vain. If you do not believe in Him then do not make use of His name for by so doing you debase yourself and offend others."

This sacred principle animates The Holy Name Society. Of course, we honor God in a positive manner also. "From the rising of the sun to the going down of the same the name of the Lord is worthy of praise." It is this respect that impelled Newton the great scientist to take off his hat as often as he heard God's name, for he knew he saw in the marvellous world of the stars, who God is. This same respect urges Mother Church to prescribe that when the sacred name of Jesus is uttered we must always bow our heads. Our heads and our hearts. We sanctify, bless and glorify the Holy name of Jesus. As St. Peter wrote, "There is no other name under heaven given to men, whereby we must be saved." The name of Jesus, said St. Bernard is honey to the lips, music to the ear, and joy to the heart."

Refreshments Served

The members then retired to the assembly room for the social part of the evening, when refreshments were served by the Catholic Truth Committee while a short program was presented. Helen Cooper danced and Mary Jean Hudson played "Dainty Daffodils." Mary Jean Hensman contributed the solo "The Desert Song" and "It's Dream Time," Barbara Forhan sang, "Duna" and Sonny Boy" and the meeting closed with the singing of "Vivat Pastor Bonis."

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

The Woman Speaks First,

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

The following question has, for certain reasons, caused quite a dispute, and we would very much appreciate your answering it for us. The woman who is the owner of an apartment building meets, in the entrance-hall of the building, a man who rents a room in an apartment in the building. Which one would have been expected to speak first?

W. A.

The woman. The rule is that when a man and a woman meet on the street or in a public place like the entrance-hall of an apartment building, it is the woman's privilege to be the first to acknowledge the acquaintanceship.

She Should "Meet" the Guest of Honor

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

The other day I went to a very large tea given in honor of a "visiting celebrity." Since I arrived quite late, I guess everyone had been introduced to the guest of honor, and she and the hostess were not standing together, as I imagine they had been during the first part of the tea-party. So I was not introduced to the guest of honor and I didn't make any effort to be introduced, thinking that it certainly wouldn't make any difference to such an important person that I was not introduced to her! But when I came home and the family asked about my meeting her, I said I hadn't met her. Mother was horrified and said I was very rude not to have asked for an introduction to the guest of honor. Was I so discourteous?

Marie.

Your mother is right. Since you had been given the honor of receiving an invitation to "meet" the guest of honor, it was socially important that you meet her. For you not to have brought this introduction, about was rude and crude. You could have explained to your hostess that you had not met her guest of honor and asked her for an introduction, "I am sorry I arrived so late. Am I too late to have the pleasure of meeting Mrs. Kendall?" Or if your hostess were at that moment busy at some distance from the guest of honor, you might have introduced yourself to the guest of honor.

Junior Usher for Junior Bridesmaid?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am the oldest daughter in the family, and am to be married this Spring. I would like very much to have my 13-year-old sister in my wedding party, but since she is too young to be a bridesmaid, I would like to know if it would be proper to have her as a junior bridesmaid. If so, may I also have a junior usher? And if this is correct, whom do they precede in the recessional?

L. S.

Your 13-year-old sister may be a junior bridesmaid, walking alone in the processional either preceding or directly following the pairs of bridesmaids. It isn't necessary or effective or customary to have a junior usher as a "partner" for the junior bridesmaid. In the recessional she would walk alone, either directly preceding or following the pairs of bridesmaids.

The Toast to the Bride and Groom

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When at a wedding reception the toast is proposed to the bride and groom, (1) do they rise, and (2) do they drink to the toast? This question came up at a party recently, and I think I read that it is "no" to both questions. Am I right? (I am taking part soon in a formal wedding, and I would look to be sure about this.)

K. A. F.

You are right . . . the answer is "no" to both questions. When the best man (it usually is the best man who proposes the toast) rises, raises his glass and proposes a toast "To the bride and groom," all (except the bride and groom) rise and drink the toast. When they have drunk the toast and taken their seats, the groom rises and expresses thanks for his bride and himself.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Do You Want a New Figure for Spring?

Madame Fashion has designed Summer attire for a figure of a certain type. She asks the girls to cultivate an anatomical pattern that is exactly what the normal figure should be, and so is an influence for healh and vitality as well as good appearance. We suggest a "Take your weight" week. If you are too fat or too thin, don't worry about it, but get busy. Don't worry unless emaciation or overexpansion is due to some physical disorder, in which event the doctor is the one to advise you. A healthy woman who has a will, instead of a won't, can bring herself to normal weight without any special deprivations. It is being done all the time.

The ideal figure has a well-developed chest, neatly molded arms and shoulders, a firm, youthful bust, trim waist, abdomen as flat as a pancake, hips juices, cottage cheese, buttermilk.

Activity keeps one from growing and looking old. The lazy woman with nothing to do is punished by an accumulation of fat cells and by a sense of restlessness and futility that has a deplorable effect upon her disposition and character. Every life should be a useful one, one way or another. When a woman goes to bed at night she should be able to tell herself that she has accomplished something worthwhile, even if it has been nothing more than digging out the dresser drawers and cleaning the medicine cabinet.

exercise is essential if circulation is to be active and internal organs are to function normally. The cause of physical education is progressing, and it is up to every woman under the age of seventy to fall into the ranks.

Women bawl about figure defects, but few of them are willing to work to get rid of them. They haven't time, or it is just too much trouble. No woman needs to be told that overweight is a menace to health, that it slows up activities and has a depressing effect upon the spirits.

Inexpensive, Simple To Smarten Wardrobe

New York, — (CP) — Simple lines, good grooming and an educated color sense are what makes a woman "best dressed", say the 25 women picked daily over Easter to be photographed and interviewed by the newspaper PM.

It does not take a lot of money to bring these fashion pointers to life in your own wardrobe but it does take time, thought and effort. Busy housewives and working women haven't much time to spare for clothes, but many of the 25 belonged to these groups. Here are some of their instructions:

Neatness of appearance comes first, then simplicity of line in dress. Most of the women preferred tailored clothes.

"Know your figure" was important advice, reminding women that all styles are not uniformly becoming to all woman.

It's better to under-dress with accessories and jewelry than over-dress . . . you can be sure all the items in your wardrobe will harmonize by keeping colors down to a few . . . an "organized" look should be your goal, even in casual clothes.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Twenty Years With An Inconsiderate Husband

Twenty years is a long time to let any unpleasant situation ride without doing anything decisive to try to better it.

Unfortunately, many women with "problem husbands" apparently think they are doing something, when they scold and nag and quarrel, to get the husband to change his ways. But scolding is rarely decisive, and hardly ever settles anything. Nor are tears and pleadings. Some sort of action is usually necessary to solve a difficult marital problem.

Such action does not necessarily have to consist of leaving the difficult husband. Sometimes it simply means that the wife revise her own program and adopt a new one. I think the dissatisfied wife who writes me the following letter needs to decide which course of action — whether to leave her husband or to revise her own program — would best solve her problem. As a matter of fact, she seems to have made up her mind pretty definitely that she wishes to leave him, perhaps not having thought that she might adopt any alternative.

After stating that she has been married for 20 years, and that in all that time she and her husband have never agreed on much of anything, she goes on to explain her chief grievances.

One is that, when she is ill, her husband is annoyed and unsympathetic. He doesn't want her to have a doctor, complaining about the cost, and he goes off and leaves her to take care of herself. Another grievance is that her mother-in-law is critical and rude to her, and her husband sides with his mother against his wife. The third difficulty, and I should think the most serious of all, is that he has affairs with other women.

Driven to desperation by all this, she once left her husband, but returned to him on his promise to mend his ways, which, of course, he never did. Now, she says, "I would like to know your opinion as to whether I should continue living with him or not. I don't think I should. I know I could live without him and be better satisfied, although once I would have died for him."

If this woman's mind is made up as definitely as it seems to be, then all she wants from me, I suppose, is an opinion which would back up the decision she has already made. But if she is really looking for suggestions, then my idea would be that she might at least consider the alternative — that of reconstructing her own program of living — befor leaving her husband for good.

I am not necessarily advis her to do this, instead of leavin but merely suggesting it as possibility that she might like try out first. Only she hers knows whether or not it woul be worth trying, or if the situ tion is so bad that she shou make her decision to leave immediately.

For what it may be worth her, this is my idea of an exper mental program for herself. Sh might set herself a time limi say, six months or a year, make the experiment.

Instead of merely staying home and accepting the very po deal she is apparently getting, sh might interest herself in vario types of activities in the community. She might even tak some sort of job which woul keep her away from home enoug so that she could get outside o her problem for a certain number of hours a day. She says sh is a "nervous wreck," but might well be that, if she took o some interesting work, it woul help her nervous condition ver much, for undoubtedly a goo deal of it is due to her inten preoccupation with her troubl

Any woman who genuinel wants to change her mode of li can usually do so. Of course, is more difficult if she lives in small town where opportuniti for outside work and other interests are more limited. But this woman would like to wri me again and tell me just wh sort of town she lives in, I coul perhaps give her more specif suggestions.

Muskoka-Ontario May be Eliminated By Redistribution

Ottawa, April 23 (CP)— The elimination of the Progressive Conservative seat of Muskoka-Ontario highlighted the report of an Ontario sub-committee Tuesday to the Commons committee established to realign constituency boundaries so that Commons representation may be increased from 245 to 255.

The change, which must be approved by the Commons when the committee makes its report, was necessitated by the granting of two seats to Northern Ontario.

The Muskoka part of the constituency, now held by J. M. Macdonnell, financial critic for the Progressive Conservative Party, would be joined with Parry Sound, now represented by Wilfred (Bucko) McDonald, a Liberal.

Two counties in the Ontario section of the seat would be joined with Simcoe east.

The Muskoka-Ontario seat is the only one that would disappear in Ontario which had its representation increased from 82 to 83 under the new redistribution.

Walter Harris (L—Grey Bruce) said the elimination of the Muskoka-Ontario seat would be justified by the fact that the population in central Ontario was not as great as in northern Ontario. He said Muskoka and Parry Sound had common interests and that the balance of the constituency was well distributed under the new arrangement.

Have to be Content

John R. MacNicol (PC—Toronto Davenport) said he thought that until the next redistribution in five years time northern Ontario would have been content with an additional seat.

Both Mr. Macdonnell and Mr. McDonald were opposed to the suggested changes. However, the Liberal members from northern Ontario and other Liberal members of the committee appeared to have decided that the changes would go through and there was little more he could do about it at this time.

J. Leoda Gauthier (L—Nipissing) said he certainly would not be satisfied with anything less than two seats for Northern Ontario. Nipissing now had a population of more than 113,000.

With these remarks, Progressive Conservative members allowed the changes to go through "on division"—without a formally recorded vote.

Walter Harris (L—Grey Bruce) chairman of the Ontario sub-committee, said the additional seat that will raise Ontario's representation to 83 was awarded to Northern Ontario. Through boundary changes the area would be given another seat as well.

Split One Seat

One of the new seats would be obtained by splitting Cochrane and Nipissing. The other would involve the elimination of the Muskoka-Ontario seat now held by J. M. Macdonnell (PC-Muskoka-Ontario). He said elimination of the seat could be justified by the fact that the area where the seat was located had a lower population than other areas in the province.

Mr. Harris said there had been no boundary changes in 51 of the 82 existing constituencies. There were 32 changes in all, but outside of Muskoka-Ontario the changes were of a minor nature.

Because of the fact that another redistribution is due in another five years, the Ontario sub-committee felt no wholesale boundary changes should be made at this time. The committee believed there would be considerable changes in the next redistribution.

In changes effected efforts were made to get rural seats up to a population of at least 30,000.

Stanley Knowles (CCF—Winnipeg North Centre) asked why the seat of Glengarry, held by Prime Minister Mackenzie King, was not touched in an effort to give Ottawa an extra seat. The riding is the smallest in Ontario.

Mr. Harris and John R. MacNichol (PC—Toronto Davenport) said the question was what the seat could be joined to. It was not contiguous with Ottawa. It was bounded on one side by the United States and on another by Quebec. There were population questions as well which arose.

TEARS HER FORTUNE

"Tears, idle tears," whined the poet plaintively. But these tears are not idle, they're working at a well-paying job for Alexis Milne, 17-year-old Irish actress. Miss Milne has been acting since she was 11 and has the happy (?) faculty of being able to cry real tears to order — anart that keeps her in demand in the movies, where perpetual emotion is a valuable asset.

Quizzer of Quiz Kids Shoots Night Prowler

Chicago, April 23 — (AP) — Joe Kelly, quizzer of the famed Radio Quiz Kids, shot at two prowlers in the kitchen of his apartment Monday night, killing one.

Andrew Aitken, Deputy Chief of Detectives, said the dead man, identified from fingerprints as Harold C. Fransen, 25, an ex-convict who had been paroled to join the United States Army, saw service as a paratrooper overseas, and was released as a psychoneurotic in 1945.

A trail of blood from the scene indicated the other burglar had been wounded.

Kelly said he fired the four shots after the pair ignored his command to "stay where you are" and began to run.

Kingarvie Leads Canadian-Breds In Money Won

Toronto, April 23 (CP)—Col. R. S. McLaughlin's Kingarvie established himself as the leading money-winning Canadian-bred race horse of all time when he cake-walked the attractive Hallandale Handicap at Southern Gulfstream Park last Saturday.

The four-year-old chestnut gelding's easy triumph won him $11,175, the richest prize of his career, and boosted his lifetime earnings to $65,660—a far cry from the world record. But sufficient to pass the $57,070 total of W. K. MacDonald's Tulachmore.

Col. McLaughlin, the Oshawa sportsman who has been one of the most lavish patrons of the Canadian turf, bred, raised and raced Kingarvie as the outstanding color-bearer of the Parkwood Stables. Kingarvie's sire, Teddy Wrack, is standing at the Parkwood stud near Oshawa and his dam is Foresworn, an English mare by Bachelor's Double.

Dame Fortune has smiled on Kingarvie throughout his career. When a two-year-old, the King won all the juvenile classics, including the Coronation Stakes and Mrs. Fred Orpen's Cup and Saucer. His first year's earnings were $21,250.

In 1946 veteran jockey Johnny Dewhurst climbed aboard the Parkwood Prince and together in bad weather—it didn't matter—they breezed home winners of the historic King's Plate. He triumphed again and again that season to earn $21,715 and total $42,965.

Then, some claim, he broke his heart. Windfields, merely to answer demands of Canadian turf enthusiasts, came back to Canada to defeat the King in the Breeders' Stakes at Woodbine. Kingarvie stumbled going out of the gate but courageously came on again and finished an impressive second.

He came back out this year, however, to win four of 11 starts against some of the best four-year-olds in the United States.

Communistic Plot Behind the Attack On Father Courtney

New Orleans, April 23 —(AP) —A 48-year-old accountant was held for investigation here today after he attempted, police said, to force his way into the hospital room of Rev. James W. Courtney last night.

Father Courtney was stabbed in the throat, neck and back at high mass Sunday as he administered holy communion at the altar of the Church of the Immaculate Conception. His life was reported threatened by three men at the hospital Monday night.

Detective Alfred Reyer arrested a man he identified as Michael Hammill, alias Michael Wilson, a Springfield, Mass., accountant.

The man told a rambling story of making a private investigation of the stabbing of Father Courtney, and said a "Communistic plot" was behind the attack on the police, Reyer related.

Don Louis Laurentz, 28-year-old ex-marine, was arrested on charges of aggravated battery as a result of the Sunday attack.

Police Believe Driver Found On Road Murdered

Port Arthur, April 23 —(CP)— Ontario Provincial Police said last night that their investigation into the death of A. Richer, Geraldton, Ont., cab driver whose body was found beside the Trans-Canada Highway six miles east of that Northwestern Ontario town yesterday, indicated he had been murdered. Geraldton is 120 miles northeast of Port Arthur.

The 26-year-old man, who had come here from Montreal only a few days ago, apparently had been hit over the head with an instrument which crushed his skull Police said robbery seemed to be the motive since $25 which he was believed to have on him was missing.

Richer had picked up a fare Sunday night and was known to have been told to drive out of town. When he failed to return by the following day, police were notified.

A patrolling provincial government grade operator, Wes Christianson, found the body yesterday afternoon and the taxi later was found at Hearst, another 130 miles east.

Windsor Board To Give Bonuses To Employees

Windsor, Ont., April 23—(CP) —Board of Control voted unanimously to include in the city's 1947 budget $50,000 for cost-of-living bonuses for municipal employees.

The suggested bonus was $2.50 a week for married employees, $1.25 for single employees.

The bonus suggestion came as the controllers heard a request from representatives of the Municipal Employees' Association for wage increases of about $200 for each employee.

The employees' representatives said they would recommend acceptance of the bonus proposal.

ENGLAND'S SAINT BELOVED PATRON OF MANY PEOPLES

St. George's Day Marks Also Birth and Death of Bard of Avon and Heroic 1918 Zeebrugge Raid

By E. M. CHANTLER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Whether it is a sahib preparing to leave independence-bound India, a cockney pitting brawn against post-war crisis, or a missionary leading a Tanganyika native choir—tomorrow, as Englishmen all, they'll echo "Will of Avon's" "God for George! England and St. George."

For of all days, St. George's stands apart not only as England's patron saint day, but as the day when Englishmen recall glories of the past, honor the birth and death of William Shakespeare and recount the saga of the Royal Navy's daring attack on Zeebrugge in 1918.

From days of antiquity, St. George has been more than a patriotic figure in many lands. In Spain, Portugal, Czarist Russia, France—even among Mohommedans of the Middle East—he has been the fearless defender of chivalry, the sword-swinging doom of dragons and tyrants alike.

According to early legend, to some extent substantiated by theological historians, St. George was born of Greek Christian parents at Cappadocia about 270 A.D. At the age of 17 he entered the military service of the Roman Emperor Diocletian and later served at York, then Roman capital of England.

Strong in his faith, he early frowned on Roman persecution of Christians and bluntly rebuked Diocletian. To demands for liberty for fellow-Christians, the emperor's reply was brutal and speedy—St. George was tortured and beheaded at Nicomedia, Asia Minor, April 23, 303.

Reverence for his memory spread through the Middle East, churches were built in his honor, the Hellespont (now the Dardenelles) was renamed St. George's Arm, and the narrow seas between England and Ireland became George's Channel. The crusaders, honoring the saint's heroic defence of his faith, made him their patron. In 1224 the Council of Oxford ordered April 23 set aside as an English-national holiday. Edward III made him patron of the Order of the Garter and in the 15th century, Frederick of Austria founded the St. George Knighthood.

WANT MORE PENSION

Ottawa, April 23 — (CP)—Canada's rising cost-of-living took another beating yesterday as the second delegation of women within a month invaded Parliament Hill.

"It isn't possible to keep body and soul together on $30.41 a month," said a member of the delegation, representing the Canadian Non-Pensioned Veterans' Widows Association. The group is preparing to meet government heads and members of parliament in an effort to have the widow's monthly allowance boosted to $40.

Last month a group of housewives from Western Canada moved on the capital urging the government to maintain price controls.

21 CHILDREN IN TWO ROOMS

Toronto, April 23 — (CP) — Police said Tuesday that investigation of a theft case involving a 10-year-old boy and his sister, 12, had revealed that the children and their parents lived in two rooms in which there were 21 children altogether. Officers recovered all but $3 of the $16 which had been in a woman's purse the children admitted stealing in a department store.

Two Policemen Lose Lives In Gun Battle

Philadelphia, April 23 (AP)— A 23-year-old youth shot two policemen to death in a street-corner gun battle early today, Sgt. John Creedon reported. A detective said the youth identified himself as William Hallowell and that he was the adopted son of a University professor.

The spokesman said the youth taken to hospital with four gun wounds, stated his mother was divorced from Dr. Alfred I. Hallowell, former professor of anthropology at the University of Pennsylvania.

The shooting followed a wild race through North Philadelphia streets as two patrol cars chased Hallowell in what Sgt. Creedon said was a stolen car.

In Chicago, Dr. Hallowell said he was "too shocked" to discuss the shooting and "I have not seen him for some time."

Hospital attaches described the youth's condition as "very good."

When the car, Creedon said was stolen was forced to halt behind a bus blocking its path, he stated that Hallowell fired at two patrol cars. Sergeant Samuel Hewitt was killed by a bullet through the chest and an officer in the other patrol car, James Quigley, 35, was killed by a shot through the neck.

WILL APPEAL TO GOV'T.

Toronto, April 23 — (CP) — An appeal to the Federal government to mediate the dispute over the amount of minimum purses between the Ontario race tracks and the Horsemen's Protective and Benevolent Association was decided on at last night's meeting of the horsemen's body.

The Association has been demanding minimum purses of $1,500 at the major Ontario tracks, whereas the Greenwood Racing Club, opening its meeting at Woodbine Park May 9, has listed minimum purses of $1,200 and the same minimum applies at the meeting of the Ontario Jockey Club opening at Woodbine May 17.

Social Evening By Oddfellows Much Enjoyed

Bonarlaw, Ont. — Recently Springbrook Lodge I.O.O.F. No. 439 held a social evening in the Orange Hall at Springbrook to which were invited a number of friends and their ladies. With the Noble Grand of the lodge Malcolm Mason acting as chairman, a short program consisting of vocal and instrumental music and readings was given.

Those assisting in this program were John Coggins, Mrs. Keith Brown and Misses Barbara Meiklejohn, Lois Mason and Rosemary Webb. Past District Deputy W. J. Barlow then took charge of the proceedings and gave a history of Springbrook Lodge which he said was instituted in 1911 with Bros. J. F. Baker as Noble Grand and Sidney Mason as Vice Grand. Bro. Mason being present was given a great ovation as it was the occasion of his birthday and all sang "Happy Birthday to You" and "He's a Jolly Good Fellow." It was recalled that Bro. Mason filled the office of Financial Secretary for thirty-five years after becoming a past Noble Grand. He replied by thanking all present for their good wishes and stated he would always be interested in Oddfellowship.

Short addresses were also given by several other members. Another pleasant feature of the evening was the presentation to the lodge of three group photographs recently taken in the lodge room. District Deputy Clayton Burkitt presented one of the Installation team, Howard Martin, captain of the Initiatory Degree team, one of the Degree team members, and Malcolm Mason, Noble Grand of the Lodge, one of all members and visitors who were present when the pictures were taken.

With Tanner's Orchestra furnishing the music, dancing was enjoyed until a late hour. Lunch was served at midnight.

West coast gourmets are now smacking their lips over just less than three hundred ducks a month from the Burnaby, B.C., ranch of WRCNS veterans Gertrude Nunn of Vancouver (left) and Elizabeth Wimperley, Toronto, whose immediate objective with existing stock and facilities is a 400-a-month turnover. They started up last fall with well-adapted local stock after completing under DVA credits a seven-month course in animal husbandry at the University of British Columbia. They work unassisted and the present forty-five-bird flock is kept healthy and happy in the duck-pond (top right) which the girls created themselves by damming the creek which runs through their three-and-a-half acre property. At lower left, Miss Nunn gathers eggs for the incubators. All but a few of the eggs are hatched to increase live selling stock and young ducklings (lower right) are nurtured carefully in brooders for several days before being let outside. Eight weeks later they are ready for market.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Horse Sense does not pretend to be brilliant. In fact, it takes pride in being simple. Very simple. As simple as possible. By common logic you can easily trace the origin of any of its signals.

In answer to an opening of two in a suit, it is advisable for partner to say whether he has help for a slam. Help for a slam is a sure trick; either an ace or the king and queen in one suit.

To give this information, responder needs a signal. In his first reply he must either deny or admit having a sure trick. And the signal we use for showing no sure trick is an immediate bid of two no-trump.

Now, why use two no-trump for such a signal? Why not some other bid to deny a sure trick? Why not mention some different suit? Why not show weakness by something like a simple assist?

The answer can be worked out by remembering that the order of choice of bids is T-A-N; take-out, assist, no-trump. No-trump is the last choice. Therefore, the most discouraging.

It is natural, therefore, to use the most discouraging response as a discouraging signal. And it seems logical to me that it should be so. Any argument?

Partner opens with a bid of two hearts and you have this hand:

♠8 4 3
♥K 9 5
♦J 6 2
♣K 8 4 3

Your first response is two no-trump. You simply go to the bottom of the list of choice of bids for your signal to discourage a slam. You deny nothing else. Only that encourager, a sure trick.

Will your partner assume you have nothing? He may. But you will change that impression when you assist his hearts on the next round.

Meantime he knows you have no ace or K Q combination in one suit.

Did I hear you say your partner may not give you a second chance to bid? With such a partner you do not use signals. You use force.

With a bad partner, the best system is to get a better one.

The Movie Column

By HELEN BANNERMAN

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

The big question of Deborah Kerr's next picture and next co-star has been answered — the picture is a re-make of "If Winter Comes" and the lucky co-star is Walter Pidgeon, who stepped out of East Saint John, N. B., to become one of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's top stars. Hume Cronyn from London, Ont., will have the principal supporting role with Angela Lansbury.

The story from the A. S. N. Hutchinson novel will have its time element changed from the First World War to the second.

More background material on Russian espionage in Canada and the United States contained in "The Soviet Spies" by Richard Hirsch, will be included in Twentieth Century-Fox' projected film on the spy scare. The studio has also acquired the rights to "Behind the Iron Curtain."

Another book on its way to the screen is Nancy Mitford's best-selling "The Pursuit of Love." Vivien Leigh is first choice for the starring role if she is available for the part.

The Stars' Plans

Rosalind Russell will return to comedy in "Lucky Penny" after three years of drama. Ginger Rogers may turn to the classics and star in a screen version of Robert Browning's poem, "Pippa Passes."

British Horse Operas

British studios are all set to crash the horse opera field and already the J. Arthur Rank organization has a series of saddle epics planned, most to be shot in Australia but some in Canada.

While no definite plans have been announced for the Canadian pictures, negotiations are reported well ahead for action stories to be filmed on the prairies. The plans will get around the drawbacks of Britain's climate and topography which have prevented cowboy riding epics.

Man's Hand is Caught In Grappling Hook

Brantford, April 23 — (CP) — Reg Phillips of Brantford who was helping firemen drag the waters of Earl Haig Park swimming pool Monday, caught his hand in one of the hooks. Dragging was being done for two five-year-old boys who were drowned Monday.

Firemen removed the chain from the hook and Phillips went to a doctor who was unable to push the hook back through the hand. The hook was finally removed by cutting it at the shank and drawing it through Phillips hand.

Butter Holdings Show Increase Over Last Year

Toronto, April 23 — (CP) — The monthly report of the Ontario Agriculture Department, released yesterday, showed that at the first of this month creamery butter holdings in Toronto totalled 1,069,800 pounds compared to 271,000 pounds a year ago.

Stocks in dairy factories throughout the province for the same date totalled 2,404,303 lbs, an increase of nearly 200 per cent over the 803,342 pounds held in April 1946. Warehouse figures were not available.

Creameries in the province produced 4,529,900 pounds in March, an increase of 14.7 per cent over the 3,949,600 pounds manufactured in the same month in 1946. Total creamery butter output for the first three months of the current year amounted to 11,457,500 pounds as against 10,076,500 lbs. for the corresponding quarter a year ago, an increase of 13.7 per cent.

Cheese holdings showed little change with cheese factories in the province and warehouses in Toronto reporting their total stocks at 4,545,800 pounds at April 1st.

Fluid milk sales by commercial dairies during February showed a decrease of five per cent from the same month last year when the average sale price per quart excluding the Federal subsidy of 2 cents, was 10.3 cents as compared with the present 15.2 cents. In February a year ago commercial sales totalled 36,386,000 quarts as against 34,578,000 quarts this year. Toronto consumption dropped from 11,375,652 quarts to 10,839,544.

Despite the drop in consumption the sales value of milk sold in the months in question soared from $3,757,200 to $5,260,300.

ATTACKED BY MOB

Kirsten Flagsted Roundly Booed In Philadelphia

Philadelphia, April 23 (AP)—The oroma of stench bombs and boos filled the hallowed Academy of Music at the Korsten Flagstad concert in what a music critic today described as the "worst demonstration" ever experienced at the Academy.

The outbreak came at a concert given by the Norwegin soprano as pickets paraded before the academy with signs reading: "Flagstad preferred a Nazi regime—don't play second fiddle!—stay out" and "artists are not above judgment. We condemnea Hitler! We condemn Flagstad!"

More than 1,000 persons were present when Mme. Flagstad made her initial appearance on stage. She was greeted with a wild ovation which lasted more than a moment and her first selection was well received.

However, booing began and the first stench bomb was dropped in the loges. But Mme. Flagstad's supporters were not driven out.

Ushers and detectives ejected hecklers as another stench bomb was dropped.

Then several of the patrons accosted a heckler and for a few moments before detectives converged on the scene, there was a free-for-all virtually at the singer's feet with opposing sides shouting "Communist" and "Fascist" at each other.

No arrests were made.

Little Benny's Note Book

Sam Cross was sitting on his frunt steps alongside of a suitcase, and me and Sid Hunt and Shorty Judge stopped going passed and asked him if he was going away, and Sam Cross said, Sure I am, I'm going to live with my Unkle Edger.

G. for how long? I said, and Sam said, Forever, that's how long. I'm getting tired of my father and mother accusing me of arguing with them every time I try to give my opinion, and I told them so too, so they said if I thought I didn't have enough free speech around here I could go and live with my Unkle Edger the rest of my life, so I'm waiting right now for him to drive up in his car and get me. You might as well say good bye, fellows, you'll probably never see me again except maybe by accident, Sam said.

Well how about all your stuff, your football and your bike and things? Shorty said, and Sam said, The heck with that stuff, I'm going to leave it all here and start life all over again at my Unkle Edger's house. I'll sell it all at auction right now. So go ahead and bid if you want, and whoever bids the highest can have my bike and my gum boots and my skates and everything else. I'll write a note and sign it myself, so my mother will have to let you have it according to law, and you can send me the money later. So go ahead, what's the ferst bid? he said.

8 cents, I said, and Sid said, Twelve cents, and Shorty said, Thirteen. And so on like that till Sid bid 44 ceints, and Sam Cross said, Okay, sold for 44 cents, here's my unkle.

Which he was, just driving up in his big car, and Sam got in with his suitcase, and his mother came to the frunt door and waved to him, saying, Be a good boy, Sam, and I'll see you Monday.

Proving he was only going for the end of the week, and us fellows claimed we knew it all along and were just bidding to kid him, making us feel better than admitting we had believed another one of his big lies.

Bodies of Victims Of Rifle Shooting Taken to Altoona

Meanwhile Edgar James Simeons, 19-year-old caretaker of the tourist lodge that Rupert operated, remains in custody and will appear April 29 for preliminary hearing on two charges of murder.

MOMENTARILY CUT OFF

Hollywood, April 23 — (AP)—Two top flight radio comedians, Bob Hope and Red Skelton, were momentarily cut off the air by NBC last night when they attempted to comment on the case of Fred Allen, silenced briefly Sunday night when his script poked fun at the network.

A spokesman for NBC said the comedians were cut off because "part of their scripts were objectionable to the network."

ST. MIKES WIN MEMORIAL CUP IN FOUR STRAIGHT

Hard Pressed to Gain the Deciding Victory by a 3 to 2 Count

Regina, April 23 — (CP)—The cheers of 3,000 western fans still ringing in their ears, coach Joe Primeau and his Toronto St. Michael's College team basked in the glory of Canadian junior hockey supremacy today with the Memorial Cup in their possession for the second time in three years.

Rated as one of the greatest junior aggregations ever assembled, the powerful Irish completed the sweep of their best-of-seven series with Moose Jaw Canucks with a 3-2 victory last night.

It was both the closest and quietest game of the finals, following St. Mike's victories of 12-3, 6-1 and 8-1. There wasn't a hint of recurrence of the bottle-throwing episode that forced referees to call the third game with six minutes unplayed. The rink was well-policed and about half-filled.

Led, as usual, by the brilliant forward combination of Fleming Mackell, Ed Sandford and Les Costello, the college boys were hard-pressed to gain the victory and the winning margin wasn't assured until midway through the third period when Sandford's screened shot from the left boards beat Bev Bentley.

In On All Goals

Captain Sandford had also set up Mackell on the first goal at the 37-second mark of the first period and combined with his linemate to set up the goal by Bob Paul which gave St. Mike's a 2-0 lead in the second period.

The fans went wild when Moose Jaw staged a comeback to tie the score 2-2 on a second period goal by Harvey Stein and a third period tally by Herb Lovett. But the joy was short-lived when St. Mikes again took the lead with what proved to be the series clincher.

Al Pickard, vice - president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, described the Irish as the "greatest junior team the east ever had," when he presented the Memorial Cup at centre ice after the game.

BASKETBALL

Philadelphia, April 23—(AP)—After a 16-year wait, Philadelphia today had a professional sports champion — the Warriors of the Basketball Association of America.

Joe Fulks and company put the clincher on the B. A. A. playoffs last night with an 83-80 victory over Chicago Stags to capture the title play four games to one in the best-of-seven series.

The basket-barraging Fulks hung up 34 points to establish a season total of 1,611, the greatest in recorded history and a mark which it may take decades to equal.

The Warriors supplant Connie Mack's Athletics, winners of the 1931 American League's baseball pennant, as the most recent city titlists.

Spearheaded by what some consider the best quarter of cagers ever to appear on one team — Fulks, Homie Dallmar, George Senesky and Angy Musi — the Warriors were forced to come from behind in the dying moments to beat the Stags.

Victory meant a total playoff melon of $24.000 for the club in the biggest basketball prize in history.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor.

Tonight the master-minds of the Belleville Softball Association go into more or less solemn conclave in the City Hall with the election of officers and plenty of work for the coming year on the agenda. There are plenty of grapevine rumors on the street regarding the number and identity of teams which it is reported wish to crash the charmed circle of intermediate mushball, and tonight's meeting should settle the question. It starts at 8.

• • •

The street gab has it that last year's executive will resign and a whole new slate of officers placed in the seats of the administrative mighty. It's a good idea at that, as Secretary Harry Knott has stated that he is definitely through (he wanted to resign a year ago) and other members have said that they too have reached the end of the loop rope.

• • •

• • •

New blood never hurt anyone or anything. New ideas sometimes bring new production and it doesn't hurt any organization to have a change of master-minding at periodical periods. With a marked upsurge in interest in the sport, especially since there is definite news that the lights will be installed this year, the game, which has suffered a noticeable kick in the well-known south side of the lap during the past two seasons, and due mainly to the teams and players themselves, appears to be headed for a new era hereabouts.

• • •

Another report on the sports Rialto is to the effect that a dozen teams will form an Industrial Loop in the city this summer, which will give the lads who aren't quite good enough to make the intermediate grade the chance to play their favorite summer pastime. Our informant tells us that there are four additional teams, which makes sixteen all told, wishing to join, but so far have not been allowed.

• • •

There is no reason, so far as we can perceive, why these squads should be left out in the cold, so to speak. A suggestion is that two sections of eight teams each play regular schedules during the season with suitable playoffs arranged and a final series between the loops winners played to decide the city industrial title. It is worth mulling over.

• • •

According to a press despatch of the "doings" at the Ontario Baseball Association convention held in Kitchener last weekend, delegates to the conclave were overwhelmingly in favor of disallowing teams "just outside of Ontario" to participate in OBA playdowns.

• • •

• • •

This, no doubt, got off to a good start last summer when the starry Ottawa Wrightvilles, who went to the Ontario junior finals against Kitchener, and who operate definitely in Hull, Quebec, got the jump on Ontario squads. They defeated the Kingston juniors and went on to eliminate our Kiwanis hopefuls in a strenuous three-game series. We are given to understand that the Kingston master-minds objected strenuously to the Wrightville participation in the playdowns, and it is no secret that Belleville officials were of the same opinion.

• • •

The Wrightvilles won the Ottawa City League championship for the past two years, and the new edict will not be received with any blare of trumpets down Bytown way.

• • •

It is also reported that the Ontario Baseball Association discussed the Belleville Baseball Association decision not to enter the proposed new Central Ontario Baseball League this year, and were not favorably impressed with the attitude of the city loop in this man's hamlet. It was felt that this city could enter an intermediate squad in the district set-up.

• • •

However, as local officials point out, the coffers of the OBA were enriched with a far greater amount last year with five of the six teams of the Belleville loop taking part in the playdowns, but apparently the parent body are more interested, and rightly so, in the promotion of Intermediate baseball in the Eastern Ontario district. However, nothing much can be done about the matter now.

• • •

There is a possibility that baseball fans of the city and district will see the first edition of the Border Baseball League come June 23, according to baseball interests here. Paul Dean, famous former St. Louis Cardinal pitcher and brother of the well-known "Dizzy" (He slud to third) Dean, who has taken over the managerial reins of Tommy Gorman's Ottawa Nationals entry, and Bob Shawkey, former major league star who is in charge of the Watertown squad, may be here with their teams to play an exhibition game, on that date. More about that later.

• • •

There was one newcomer in the New York Rangers' hockey camp who showed a fair amount of promise, but who definitely was not of big league calibre. So, Manager Frank Boucher had to let him go, a task that never comes easily to the gentle and gentlemanly pilot.

• • •

"I'm sorry son," said Frank. "You've made a fine impression and I'm willing to give you all the help we can. I'll try to get you a job elsewhere but, in the meantime, I'll have to give you your unconditional release."

• • •

The kid looked at him wonderingly. "Mr. Boucher," he said after due deliberation, "I appreciate everything you've told me but I must disagree with you on one point. About this 'unconditional' business. I've gotta make one thing clear. I never was in better condition in my life."

• • •

• • •

In the early war years Stanley (Bucky) Harris, now the N. Y. Yankees manager, ran into Umpire Bill McGowan, currently the No. 1 official in the American League, and asked Bill if he thought baseball would be continued.

"Gosh, Bucky," said McGowan, "I dunno. Your guess is as good as mine."

"I know that, Bill," prodded Harris deftly, "but you never admitted it before."

HAMILTON TIGERS 'ON THE SPOT' AGAINST ROYALS

Must Win This One or be Eliminated From Senior Hockey Playoffs

Toronto, April 23 — (CP)—It's win — or else — for the veteran Hamilton Tigers tonight, an unusual position for the aging band of puck-chasers who won the Eastern Canadian senior hockey title a year ago.

They clash again with Montreal Royals in the third game of the best-of-five eastern final. And Tigers have lost the first two. If Royals win again tonight, it's Montreal against Calgary Stampeders in the Allan Cup final for the Canadian senior championship.

Montreal Royals won the first game of the east final by 3-0 and the second by 3-1. Some fans saw a similarity between this series and the Stanley Cup final in which a young Toronto team snatched the laurels from the veteran Canadiens. For the Tigers have been rolling for many years, while Royals have a band of youngsters perhaps lacking in rink experience but abounding in youthful enthusiasm.

In the two previous games Art Childs, veteran Hamilton goalie, was a tower of strength as Montreal's fast young forwards riddled the Hamilton defence. Whether Hamilton's attacking lines will keep Tigers in the battle only tonight can tell.

HUNT FOR YOUTH

Toronto, April 23 — (CP) — North Toronto police today launched a hunt for a young gunman reported to have tried to hold up a Banff Road woman at the doorway of her home.

The woman told police that shortly before noon she opened her front door in answer to a knock and confronted an armed man about 25 years old. When she saw the gun, she slammed the door and the man fled.

Regina, April 23 — (CP) — There will be no flowers from the April shower of bottles which smashed onto Memorial Cup ice here last Saturday but they might be expected from the deluge of jocular brickbats rained on each other by Dave (Regina Leader-Post) Dryburgh and George Panter, Ontario Hockey Association president, who accompanied Toronto St. Michaels on their triumphant western tour.

It all started at an interview in Winnipeg when the Gravenhurst official to whom the nomenclature "The Great Dissenter" has stuck since Dryburgh dubbed him so two years ago — was reported to have been wrathy because the Memorial Cup games were being played in the west this year.

Dryburgh quoted Panter on 3 Memorial Cup issues as follows:

1. "It may cost the participating teams $25,000 not to have the series in Toronto Maple Leaf Gardens.
2. "It only serves a minority interest to stage the games in the west.
3. "I condescended to let them have the series in the west."

The red-headed Regina sports editor proceeded to tear the statement apart but two days later he provided space for a 500 - word rebuttal from Panter.

On the money angle, Dryburgh said games in the Gardens would net the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association only $7,500 each since the management of the Toronto emporium took a 50 per cent cut on the gate. Western games would provide an average of $5,500 per game.

"Where's the $25,000 loss?" he asked.

Quoth Panter: . . . "We are grieved, David, to see your splendid column (later on in the letter he called it a "low column" and urged "down with Dryburgh!") marred by talk about money. You must know that we amateurs hate, loathe, despise, and abominate money and do not discuss it at all. We simply accept it. In this way we maintain our dignity and prosper at the same time."

Dryburgh took exception to the use of the word "condescended," and noted that the O. H. A. had only one vote in the C.A.H.A. but suggested that it was a "slip of the tongue."

Dryburgh ended his column with "Let's just say you were misquoted and c'mon in and meet the folks," while Panter signed off: "Yours more in sorrow than in anger, George Panter, president, Ontario Hockey Association — (world's oldest, largest, strongest, greatest and best)."

Bobby Feller Adds Another One-Hitter to His String In Blanking St. Louis Browns

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

He's only 28 but Bobby Feller's lofty position in baseball already is such that hardly a year goes by now without the major league's strikeout king setting some kind of a record.

The great Cleveland Indians' speedball artist said a year ago that his aim was to become the greatest pitcher of all-time and although that may be like shooting for the moon when one considers such super-stars as Walter Johnson, Christy Mathewson and Cy Young, there are quite a few observers in baseball today who won't bet against Feller's chances.

In his six full years and two part-time seasons in the big time, Bobby has hurled two no-hit games and nine one-hitters—his latest the 5-0 blanking of St. Louis Browns at Cleveland yesterday. Feller set a record for the big leagues last year when he reached eight-one-hitters.

After tying the modern major league strikeout mark of 17 in one game in 1936, his first year in the majors, Bob moved out in front by fanning 18 Detroit Tigers in a game two years later. He also set a league record for strikeouts in two consecutive games, 28; and tied another by whiffing six men in succession.

Only One Single

Last season Feller established a recognized mark of 348 strikeouts. Yesterday only a seventh inning single—on a change of pace curve "that would have been called a ball" according to Feller—killed his chances of joining Young and Larry Corcoran as the only three-time no-hit hurlers.

Feller's was not the only one-hitter hurled yesterday. Brooklyn's Hal Gregg held Philadelphia Phillies to a mere safety in shutting them out 1-0 at Ebbets Filed. Jackie Robinson, the Dodgers' Negro infielder, singled and scored the all-important run on a single by Gene Hermanski in the eighth.

Although they could wrangle only three hits off the combined pitching of Joe Dobson, Earl Johnson and Harry Dorish, New York Yankees made them count by shading Boston Red Sox 5-4. Charlie Keller batted in four runs, three with a first-inning homer.

Eddie Miller, who hit only six home runs in 19 games last year, banked his fifth round-tripper in nine games this year, and added a run-scoring single in the 10th inning to give Cincinnati Reds a 7-6 victory over the Cubs in Chicago.

Other major league games were postponed because of rain and cold weather.

TED WILLIAMS STILL HAVING SHIFT TROUBLE

Ogles the Right Field Fences and Forgets Resolutions About Hitting to Left

By JACK HAND

New York, April 23—(AP) — Ted Williams ogles the 296-foot right field marker in Yankee Stadium and forgets all his resolutions about hitting to left. He still is having shift trouble.

"See that ball I hit at Stirnweiss," he remarked, "robbed of a hit for sure. Guess I'll have to hit one to left against these guys. They sure pile up on me in right.

"I have a theory about that hitting to left, though. All right, when I'm up there just looking for a hit, sure I'll hit to left. But when it's late in the game with men on bases and a homer can win the ball game, I'm shooting at that 296-foot sign out there."

So far Williams has looked at a different variation of the "Boudreau shift" from each eastern team. For instance Connie Mack of the A's had his third baseman, Ted Majeski, playing short-stop with shortstop Eddie Joost on second and the others all pulled around to right. Williams then smacked a roller past third that might have been taken by a faster man than "shortstop" Majeski.

Next time up, Mack had speedster Joost at short with Majeski all the way around past second base where Whitey Kurowski played in the series. Ted slapped a double down the left field line. Then the A's straightened around and played somebody on third and in left field.

So far those are his only two hits to left field but he has been doing well. In 20 times at bat Williams has banged out eight hits for an even .400. Three homers, one double and eight runs batted in are credited to him and he has drawn seven walks.

Wade Showing Int. Batters Plenty of Stuff

(By The Associated Press)

"Whistling" Jake Wade, 35-year-old Jersey City southpaw, is showing International League batters he still has plenty of stuff left in his aging arm.

Wade, who began his professional career in 1931, yesterday turned in his second complete victory as he tossed the Jersey's to a 4-2 victory over Rochester Red Wings.

Bill Lillard batted in three of the Giants' runs.

At Newark the Bears nosed out Buffalo Bisons 4-3 scoring twice in the ninth inning as relief pitcher Pete Appleton threw two wild pitches with the bases loaded.

In the other scheduled game, Baltimore Orioles scored their first victory in five starts by trouncing the defending champion Montreal Royals 6-1 under the arc lights at Baltimore's Municipal Stadium.

The defeat was the Royal's first in four starts and dropped them into second place behind Toronto Maple Leafs who along with Syracuse Chiefs were not scheduled.

CORNISH KNIGHT WILL NOT START IN THE DERBY

Trainer of E. P. Taylor's Fine Thoroughbred Thinks the Horse Not Up to Test

By ALAN HARVEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York, April 23. (AP)—Trainer A. E. (Bert) Alexandra said today he has "just about definitely" decided not to start Cornish Knight in the 73rd running of the Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs May 3, despite the Canadian-owned colt's good record on New York tracks this season.

Alexandra, who trains for E. P. Taylor of Toronto, said Cornish is "a real honest horse" and might be a contender in the derby, but the 1 1-4-mile route against top three-year-olds appears too formidable an assignment.

"I'm afraid he'll wear himself trying to beat them," said Alexandra, a native of Leeds, Eng., who has made his home in Toronto for more than a decade.

As for the Preakness May 10, Alexandra said he will "pick a spot" for Cornish Knight locally in the next two weeks and decide after that whether to make the trip to Baltimore. The 1 3-16th-mile Preakness is 1-16th shorter than the derby.

Cornish Knight, acquired by Taylor for $2,600 at a Virginia yearling sale two years ago, won a prominent place among derby contenders early this month after winning his first two 1947 starts, including the second division of Jamaica's experimental handicap. Phalanx, current derby favorite, was third in that event.

New York, April 23 —(CP)— Global glances at sport: From Shannon, Eire, Pauline Betz gives the raspberry to the tennis brass hats who suspended her for flirting with professional offers....the California strawberry blonde, tennis queen of the world, says she "might" turn professional shortly and then twits United States Lawn Tennis Association officials with this comment: "Sarah Cooke, who is in a similar position to myself is planning a European tour for us both. Should we finally decide on this, the amteur body has done us an outstanding service by raising the controversy as it has given us an immense, amount of publicity."

Timber Trouble

In Britain, worry, worry, worry seems to be the theme even among the sports officials....the rowing men are on edge because the government refuses to allow them enough timber to build new boats, sculls and oars there's one encouraging note, though.. the board of green-keeping research at Bingley, Yorkshire, reports a new method to exterminate weeds on golf greens..the treatment is said to cause weeds to grow to an exaggerated size and ultimately die, while the grass remains unaffected.

Around the Circuit

A bill introduced in the New Hampshire legislature to bar any horse that finishes eight lengths or more behind a race got the full treatment in the United States press..visualizing the hilarious possibilities if a similar rule were applied to other sports, the writers noted that Gil Dodds would have retired every miler in the country, New York Rangers would have been out of the National Hockey League long ago and Ben Hogan would have had to quit recently on a par-three hole.

Sports Shorts from Britain

By JACK SULLIVAN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, April 23 — (CP) — The time-honored game of cricket gradually is becoming the "woe" sport of Britain.

Last year nearly all first-class country clubs made appeals for financial help and then had trouble getting gear. This season many grounds were water-logged and one team, Warwickshire, took over one floor of a department store to use as a practice pitch.

Cricket bats are plentiful this season, thanks to an easing of the quota to keep them in trim. Linseed oil controlled by the ministry of food is scarce and expensive.

Even at £200 ($800) a ton, sixpence (10 cents) worth would keep a bat sound for two or three seasons.

Jack Hobbs, one-time great cricketer who operates a sporting goods store in London, says he has plenty of bats "but no oil for sale." Another sports dealer gives this sad news to cricketers: "I've had a few tins of oil — and house painters have been around trying to buy it up."

One-time soccer player, husky Andre McLean was a "marvel with his feet." And he's still getting cheers for his footwork — as ballet dancer Andre Cordova with the Anglo-Polish Company in London.

A former champion swimmer, keen hurdler, cyclist and water-polo player, he switched to teaching ballroom dancing. He joined the army at the outbreak of war and resumed his chosen career in 1946, applied for a part in the Anglo-Polish company and was taken on.

The final stages of the 1939 London, Midland and Scottish Railway staff's golf competition will be held this year at Hillside Golf Club, Southport.

In 1939, 424 members representing many different grades of the staff — clerks, a station manager, divisional superintendent and a headwaiter, started play but the war interfered. Now the 18 survivors are to have their final.

Branch Rickey First Winner of Leonard Trophy

(By The Canadian Press)

For "leadership in the promotion of racial tolerance" in sport by promoting a negro baseball player to the Brooklyn Dodgers, President Branch Rickey yesterday became the first winner of the Benny Leonard Memorial trophy "for the year's outstanding contribution to good sportsmanship." Perpetuating the memory of the little New Yorker retired undefeated as lightweight boxing champion of the world and who died recently, the cup was presented by the Manischewitz Foundation of New York.

Tom Holland, honorary president of the Dominion Football Association and President of the Toronto and District organizatin, who died in Toronto, Tuesday in his 67th year, was the grand old man of Canadian soccer. Just a few weeks ago, he attended a meeting of the local branch and was making plans for the coming season.

The Toronto Maple Leafs will not be officially honored by their home city for winning the world's professional hockey championship. Some token of honor was suggested by Controller David Balfour, but Mayor Robert Saunders said "the city solicitor advises us we have no right to spend public money to honor a professional team."

A shortage of top-flight hockey players is foreseen by Lynn Patrick, coach of New Haven Ramblers of the American Hockey League, who said in Winnipeg yesterday that American youngsters will have to be trained by the same methods as used in Canada if the world-wide demand for players is to be met. The Dominion doesn't produce enough, he said, and he has turned to the United States for talent.

Jack Dempsey, former world heavyweight boxing champion, put health as the main aim of youth with sportsmanship and education the other chief requirements of the young, when he presented trophies to 19 Golden Gloves Champions in Montreal, Tuesday night. He presented the Jack Dempsey trophy, warded to the club winning most championships in the Montreal Golden Gloves tournament, to the Ottawa Beaver Club and the Square Athletic Club of Montreal, who will share it during the year.

National Hockey League headquarters in Montreal announced yesterday that the N.H.L. All-Star team, picked by league coaches and carrying a $1,000 award to each player chosen, will be named May 2.

An East-West tennis match between Canadian Davis Cup contenders will be played in Vancouver July 14, President C. W. Leslie of the Canadian Lawn Tennis Association has announced.

An exhibition series is to be played at London's Wembley stadium by a team of 12 or 14 players built around a nucleus drawn from Ottawa Valley Junior teams. The lads will fly to England May 5 to begin the eight-week fixture with British teams. Expenses hve been underwritten by Wembley stadium.

National Hockey League President Clarence Campbell told the Champion Leafs, at a dinner given them by the Ontario Government last night that it was their responsibility to be champions in private life as well as on the ice as to give a good example to youth.

The Professional Boxing card lined up by Promoter Frank Tunney for Toronto Maple Leaf Garden next Friday has been indefinitely postponed by a finger infection of the hand of L'il Arthur King, scheduled to fight Jimmy Rizzo in the evening main bout.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

(By The Associated Press)

Ted Williams, Red Sox — Slammed his third home run in the third inning and walked in four times at bat as Boston lost to New York 5-4.

Jackie Robinson, Dodgers—Got two singles in four times at bat; his second single in the eighth led to the only run of the game. He stole second, raced t third on an error and scored on Gene Hermanski's single t give Brooklyn a 1-0 win over Philadelphia.

"Groaner" Thinks "The Slugger" Good Investment

Detroit, April 23 — (AP) — "The Groaner" thinks "The Slugger" was a good investment.

Bing Crosby, a stockholder in Pittsburgh Pirates, was asked what he thought of the purchase of Hank Greenberg during a visit here.

"He couldn't be better," said Bing. "Hank is a great team player. We'll have our money back in another month."

"The whole team is hustling," he added.

However, Bing refused to predict a pennant for the Pirates. He pointed out that he had been on hand for all the early games, and added:

"Well, I left them in first place. From now on they're on their own."

REPORTS COMMUNIST PLAN

Montreal April 22 (CP)—The Monteral Daily Star yesterday in a newspage story that "a concerted Communist plan to take over control of the Canadian Congress of Labor across the Dominion reported in C.C.L. circles here."

To Live With Love

By Margaret Gorman Nichols

CHAPTER 22

Should he go back in and try to stop Evelyn? She did not realize what she was doing. Should he remind her of Charlotte and Dick? She was his wife. His wife ...What made a wife? A license and a few words said over you? Dear God, no. Evelyn had never been his wife. What Evelyn had been you could not hold. The bonds were too slight. They could never be held or made enduring because such bonds were bound to die.

Sitting on the ledge of the balcony, his hands were strangely steady. Why did Rand Andrews want Evelyn? He thought, "Why did I want her? The same reason" ...He thought of what Lila had said last night about Rand and it was as though he, Bill, could see into the handsome band leader's mind...Evelyn was what Rand Andrews needed and wanted to complete his success. A beautiful wife with a distinguished name once the Sturtevant part of it was dropped.

Hollywood would go for that. Evelyn, sister-in-law of Richard Stoddard, the Richard Stoddard. Evelyn with her European past and expensive schooling and background. To Rand, Evelyn was not merely beautiful. She was also a lady, a term that had become increasingly important to a young man who was on his way toward making million dollars. And when you have made a million dollars, you get ideas about polo and yachts and etiquette. But you know that some doors will be closed to you even with your million dollars if you haven't something else. Evelyn was that "something else." She was Rand's entree into the better things of life. She was part of the picture. She completed his dizzy cycle upward. She was his final reward.

He thought, "I won't tell her I haven't a job."

When he went back to the room, he saw that her bags and trunks were packed. One cream-colored trunk and three cream-colored bags and one small bag for her jewelry. That was all she was taking. That was all she had brought when she came and that was all she was taking when she left. The furniture, the china and the silver meant nothing to her.

When she came out of the bathroom, she was wearing a lark red suit with a matching hat. Her hair was sleek again, her face smooth, her mouth perfectly put on. The suit ws new. Bill had not seen it before. He would never see it again except as an item on a bill.

She stopped still and looked at him.

Bill's mouth twisted into a shamed smile. He was ashamed, horribly ashamed of the scene in the early Spring morning, he in pajamas and robe and needing a shave, Evelyn in travelling clothes, her belongings packed beside her, the bedroom in disorder and smelling of cigarettes. The end...The end of what for hi mhad been a tender and passionate and beautiful thing, a brilliant meteor across his sky... Ugly and sordid now, tenderness dissolved into pity, all passion spent, the meteor a dead dull stone...The only passion he felt now was the passionate longing for her to go.

He said, "Well, Evelyn..."

Only for an instant did she look ashamed. Then her eyes were bright again and anxious. "I'll have to take the car into town."

"That's all right. Just leave it at the station...I'll make the necessary arrangements with my attorney." For the second time! "And, Evelyn, I'd appreciate it if you would go about it quietly and not have any publicity. Do you want any money?"

"No, I have money."

Rand had given her money.

"Have you—have you everything you'll want?"

"I have all of my things."

"I mean about the furniture and wedding presents."

"Oh, I don't want any of them."

"Shall I write to Charlotte?"

She stiffened. "No, I'll write her."

"Then—then there isn't anything to say?"

Again she was annoyed that he was delaying her. "I..."

"I know," he said. "You're sorry. Not only for this but for all of it. So am I. It was a mistake. In four little words we can sum it all up—the breaking up of homes and hearts. It was all my fault, Evelyn. You don't owe me an apology. You don't owe me a thing. I wish you luck. I hope you'll be happy."

"Thank you." She looked at her trunk and bags helplessly.

I'll carry them down, Bill said. "You go ahead and open the garage and get the car out."

They said no more until she was sitting at the wheel of the car.

Then Bill said, "Good-bye, Evelyn."

"Good-bye, Bill."

And she was gone quickly and quietly down the road on which the dew had laid the dust.

He didn't feel anything except the chill of the morning through the silk robe and the thin slippers.

Turning, he went back to the house to shave and to take a shower.

Five hours after Evelyn had made a grand entrance into the Clinton station, an entrance which unfortunately was witnessed by only a few tired people, Bill made an inconspicuous one and bought an inconspicuous one-way ticket to New York.

Carol and Freda and Ian were sitting in long-backed white chairs on the flagstone terrace in the rear of the Kelly home. After dinner Freda had suggested the terrace since the night was warm and it was Ian's favorite Summer spot. Now they sat quietly, the women wearing light cool frocks and Ian white linen, the lighted cigarettes of the women stabbing the darkness more frequently than the mild blaze from Ian's pipe.

All about them were the sounds and scents of a Summer night mingling with soft music coming from a phonograph in the living-room. A short while before, young Ian had come to say good night and had bolted off like an unbridled colt, his footsteps resounding through the big house.

This was civilized living, Carol was thinking, her eyes on a distant star. Inconceivable the terror abroad in the world, the suffering, the peril, the desperate night-watching, the desperate night-dreading.

Wasn't this what all small, obscure people wanted, the small, obscure people who made up most of the world—this quiet after a busy day, a child sleeping in the house, this enduring partnership of the two who had caused the child and built the house?

If she began to wonder where Bill was, she would be lost in her thoughts for hours to come...

Bill was not in Clinton and no one in Clinton had heard from him. The "For Rent" sign was still on the white house with the picket fence which Evelyn and Bill had left the same day, each taking a train, but not in the same direction. However, it had not been, more than a few days before the people of Clinton had known where Evelyn was.

A Broadway gossip columnist had supplied the interesting facts. Evelyn was in Reno and immediately after the necessary decree she would marry Rand Andrews. There was no mention of Bill. The Broadway columnist had never heard of a young man named Bill Sturtevant who had resigned from his job and disappeared a few hours after his wife. Nor did he care. Bill wasn't "News."

Of Evelyn Freda had said, "Poor Evelyn! She couldn't make tea, but she could pour it exquisitely." No one pretended to be surprised except Thelma Purnell. Tom would say nothing about Bill's resignation, but his friends had begun to worry about how tired and old he was looking lately.

Carol had been stunned by the news. As it became clearer to her, she had been more shocked by Bill's leaving town than by the news of the pending divorce. Then, knowing him, she had come to realize how ashamed he must have been. He had always hated awkwardness and failure. He had always hated being obvious. Pity he could not tolerate.

One day she, too, had been ashamed. A maid in the hospital had stopped her abruptly in the corridor and asked, "Ain't you the girl whose husband's wife is gonna marry Rand Andrews? Gee! Jes' think...marryin' him!"

Once more Bill had hurt her by drawing her into the limelight and making her conspicuous and talked-about. Was there no end to the humiliation of a divorce?

Freda, sensing her distress, had said, "You'll be out of it soon, darling. You'll be out West where, let's hope, the wind is so strong it blows the scandal away. I've never been West, but I've always had nice ideas about it. Fields waving of grain, purple mountains, the fade-out of lovers on horseback...I went for western serials in my childhood and I had a better western lingo than the most bow-legged cowboy in Montana."

Since her divorce Carol had called on Bill's mother at least once a month. Always she had sat in the over-crowded, old fashioned living-room where Mrs. Sturtevant poured forth her family and church news. Always, too, she had a cup of tea and a rich cake topped by thick chocolate icing.

Her last visit she had dreaded. Once more Bill's mother was in tears over the son of whom she had been most proud. "It's that woman...the trouble she's brought on Bill and you and me!"

Bill's mother had never wholeheartedly blamed her child. But not once did she say where Bill was or what he was doing. If she knew his whereabouts — and Carol did not believe that he was heartless enough to keep them from her—she did not say and Carol did not question. When Carol left, Mrs. Sturtevant's watery eyes were looking hopeful. "Now that this has happened, maybe you and Bill—" But Carol had stopped her with "I'm afraid it's too late for that now."

CHILD'S SULKY SPELLS WORRIED HER UNTIL...

If your child has moody, cross, irritable spells for what seems to be no reason, watch for "hidden" constipation. Ofttimes, youngsters' bowels, altho moving regularly, do not move completely. Alleges Two Red Sergeants Were 'Wildly Beaten'

Berlin, April 23 —(Reuters)— Allegations that two Red Army sergeants were "wildly beaten" by British military police, one man losing an eye, were made by Maj.-Gen. Alexander Kotikov, Soviet commandant in Berlin, at last night's meeting of the Allied Kommandatura, according to the Taegliche Rundschau, Berlin Soviet paper, today.

Kotikov demanded immediate investigation of the incidents, alleged to have occurred in Spandau, in the British sector of Berlin, where the two Russian sergeants were stranded after their truck ran out of gasoline.

Observers in Berlin regarded the protest as extraordinary, because — though British press correspondents were briefed last night after the Kommandatura meeting — no information was given regarding the protest.

British authorities were believed to be considering whether to issue a statement later today.

According to Kotikov the Russian sergeants — named Woronoj and Krugijakow — were driving through Spandau on duty. As they re-boarded the truck after refuelling, British M.P.'s arrived in two jeeps and surrounded it.

Kotikov alleged that some of the police dragged the two sergeants from the truck and demanded their weapons, though the men were unarmed.

A "wild beating" took place in which the Soviet soldiers were "trampled on the head, face and bodies," Kotikov alleged, according to the Rundschau.

"Sergeant Woronoj was beaten half dead. He lost an eye, sustained a broken rib, and his skull shows several fractures. Such rowdiness on the part of the British police is unparalleled and provocative," the General was quoted as saying. "I demand that the guilty be found and handed over to the court." The Rundschau said Kotikov lodged a second protest at last night's meeting —at what he termed the violation by Maj.-Gen. Frank Keating, Chief of the United States sector of occupation in Berlin, of the secrecy, agreed by the Allies, in launching the recent Four-Power roundup of criminals, deserters and other undesirables in the city.

Alleging that the raid did not yield the desired results because General Keating made a statement to American correspondents as the 24-hour comb-out began, Kotikov said this gave the wanted persons timely warning to keep out of the way.

Former Warden Of Sing Sing Prison Dies

Garrison, N.Y., April 23 —(AP) —Lewis E. Lawes, 63, who for 21 years was warden at Sing Sing prison at Ossining, N.Y., and was one of the country's outstanding authorities on prison problems, died early today at his home here.

Lawes had been seriously ill for 10 days. He had retired from his post at Sing Sing July 16, 1941.

While warden at the "Big House" at Ossining, Lewis virtually rebuilt the prison and instituted many novelties such as football games between the prisoners and outside teams. Prison dramatic clubs also were permitted to perform for visitors from the outside.

His policy of being fair with prisoners, yet firm, helped overcome problems that had arisen at Sing Sing, problems which the late Alfred E. Smith, then governor, had picked Lawes to correct.

Although he supervised more than 200 executions, Lawes was a founder and former president of the society to abolish capital punishment.

Lawes' last undertaking in the penology field was a survey of the Massachusetts States Prison at Charlestown for Gov. Maurice J. Tobin, completed last year.

Born in Elmira, N.Y., he served at various prisons before becoming warden at Sing Sing, Jan. 1 1920.

5 SOUTH AFRICAN VETERANS RECALL OLD DAYS

St. Catharines, April 23—(CP) —Five veterans of the South African War assembled here last night and recalled the olden days when with Lieut. Bill King they served King and country. The occasion was a dinner tendered by Major General W. B. M. King and the special guests of honor were Mayor Dr. W. J. MacDonald, S. F. Speck of Thorold, G. B. McCallan of Grantham and Col. Wm. Andrews of Beamsville. Some 25 veterans of the First World War were also present.

COMMEMORATE GALLIPOLI

Tokyo, April 23 — (AP) —British Commonwealth occupation forces will commemorate Gallipoli or Anzac Day Friday with parades and military reviews.

They will honor the memory of the men who 32 years ago assaulted Gallipoli, on the Turkish coast, in a futile attempt to force the Dardanelles. It was one of the bravest and bloodiest actions of the First World War.

Warspite Aground On Rocky Coast

London, April 23 — (Reuters)— The veteran battleship Warspite, breaking adrift on her way to the shipbreaker's yard, was reported aground on the rocky coast of Cuddan Point, on Britain's west coast.

The 31,000-ton battleship was on her last voyage to the Clyde from Portsmouth.

For 48 hours she had been battling with a strong Channel gale during which the five-inch steel hawser attached to one of the two towing tugs had snapped and she had drifted almost out of control.

A Penzance Coast Guard official said this afternoon, "She seems pretty snug and her crew of six will not be taken off.

"The wind, which has been very strong, is easing up and the sea is moderating. A lifeboat has been standing by but as the crew are remaining aboard she is returning to Penzance."

TRUCK AND FARM SUPPLY LTD. ANNOUNCES OPENING

DON STANTON, President

HAROLD M. MEYERS, Gen. Mgr.

Establishment of Truck and Farm Supply, Ltd., recently formed Belleville firm which will cater to the farm machinery needs of the Bay of Quinte district, is the direct result of a former Eastern Ontario boy's wish to return to the district where he first saw the light of day.

Don Stanton, president of Truck and Farm Supply, Ltd., was born at Newboro, north of Kingston, and spent his boyhood days there. He then went to the Canadian West where he gained success as a general merchant. Today he is again back in Eastern Ontario where at Belleville he in conjunction with Mr. Meyers, has set up one of the most elaborate farm machinery sales and service organizations in Ontario.

Although for 24 years general merchandising at Westlock, Alberta, was the principal interest of Mr. Stanton in the Canadian West, he nevertheless found time to promote community welfare and took an active interest in the promotion of sports and other community activities. He is well and widely known in the Westlock district of Alberta.

But a desire to return back "home" constantly irked in the back of Don's mind and last summer saw his dream come true. With his brother-in-law, Harold Meyers, who is general manager of the firm, he formed Truck and Farm Supply, Ltd., and securing the agency for International Harvester farm equipment and trucks, supervised the construction of the fine new building on South Church Street which will see its official opening this week.

Residing on Dufferin Ave., Don is married and has three children. Two daughters have chosen nursing as their vocation with the elder daughter Joyce being a Registered Nurse in the city while Carol is in training at Belleville General Hospital. A son 'Donny," is attending Queen Alexandra School.

Interest in community work quickly brought Don into service club work in the city where he is a member of the Kiwanis Club.

Bringing with him to Belleville 13 years' experience with the International Harvester Company, including eleven years on the executive staff at the Ottawa headquarters, Mr. Harold Meyers, General Manager of Truck and Farm Supply Ltd., South Church St., is well versed with the mechanical needs of an agricultural community such as the Bay of Quinte district.

Practically every type of mechanical equipment needed for the farm and many accessories for the farm home, are carried by the Belleville firm which will officially open its doors on Friday and Saturday of this week.

Like his brother-in-law, Don Stanton, president of Truck and Farm Supply Ltd., Harold Meyers is a native of Eastern Canada, going "West" with his family at an early age to receive his schooling at Edmonton, Alberta. Thirteen years ago he returned East where he joined the International Harvester Company at Hamilton. Two years later the firm transferred him to its Ottawa headquarters where until last summer he remained as member of the executive staff.

Married and with two children, Harold has purchased a home on Chatham Street and with an inherent love for Eastern Ontario says he is very happy to call Belleville his home. Incidentally, in this day of housing shortages and rental controls, Harold was one of the fortunate ones who was able to get "possession" of the home he purchased in the city.

His son, Johnny, goes to Pine Street School, while Mr. and Mrs. Meyers' only daughter, Marilyn, attends Belleville Collegiate, where she is an enthusiastic member of the Teen Age Club.

An ardent alley addict, Harold loves to bowl as is evident by his long tenure of office on the executive staff of the International Bowling Club at Ottawa. He is a member of the Kinsmen Club of Belleville, and takes a keen interest in community welfare work.

International Harvester Announces New Line of KB Model Motor Trucks

"International Harvester is introducing new models now for two reasons," said Harold Meyers, general manager of Truck and Farm Supply Ltd. "First, to provide operators with improved truck performance; and second, to provide operators with better looking trucks. Even though new models are being introduced, production has not been slowed down. The old models are rolling off the line at International Harvesters' Chatham Works, Chatham, Ontario, right alongside the new ones—without a single moment's assembly line stoppage. Trucks are too badly needed to stop production for a minute.

"This year," continued Mr. Meyers, "has a special meaning for International Harvester, quite aside from the fact that we are building new models. This is Harvester's fortieth anniversary yeas as a truck manufacturer. Yes, forty years ago Harvester began production of the then impressive schedule of one hundred International Auto Wagons, high-wheeled, powered vehicles designed, as we then said "to pull the farmer out of the mud."

"Contrast between the first International and the new 40th. anniversary models is marked' I assure you. But as antique-looking as the 1907 International Harvester Auto Wagon is, it was the glamor wagon of its day, and served Canadian businessmen and farmers both profitably and well."

Throughout Harvester's new "KB" line of trucks, in addition to the new styling, are 95 new features or mechanical improvements. All of these are contributions to improved performance, longer life and greater economy. International models, Harvester officials point out, are not matters of the calendar. New features and improvements are under constant study and constant test. As quickly as a new feature or improvement proves its worth, it is incorporated into current production. That's the way the new Internationals were created. New features and improvements were steadily incorporated into current production until the new features and improvements, themselves, with some new styling, created the new models.

Mr. Meyers also called attention to the fact that there are 21 basic models in the International truck line—15 "KB" models and "W" or "Western" models. The gross vehicle weight ratings of these 21 models range from 4,400 to 90,000 pounds.

"Notice that I said 'basic models,' said Mr. Meyers, "I use that term (basic models) because job adaptations and conversions of the 21 models produce more than 1,000 different transport units, all of which might be called models; it may be truthfully said that in the International line today there are more than 1,000 different vehicles."

Pre-School Co-Op Aids Tiny Pupils

Regina, (CP)—A nursery school for children up to six years is the latest of Saskatchewan's 2,000-odd co-operative organizations. Last month 22 children attended.

The plan, which took four months to crystallize, was first suggested during discussions over tea cups, when mothers of Regina's Lakeview district voiced the need of a nursery school for their pre-school age children.

A room in the district public school was donated by the school board. All other organization and equipment was provided by the co-operators, who hired one teacher and were offered services of two volunteer teachers.

The system of financing and share loans which includes a $3 registration fee and a $5 fee per child per term, was evolved during a series of weekly meetings of the mothers.

One family loaned a piano and other built and painted pint-sized chairs and tables. Toys were repaired and donated.

Many Londoners Patronize Black Market Despite Risk of Big Fines

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, April 23 (CP)—Sitting quietly in the corner of almost any London pub these days is a man or woman, usually shabbily dressed, who tries to look inconspicuous but more often than not is furtive.

Now and then a customer walks over to the corner. There is a whispered conversation. You may catch the words: "Yes, lots of them. Any time. Just let me know."

Thriving black market.

Those words are the answer to the government's announcement that the present issue of 32 clothing coupons must last till the end of October instead of to Sept. 1. They are the passwords to London's thriving black market—suits and dresses without coupons, coupons without waiting.

Whichever it is the price is high and the risk considerable. Purchasers of black market clothes and coupons get fined up to £50 ($200); vendors often do six months in jail.

The trade is thriving largely because the carry-over of austerity into the second and third years of peace is undermining the scruples of many who once avoided the black market.

Too Many Patches

"There was a time when I scorned the black market," said a tall, grey-haired man in a neat blue suit and grey fedora hat, standing against the bar. "I kept out of it till my shirts and underclothes were patched and darned till they wouldn't patch and darn any more.

"After I'd renewed these, what was there left over for a suit of clothes? I'm a commercial man and my firm expects me to dress well. What could I do but to go to the black market then?"

Off the main London thoroughfare are countless small shops, usually with an unassuming air, that sell suits that cost anything from £20 (80) to £30 ($120) but no receipt is given and coupons are never mentioned.

Not worth half the price.

"I paid £22 for this suit," said a midle-aged insurance salesman. "It's not worth half the price, but I needed it in a hurry. I was measured last Monday and the suit came through three days later. With coupons I'd probably have had to wait six weeks."

Londoners who patronize the black market have this grievance They had more coupons during the war than they have had since.

Who won the war, anyway?

"We all know things are tough" said a store salesman, in conventional black coat and stripped trousers. "But as for going about in rags—well, did we win the war or didn't we?"

Unhappy Marriages "Run in Families"

Southampton, England, (CP)—Unhappy marriages "run in families", according to Mrs. Ethel Dukes, medical director of the London Marriage Guidance Centre.

"A child's sexual education begins at birth," she told University College, Southampton, "not when a boy or girl says 'Mummy where do babies come from?'

Before a child is three it unconsciously, takes in images of its mother and if her relationship with father is right, it will accept father.

"Whatever a boy builds up in his mind about women it will be his mother, or his mother's substitute, who will be the prototype of all women.

"These are the unconscious reasons why there should be an emotionally stable family background with the discipline and order which go to make up a good home."

11 MINERS TRAPPED BY UNDERGROUND BLAZE

50 Feared Dead As Gales Ravage Britain's Coastline

Oil Tanker With Crew of 42 Breaks in Two on Reef

London, April 24 (CP)—Yesterday will be remembered as one of the most disastrous days in history for shipping off the British coast, it became apparent today, as tragedy after tragedy was reported in the wake of a blustering gale. More than 50 are feared dead.

Worst disaster was the wrecking of the British oil tanker Samtampa on the south Wales coast. Not only the crew of 42 are believed to have perished but a gallant lifeboat crew of eight apparently drowned in a futile attempt to rescue them.

Another vicitim of the storm was the "Old Lady" of the Royal Navy, the battleship Warspite, driven on the rocks off the Cornish coast while en route to the scrap heap. She likely will end her days where she now lies, smashed to pieces by the sea.

The wreck of the 7,000-ton Samtampa on the sandbanks of Sker Bay, Glamorgan, shocked the countryside and horror heightened when the Swansea lifeboat which went to her aid was found drifting upside down with no trace of the crew.

It was still daylight when the Samtampa, bound for Newport, grounded with such impact that she broke in two. Lifesaving crews ashore tried to reach the wreck with rocket lines but the gale tossed them back.

Huddle on Bridge

As the tanker's survivors huddled on the bridge, the other part of the ship split again, throwing thousands of gallons of crude oil into the sea. As darkness fell parked automobiles turned on their headlights trying to aid in the rescue but all in vain.

The Swansea lifeboat made two attempts to reach the wreck from her base 20 miles away and it was from the second attempt that she failed to return.

When the tide dropped this morning rescue workers were able to walk to the Samtampa and clamer into the wreckage but she was so smashed and caved in that they were unable to examine it closely.

Heavy Sea Running

The heavy sea still was running this morning, but the worst of the gale seemed to have moved to the northeast coast where many small boats were in trouble off Yorkshire.

Chances of getting the Warspite off the rocks were described by experts as non-existent. She is lying across a cove 50 yards from shore with her bows under water and her forepart waterlogged. Her skeleton crew was taken off safely yesterday.

The force of the gale reached far inland and at Coventry, in the Midlands, one person was killed by a falling wall. Others were feared drowned in rivers and coastal waters.

In Eire the winds reached reported speeds of 100 miles an hour and three-ton boulders were torn loose from the sea coast and hurled inland.

Only a few days ago Britons basked in sunny Spring weather, more welcome than ever after the cold winter and early Spring floods.

Crew Safely Landed

The 275-ton trawler Benghazi went aground on tiny Fladd Island, in the Firth of Lorne off northwest Scotland, but her crew of 14 were reported to have landed safely on a nearby island after escaping in a small boat.

The disabled American freighter Robert H. Harrison, her propeller gone, broke loose from a tug towing her toward the Irish Coast and drifted helplessly for hours until the tug got another towline aboard. The American merchant ship Orbis radioed that her steering gear had snapped in the storm 33 miles east of Start Point on the Devon Coast, but reported no immediate danger.

QUICK ACTION

Redondobeach, Calif., April 24—(AP) — Salesman Henry Lowe parked his car in its accustomed place and went off to work.

Returning, he found the city had installed parking meters and had placed one alongside his car. On his car was a ticket for failure to make a meter deposit.

Royal Family On Way Home From Long Tour

Capetown, April 24—(Reuters)—The battleship Vanguard steamed out of Capetown harbor today carrying the Royal Family home to England after their 10,000-mile tour of South Africa.

At a farewell state luncheon two hours before, the King had called his visit "almost unique in the history of the British Commonwealth" and said he hoped such tours would be "less unusual in the future."

Queen Elizabeth, the two Princesses and he were "overwhelmed" by the presents which South Africa had showered upon them, he added.

Diamonds presented to the King at the farewell luncheon for his Order of the Garter Star number 399 and have a total weight of 32.97 carats. The Queen received a solitaire marquise, and Princess Margaret got 53 diamonds suitable for a bracelet setting.

Princess Elizabeth received more than $800,000 in cheques for flood relief in Britain from the people of South Africa. The gifts will be administered by the Lord Mayor of London's flood relief fund.

Merchant Seamen Seeking Benefits From Government

Ottawa, April 24 — (CP) —The case for Canada's "fourth service" the Merchant Navy — was being submitted on Parliament Hill today and with indications it may get government attention soon.

A. J. Heide, himself a Merchant Marine man during the war, and now heading a two-man delegation from the Merchant Marine Rehabilitation Society of Vancouver, was busy seeing cabinet ministers and members of parliament seeking war benefits for merchantmen comparable to those enjoyed by members of the armed forces.

The estimated 18,000 Canadians who manned Dominion merchant ships and those of other flags during the war, now were more like the "forgotten men" than the heroes they were hailed as during the war, he said. They had the highest casualty rate in the conflict, yet the government regarded them as a civilian service.

After interviewing cabinet ministers and other members of parliament, however, Mr. Heide said he was hopeful that their case would be taken up in parliament soon.

The society seeks three main benefits for merchant seamen:

1. Medical attention, possibly under the Department of Veterans Affairs.
2. Education and vocational training comparable to that afforded the members of the armed forces.
3. Disability grants for those merchant seamen suffering a disability as a result of war service afloat.

Mr. Heide said it was possible for a merchant seaman to get a disability pension now through the Department of Transport but the regulations were "so stiff" that "a man had to practically be hit by a torpedo." He added that of the 18,000 Canadian Merchant seamen only 31 were getting such benefits at present.

CHEVRIER OPENS CLUB

Cornwall, April 24 —(CP)—Transport Minister Lionel Chevrier officially opened the Community Sports Club here last night. The minister, who once represented Cornwall in athletics circles, supported a program of physical fitness and said it should originate in the home, church, school and community.

WHAT TO DO WITH JAPANESE BIG PROBLEM

Most of Speakers Heard Do Not Want Japs To Congregate Again In British Columbia

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL

Ottawa, April 24 (CP)—A two-day debate on the Japanese in Canada is expected to be concluded today in the Commons where yesterday members advanced a variety of possible solutions to the problem, of particular interest to the people of British Columbia.

Most Progressive Conservative and Liberal speakers so far have indicated that they do not want the Japanese to be allowed to congregate again in British Columbia as they did in pre-war years. C.C.F. members have practically been alone in urging the elimination of racial hatred against the Japanese.

The trend of the debate so far would indicate that a C.C.F. amendment, which would have the effect of restoring Pacific coast fishing licences to Japanese, will be defeated by a wide margin.

The amendment was moved Tuesday to a section of the main control bill continuing the government's power to refuse the fishing licences to Japanese.

Among those offering possible solutions to the question of what is to be done with the Japanese were Robert Mayhew (L—Victoria) and E. D. Fulton (PC—Kamloops).

Mr. Mayhew said that if people east of British Columbia would accept their share of the Japanese in Canada there will be no difficulty in the Pacific Coast province.

The people east of the Rockies did not want to accept the Japanese, he said, and yet they were describing the British Columbia people as non-Christians because they did not want to see the Japanese return.

Mr. Fulton suggested that the Japanese be dispersed among the various provinces on the basis of available employment possibilities. The Japanese could be told that, if they proved to be good citizens, restrictions would be lifted after a specified number of years and they would be free to live where they wished.

Labor Minister Mitchell disclosed in the Commons Tuesday night that since April 14 the Japanese have been free to move anywhere they wished east of British Columbia.

After the House opened, John Diefenbaker (PC—Lake Centre), rose on a question of privilege and observed that Angus MacInnis (CCF—Vancouver East), noting that Mr. Diefenbaker was not in his seat last night, remarked that he had much to say about "freedom" but always was away from the chamber when the Japanese discussion came up.

Mr. Diefenbaker termed the statement as "untrue" and said he was opposed to "any discrimination" against Canadians, regardless of their race or creed.

Shops Closed In New Delhi Due to Stabbings

New Delhi, April 24 (CP) — Shops were closed today, paralyzing business in the old city section of this capital, after a fresh rash of stabbings involving hostile religious communities.

At least two persons were killed and eight injured. A 24-hour curfew was imposed in some areas. The strife between Moslems, Sikhs and Hindus during the month ended Monday resulting in 11 killed and 52 injured.

A police magistrate said Moslem closed their shops in protest to alleged "police excesses." Hindus and Sikhs put their shutters up, expecting trouble. Fifty persons were arrested in one area alone.

Meanwhile, the Viceroy, Rear Admiral Viscount Mountbatten, is believed to have set May 5 as the deadline by when Mohammed Ali Jinnah, President of the Moslem League, should give his final views on the political issues arising out of Britain's abdication in India, the Indian New Chronicle said today.

Three Armed Bandits Take $250,000 From Mid-Toronto Bank

Toronto, April 24 (CP)—Regarded by police as first traces of black-hooded bandits who vanished late last night with contents of 77 safety deposit boxes from a Royal Bank of Canada Branch, an automatic pistol and a pair of blue overalls were found today about a mile from the scene of the robbery.

A bank official said loot in the robbery, considered one of the most daring in Toronto's history, may total $250,000.

A porter found the weapon and the overalls on grounds of the York Club at Bloor and St. George Streets. Police said the automatic had been stolen from a house broken into in suburban Etobicoke township last May 30. They added they believed identification of the weapon indicated the robbery had been "a local job."

Depositors Thronged Bank

Today weeping depositors thronged the robbed bank at College and Bathurst Streets some complaining they had lost their life's savings. Bank managers throughout the city said scores of safety deposit box holders had called them to demand assurance their deposits were safe.

No statement was forthcoming from headoffices of the Royal Bank but it was indicated the bank carried at least some insurance protection against robbery of the safety deposit boxes.

The police department threw every available man into the hunt for the three men who, clad in brand-new blue denim overall, gagged and blindfolded six persons before rifling the boxes.

While officials said that the boxes ordinarily would contain anywhere from $1,000 to $5,000 each, one unnamed executive said that "a quarter of a million dollars wouldn't be a bad guess."

The three bandits, heads and faces masked, all wearing blue over-alls, entered the apartment of caretaker Duncan M. Stuart on the third floor of the bank building about 9:15 p.m. The men tied the caretaker and his wife, their daughter and a visitor, hand and foot, taped their eyes and mouths and left one of their number on guard.

The other two bandits snatched the bank keys from Stuart and entered the bank's safety deposit vault, where the boxes were smashed open.

Two of the bandits were still working on the safety deposit boxes when Darcy Hogan, a friend of the Stuarts, called on them about 10.30 p.m. He also was bound and gagged, after which the guard left to join his two companions in their getaway.

The caretaker's wife managed to burst her bonds finally, but it was more than three hours after the bandits had first entered and it was nearly 1 a.m. when the alarm was flashed to police.

$200,000 FIRE AT SMITHS FALLS, PLANT DESTROYED

Residents Within Two-Block Area of Blaze Flee From Their Homes

Smiths Falls, April 24 — (CP)—Fire destroyed the Malleable Castings Company plant here early today and the loss has been estimated at $200,000.

For more than an hour before the blaze was brought under control, high winds swept the flames in all directions and threatened other buildings in the neighborhood. Many residents within a 2-block area fled from their homes.

Breaking out just before dawn the fire, of unknown origin, swept through the plant and for a time threatened to spread to the great Frost and Wood Company plant adjoining.

The outbreak came shortly before five o'clock while town firemen were engaged in battling a box car blaze in the Canadian Pacific Railway yards and roared quickly through the frame and shingle roof of the one - storey buildings.

Firemen who were called in from Perth, Merrickville, Carleton Place and Brockville used every available hose line to battle the blaze.

The Frost and Wood woodyard, stacked with great piles of lumber and located directly next to the burning buildings, formed a serious hazard but the piles did not ignite.

By 6:15 this morning firemen had the blaze under control but only the bare and blackened brick walls and tangles of charred wood and twisted metal remained of the series of buildings.

Some 125 men will be thrown out of employment by the destruction of the old-established Smiths Falls industry. The main buildings were more than 70 years old.

Loss in buildings alone was estimated at more than $100,000. Equipment and invaluable patterns also were destroyed.

It was apparent early that the buildings were doomed and residents of the area became panicky as clouds of live sparks were carried over the district by the high wind. At least 10 homes were evacuated as householders carried furniture, bedding and personal effects outside despite the drizzling rain.

There was possibility that lightning may have caused the blaze as a severe electrical storm had broken in the district about the same time as the flames burst forth.

This is the third fire to strike Smiths Falls within the last five months. In December a $150,000 blaze damaged an apartment building in the town and in January a $15,000 fire destroyed the Smiths Falls arena.

REASONS CITED BY CHIEF JUSTICE UNSOUND—CROWN

Previous Rejections of Statements In Dick Trial Factors In Judge's Action

Toronto, April 24 (CP)—Reasons given by Chief Justice J. C. McRuer for rejecting statements made by Mrs. Evelyn Dick as evidence in her second trial for the murder of her husband, John were not sound, W. B. Common told Court of Appeal as the Crown's appeal against Mrs. Dick's acquittal went into its second day.

Mr. Common said Chief Justice McRuer would have admitted two statements made by Mrs. Dick to police had he not felt bound by the Appeal Court's previous rejection of certain statements in evidence during the first trial.

1. A statement made by the accused to Inspector Charles Wood of the Provincial Police when he first met Mrs. Dick at her home.
2. A statement made by Mrs. Dick at police headquarters before she was questioned by police.

These statements were:

"The court never ruled on these statements," Chieff Justice R. S. Roberson said.

Mr. Justice R. E. Laidlaw asked whether admission of these statements would have affected the jury's verdict.

"Yes," Mr. Common said.

Mr. Justice Laidlaw asked whether these statements taken individually would mean anything. Mr. Common said the statements had to be taken in conjunction with other statements.

"What is the purpose of arguing anything academic, if these statements would have no effect?" Mr. Justice Laidlaw asked.

"Each statement is important in its significance to the cumulative effect," Mr. Common replied.

Mr. Common said he trial judge found no threats, promises or inducements, yet he rejected the statements "having regard to all the circumstances."

"Just what the trial judge means by tha tI'm not clear," Mr. Common added.

Mr. Jutsice W. T. Henderson said the circumstances were that Mrs. Dick was unlawfully in custody.

"She was arrested without warrant or charge," Mr. Justice Henderson said. He said she was held for no other reason than that she was a vagrant.

"Whatever she may have been she was not a vagrant," Mr. Justice Henderson said.

"There is no suggestion she was influenced because she was illegally detained," Mr. Common said.

GAS, ELECTRICITY FOR HEATING BANNED IN BRITAIN

Order in Force From May 5 Till End Of October Says Shinwell In Parliament

London, April 24 —(Reuters)—Use of all gas and electricity for heating will be banned throughout Britain from May 5 until the end of September, Emanuel Shinwell, minister of fuel and power, announced in the House of Commons today. Heating of any kind of industrial or commercial premises will be prohibited from May 5 to the end of October.

"The savings to be gained are such and the need is so urgent that we are satisfied this measure is essential," Shinwell told the Commons.

Heating by gas and electricity will be permitted only with a medical certificate of necessity.

Anthony Eden, speaking for the Conservative opposition, called for a Commons debate on the scheme, saying it would create "very great hardships" for domestic consumers. Arthur Greenwood, acting leader of the House, replied that a debate would be arranged soon.

Britain often is chilly and rainy during the summer, with the temperature plummeting at night. Many persons have coal and wood-burning fireplaces. However, coal is strictly rationed, and the full ration is not always available.

Must Cut 25 Per Cent.

Making the long-awaited announcement of the government's plan to control fuel consumption, Shinwell said domestic consumers of gas and electricity, spared rationing controls on cooking and other fuel consumption, would be asked to cut consumption by 25 per cent of last summer's total, including the fuel saved by prohibition of gas and electric fires.

Non-industrial and commercial consumers, including stores, would be expected to make very possible savings, since it was impossible to fix a single savings target.

"This is not unreasonable in the light of the urgent national need," he said. "No one will question the need for the most intense fuel saving this summer by all classes of consumer."

To Make Arrangements.

In addition to the medical exceptions, arrangements would be made to heat premises where night work had to be done in May, September and October.

Shinwell said a saving of 2,500,000 tons of coal by domestic consumers was still the government's target this summer.

Use of solid fuel in residences would not be prohibited, he said, because supplies were already restricted and unless people rationed themselves, they would only have to pay for it later.

Referring to the existing order banning the use of electricity for five hours a day in residences, Shinwell said this would be scrapped in favor of the ban on heating and the appeal for a 25 per cent general reduction.

Prices of Houses Fixed by Board

London, Ont., April 24 —(CP)—Prices of Veterans Land Act houses in the Woodstock area were set at the minimum of $4,625 and a maximum of $5,800 by Soldier Settlement Board officials here today. There are 14 houses in the area, and contracts are to be issued this week. Two homes are already occupied.

Similar homes in London, Chatham, Sarnia and Windsor district are expected to have the same average cost but prices have not yet been set. The homes are two and three-bedroom units. The lower price is for four roomed houses and the higher price for two-storey, three-bedroom units.

Price includes cost of roads, walks, driveway, utility connections and $145 for landscaping. Land values alone are estimated at more than $500.

EIRE'S WORST TRADE BALANCE

Dublin, April 24 — (Reuters)—Eire in 1946 had the worst trade balance in her history, government figures showed today. During the year, imports were valued at £71,883,912 ($285,335,648) while exports were only £38,361,100, making an adverse balance of £33,472,812.

One Man Found Dead in Malartic Gold Mine Fire

Specially Equipped Rescue Squad Seeks Survivors

Malartic, Que., April 24—(CP)—A 16-man rescue squad, specially equipped to fight underground fires, worked furiously today to rescue 11 men trapped by an underground blaze in the rich East Malartic gold mine at this town 40 miles east of Rouyn in the heart of the northwestern Quebec mining area.

One man is known dead in the blaze — Traian Lucaci, a 45-year-old hard rock miner who has worked at East Malartic for the last 12 months. Previously he worked four years at the Hollinger mine at Timmins and was also employed at Cobalt. Assistant mine manager W. Griffin said the company is trying to learn whether he has any relatives.

Three doctors and a number of clergymen stood by at the surface to render any assistance they can when the 11 trapped men are found.

At noon, possibly as much as 11 hours after the blaze started, rescue squads, equipped with special mine fire-fighting apparatus reported little headway in their efforts to reach the 11 trapped men in No. 4 shaft.

Rescue squads said the dense smoke continued to fill the shaft.

Here in this town 40 miles east of Rouyn, doctors, clergymen and relatives gathered around the mine workings awaiting the latest word of the rescue efforts.

It was reported more masks were needed for the rescue workers and a telephoned request went to Kirkland Lake for another rescue squad. First rescuers came from Noranda mine, followed by squads from Lamaque and Signa mines.

Father Gerard Kinlough, who had been on the scene since 3 a.m. said he was hopeful the trapped men had been able to escape from the smoke to a lower mine level.

As near as could be learned on the surface the smouldering fire was thought to be burning timbers on the 10th level.

Huge Clouds Smoke

Mr. Griffin said the fire was comparatively minor, although huge clouds of smoke billowed up the shaft, and that it is believed to have started in the lunch room at the 200-foot level.

As news of the disaster spread men and equipment were rushed from neighboring mines.

D. McLean, mine manager, was in Montreal when the fire started early today. He is on his way back here and is expected to arrive this afternoon.

Sixteen men were said to have been on the working shift when the fire started on the 10th level. Four were reported to have made their way to safety. It was believed Lycaci attempted to make his way through the smoke and was asphyxiated. His body was recovered.

The 11 men trapped are believed to have retreated to a lower level to escape the dense smoke. Their names were not immediately available.

The place where the fire broke out near the main shaft is inside the town of Malartic, about half a mile from the centre of the town.

Crowds Rush to Scene.

As soon as word of the fire spread, townspeople from Malartic, whose population is 4,000, streamed to the mine.

The rescue squads used air pumps to hold back the heavy smoke.

Among those early at the scene were Mayor Armand Dumas of Malartic and Maurice LaFontaine, provincial mining inspector for western Quebec, who was called from his home in Noranda.

A spokesman at the mine office, who would not give his name, said the fire was not large.

He added:

"There is more smoke than flame. One man is dead. We are searching for 11 others."

The spokesman said the fire started early today in a mine shaft but he was unable to say the exact number of men working underground at the time.

"From the reports we have here I can only say that we are searching for 11 men," he added.

Malartic is about 40 miles east of Rouyn in the heart of Quebec's gold mining country. First reports of the fire in the East Malartic Mine which employs most of the people who live in Malartic went "outside" through Rouyn.

400 on Payroll.

The mine's entire payroll, including office staff, is about 400.

Malartic, a comparatively new town of several thousand in the mining district, is 18 miles from Val D'Or, another mining centre.

The mine first came into production in 1937. Total production to the end of 1945 was $16,631,758. Dividend payments began June 1, 1940, and by June, 1946, totalled $2,200,000. The largest production year was in 1941, $2,851,228. Latest figures, for 1945, were $1,538,500.

Two Smash-Grab Raids on Stores Bring Arrest

London, Ont., April 24 (CP)—A man giving the name of Fred Onofreyo, 22, of Winnipeg was arrested within two hours of two smash-grab raids on two jewelry stores in the heart of downtown London early today. Police said they found about $4-800 worth of jewelry in his possession, and he will be charged with the breakins.

Police say they did not connect Onofreyo immediately with a similar raid on Young's jewelry store in east London Monday night in which goods worth $600 were stolen.

The robber first attacked the window of the Ryrie-Birks store on Dundas St. scooped up a couple of handfuls of jewelry and then ran around the corner to Richmond Street and smashed the window on the Sumner store.

There were few persons on the block at the time but one of them was Jack Deane, Toronto Globe and Mail truck driver who was making his daily delivereies, he heard the crash of glass and saw a man run from the store.

Deane had a good description of the fugitive and he accompanied police on a hunt of the downtown district. Detective Allan Rush was checking hotels and Deane was with him when Onofreyo was arrested in his room at the Mayfair Hotel, three blocks from the scene of the crimes.

Brooke Claxton Visits Trenton Air Station

Brooke Claxton, K.C., Minister of National Defence yesterday accompanied Air Marshal Robert Leckie, C.B., D.S.O., on a tour of the Trenton Air Station. In addressing a formal mess dinner following the inspection, Mr. Claxton was high in his praise of the work being done at the station.

Referring to the reduction of personnel in the three services Mr. Claxton told the dinner guests the move was a decided help to industry in that it released skilled workmen in a time of need.

"My association with the armed forces in the last few months," he said, "has confirmed my belief that the armed forces of Canada are second to none." He said he shared the view of other leaders that "we must preserve peace through collective action."

Among the guests at the dinner were, Air Commodore A. D. Ross, C.B.E., Toronto; Group Captain, D. G. Truscott, O.B.E., Trenton; Group Captain, F. L. Tretheway, Belleville; Group Captain A. McLean Haig, Belleville; Lieut. Col. R. J. Fisher, M.B.E., Picton; Major A. L. S. Ireton, Ottawa and Drs. G. H. Stobie and J. W. Forrester, Belleville.

Whistling Swan Puts Up Battle Before Release

A whistling swan, one of a flock migrating north, gave Dan Greenfield, Wellington, Ont., a terrific battle before he could release it from a trap in his sanctuary on the shore of West Lake.

The swan put up a stout fight, in misinterpretation of Greenfield's intentions, administering a severe beating about the man's face and shoulders. "Those wings were powerful," Greenfield said, "and carried the force of the blow of a man's fist. Those birds would knock a man out with a half dozen cuffs of their feathered weapons."

Another swan was discovered swimming peacefully in the sanctuary. Greenfield said he heard the flock flying overhead the night before. Usually, he added, they fly so high they are seldom noticed.

Both geese and swan have been seen flying north over Garratt's Island, three miles off the village.

Shannonville. — Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Kilburn, of Belleville, have purchased the Way-Side Inn from Mrs. Zita Ryan. On Saturday night the staff and a few friends gathered for a social evening. In thanking Mrs. Ryan for her kind hospitality during the short time she was here, Mr. Roy Sager read an address while the staff presented Mrs. Ryan with a beautiful cigarette lighter and cigarette case. Mrs. Ryan made an appropriate reply expressing her appreciation of the gift.

Mr. and Mrs. Kilburn were then introduced to the guests. All wish Mr. and Mrs. Kilburn success in their new business here.

Expect St. Laurent To Make Statement On Seaway Project

Ottawa, April 24 — (CP) — A statement probably will be made in the Commons within the next few days on the question of the St. Lawrence seaway, it was learned today.

Informed sources said the statement, which will be made by External Affairs Minister St. Laurent, likely would deal with a proposal that tolls be collected on the seaway.

KNOCK FOOD RATION

Stockholm (CPP) —Referring to the introduction of rationing again in Sweden, the Stockholm-Tidninghen, representing the People's Party blamed the government for failing to emphasize that the country could not escape the lack of goods—an inevitable result of war.

Be Sure to Adjust Clocks Saturday

This is the first reminder that residents of the city are going to lose an hour's sleep on Saturday night. And lest you, and you, forget, you set the family clocks and watches ahead one hour that night. For Daylight Saving will be officially ushered in as the City Hall clock strikes the solemn hour of twelve o'clock, midnight, that is.

It is recalled that last year there was some confusion in various parts of the city. Benighted householders, thinking mainly of bed, forgot to make the timepiece adjustment, and accordingly ate a seven o'clock breakfast at eight and arrived at church just in time to meet their friends coming out.

Lack of Housing For New Teachers Worries Board

The Belleville Board of Education is still concerned regarding the lack of living accommodations in the city in the respect that teachers coming to the city find it difficult to secure suitable living quarters for themselves and families.

Board members were informed at their last meeting that two teachers hired for local schools last September have still not secured suitable accommodation. The board will advertise in the Ontario Intelligencer for living quarters for the teachers, it was decided.

Three new teachers were hired for the Belleville Collegiate and Vocational school with duties to commence as of September following the forthcoming summer holidays.

The new teachers include Donald C. Sterling, B. A., formerly principal of Bracebridge High School who will become head of the mathematics department succeeding R. W. Swanick who will go to Lawrence Park Collegiate Toronto.

Harold F. Mott, former staff member of Belleville Collegiate and presently at Oakville, will return to the city in September to take the place of John Jury, who has resigned to continue his education. The other teacher hired is Miss Beryl G. Linnen of Stirling High School who will replace Miss Ruth Cerswell.

Lumber Stockpile 2 Private Homes Destroyed in Fire

Digby, N.S., April 24. (CP) —Fire which destroyed a lumberyard cookhouse, damage two nearby private homes and gnawed into a $50,000 lumber stockpile was brought under control early this afternoon after high winds shifted.

There was no immediate estimate caused by the fire during which four alarms called out most of the town's 1,600 residents as volunteer fighters. Fire equipment came from the former Deep Brook naval base ten miles away.

The fire broke out about 3.30 a.m., and with strong winds blowing, sparks and glowing embers were carried to buildings near the H. T. Warne Limited Lumber Company cookhouse. The cookhouse was reported a total loss and lesser damage was caused to residences owned by Hugh Vincent and Mrs. J. H. Bishop.

At no time were there fears for the C.P.R.-operated Digby Pines hotel, situated about two miles away in the northern end of the town.

At the height of the blaze, efforts were concentrated on saving the lumber stockpile and preventing speared of the flames to the lower lodge, a former hotel purchased recently by H. T. Warne. Only a caretaker was in the building, about 75 yeards from the fire, at the time.

Digby is situated on the Annapolis Basin across from Saint John, N.B., on the Bay of Fundy.

Byron Lott, 91, Outstanding Figure in Hastings County, Dies Following Car Accident

Byron O. Lott, Rawdon township's Grand Old Man, died in the Belleville General Hospital late Wednesday afternoon following a motor car accident on Sunday last near Springbrook. He was in his 92nd year.

In the death of Byron Orson Lott an outstanding figure in the township of Rawdon and in the entire County of Hastings has been removed, and a life, the span of which neared closely the Century mark, and was an important link between the present times and the days of many years ago, has ended. He possessed a vast and interesting store of information concerning the pioneer days, learned from his own experience and from his people, who were early settlers in this county. His great grandfather Lott came to Canada from Scotland in 1796 and settled on lot 10 in the second concession of Sidney township. Here he commenced to clear the land of forest and make a home for his family. He was injured when cutting timber and died in 1809, leaving his wife and four small children.

Born on Homestead

It was on this old homestead that Byron O. Lott was born on July 23rd, 1855, his parents being Andrew Orson Lott and his wife, Sarah Baker. His mother's people were United Empire Loyalists, having come to Canada from Vermont and settled at Hay Bay. In 1868 Byron Lott's father moved to Rawdon township and for the past seventy years Byron resided there, being a Sidney man by birth and a Rawdon man by adoption. He was a good farmer and on his place he had an excellent trout pool, the benefit of which he generously and graciously invited many of his friends to enjoy. His grandfather in his day, kept bees and eventually Byron Lott became interested in this industry and in time established an apiary which was second to none and the product of which was widely known for its excellence. In the Ontario Beekeepers' Association he took an active part and was a director for many years and also held at one time the office of President.

Politically Minded

In the affairs of the township of Rawdon and of the County of Hastings Byron Lott took a keen interest during his active years and served with distinction as Reeve of the township and as a member of the County Council. In politics he was a staunch Liberal and on three occasions he contested the Riding of West Hastings, as it was constituted at that time, for the Ontario Legislature, but was defeated by the Conservative candidate. He was a formidable opponent in a political battle; he was, however, a good loser when the result was against him, and when the fray was over, he was a friend of all, no matter the nature of their political creed or their nationality. In the activities of the West Hastings Liberal Association he was a valued worker and held the office of president for the past six years and up to the time of his death.

Byron Lott liked people and he had the gift of attracting them to him. His happy disposition and friendly manner won for him a host of friends and acquaintances and there was no man better known in Hastings County than was he. He was a genial and interesting companion and by many close friends he will be much missed for a long time to come.

He was an ardent hunter and every Fall saw him preparing for the bush for the annual deer hunt. His last hunt took place last November.

Tendered Banquet

At the time of his 91st birthday anniversary he was tendered a complimentary banquet by his friends at Hotel Quinte and on that occasion he was presented with a handsome gold wrist watch.

In religion Byron Lott was a member of the Church of England, and fraternally he was a Past Master of Stirling Lodge No. 69 A. F. & A. M., and of Keystone Chapter No. 72 R. A. M., Stirling.

Byron Lott came of a long-lived family; one grandmother lived to the age of 104 years; his grandfather lived to 96 years; his grandmother Lott lived to 97 years and his mother lived to 95 years.

Surviving him is one sister, Mrs. Blanche Reynolds of Trenton. Mrs. Ida Denton of this city is a niece. His wife, the former Emma Brown, died in 1939.

Resting at the Pinkston Funeral Home, Church Street at Victoria Avenue; the funeral announcement is made in this edition.

Dr. Oliver Hewitt Speaks to Anglers, Hunters on Ducks

Dr. Oliver Hewitt, Dominion Wild Life officer, speaking to a large gathering of anglers and hunters at the Y.M.C.A. on Wednesday evening stated that the duck population of Canada was being rapidly depleted and that banding areas were being set up to watch the migratory tendencies and also that the hunting season for ducks is liable to be curtailed until the duck population has been increased. Blame for the decrease was given as drought, cool periods in nesting time and loss of some vegetation in certain area. A moving picture of different kinds of birds on the coast of Labrador and lower St. Lawrence River was shown and was quite interesting and instructive.

Dr. Hewitt told of a trip he made through the breeding areas and found the migration to Thunder Bay district last year the poorest ever known, in Southern Ontario good but fewer ducks, James Bay utter lack of birds, eastern Ontario breeding excellent but fall flight very light. "In most cases it was seen that the breeding marshes were drying up" said the speaker. He stated that in a tabulation taken in 1943 a total bag of 12 million ducks was taken and 125 million ducks left, in 1944, 20 million taken and only 105 million left, in 1945 26 million taken and 80 million left, while in January in 1946 there were only 54 million to migrate and only 20 million would pair up and they would bring down from the north 80 million young ducks. "It can be seen" said Dr. Hewitt "that we must watch carefully."

Population Decreasing

The geese population is also decreasing the speaker declared and in the breeding grounds last year only one-quarter of what should have been raised were reared and this was caused by the early spring followed by a cool nesting season. George Wallbridge, chairman of the membership committee stated there were now 937 members, 600 of whom had paid their dues. Fred Croft explained the prizes that will be awarded during the year and explained that only those paid up in the association at the first of May would be eligible to compete. He asked all anglers and hunters to be helpful to the game wardens.

Maurice Callaghan announced there would be a picnic down the bay this summer and some worthwhile prizes would be competed for. A basket lunch will be served at the noon meal. Dr. Blakslee stated that 200 applications were made for restocking. When the death of Byron O. Lott was announced the secretary was instructed to write a letter of sympathy to the relatives. A fitting tribute was paid by the president Elmer Sandercock. A skeet club will be organized under George Brown.

Housewives Deny Organization Is Communistic

(By The Canadian Press)

Leaders of the Housewives' Consumer Associations which sprang up across the country in wartime to battle shortages and red tape were up in arms today over charge by the Winnipeg Free Press that the organizations were led by Communists.

The Winnipeg newspaper said Winnipeg had become central headquarters "of the Communist-led housewives organizations of Canada."

The charge was primarily directed at the Manitoba Housewives Consumers Association. The newspaper said that "two prominent Winnipeg Communists were named executive members of the Canada-wide organization".

First of all two executive members of the Manitoba body said they were quite aware that President Mrs. Anne Roos, and Mrs. Margaret Chunn who had been the Association's delegate to an Ottawa conference, were members of the Labor-Progressive Party. But the executives said that both had been elected in open meeting as housewives, not as Labor-Progressives.

These were other house-wifely comments:

Mrs. Charles Farow, secretary of the Regina Branch; she herself is not a Labor-Progressive, and the delegation of western members to Ottawa included "some very high Liberals".

Mrs. A. C. Latham of Moose Jaw: "It seems you can't raise your voice in protest about anything any more without having a charge of Communist levelled at you".

Mrs. William D. Croy, Vancouver: "The Association was founded in an effort to bring down the cost of living and at no time have politiics entered into discussions by our group. And that stands for the whole of Canada".

Mrs. Anne Arland, Toronto: "If we are Communists, then there are a lot of Communists in Canada."

Man Shot During Police Probe Of Break-in

Windsor, Ont., April 24—(CP)—Albert Blockson, 43, was seriously wounded early today when shot in the back by one of two police constables investigating a break-in at the Essex Packing Company, Ltd., plant on downtown Mercer Street.

Hospital attendants said the man's condition is critical.

Police said Constable James Lynd fired one shot at Blockson after the man ignored a shouted warning to halt.

Doctors said the bullet entered Blockson's back near the base of the spine and came out in the upper part of his abdomen.

Despite his grave injury, Blockson put up a struggle before the policeman could handcuff him, detectives said.

Harold Blockson, 42, a brother of the wounded man, was taken into custody at his home two hours after the shooting and was held for investigation.

Constables Lynd and Sidney Stuart went to the meat packing plant in response to a call from a citizen.

When Blockson, carrying a flashlight, emerged from the washroom, he spotted Constable Stuart, turned around and ran back toward the window through which he allegedly entered, the constables said.

Conference Ends In Disagreement On Major Issues

Moscow, April 24 —(AP)—The Four-Power conference of foreign ministers, in session since March 10, ended today in disagreement on all major German and Austrian issues.

State Secretary Marshall expressed disappointment that the council had failed to reach agreement on the Austrian treaty and the American-proposed Four-Power pact to keep Germany disarmed.

The next meeting was set for London in November, but there was a possibility that the four foreign ministers might meet earlier in New York, during a session of the United Nations General Assembly.

NEW YORK STOCKS

New York, April 24 — (AP) — A few stocks continued to exhibit quiet strength today although the market, as a whole, furned in an indefinite performance.

Sluggishness ruled after a fairly active opening. While favorites tacked on fractions to a point or so, losses of as much were plentiful near the fourth hour.

Ahead most of the time were Union Pacific, Goodrich, U S Steel and Bethlehem.

Lower at intervals were Montgomery Ward, Goodyear, Chrysler, American Telephone, Anaconda, International Harvester, Douglas Aircraft, General Electric, and Standard Oil (NJ) and Texas Co.

Distillers Seagram, up 3/8 at mid-day, led fractional gains among Canadian issues. Dome Mines gained 1/4 and Canadian Pacific 1/8. Hiram Walker was unchanged.

Durnford Smith Appeal Against Conviction Loses

Toronto, April 24—(CP)—Handing down decisions on two appeals against convictions arising from the inquiry into operations of a Russian-sponsored spy ring in Canada, Ontario Court of Appeal today dismissed the appeal by Durnford Smith but quashed the conviction of James Scotland Benning.

Smith, a 34-year-old physicist who made a considerable contribution to Canada's wartime development of radar, was sentenced last Dec. 27 to five years in penitentiary for conspiring to give confidential information to Russia.

A 33-year-old native of Montreal, Benning also was given a five-year penitentiary term after a jury in Ottawa found him guilty last Oct. 30 of communicating confidential information to Russia while he was an official of the Wartime Munitions Department.

Tale of German Surrender Related By Col. Warren

Hamilton, April 24. —An intimate and revealing word picture of the historic unconditional surrender ceremony engineered by Field Marshal Lord Bernard Montgomery on May 3, 1945, which actually ended the fighting in the Second World War was given by Col. Trumbill Warren, O.B.E., of Toronto, to the 104th anniversary meeting of the St. George's Society of Hamilton last night.

Col. Warren witnessed the ceremony as personal aide-de-camp to "Monty" at that time. His detailed description of the important event, which preceded signing of the official surrender papers by two days, together with a number of intimate glimpses of Montgomery's character, was one of the most graphic eyewitness accounts of the war heard locally since war's end.

Addressing the traditional St. George's Day dinner in Eaton's Green Room. Col. Warren took his audience to that eventful scene on Luneberg Heath where Gen. Admiral Friedeburg, Commander-in-Chief of the German Navy; Gen. Kinsel, Rear-Admiral Wagner and Major Friedl were forced to stand at attention under the Union Jack for 25 minutes waiting for the "Little Man" (Montgomery) to make his appearance.

Col. Warren contrasted the appearance of the Germans in ornate full dress uniform with decorations and gold braid with the almost nondescript appearance of "Monty" who chose to wear for the historic occasion a gray, turtle-neck sweater given him by the New Zealanders, faded slacks, brown Oxfords and his famous black beret "which he wasn't entitled to wear." What's more the British Field Marshal had his hands in his pockets as he strolled up to the Nazi big-wigs.

"Little Chap" Was Perfect

"The little chap couldn't have arranged it better if he had rehearsed it all his life," Col. Warren said of the way Montgomery arranged the meeting with the high-ranking Germans, who came to him, not to surrender, but to ask for food for civilians and to call off the Allied night bombers.

The speaker described the two-hour meeting during which "Monty" reminded the Germans of the French refugees in 1940 and of the bombing of Coventry, and how he persuaded them to return to the headquarters if the German High Command at Flensburg to get authority for the unconditional surrender.

In humorous vein he said that Major Friedl was Hitler's personal aide or "spy" and of Montgomery at first refusing to have anything to do with him because "I don't talk to majors." —(Globe and Mail.)

NBC Drops Feud With Comedians

Hollywood, April 24 —(AP)—A National Broadcasting Co. spokesman announced today that radio programs over the NBC network would no longer be cut off the air for reasons which caused the brief muzzling of comedians Fred Allen, Bob Hope and Red Skelton.

"This is not a formal statement," the spokesman said. "It's simply a change of policy."

The company laughing off its display of sensitivity, further said Allen was being offered an honorary vice-presidency of the network and that offers of west coast honorary vice-presidencies would be made to Hope and Skelton.

The action came as virtually every comedian in town was preparing to contest the issue, and Red Skelton, who chattered into a dead microphone for 12 seconds Tuesday night because he referred to the Allen matter, commented: "There are always other networks."

Much of the conjecture today revolved around how, if at all, Jack Benny would handle things next Sunday. He's never kidded vice-presidents, but has spent years in a friendly feud with Allen. Benny simply commented:

"I don't see what the fuss is about. From the joke I read in the papers, I can't see any objection."

Dedication of a Princess

Her Royal Highness Princess Elizabeth in her pledge of dedication on her twenty-first birthday to the service of the Commonwealth sounded a note which must have impressed the youth of the Empire with the duties that rest on all to play their valiant and devoted part. And not to youth alone did the message come but to all. Here the Princess after one of the greatest experiences that can fall to her, the tour of one of the great portions of the far-flung British Commonwealth, and on the day on which she came of age, had a message for everyone, of faith in the future, of the comradeship in freedom of the various parts of the Empire.

Her Royal Highness places a task before the youth and she calls it "surely a great joy to us all to think we shall be able to take some of the burden off the shoulders of our elders who have fought and worked and suffered to protect our children."

Then her address goes on to sound the note of triumph and confidence, "We must not be daunted by the anxieties of our own Commonwealth. We know that these things are the price we cheerfully undertook to pay for the high honor of standing alone seven years ago in defence of the liberty of the world."

To the Princess and to youth, difficulties will be seen as opportunities for service.

The high idealism which the address radiates in every word is found in such words as these: "if we go forward with unwavering faith, a high courage and a quiet heart we shall be able to make of this Commonwealth which we all love dearly, an even greater thing — more free, more prosperous, more happy and a more powerful influence for good in the world — than has been in the greatest days of our forefathers."

And then she added these significant words, "to accomplish that we must give nothing less than the whole of ourselves."

She referred to the knights of old who at their knightly dedication made their vow as they came to manhood and said "I can make my solemn act of dedication with a whole empire listening. I should like to make that dedication now. It is very simple.

"I declare before you all that my whole life, whether it be long or short, shall be dedicated to your service and the service of our great Imperial Family to which we all belong, but I shall not have the strength to carry out this resolution alone unless you join in it with me, as I now invite you to do.

"I know that your support will be unfailingly given.

"God help me to make good my vow and God bless all of you who are willing to share it."

Did ever a Princess make so direct and powerful an appeal or so charming a dedication to a life of service as to a great and glorious heritage in the Commonwealth of Nations! Her dedication and her appeal for the co-operation of all in the achievement of the Commonwealth's glorious destiny for mankind gave the assurance of her faith that that destiny will be attained by the Commonwealth in its service to all the world.

Denmark: Her People and Kings

Denmark, which is a true kingdom in the spirit of monarchs and of its people, has long been known in history. Her people are very largely Danes who possess the characteristics of their Viking ancestors. The country is a constitutional monarchy, her people are industrious and kindly. In the great world of markets Denmark has in agriculture made for herself a reputation throughout the world. Being largely a maritime power of many islands and situated on the Baltic and North Sea she naturally has developed her fishing to become one of the largest fishing enterprises in the world.

This maritime nation once had a powerful navy and in 1801 one of the greatest battles in naval history was fought at Copenhagen between the British and the Danish fleet, the latter being destroyed to prevent it falling into Napoleon's hands.

The Danes, like their Viking associates in Norway, Sweden and Iceland, have had a long and famous history. Early in British history three tribes from Danish territory or from near Danish territory invaded Britain and remained to unite with the British people. Numerous places in England bear names of Danish origin, the marks of Viking visits.

In the days of the Renaissance Denmark became the locale of one of the greatest of the works of human genius, the drama, "Hamlet," of Shakespeare, still the most famous play ever written.

The Viking spirit of her people and her kings embodies the spirit of freedom and liberty for which Denmark has always stood. The late King Christian X was the very embodiment of Denmark's spirit. This great ruler whose name will live for he was relentless in his enmity to the Hun invader succeeded in sticking barbs into the conqueror. Once the enemy hung a swastika banner from one of the federal buildings and the Danish monarch showed himself a very king, like the Viking chiefs of old as he said "I will send a soldier to remove it" (the banner.) The enemy replied the soldier would be shot. King Christian said, "I am the soldier." He did not neglect to let Hitler know how little he thought of the detestable and recreant Fuehrer.

Such a nation as Denmark is guarded by the memory of a noble ruler who remains an inspiration for his peaceful people, lovers of peace but defiant of the Nazi attempt to quell the Danish people and their spirit. The Danes and their King in spite of the Nazi occupation were a triumph over the Nazi barbarian leaders, for the Danes were the very spirit of the forces that were battling to crush the aggressor. Together Denmark and King Christian have been a great people and a great sovereign and this kingdom can look to the future proudly and confidently through the fine example of her line of Kings and the noble history of her people. They occupy an honored place in world history.

Value of Cancer Research

There are quite a few things in this world that money can't buy — and a cure for cancer is one of them. Lack of money is not the bottleneck in cancer research, according to authorities in this field, but rather lack of trained scientists to press forward the numerous lines of research which must be followed up before we find the answer to the cancer mystery. More important than money in training these young research workers is willingness, aptitude and time.

The man who heads the biggest research-financing body in the world, Raymond Fosdick of the Rockefeller Foundation, points out that the war years, 1939-45, contrary to public belief did not represent a period of general scientific advance. Actually, says Fosdick, scientists during the war concentrated on developing practical applications for existing knowledge, digging recklessly into the stockpile of basic discoveries which an earlier generation had developed.

In his words, "The gap between knowledge and use in science is always narrow war closes the gap almost to the vanishing point." Only pure research can contribute to our stock of basic knowledge, warns Fosdick and today there is an alarming shortage of adequate personnel in almost every field that requires advanced thinking.

The Canadian Cancer Society in its national campaign this month seeks to emphasize to every Canadian the need and the opportunity that exist in the field of cancer research — the need for many more cancer research fellowships and the opportunity to win for Canada more glory in a field where Canadians like Banting and Best have lifted high our nation's name.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

How should Chinese names be written?

In Chinese surnames are always written first and that order is usually followed when they are written in English. For instance, in "Sun Yat-sen," "Sun" is the surname, while "Yat-sen" corresponds to the Occidental first, given or Christian name, as it is variously called.

According to the prevailing and accepted practice, when a regular Chinese name is written in English the surname is written first and capitalized, while the two parts of the given name are hyphenated with only the first part capitalized: as, Chiang Kai-shek, Li Hung-chang and Chan Tso-lin. The hyphen connecting the two names, though established by English usage, is unnecessary and meaningless from the Chinese viewpoint. If the Chinese turned the tables on us they would write John-paul Jones, William-henry Harrison and Franklin-delano Roosevelt. To the Chinese the correct English usuage would be Sun Yat Sen, Chiang Kai Shek and Li Hung Chang.

As a rule Chinese surnames consist of only one syllable, although several hundred of them are dissyllabic. When a Chinese has such a surname the conventional English practice is to use two hyphens in writing his full name; as, Ssu-ma Hsiang-ju. In such cases only the first part of each hyphenated compound is capitalized in English.

If a Chinese has only two names both are written in upper case without the hyphen—Chiang Hung.

In abbreviating regularly formed Chinese given names such as Sun Yat-sen, Chiang Kai-shek, Soong Tung-liu and Ssu-ma Hsiang-ju, the Anglicized order is usually followed and the surname written last; as, Y. S. Sun, K. S. Chiang, T. L. Soong, and H. J. Ssu-ma.

Many Chinese, in addition to their regular name, have a "familiar name" by which they are known to members of their family and friends.

When Wu Chao-chu was Chinese minister to the United States he Anglicized the order of his name and subscribed himself Chao-chu Wu.

"Confucius," the popular name of the ancient Chinese philosopher, is really not a Chinese name at all; it is the Latinized form of "K'ung Fu-tze," meaning "the Master K'ung." Likewise "Mencius," the popular name of another Chinese sage, is the Latinized form of "Meng-tze," meaning "the Master Meng." His Chinese name was Meng Ko.

HEALTHIER PROVINCE

Halifax (CP)—Health of Nova Scotians is better today than at any time in history. Government statistics for 1945 show a lower general death rate while tuberculosis deaths were down, and infant and maternal mortality rates showed "important decreases."

POISONOUS PANS

Montreal (CP)—Buying second hand frying pans might be dangerous, city police warn. Recently they said, 28 pans were stolen from a feright car. They were quick to add that the pans were used to carry metal bromide and food cooked in them might be poisonous.

VITE FOR GROWING CHILDREN

At a risk of boring readers but in the hope of benefiting new readers, I'll define vite—incidentally the word was coined by two readers who collaborated with me in the task. It is pronounced to rhyme with kite and is not to be confused with the French musical term vite which is pronounced to rhyme with meet and means quickly, lively. I never heard of the musical direction until years after we had coined the word vite, to mean:

Preservation of the characteristics of youth, better-than-average nutritional condition as manifested in lower death-rates, better growth and development of the prime of life in both directions, material improvement of the life expectation of adults, higher average level of positive health throughout the life cycle, greater pep, more vitality, the highest degree of natural immunity, an adequate fund of reserve power to tide over emergencies and strains, the resiliency of the untamed animal of the primitive savage.

There is not a word of hokum in the definition, as for example such as "resistance," which, apart from immunity means nothing—or anything a dispenser of the old hokum bunkem pleases to have gullible people think it means. We do know something about immunity, for instance immunity to diphtheria but certainly no one knows a thing about "resistance" if the trick term is meant to imply universal immunity or immunity against more than one specific disease.

Vite is all of that. However we can call it just better-than-average nutritional condition, for that generally implies everything else mentioned in the definition, whether in child, youth or adult.

As the V-I-T-E Spells Youth booklet (for copy send twenty-five cents and stamped self addressed envelope) explains, a good many of the weaknesses and defects occurring in children and youths are due to nutritional deficiencies. In the great majority or instances of such conditions as spinal curvature, fatigue posture, weak ankles, juvenile anemia, moping in the early 'teens, low shoulder, high hip red, shiny pointed tongue, slow growth and transverse ridging, pitting, fragility, thinness of the nails and poor condition of the hair, in children and youths, are manifestations of nutritional deficiencies, not just one deficiency but insufficient daily intake of half a dozen elements.

To prevent or correct such conditions I recommend, first, a regular diet patterened after the basic health diet; and second, to supplement the regular diet with thiamine, riboflavin, vitamin D, calcium, phosphorus and iodine. The more refined the everyday diet, the greater the young person's need for such a supplement—which is not medicine, but essential food.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Overdose, Eh?

Doctor here assured me I have been misinformed when I said nature takes care of any excess of vitamins a person might take, without ill effect; he said he had a patient in the hospital who was probably suffering from overdose of vitamins. (D.C.J.)

Answer—Probably leaves the way open for escape. So far as any vitamin preparation available to the public may be concerned, you are right, in my opinion. I doubt that even enormous quantities of synthetic vitamin D—a million units or more daily—do any harm—certainly the case a few "authorities" try to build up rests mainly on their inferences—it has not been scientifically proved that "overdoses" of vitamin D cause calcification of tissues or organs.

For The Children's Sake

Please send me your leaflet about growing pains. Thanks to your teachings we got through the last two pregnancies without being sick—the first two times I suffered so much from morning nausea and....we have four children, 10, 8, 4 and 1 year old. (Mrs. A.V.B.)

Answer—Instructions for management of morning nausea in the booklet "Preparation for Maternity"—available on written request if you inclose twenty-five cents and stamped envelope bearing your address Pamphlet on "Growing Pains and Adult Tetany" free if you provide stamped self addressed envelope. Now, then Ma'am, how much too often do the children develop the cri?

Fuddy-Duddies

Please send your pamphlet on bed-wetting. My six-year-old son ....Don't let the old ffuddy—du ....Don't let the old fuddy-duddies down. There are thousands of us who need your sensible teaching and hope you will conduct your column for many more years.

(Mrs. F.J.T.)

Answer—Thank you, Ma'am. Sticking along with it is not all beer and skittles—and that reminds me, here it is almost draw time—I'm off to the bowling green.

WHAT TO DO

During the question period, External Affairs Minister St. Laurent advised the House Canada had not been invited to attend meetings of the United Nations Military Staff Committee which is attempting to draft plans for an international police force.

He also said there had been no communications since the Second World War between Canada and the United Kingdom and other Empire countries on the question of a common defence policy.

Veterans Minister Mackenzie said the government did not plan to amend the Veterans' Allowances Act this session.

In the Commons' Japanese debate, Lt.-Col. Cecil Merritt, V.C., called for a definite announcement of government policy with respect to Oriental immigration. If the policy was acceptable to British Columbia and if that province had assurances it would not be changed much of the pressure would be taken off the Japanese remaining in Canada.

Thomas Reid (L — New Westminster) said he would like to see the question of what should be done with the Japanese left up to the people of British Columbia.

William Irvine (CCF — Cariboo) said the fishing - licence order was contrary to Canadian Democratic principles and had international implications which might result in embarrasment to Canadian delegates at international conferences. Canada could not have one law for Japanese-Canadians and another for all other Canadians. Japanese were human and would respond to humane treatment.

Rev. J. H. Mathews (CCF — Kootenay) said Canada could not get rid of minorities unless she became anti-social and did things of which Canadians might well be ashamed. The solution to the problem could be brought about by making the Japanese and others Canadian citizens.

WEDDINGS

MASON—DOXTATOR

Spring flowers and ferns made a beautiful setting in the Salvation Army Citadel for the wedding, at half-past-two o'clock on the afternoon of April 19th., of Thelma Evelyn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Doxtator of Carrying Place, and Douglas Stanley, son of Mr. and Mrs Mason, Everett Street, Belleville, with Major Earl officiating for the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a graceful gown of white slipper satin with a yoke of nylon and long pointed sleeves. Her fingertip veil was held in place with a coronet of net and lilies of the valley, and she carried an arm bouquet of American Beauty roses.

Miss Clara Way as bridesmaid, was the only attendant, wearing a floor length gown of pink lace, with matching headdress and carried a bouquet of sweetpeas and forget-me-nots.

Mr. Allen Austin was groomsman and the ushers were Mr. Leslie Doxtator, brother of the bride, and Mr. George Ellarby.

The wedding music was played by Mrs. J. Green, and during the signing of the register Miss Eliza Bell sang "I Love You Truly."

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the Sunday School Hall which was attractively decorated for the occasion. The bride's mother received in a dress of turquoise with brown accessories, and wore a corsage of sweetpeas. She was assisted by Mrs. Mason Sr., wearing a dress of Queen's blue lace, with navy accessories and a corsage of sweetpeas.

For travelling to Toronto by motor, the bride chose a suit of navy blue wool, with matching accessories, and wore a corsage of pink roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Mason will later take up residence at Carrying Place.

Women's Guild of St. Andrew's Church Holds 'Spring Time Tea'

Under the auspices of the Women's Guild, with Mrs. W. M. Barlow and Mrs. J. The guests were received by Mrs. J. G. Hornsby and Mrs. W. Mantle, president of the Guild.

In the central floor space allotted to the "tea room", twin tea tables were attractively arranged with identical lace covers centred with crystal bowls holding slender sprays of snapdragons in shades of rose and white; pairs of tall, jade green tapers in crystal candelabra standing guard over the trays of delicious sandwiches and a variety of dainties.

Mrs. E. Ford invited the guests to the tea room, where Mrs. J. W. Kinnear, Mrs. W. E. Fletcher, Mrs. W. Douglas, Mrs. R. W. McGee, Mrs. C. J. Fisher, Mrs. M. Ward, Mrs. W. McCreary and Mrs A. McCullough poured the beverage.

On a table at one side in charge of Mrs. Bell, Mrs. Thompson and Mrs. Kane novelties, small useful household articles and some cut flowers were offered for sale, while the "mecca" for all guests was the table displaying the products of the homemakers' culinary art, which included a large assortment of cakes, cookies, muffins, biscuits, buns, rolls, pies and tarts, with jars of canned fruits, jellies, pickles and relishes added for good measure. This table was convened by Mrs. A. Hill, with Mrs. F. McKeown, Mrs. O. W. Waldorf, Mrs. F. Cormier, Mrs. E. W. Elliott, Mrs. S. Wood and Miss Bessie Beatty assisting.

SINATRA OPTION NOT RENEWED

New York, April 24 — (AP)— Lennin & Mitchell, advertising representative for P. Lorillard & Co., announced yesterday that the company would not renew the option in the contract with Frank Sinatra for his Wednesday night program on the Columbia Broadcasting System after the June 4 broadcast. The discontinuance, the agency said, was entirely a "cold business proposition," and was due to an "unsatisfactory program rating for the price we were paying for the show."

ONT. C. S. PAY BOOSTED

Toronto, April 24 — (CP) — The Ontario government has granted pay increases to between 4,000 and 5,000 civil servants effective April 1, it was learned yesterday. Increases range from $100 to between $300 and $400 annually, based on individual recommendations.

Home and School Assoc. of K.G. School Meets

The King George Home and School Association held their regular monthly meeting in the auditorium of the school on Monday evening, April 21st.

After the singing of "O Canada" Mrs. McCullough welcomed all the members and expressed a hope that we might still obtain our aim—one hundred paid members for 1947.

The various secretaries presented their reports.

A resolution on "Inadequate Housing" was read and approved with Mr. Fairman suggesting that the full resources of the Federal Government be brought to bear upon the solution of this problem.

The new slate of officers was presented and adopted by the association.

Mrs. Watt, school nurse, explained the visiting Home Makers' service, which is sponsored and financed by the local Red Cross. Any home, where there are children, (the mother being ill), may avail themselves of the service, of a trained worker, not too young, who has been trained in the care of children, preparation of the meals, marketing and light household duties with a small salary paid for a week or ten days. Through this service, from nine a.m. until five p.m. the father is enabled to continue his work. The club voted in favor of this service being established in the city.

The attendance award was won by pupils in Miss Allen's and in Mrs. Bristol's room.

Mrs. Meldrum, delegate to the Home and School convention, held in Toronto during Easter week, gave a very full and comprehensive report.

The theme of the convention was "Education for One World". Many new ideas and valuable aids were presented such as health examinations, blood tests, cancer control, visual aids, radio activity and Home and Adolescent Education.

42,000 Members

There are 42,000 paid members of the H. & S. Associations and these provide a wide field of opportunity to help the children of today develop into democratic citizens. Trained leaders are needed for youth must have a pattern to guide and protect their emotions. Peace waits upon the home. The appreciation of the club for this fine report was expressed by Mrs. McCullough.

The guest speaker, Miss Dane was introduced by Mr. Fairman.

Miss Dane spoke on her experiences in suburban Essex during the war covering the period of the flying bomb and rocket plane.

The food situation, evacuation of the children and the teaching program were covered quite fully.

More Fruit Needed

More fresh fruits and milk products are needed from our vast supply, which is sometimes wasted. Many Britishers would be glad to come to Canada.

Miss Dane in closing expressed her enjoyment during the past while teaching in Belleville. This small friendly city is preferred to the larger ones. Closed with best wishes for the club's success in the coming year.

Mrs. Lovelace thanked Miss Dane for her address.

After singing the National Anthem, Mrs. Bolton and her assistants served doughnuts and coffee.

Contempt Fine May be Refunded To Mine Workers

Washington, April 24. (AP)—So far as the United States government is concerned, John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers (A.F.L.) can have its $2,800,000 contempt fine refund.

An official familiar with policy-making on the issue disclosed this today as justice department and union lawyers awaited a second appearance before Federal District Judge T. Alan Goldsborough.

The hearing, postponed from two weeks ago, was ordered to determine whether the U.M.W. has complied with terms of the Supreme Court decision remitting the bulk of the penalty.

The government's position, the official told a reporter privately, is that whatever Lewis' actions may have been in the last few weeks, his personal fine is not involved now and the union appears to be in full compliance.

Goldsborough fined the union $3,5500,000 and Lewis $10,000 for ignoring a restraining order and permitting the 17-day soft coal strike to begin Nov. 21.

The judge had demanded that Lewis withdraw his notice to interior secretary Krug terminating the union's contract with the government as of Nov. 20. The miners traditionally don't work without a contract, so the shutdown became effective the next day.

On Dec. 7 Lewis called a truce until March 31 to permit the supreme court to consider his appeal without the "public hysteria" he said would surround a prolonged mine shutdown.

The high court ruled March 6 that the union could get back all but $700,000 of its fine if the original notice to Krug were withdrawn—in effect eliminating any threat of a strike April 1.

Lewis, whose personal fine was left untouched by the tribunal, complied to the letter on March 19. But on March 25, an explosion at Centralia, Ill., killed 111 miners, and the U.M.W. president ordered a six-day "memorial" shutdown to begin on April 1.

This was followed by an additional "safety shutdown" of most of the industry.

GALES PREVENT DOCKING

London, April 24 —(CP)— The liner Mauretania, with 400 guests aboard, waited for the fourth successive day for weather to permit her to dock at Liverpool. She has been sheltering from severe coastal gales since she set out for trial runs preceding her scheduled departure for New York Saturday.

It was believed this departure now will have to be delayed.

FISH ON THE MOVE

Grimsby, England — (CP) — Trawler skippers returning to Grimsby and Hull report that fish are moving away from their usual grounds and their new "home" has not yet been discovered. Some scientists say the North Sea is rapidly becoming "denuded of fish" through over-fishing.

South Africans Give $800,000 For Flood Relief

Capetown, April 24 (Reuters)—Princess Elizabeth received more than $800,000 in cheques for flood relief in Britain from the people of South Africa today, beforethe Royal Family were due to sail for home in the battleship Vanguard after their 7,000-mile tour of the Union.

The Vanguard was due to leave Capetown this afternoon, and the whole city was expected to turn out to see the Royal Family drive in state from Government House to the quayside.

Everything now is ready on board the Vanguard for the 17-day volage to Portsmouth, England, where she is due May 11. It is 82 days since the party left England.

In a farewell speech today, Prime Minister Smuts said "never in the history of this, your South African Dominion, has there been such a wave of personal and national emotion as your visit has stirred among us.

"The immediate experience has been tremendous and its after effects will endure and became part of the history of this land. They will continue as a beneficent influence moulding our life as a nation.

"We can but thank you from the bottom of our hearts for this privilege of your visit, and for the opportunity which it has given us to demonstrate to you the strength of our gratitude and our affection and devotion to the Royal Family."

Torrent of Water Pouring Down Niagara River

Niagara Falls, Ont., April 24—(CP)—The Horseshoe Falls and the American Falls looked more like their old selves today, with the ages-old torrent of water pouring down the Niagara River but bearing broken ice from a great ice bridge which had formed at the river's Lake Erie inlet at Port Erie two days ago.

The unusually warm weather coupled with favorable winds saw the great ice bridge, at one time 14 feet deep, slowly disintegrating yesterday and by the early hours of this morning the main portion of the ice was moving slowly downstream. Smaller chunks of ice had been carried swiftly to the falls and the whirlpool from yesterday afternoon on.

Officials on both the Canadian and the United States side of the river expressed relief that the danger to the big power plants below the falls was over. That danger was posted by the possibility of large masses of ice jamming into the urbines inlet.

The warmth yesterday resulted in the ice bridge at Fort Erie softening so that it was breaking into not too formidable pieces. Occasionally there was a small sized floe, perhaps 10 or 12 feet across, floating along, but most of it was much smaller. The ice was soft enough to be smashed as it went over the cataracts.

Three or four more days will be necessary for all the ice to be swept through the river out into Lake Ontario but if the mild weather continues officials saw no prospects of trouble.

End is Forecast Present Sellers' Wheat Market

London, April 24 (Reuters)—Britain's refusal to sign a proposed international wheat agreement can only mean that the government believes the end of the present sellers' market for wheat is in sight. London observers today considered it a wise move.

The long-term wheat agreement made with Canada was based in the first place on wheat at $1.59 a bushel of 60 pounds weight at Fort William, Port Arthur or Vancouver. Britain is getting Canadian wheat at this price at present and adjustments will be made in later years to accord with supply and demand conditions

This level is entirely out of line with present United States values which are around $3 a bushel for No. 2 hard wheat on spot and $2.50 for delivery in May.

Grand traders in London expressed the opinion that it would therefore be "absolutely foolish" to make agreements with other countries at fixed prices related to present world price levels, especially in view of Britain's serious economic position.

Traders believe the long run of sellers' market for wheat may be nearing the end as crop prospects in the United States suggest that America will have a record wheat yield in 1947 following the long run of record-beating crops.

In addition the Argentine government may be forced by the internal opposition of farmers to its policy of buying from them cheaply and selling abroad dearly to change its views of dominance in the world wheat opposition.

Thus it would appear that a resumption of negotiations later might have more success in a world price atmosphere more in keeping with consumers' views.

Demonstrating the ease of handling of the new McCormick-Deering farm tractor is Johnny Meyers, son of Harold Meyers, general manager of Truck and Farm Supply, Ltd. Truck and Farm Supply Ltd. Officially Opens New Building

Presenting an ultra-modern appearance throughout and boasting a frontal trimness that would do credit to an uptown departmental store, the new building of Truck and Farm Supply, Ltd., South Church Street, will have its official opening on Friday and Saturday of this week.

Truck and Farm Supply Ltd., with Don Stanton as president and Harold Meyers as general manager, will carry a full line of International Harvester Company farm implements and motor trucks as well as home accessories and will specialize in the repair and maintenance of trucks and farm equipment.

Containing a total of 7,500 square feet of floor space, the new Truck and Farm Supply building is constructed of concrete blocks and measures 50 by 154 feet. The building is divided into three main sections comprising showroom and parts department, the repair and maintenance department and a section at the rear which will be used for storage and for setting up farm machinery.

Boasting of modernistic appointments throughout the front of the building is graced with wide show windows with plans calling for ultimate covering of the front with vitrolite. Over the front entrance will be the widely-recognized insignia of the International Harvester Company.

But it is inside the building which shows the appointments designed for efficiency on part of the personnel and for convenience on the part of the customer. The showroom itself is 50 by 50 feet, fully lighted by fluorescent lighting and with washroom facilities for the convenience of the customers. Here is contained the parts department with its myriad of shelves containing every imaginary part for all types of the company's farm equipment. Parts for each type of machinery are kept in individual sections for convenience in serving customers.

The service department of Truck and Farm Supply Ltd., is under the capable direction of Harold Regensburg who has a staff of four Class "A" mechanics specially trained in truck overhauls and tractor repairs. The garage department of the building measures 50 by 84 feet and has an overhead entrance door which will accommodate the highest transport. The service department is also equipped with fluorescent lighting, while the entire building is heated with automatic unit heaters fired by an oil burning furnace.

One of the features of the service department is the thought which has been given for the convenience of employees. Individual lockers are provided for all mechanics while the service department washroom includes a shower bath. Mechanics will thus be encouraged to leave greasy coveralls on the job and return to and from their work in clean clothes.

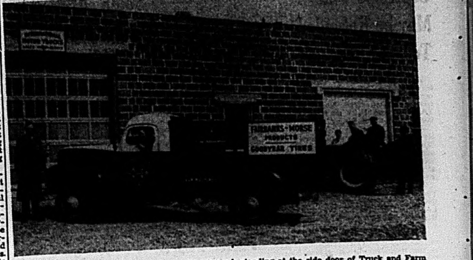
Provision is made for ultimate extension of the service department to include part of the storage space at the extreme west end of the building. Eventually a spur railroad line will be extended to the building, thus permitting unloading of railway car directly at the door.

Another feature of the Truck and Farm Supply Ltd. is the unlimited parking space which will be offered for customers' automobiles.

Besides stocking all International Harvester products, including motor trucks and McCormick-Deering farm implements, the firm will carry International refrigeration units for farm use as well as Gibson refrigerators. Fairbanks Morse water systems for both deep and shallow wells, pumps, gasoline engines and appliance lines such as Deforest radios and Gainaday washers will be carried on display.

Spraymotor spray equipment for orchards and general spraying and weed control will be carried as well as Shell Oil products. Goodyear truck and farm tires will be specialized.

Friday and Saturday will be the official opening of the new firm with Friday being designated as "motor truck day" and Saturday as "Farmers' Day". The general public is cordially invited to visit the new plant, especially the agriculturally-minded from the rural districts in the Bay of Quinte area.



The above picture shows an International truck standing at the side door of Truck and Farm Supply, Ltd., with Donny Stanton, son of the company president, in the cab. Standing at the door is Harold Regensburg, service foreman, while in the background are Earl Morgan, stock manager; Charles Doyle, assistant stock manager, and Walter Strange, service mechanic.

PATROLMEN ALMOST MISS BALL

Denver, April 23 — (AP) — Patrolmen Ira Marlotte and C. Martin Johnson attended the Policemen's Ball as scheduled last night — but a skunk almost kept them away.

Cruising in suburban Denver, they came upon the skunk. Denver policemen can't shoot skunks — they have orders to bring them to the city zoo alive.

They trailed the skunk for 3 blocks, and breathed a sigh of relief as he ambled into adjoining Arapahoe county. Then they turned back to the ball.

APPARENTLY LOCKED UP IN THEATRE

Toronto, April 23 — (CP) — The frantic parents of four-year-old Bryan Fox accompanied police on a five-hour search of the Parkdale section of West Toronto last night after the boy was missing from his home. A police constable finally noticed young Bryan peering wistfully from inside the locked glass door of a neighboring movie theatre. The theatre manager had to be called from his home to release Bryan, who apparently sneaked into the show about 7 p.m. and remained unnoticed in his seat when the theatre was locked for the night.

Whitehall Notebook

By JAMES McCOOK
(Canadian Press Saff Writer)

London, April 24 (CP)—What's going to happen if a woman ever becomes speaker of the House of Commons? Will members have to refer to her as Mrs. Speaker? Or possibly Miss? Or Madam?

These questions may be remote but they are causing concern to some Pundits, who point to the fact that for the first time in history a woman—Mrs. Florence Paton, Labor member for Rushcliffe—is chairman of a parliamentary committee. She is referred to as "Madam Chairwoman."

Edward P. Smith, Coservative member for Ashford, who was an ordinary seaman in the first World War and now is an author, fanned the argument with a letter to the newspapers in which he suggests the proper title would be "Madam Speaker."

Women's voices too light?

"But I hope very much that women will never be elected to the office of speaker because their light voices are no match for the bullying acoustics of the (Commons) Chamber," he added

With more than 20 women in the Commons few members will deny that woman speaker is a possibility. Mrs. Paton, for instance, displayed profound knowledge and had recognized all members on both sides of the House before she took over her committee. Her nomination as a committee chairman came from the speaker, Col. Douglas Clifton Brown, an authority on Parliamentary manners.

Rats!

The legend-laden Parliament buildings have their memories even of rats and mice that sometimes come up from the Thames and make themselves at home.

They remember the woman member of parliament, in the middle of an eloquent speech, abruptly leaving the chamber because she had seen a mouse. At another time, two cats provided to fight the rats and mice, ambled into the chamber during a debate on milk.

In the Lords rests the table of the peers who came to the upper House with the highest hopes of his people who thought he had the makings of statesman. When 25 years had passed, his friends checked the Lords hansard and found his sole contribution to the debates had been:

"I say, I say, there's a dog got into the House from somewhere."

PHOTOGRAPH MADE TO GIVE UP PHOTOGRAPH

Knoxville, Tenn., April 24 — (AP)—Leopold Stokowski refused to conduct the New York Philharmonic Symphony in a concert at the University of Tennessee until a photographer gave him the negative of a photograph taken of his wife, Mrs. Gloria Vanderbilt Stokowski.

The concert was delayed 10 minutes.

Warns of Forces Aiming to Destroy Basis of Liberty

London, Ont., April 24—(CP)—There are organizations in Canada "whose objective is to destroy those basic principles upon which our government, our way of life and our fraternity is founded," R. V. E. Conover of Brampton, Ont., Grand First Principal of the Grand Chapter of Royal Arch Masons of Canada Wednesday told several hundred Masons at the chapter's 89th annual convocation here.

Convocation opened with traditional ceremony, with Masonic leaders from many parts of Canada and the United States attending.

"Forces today are attempting to gain political control of our governments by inducing our people to gradually surrender their individual rights," Mr. Conover warned. "These forces work under the disguise of aiding the underprivileged. The attempt of the forces of dictatorship to induce people to sacrifice their liberty on the false promise that they can thereby achieve social security constitutes one of the greatest dangers mankind has ever faced."

"We must carefully watch for any insidious attempts upon our civil and religious liberties as it usually appears in a sugar-coated form," he said.

Mr. Conover announced award of 50-year and 25-year service jewels. Four Western Ontario Masons received 25-year awards, John Semple of Stratford; T. H. McLaren, of Galt; G. M. Binks of Guelph and Samuel Halfyard of Kitchener.

Grand Scribe Edwin Smith in his report said that the Grand Chapter had raised $31,535 for the Victory Thanksgiving Benevolent Fund during 1946. Membership at the end of last year was 17,624 with a net gain of 537.

Helicopter Puts Cowhands To Shame

Yakima, Wash., April 23 (AP)—A helicopter put the old "cowhands to shame in the annual Buffalo roundup on the foothills grazing ranges northeast of here.

After the mounted cowboys were able to locate only part of the 60 head of the O. D. Gibson herd yesterday, pilot Tommy Hall took to the ranges in his helicopter. He soon flushed the stragglers out of their hideaways.

FAILURE TO AGREE IN VERDICT

Toronto, April 23 — (CP) — After deliberating for more than five hours a jury under Chief Justice J. C. McRuer late last night reported failure to agree on a verdict in the charge against Buck Lee of attempting to bribe a police officer. Accused was alleged to have offered $500 a month to Sgt. E. Walker of the Toronto police morality squad for an agreement that the police would stop raiding his premises in Chinatown.

Lieut. Governor Pays Visit To Kiwanis Club

Lieutenant Governor Elmer Cogswell of the Quebec-Ontario-Maritime district of Kiwanis International paid his official vist to Belleville club at their weekly luncheon at the Hotel Quinte on Tuesday. He was accompanied by Wady Macnee, attendance secretary of the district, who paid a sincere tribute to the local club for their increase in attendance during the first two months of this year over the same period last year. Jack White, president of the club welcomed a number of boys from the Collegiate Institute, who are interested in forming a Key Club in conjunction with the men's organization. A number of the members and their wives will journey to Kingston on Thursday night to attend the Ladies' Night sponsored by the Kingston Club. The party will journey eastward in Rawson's bus.

A new member was introduced and initiated into Kiwanis in the person of Bill Riley, photographer in this city. He was introduced to the club members by Harold Craig and initiated into comradeship by Past Lieutenant Governor Cliff Baragar. Mark Vanner was given a certificate of merit from Kiwanis International by the Lieutenant Governor in recognition of his outstanding work during his term of office last year. Wady Macnee presented a number of perfect attendance pins including Mark Vanner, Dick Kuntze, Albert Jones and Taylor Franklin one year, Dorland Houston, and Jack White four years, Ernie Finkle five years, Bruce Lattimer six years, Cliff Baragar nine years and Ross Stiver eleven years.

Speaks on Personality

The speaker was introduced by Mark Vanner and Kiwanis appreciation was expressed by Cliff Baragar. Mr. Cogswell spoke on the subject "Your Personality in Kiwanis" and claimed that he felt perfectly at home in the Belleville Club and congratulated the members in being interested in forming a Key Club. He stated that personality was an assembly of qualities, physical, mental and moral that sets you apart from others. He stated the Kiwanis world has a definite individualistic personality and to get the most out of Kiwanis one should attend the conventions either district or International.

"Each Kiwanis club has a personality and it changes from year to year," said the speaker, "and this change is due to the human element within the club." The change can be affected by the planning of the president and directors and the influence over the club by former members. Naturally there are a few back benchers who drag their feet but this can be changed by an active directorate." Mr. Cogswell stated that Kiwanis has something to sell to the public and when they promote a project the public must know it is for some good and when they promote a boys' camp or a baseball club they are trying to sell recreation for the kids. Members must love people particularly kids and have enthusiasm, cheerfulness and sincerity. A member of Kiwanis must have a wholesome smile for all especially the Reception committee and the president should be the dominant figure in the club at all times.

Must Have Perseverance

He claimed the chairman of the speaker's committee must have perseverance and tact and it will pay off in good attendance. The secretary must have an understanding of human nature and will power but must possess above all the formula for hard work. "Every club has a few members who are willing to do all the work" said the speaker, "but I would advise not to load willing shoulders." In closing the speaker requested all members to put themselves in the other persons place when a question has to be decided and then the personality of the club will really assert itself. Vic White led the community singing and Bill Navin presided at the piano. There was a large attendance at the luncheon.

EXCESSIVE PUBLIC 'NECKING'

TWIN BROTHERS UNITED FOR FIRST TIME IN 39 YEARS

George Green of California and William Green of Niagara Falls, employed in St. Catharines, met at the latter's place of employment. The men are identical twins and follow the same trade, that of typesetting.

Attlee Renews Battle to Win House Support

London, April 24 (Reuters)—Prime Minister Atlee on Wednesday renewed his battle to win unanimous support for the government's post-war conscription policy from rebellious members of his own party.

It was understood that he had a smoother passage than at his last meeting with labor members of Parliament on the same subject.

Some 40 Labor ministers still oppose all compulsory military service on conscientious or religious grounds.

Some others would like to limit the method of the conscription bill to two years instead of five and they have an amendment to that effect.

Another amendment supported by some Labor members would reduce the period of part-time service on the reserve from 5 1-2 to 1 1-2 years.

FOUR BOYS RESCUED

Calgary, April 23 — (CP) — Four young Calgary boys between the ages of nine and 12, were rescued by city firemen last night after the nightly rise of the Bow River marooned them on a small patch of land off Princess Island near the centre of the city. Their plight was discovered by a woman, who heard their frightened crying and notified city police.

REWARDED!

Buffalo, N. Y., April 23—(AP)—Taxi driver Leonard Grieco, 34, found a purse containing $300 in his cab yesterday and drove back to a railroad station to return it to its owner, a tearful elderly woman, who immediately rewarded him.

The reward: two nickels.

Little Benny's Note Book

Today was Nora's Thersday off, and ma was eating her grapefruit diet with a thawtful expression this morning, saying to pop, There's a new resterant up on the Avenue, William.

Yes, I noticed it, pop said, and ma said, Oh, really? It looks very attractive outside. It might be nice to try it some time, she said.

Meening today but not actually saying so on account of pop always claiming there's no place like home at meal times, and pop said, As a matter of fact I've been itching to try thath place.

Oh really? I mean really? ma said, and pop said, Yes, I took a squint inside, and it seems they've installed a hat check gerl in there, he said.

But I dont understand you've always insisted that the hat checking sistem in an imposition, ma said, and pop said, That's what I still insist, and when they get to the point of installing it in a little naborhood resterant, it's like holding you up with a gun on your own door step. I've got a mighty desire to go in that place and hand the gerl my hat and get it back from her when I'm through eating, and then walk out with a ferm tread and a high head without giving that gerl so much as a red cent, he said.

But William, you cant do that for land sakes, ma said. After all, there's no law against hanging fermly on to your hat and ignoring the gerl in the ferst place as she deserves.

That's the easy way out, and as a public spirited citizen I spern it, pop said. Bp gollies I'd like to try it out tonight, he said, and ma said, Now William, I'm not going to have you make us both look like 30 cents just to save a dime. Anyway, we're eating home tonight, so that's the end of it, she said.

The result being pop gave a bum imitation of looking disappointed.

Higher Butter Price When Subsidy Removed

Ottawa, April 24. (CP)—Butter may come out from under the retail ceiling of from 44 to 46 cents a pound should the subsidy on butter fat be removed April 30, it was learned last night in informed quarters here.

This shaped up as one course that could follow removal of the 8 1-2 cents a pound subsidy on butter fat, equal to about 10 cents a pound on butter and which the government has indicated will be abolished at the end of this month.

Another possibility, and thought most likely, is that a retail price increase will be allowed, equal to the amount of the subsidy or perhaps more.

Evidence that action is imminent on the butter price front comes with disclosure that the Prices Board has warned all holders of butter stocks to be prepared for an inventory.

300 Guerrillas Ambush Party of Greek Gendarmes

Athens, April 24 — (AP) — The Minister of Public Order said today that a band of 300 guerrillas ambushed a party of Greek gendarmes on the slopes of Mount Parnon, in the Peloponnesus, yesterday and that both sides suffered "heavy losses."

Press reports from Sparta last night said 70 of the gendarmerie party, estimated to number 90, were slain by a Leftist band believed led by Gen. Marks, alleged top leader of guerrillas in Greece. These reports said 63 guerrillas had been slain and that the remainder of the band retreated before army units.

A special meeting of the inner cabinet was scheduled for today to hear members of parliament from the southern Peloponnesus and to consider the abnormal situation there. Considerable fighting has been reported from that area recently, while the army is engaged in an all-out push against guerrillas in northern Greece.

Warden, Officials, Students And Junior Farmers Assist In Planting 30,000 Pines

Hastings County Council continued its reforestation project in Hungerford township north of Tweed when on Wednesday Junior Farmers, council members and county officials with agricultural students from Belleville collegiate combined forces to plant 30,000 red pines.

The county forest at Actinolite was started last year when council purchased an abandoned farm on the banks of the Skootematta River and planted 20,000 red and white pines. Junior farmers turned out last year to do the work of planting the trees.

Zone forester at Napanee, Mr. W. E. Edwards was on hand Wednesday to supervise the planting of the pines. As was done last year plow furrows were run across the sandy fields with two-man groups armed with shovel and a pail of young trees following. The trees were obtained through the provincial government forestry service and arrived at the scene of planting in ten large boxes each box containing approximately 3,000 pines

One of Two Started

The reforestation project at Actinolite is only one of two which has been started by the county. A second county forest is to be commenced at Bird's Creek in North Hastings where 20,000 pines will be planted this year. The county intends to plant trees each year until the two properties are completely planted.

County Clerk Erle S. Denyes and Reeve Charles Rush of Hungerford township were greatly instrumental in the county commencing its county forest project. In Hungerford a reforestation project has been carried on for some years. Both men were on hand Wednesday to assist in the planting.

Agriculture representative A. O. Dalrymple of Stirling and his assistant Harry W. Burns led the group of approximately 50 Junior Farmers who assisted in Wednesday's planting, while Mr. Robt. Phillips, agricultural class teacher at Belleville collegiate headed his group of about 15 students who also assisted.

Warden Present

County Warden Archie A. Harvie Mayo Township was on hand, as was Elmer Sandercock, president of the Belleville and district fish and game protective association. Also assisting in the work was J. Larkin, township road superintendent for Hungerford. Practically all reeves from the southern part of the county assisted.

In its initial tree planting venture at Actinolite last year the county ran into adverse weather conditions and with the district suffering an exceptionally dry year many of the trees planted last year died out through summer.

Zone forester W. E. Edwards estimated Wednesday that approximately 40 per cent of the trees planted last spring had died during the dry summer. This year groups of men were detailed to fill in where trees died out last year.

Seeding From Aircraft Not Effective Say Experts

By JACK AVESON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Winnipeg, April 24 — (CP) — Seeding from and aircraft may have its points under certain circumstances, but as a normal procedure it's outmoded by almost 50 years.

Such is the opinion of H. R. Richardson, director of the farm help branch of the Manitoba Department of Agriculture, who likens seeding from planes to the old broadcast method of farmers walking up and down furrows scattering grain kernels by hand. This method was abolished half a century ago when seeding equipment was invented.

Under certain conditions, however, such as those encountered this spring in the Estevan district in Saskatchewan, seeding can best be accomplished through use of a plane. But these conditions, says Mr. Richardson, are the exception rather than the rule.

The Esteven experiment was the first of its kind known to have been tried in Canada. The seeding, also the first reported in Saskatchewan this year, was over 200 acres of former strip coal mining land which it was hoped to bring back into cultivation with sweet clover.

Soil Too Moist

The soil was too moist for normal seeding methods, so P. C. Brown, federal agriculture inspector at Estevan, 120 miles southeast of Regina, flew over the ground in a single-engined open-cockit plane piloted by Ken Nicholson.

Within 10 minutes he had showered the seeds over the soggy ground.

For an operation of this type, or for seeding paddy fields with rice, planes prove useful, Mr. Richardson says, but when it comes to seeding fields with Canadian grains machines which keep to the ground do a much better job. The seed is immediately covered with soil by the latter method and danger of spoilage minimized.

Elimination of the plane as an effective vehicle for seeding does not mean, however, that farmers are completely discarding it as an aid to agriculture.

This summer a commercial airline company is planning to use helicopters to dust crops in a fight against insects, fungi and weeds in Manitoba. Farmers also use planes for business and pleasure trips and for checking on distant cattle herds.

Palestine Problem Will be Aired Before UN Session

Lake Success, April 24 (AP)—Top experts on Palestine problems converged upon United Nations headquarters today as the fast-working secretariat completed plans for opening the U.N. special session on Palestine next Monday.

Secretary-General Trygve Lie had fixed today as the deadline for the powers to turn in proposals to be heard by the Assembly.

Two major questions have been put on the provisional agenda upon which the Assembly must decide by a two-thirds vote. They are:

1. A British request for appointment of a special committee to prepare for consideration of the Palestine question at the regular session in September.

2. Identical requests by the five members of the Arab League who are U.N. States for the special session to consider termination of the British mandate over Palestine and the declaration of Palestine's independence.

The United States, Britain and several other delegations have indicated opposition to the second item. They insist that the special session must not go into the question itself beyond appointing the investigating committee.

The United Kingdom delegation expected the arrival today of two key men in its Palestine considerations—John Martin, assistant undersecretary of state in the colonial office, and Harold Beeley, chief foreign office expert on Palestine.

The Security Council has taken a back seat for the opening. No meetings are scheduled in the immediate future.

Fined for Driving at 76 Miles Per Hour in Town With Arm Around Girl

Port Credit, April 24 (CP)—Charged yesterday with driving through town at 76 miles an hour with his arm around a girl Philip Aiken of Port Credit claimed the girl hadn't seen any 76 on the speedometer.

"If you had your arm around her, she wouldn't be watching the speedometer," said the chief of police gallantly.

"Forty-six dollars and costs," said the Judge.

DISCARD BALLOTS

Belfast (CP)—More than 182,000 printed plebiscite ballots were discarded when the Northern Ireland parliament rejected the Belfast Boundary Extension Bill under which the plebiscite would have been held.

Few Restraints Placed on Former Kaiserin Hermine

Berlin, April 24. (Reuters)—A Soviet army officer escorts the 60-year-old Princess Hermine, widow of Germany's late Kaiser Wilhelm, whenever she goes to the theatre near her home at Frankfurt-on-Oder, 50 miles east of Berlin in the Soviet zone of Germany.

This, and the presence of a Russian woman interpreter who accompanies her on all her walks during the day, are the only restraints placed upon the freedom of the former Kaiserin, according to Baroness Von Arnin, who has just visited her.

The Princess lives with a two-year-old grandson in four rooms of a snug villa. A chauffeur-gardener, his wife and daughter work for her, as well as a cook and an interpreter.

D.D.G.M. Makes Official Visit To Masonic Lodge

Marmora — (Special) — The official visit of Right Wor. Bro. W. H. Gerrie, D.D.G.M., of Prince Edward District, to Marmora A. F. and A. M. 222 took place on Monday evening, there being a large attendance of local and visiting brethren for the occasion. A sumptuous banquet was served in the town hall at 7 p.m. by St. Paul's Ladies' Guild. Daffodils adorned the well laden tables. Wor. Bro. Clarence Bell, W.M. of the Marmora Lodge, presided as toastmaster. After "The King and Craft" had been duly honored, "Grand Lodge" was suitably proposed by Right Wor. Bro. C. H. Buskard, P.D.D.G.M. In reply Right Wor. Bro. Gerrie expressed deep appreciation of arrangements made for his visit and treated his hearers to a thoughtful discourse in the history of the Grand Lodge. Wor. Bro. H. W. Sabine ably handled the toast, "Visiting Brethren." Responses to this were forthcoming in the lodge session subsequently held in the Masonic Hall. Wor. Bro. W. L. Burke proposed "Marmora Lodge" and after Bro. C. Watson had submitted the Junior Warden's toast, members repaired to the Masonic Hall where the D.D.G.M. gave another interesting address following the raising of a candidate to the second degree. Visiting brethren were present from Madoc, Stirling, Belleville, Peterborough, Montreal and other lodges.

Big Moose Obliging, Poses For Photograph

Marshall' Corner, N.S., April 23. (CP)—Arthur Weatherby and Herman Murray have found a new subject for their camera. The two noticed a big bull moose drinking at a brook, got out of their automobile and patted it. They then drove 12 miles and returned with a camera to take pictures to prove the story. The moose, alive of course, was still there and as friendly as ever as he posed with Weatherby as Murray snapped the shutter.

JAIL DEER SLAYER

Yorkton, Sask (CP)—Sentence of two months in jail on a charge of hunting deer during the closed season was given John Cyr of the nearby Lestock district when he appeared in R.C.M.P. court.

Wants Agreement To Protect Ducks

Washington, April 24 (AP)—Representative Francis Case (Rep.—S. D.) wants an international non-agression agreement to protect ducks.

He told a reporter today he has asked Elmer Peterson, South Dakota State Game Commission director, for suggestions on a plan to help out migratory birds—mainly ducks—when they fly south for the winter.

The problem, briefly is this: Canada and the United States have strict regulations on hunting seasons, but Mexico, Cuba, and Central American countries do not.

"Regardless of what conservation measures are taken in Canada and the United States, when the birds get into Central America little is done to protect them," Case wrote to Peterson.

Study Immigration And Labor Problem

Ottawa, April 24 —(CP)— A. L. Jolliffe, the government's director of immigration, said Wednesday his branch and the department of labor "are actively engaged in determining the labor requirements in agriculture, mining, lumbering and logging with a view to bringing to Canada from Europe immigrants in these classes where it is established their services are required."

Appearing before the Senate Immigration Committee to give a resume of steps taken by Canada to open her gates to foreigners, he said "the matter of the admission of domestic servants is also under consideration . . .

"It is not possible to select immigrants in many countries at present; the main source of supply for any bulk movement of the classes of labor admissible is displaced persons in occupied territory."

Mr. Jolliffe said "the chief obstacle to an extensive immigration movement this year is ocean transportation. While it is not possible to estimate accurately the number of British subjects in the United Kingdom who are awaiting the opportunity to proceed to Canada, it is certain that the number coming forward will be limited only by the steamship accommodation and not by any lack of prospective British immigrants."

The transportation situation was "extremely disappointing and every effort is being made to obtain the release of additional ships for the Canadian service to supplement those known to be available for the Canadian route this year."

Immigrants will be brought to Canada on two liners this summer, the committee was informed and negotiations now are proceeding in an effort to obtain more.

Dr. H. L. Keenleyside, deputy resources minister, said "we are doing all we can through our high commissioner in London to ensure making additional transportation facilities available this year."

Mr. Jolliffe said there are some 5,000 applications by Canadians to bring in European relatives.

Auto Workers Want Straight 15-Cent Increase

Detroit, April 24 —(AP)— The United AutoWorker's (C.I.O.) 200 man National General Motors Council voted unanimously to demand from the corporation a straight 15-cent hourly wage increase without any strings attached.

General Motors turned down the 15-cent union proposal following a 2½-hour extraordinary negotiating session Tuesday night.

The U.A.W.'s top negotiators will take the council's ultimatum back to another conference with the corporation.

Rejection of General Motor's latest offer of 11½ cents hourly wage hike and an additional 3½ cents for six annual holidays pay came in a voice vote by the National Council after President Walter Reuther strongly recommended that action.

LAND IS READY

Peace River, Alta. —(CP)— Alberta Lands Minister N. E. Tanner, says that 6,000 acres of the northern Alberta veterans' land settlement scheme have been cleared and ready for breaking. Allocation of the farms, he says, will be made this summer.

Little Benny's Note Book

This was Nora's day off on account of Thersday, and this morning at breakfist ma said to pop, William, how would you like an unusual serprise for dinner tonight

There's nothing like a good serprise, tell me all about it, pop said, and ma said, Well I've been reeding about the virtues and advantages of a vegetable diet, and it seems everybody owes it to themselfs to eat a strictly vegetarian meal at least once a week.

It sounds like a splendid idea, vitamins and minerals salts and all that sort of thing, pop sid, nd m said, Well, that's wonderful, I hardly expected such a reddy response fro myou, qou're such a confirmed meat and potato man.

All meat and potato men are broad minded, my dear, pop said. Never marry any other kind, he said, and ma said, I'll try it today. I clipped out a wonderful all-vegetable menu. Of course it's a lot of trubble, with ground nuts and cream sauces and melted cheese and I dont know what all, but I'm sure I dont mind as long as you're willingg to try the experiment, she said.

And tonight we didn't have anything but all different kinds of vegetables for dinner, and pop ate 2 helpings of everything and claimed they all taisted swell, and ma said, I've just got fruit for dizzert, it seemed like the ideal crowning touch, dont you think so, William?

Well yes, for you and Benny, but now that you ask me, I think I'll whip up a little special vegetarian dizzert for myself, pop said, and ma said, Why, what what kind of dizzert, William?

It's a little hard to explain, but I'll show you, pop said. The base of it is peenut butter? he said.

And he went out in the kitchin and started to make frying sounds and ma said, Well for land sakes it smells like bacon.

Being a perfect guess, and pop came back eating a bacon and peenut butter sanwitch.

Not being quite the end of the subject.

Truman to Visit Canada Shortly Says Mr. King

Washington, April 23 — (CP)— Prime Minister Mackenzie King said today that President Truman plans to visit Canada "very shortly."

The probable date was reported as June 10.

The Canadian prime minister told reporters after a 30-minute call on Truman at the White House:

"I received with delight his (Truman's) assurance he will visit Canada shortly. No definite date has been set. Details will be given out when completed."

The Canadian Prime Minister said the president will visit Ottawa and he may possibly make other short trips from there. Present White House plans are for the president to travel by train.

It was recalled here that Truman told a press conference, just before Viscount Alexander came here in February, that he had not been formally invited to visit Canada, and that the day the Governor-General called to say goodbye he announced he had formally invited Truman to visit the Dominion.

The Canadian prime minister earlier had issued a general invitation to Truman.

Fear One Of Troubles Of Today Says Bishop, 'Substitute Faith'

London, Ont., April 23—(CP) Archbishop C. A. Seager, Metropolitan of Ontario, today told the 60th annual meeting of the Huron Diocesan Board of the Anglican Women's Auxiliary that "one of the tragic undercurrents of the world today is fear."

"Substitute faith for fear," he advised. "Substitute confidence and courage for cowardice, not for a show of bravado but because we believe in God."

REPORT DENIED

Toronto, April 23 —(CP)— Reports of a pending strike against two Great Lakes steamship companies, were denied today by officials of both companies and the Toronto office of the Canadian Seamen's Union (A.F.L.), bargaining agents for the seamen employed by the companies. An Ottawa report (not carried by The Canadian Press) credited T. G. McManus of the C.S.U. with charging that the two companies involved broke agreements made last season.

U.K. Worms Spun Regal Silk Robes

By RATNA GUPTA

Kynsford, Kent, England. — (Reuters)—Nearly 4,000,000 silkworms will soon be spinning for Britains smallest industry at the Lullingston Castle silk farm in this small Kent village.

The farm is the only one of its kind in the United Kingdom. Lady Hart Dyke, director, told me when I visited it: "Our annual production of silk is 1,200 pounds and the demand for it is tremendous. We have orders on our books which will keep us busy for the next ten years."

The success of the Lullingstone silk farm, which is being expanded to set aside considerable land for growing mulberry trees, has encouraged other people to consider silkworm farming as a profitable industry. Lady Hart Dyke said: "As Britain has been importing tremendous amount of raw silk from abroad for many years, it is obvious that there is great scope for home production.

"Though I started silkworn rearing as a hobby, its potentialities were so attractive that my farm now employs 22 girls all the year round."

Lady Hart Dyke founded the Lullingstone Silk Farm, Ltd., in 1932 with a capital of $80,000. Since then, 8,000,000 cocoons have been exported to Australia, the Bahamas ,the United States and Denmark.

Spun Royal Robes

Her silkworms spun the threads for the robes worn by the King and Queen at their coronation in 1937, and for the dresses of Princesses Elizabeth and Margaret.

Price of silkworm eggs rose about 50 per cent during the war but that did not matter as the price is negligible —a few shillings to an ounce; and each ounce contains as many of 36,000 to 40,000 eggs.

Lady Hart Dyke explained that the Lullingstone silk farms pass the raw silk to weavers for making up. "Ours is a silkworm industry and this in itself absorbs our entire attention, leaving no time to concentrate or experiment with other phases of silk industry."

Instruments used at the farm for getting silk strands from cocoons are the invention of Sir Oliver Hart Dyke. They are very simple but more useful than tools in use in other countries. Girls employed on the farm are exceptionally skillful, specialization being a necessity in handling the cocoons and the strand in any form.

Lady Hart Dyke said thtat mechanical devices have almost killed small-scale industries of this type. "I am dreaming of the day when the silkworm industry gets a solid footing in Britin," she concluded.

How To Break up "Jellied Groups" at a Party

Dear Mrs. Beeckman;

A group of my friends and I would like to have your opinion about a procedure another friend of ours has at her parties. She and her husband give quite a few large parties either late—afternoon or evening on Sundays and we all agree that they are wonderful hosts. But they are the only people we know who of guests who have settled down to enjoy one another; and some people resent this. What is your opinion about this way of doing?

H. C.

I'm completely enthusiastic about the social procedure of your friend and her husband at their parties! It takes social finesse, often a good deal of courage and always a "seeing eye" to break up what friendsETAOIN break up what a friend of mine calls "the jellied groups." It's so simple, and wise, for a hostess or host to go over to a group of people who have tenaciously remained together for a too-long time and who have taken no responsibility about circulating and sharing in the give-and-take of hospitality and friendliness. Too often it's a group of intimate friends who naturally flock together and selfishly stay together or it may be a group of women who are talking together or a group of men who have "bogged down" to be exclusive. The clever hostess or host breaks up such a group by going up and, with some graceful remark ("I want so much to have you and Joan Robbins know each other..won't you please change seats with Mr. Atwater?") takes a guest over to another group.

Which Silver Piece To Use Next?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I'm always uncomfortable(to put it mildly!) when I go to dine in a restaurant or particularly when I dine in a home where there is perfect service (we live very simply) when I am confronted with a row of silverware at the sides of my plate. Is there any rule about the order in which these are used?

Florence M.

When a table is set properly, as "in a home where there is perfect service," there is absolutely no need, dear lady, of your being flustered about the order in which you should use the silver-pieces. For you will find the forks (except the oyster fork) on the left of the plate, and the knives and spoons(and the oyster fork, if one is needed) on the right of the plate....and they will be placed in the order in which you will need them for the menu that is to be served. (The desert/silverpieces will not not be on the table when you sit down, for these are brought in with the dessert course, the dessert fork on the left of the dessert plate, the dessert spoon on the right of the dessert plate.) And this is the easy thing to remember: begin with the silver-piece farthest from the plate, and progress toward the plate. If you have any doubt as to which piece of silver to take-up or how to eat a certain food served, look (as inconspicuously as possible) at what your hostess is doing and follow her lead. .

In a restaurant the procedure is not so sure, for the waiters are apt to put on several types of silverpieces and trust to your judgment to choose the one you consider the most convenient! However, even though you can't always depend on the proper sequence of the silverpieces on a restaurant table, don't let this worry you either.... just pick up the most logical silverpiece and use that.

SMOKING COURTESY

You may insist that smoking relaxes you, but no hostess wants you to be so relaxed that you don't know the exact location of an ashtray!

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

When Talking, What's Your Line?

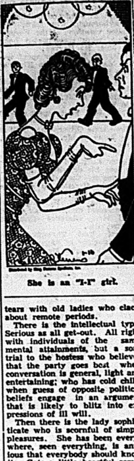
"She's lovely to look at," remarked a man. A real beauty. She dances divinely. When she walks she seems to float through the air. But when she opens her mouth to speak you want to make a quick getaway. She is an I-I girl. I did this,, I went there, I think thus and so." And you think, So what?' She'll tell you all about her family and her dog and her travels, and not a single word is of the slightest interest to anyone but herself. Some poor guy will fall for her good looks, and die an early death from boredom."

Well Let's think about that. Don't most of us talk about ourselves too much? Not the slick lady; she doesn't. She starts a conversation with 'How are you? How have you been? What are you up to?" giving the other person a chance to blab along happily and decide that she has a most interesting and compelling personality. Easy as pie. Simple as that. Wunnerful!

Conversationally, women belong to certain types. Their subjects usually follow certain patterns. We have the gay, sparkling, vivacious girl—and she's fun if you don't have to listen to her for too long a time. She has a quick wit, and there's no telling what she is likely to say. One of her own type will enjoy being with her, but the dull soul won't be able to keep up with her, may not even understand her.

Her opposite is the long-winded droner. If she is elderly, she may be given to dwelling on the good old days. She mumbles on and on, usually in a low-pitched voice that makes one drowsy. If she catches you in a corner where you can't get away, you're done for. Nobody will come to relieve you. They've been stuck themselves.

Because one is old is no reason why one should be tiresome. There are women of seventy or over who are young in spirit, are great fun. Their observations are keen, their sense of humor still lively. They are living in the moment, don't care about the past; in fact, they are bored to tears with old ladies who clack about remote periods.



She is an "I-I" girl.

There is the intellectual type. Serious as all get-out. All right with individuals of the same mental attainments, but a sore trial to the hostess who believes that the party goes best when conversation is general, light and entertaining; who has cold chills when guess of opposite political beliefs engage in an argument that is likely to blitz into expressions of ill will.

Then there is the lady sophisticate who is scornful of simple pleasures. She has been everywhere, seen everything, is anxious that everybody should know it. Gets a little boastful sometimes, and that does not increase her personally rating.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

A Reader Misunderstands My Viewpoint on the Alcoholic Husband

A reader who signs himself "A Doctor" writes to take me to task for the advice I gave recently to a woman who was having trouble because of her husband's drinking and his affairs with other women. She told of her vain efforts, through pleading and tears, to get her husband to reform, and she said that, if she were to leave him, she would be able to support herself and her two children.

My advice to her was that she stop crying and pleading and tell her husband, just once, that unless his behavior showed a decided change for the better, within a specified time, she would leave him.

My correspondent says that I made "a very bad mistake" in this advice. He says that a drunkard is a sick man, that he hates his wife telling him that he is a drunkard, and that his wife is probably "just as much guilty of making him drink as he is in doing it." And then he says, "He should be made to see the danger of drinking by being told, not by his wife, but by a friend that he has faith and trust in. He is sick in the mind and should be treated as a man who has T.B. or any other disease. The subject of a doctor (sic) of the mind should be brought up to him only when he wants to quit, not before". And then he adds, "I know that I would hate to have the knowledge on my mind that maybe your column was the final step for a drunkard's wife and the one thing that ruined a possibly happy marriage."

It may be my fault that this reader misinterpreted my viewpoint in this matter. I certainly agree with him that a drunkard is a very sick man indeed, and would not suggest that a woman leave a drinking husband as long as there were hope that he would change his ways. But my correspondent himself implies that such a man can be helped only "when he wants to quit," which is exactly right. And, until he does not want to quit, I don't think that a wife with two small children to consider should be exposed to the misery, and often the dangers that are inherent in such a situation. I think, instead, that to leave a man who apparently does not want to quit drinking may sometimes be the very thing that may start making him want to. For, as long as his wife goes on accepting the situation, he is content with it himself and sees no reason to change. If she gives him such a reason, by breaking up his home, she might accomplish more ultimate good than by going on in the ordinary routine.

Of course, my correspondent has ignored the fact that this particular husband was also having affairs with other women. He also forgets, perhaps that I did not tell this woman to leave her husband for good, but simply to do so until her husband decided what sort of life he wanted to live. The choice is then up to him and, if as my "doctor" friend puts it himself, he "wants to quit", he can find help in doing so and possibly reconstruct his marriage.

"Y" ATHLETES COMPLETE WINTER PROGRAM

(Contributed)

Every week for 11 weeks, the boys in the membership at the Y.M.C.A. have taken part in one athletic event.

With the schedule of events now completed, the "Y" announces the winners, who are to receive their awards shortly. Some fine marks were made during the schedule, mention of which has been made in these columns from week to week, and a list of the winners in each event follows at the foot of this item.

More interesting today, however, is the list of the boys who have won the all round total point championships.

For the sake of competition, the boys worked in three classes, being their regular gym groups, Preps, Juniors, and Intermediates. The events were scored according to the scientific scoring chart, and the total points gained by the boys in the entire series of events has determined their total standing. Some of the boys have been good enough to have missed one or two events and still be up in the top group. Doug. Parsons, who won the Prep Championship missed the standing high jump. Jack Doig missed the pullups and managed to cop second place; Jack Matthews, who finished third, missed the 5 potato race; Larry Wood missed the 8 lb. shot, and Norm Mitchell missed the 225 yards, to finish 4th and 5th respectively. In this class, however, no boy was present for the full 11 events.

Bill Johnston missed the 225 yards but finished on top of the Junior group, and George Bongard managed to get fifth place after missing three events, the 60 yards, standing broad and Sargent vertical jump. Glen Cornell, 2nd, Buddy Batchelor, 3rd, and Norm Boothby, 4th, were present for all events.

The Intermediates took only 10 events, missing the 8 lb. shot. Laurie Button also missed the 5 potato race, managing to cop 1st place; Doug Walmsley was second, missing the running high, 5 potato, and pullups; 3rd place went to S. Creeggan who missed the running high; Don Rose was fourth missing the 225 yards, and Bruno Lepore, who finished 5th., missed the pullup contest.

Total point scores for the winners were:

Juniors: Bill Johnston, 130.59; Glen Cornell, 113.74; Buddy Batchelor, 96.54; Norm Boothby, 86.44; George Bongard, 83.15.

Intermediates: Laurie Button, 86.18; Doug Walmsley, 83.10; Stan Creeggan, 79.61; Don Rose, 76.56; Bruno Lepore, 74.74.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON

The Kibitzer

You are not to blame for being a better bridge player than your partner. The crime is in telling him so. When you know the responses to two bids, there is a temptation to wise up your partner.

In answer to an opening bid of two in a suit, two no-trump is the negative response. What does it negative? It simply denies having a sure trick; an ace or K Q as help for a slam.

Such a negative response does not deny having a biddable suit. Nor does it deny having adequate support for the suit the opener has bid. Such things are shown in later rounds of bidding.

A positive response to an opening two bid is any bid except two no-trump. What does it positive? It admits having a sure trick. The sure trick is not necessarily in any suit so far mentioned.

The positive response may be a takeout to your own biddable suit. With no such suit, it may be an assist in the suit partner has bid. With no-takeout or assist, it is a bid of three no-trump.

Whether the first response is negative or positive, subsequent bids follow the order of choice in T-A-N; takeout, assist, no-trump. Responder already has announced whether or not he has a sure trick.

Partner opens with two diamonds when you have this hand:

♠J 8 4 3
♥K J 9 5
♦K 3
♣A 6 4

First reply with a takeout to two hearts; a positive response. The fact that you did not say two no-trump admits that you have a sure trick. The fact that you bid hearts says it is a biddable suit.

If your opening partner then bids two spades, your second bid is an assist to three spades. You simply follow the order of choice in T-A-N as long as it seems practical.

After you assist spades, partner will no doubt bid four no-trump; the ace and king asker. Your reply will decide his slam decision.

Your frankest exposure gives parnter composure.

MERALOMAS TAKE ONE-GAME LEAD OVER ASSUMPTION

Travel-Weary Purple Raiders No Match for Vancouver Team in Cage Tussle

By JIM McCREADY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Vancouver, April 24 —(CP)— With only six men dressed for action, Vancouver Meralomas took a healthy one-game lead over the travel weary Purple Raiders of Windsor's Assumption College last night in the first game of the best-of-five Canadian Senior Basketball finals.

Despite the absence of both their first-string guards, the 'Lomas took a slim lead in the first quarter and steadily piled up their margin to a thumping 76-49 count at the final whistle.

Mindful of the effects of the long train trip on the eastern crew, coach Hunk Henderson declined to predict an easy series victory for his team.

Trailing 14-11 at the end of the first quarter, the Raiders were still in the fight at half-time with a nine-point deficit. But the homesters had a 21-10 edge in the third frame and loss of high scoring Freddy Thomas on five personal fouls hampered the losers' drive in the final session.

Big Ole Bakken sparked 'Lomas with a personal output of 24 points closely followed by Jack Pomfret with 20.

Forward Ivor Wynee, the locals' set-shot specialist, was next in line with 16 points, contributing three sparkling field goals to the winners' third-quarter drive. Thomas with nine points was top man for the visitors.

Windsor coach Red Nantais said he had no complaints about the refereeing of Len Leach and Lou Zeiger but added that he would like to a switch in the second game "on general principles."

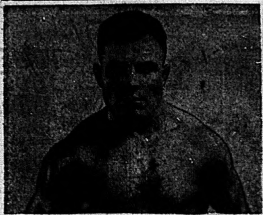
SHORT-LIVED AT PRICE

The Colossus at Rhodes, erected in 280 B.C. and destroyed in 224 B.C., cost about $258,000.



Iron-muscled John Katan, well-known in pachydermic circles in this city and district, slowly quaffed the egg-nog. "So, he smiled," here we are back in Belleville. And I'm glad to see the good people that so well love me to hit that canvas, eh? Well, tell them that John Katan, Old Fingers himself, has yet to hit the canvas through the efforts of a better man."

"McCready," the big Ukrainian snorted, shooting forth little geysers of egg-nogg between his teeth. "Yeah, sure, I remember the name. He's a wrestler — or is he. So he's the gentleman who stayed an hour with this fellow Watson here last week. Well, he can rest assured he won't be working that long Saturday night. After all, I want to get home, and I'll be there early."

"Same old guffer," guffawed the "Moose" (McCready's the name) "I beat Katan in Belleville before — and I'll do it again. He's getting soft or something, and I'll pin his ears so far back you'll be able to join 'em with a paper clip."

And there you have it. The two bigsters tangle in Memorial Arena here Saturday evening at nine o'clock, and they headline a highly attractive wrestling card. 'Irish" Tom Collins meets Toar Morgan in the semi-final, while Mike (The Body) Sharpe, the handsome dog, tangles with Bulldog Drummond.

CANADIAN SPORT SNAPSHOTS

By JIM McCURDY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Vancouver, April 24 —(CP)— Repercussions of the Western Allan Cup playoffs still echo on the pages of daily newspapers.

Don (Trail Times) Fleming takes the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association to task for action they took on player replacements for both Winnipeg and Calgary in the final series.

He cited player replacements for the Western finalists, and then reported on action taken by the C.A.H.A. in reply to a request from the Moncton Hawks, Eastern semi-finalists, for aid after a bruising series with the Glace Bay Miners for the Maritime championship.

He quoted from a column in a Moncton paper: "When several of the Moncton Hawks were battered . . . it was a matter of thumbs down from C.A.H.A. officials. When feelers were sent out in regard to the possibility of bolstering Hawks' lineup, it was 'too late' in the season for such a request to be granted. It appears to be a question of pressure . . . and from whence requests are made whether or not, favors are granted by the C.A.H.A.

Fleming, while saying that the action taken by the C.A.H.A. doesn't seem fair, also says he wants to see the Allan Cup come as far West as possible and concludes: "Even though the chips are falling on our side of the fence, it's a very cheap ruling."

Sports Roundup

By ALAN HARVEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York, April 24 — (CP) — In celebrity-conscious New York, where a man enjoying a peaceful haircut may suffer unmentionable indignities from a barber who suddenly sights Ingrid Bergman outside his shop, one appreciates the special difficulties of the men and women who trail clouds of glory as they come . . . Even in sport, the fierce white light that beats about the throne can be burdensome enough for a name player like Ted Williams, who seems to have soured on his sycophants already, or Joe DiMaggio, who seldom leaves the Yankee dugout until half an hour after his teammates leave, and still can't shake the crowd.

On the Spot

W. C. Heinz of the New York Sun, a former war correspondent only recently assigned to the sport beat, strung along with DiMaggio one day, from the knot of youngsters outside Yankee Stadium to the curious crowds at Penn Station en route to Philadelphia.. In his sensitive, smooth-moving prose, Heinz pictured an easy-going athlete bedevilled at every turn . . . at Penn Station for instance, "they stand 10 or 20 feet away, first five or siv of them and then 15 or 20 and where there are two, they talk about him in whispers and they watch him while they talk, for Joe is on the stage now and this is the amphitheatre of his fame."

Auto-Grafting

Ultimately they come up to Joe, singly or in pairs, and one of them might say: "Excuse me, Joe, I don't go for this myself, but my sister is with the Red Cross in Ireland and . . ." or another extends the back of a business card for DiMaggio to sign."

"It is the same whatever he does and wherever he goes," concludes Heinz. "This is something you should realize, if you think you would like to be Joe DiMaggio."

ROYALS MEET STAMPEDERS FOR THE ALLAN CUP

Montreal Squad Defeats Hamilton Tigers for Third Time by 5-1

By IAN MacNEIL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, April 24 — (CP) — Montreal's youthful Royals took revenge on Hamilton Tigers at Maple Leaf Gardens last night as they shunted the Bengals from the Allan Cup trail with a smashing 5-1 win in the third game of the best-of-five Eastern Senior hockey final.

The Montrealers, champions of the Quebec Senior Hockey League, won in three straight to qualify for the Dominion final against Calgary Stampeders.

Last year Hamilton eliminated Royals in the east final in three straight, only to bow to those same Stampeders in the Cup final.

The Dominion final will open in Toronto Saturday night with the teams moving to Montreal for the second and third tilts and Thursday. Time and place of the other games in the best-of-seven final are still indefinite.

It will be the first national final for a Montreal team since the Royals lost to Port Arthur in 1941.

Too Much Speed

Speed overcame experience as the younger Royals added last night's triumph to the 3-0 and 3-1 victories in the first two at Montreal.

For many of the Hamilton squad last night's contest wrote finish to their hockey careers. The Tigers are one of the oldest teams ever to compete in Canadian hockey. Ages averaged 33 as against 23 for the Royals.

Last night Hamilton checked closely, and when they did break in the clear it was the diminutive Gerry McNeil in the Montreal nets that loomed as high as a brick wall.

Art Childs in the Hamilton citadel also worked spectacularly — he had to as the Royals held a wide territorial edge.

Seven penalties were handed out by referee George Seed and several times the game threatened to break out in a free - for - all.

TORONTO TEAM IN FIRST PLACE

Toronto, April 24 (CP)—Toronto MacKenzies, five-pin team rolled into first place in competition for the Canadian title as the Canadian Bowling Association's annual tourney continued last night.

The Toronto male team piled 3,675 with Oshawa's united automobile Union No. 2 team in second place with 3,473 and Toronto Karry's third with 3,365. Oshawa's U.A.W. No. 2 was fourth with 3,364.

Ted Boynton of MacKenzie went into the singles lead with a triple total of 836, seven pins ahead of the previous leader, J. Playford of Peterborough, who dropped to second place.

Thursday and Friday night are given over to the women's teams, with the final games Saturday.

FUNDS TO PURCHASE FOOD FOR BRITAIN

St. Catharines, April 24—(CP) —At a public organization meeting here Tuesday night it was decided to raise funds to purchase food for Britain instead of collecting foodstuffs and clothing. A minimum objective of $25,000 was set in a campaign to open on May 1st and continue until May 15. The money will be used in the wholesale purchase of food which will be distributed in England by Ontario House.

Major League Bats Booming Out Early Season Display of Home Runs

By RALPH RODEN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Major league fans are witnessing one of the greatest early season displays of home run hitting in years and the bigger bats are booming in the National League which is famed more for its finesse than its power.

Paced by shortstop Eddie Miller of Cincinnati, who has clouted five roundtrippers — tops in either circuit — National League- have slammed 48 circuit drives, double their output at this stage of the 1946 campaign, while American League batters have clouted 26 boundary belts, one less than they collected up to a year ago yesterday.

One reason, of course, for the unexpected power burst from the National Leaguers is "Greenberg Gardens," in Pittsburgh's Forbes Field where the left field barrier was shortened to accommodate the right - handed slugging Hank Greenberg.

The biggest boom-boom of the American League season was heard in Briggs Stadium, Detroit, yesterday where the Bengals belted five homers — including three in the eighth inning by Roy Cullenbine, Dick Wakefield and Hoot Evers as the Tigers clawed Chicago White Sox 7-4.

Tied with Yankees

The defeat, the Sox' first in 4 games, dropped them into a first place tie with New York Yankees who blanked Boston Red Sox 3-0 behind the two-hit tossing of Allie Reynolds of the Yankee Stadium.

Only three four-masters were slammed in the National League, all at Sportsman's Park, St. Louis, where the first-place Pirates drubbed the tail-end Cardinals 8-5.

Shortstop Billy Cox of the Bucs whacked Red Munger for a homer with the bases loaded in the second inning. Others went to Ed Basinski of the Bucs and rookie Chuck Diering of the Cards.

The victory enabled the Bucs to retain their 1½-game lead over Brooklyn Dodgers who clipped Philadelphia Phils 5-2 at Ebbets Field behind the eight-hit elbowing of Lefty Joe Hatten.

Chicago Cubs and Boston Braves moved into a third-place deadlock with the Phils by downing Cincinnati and New York Giants respectively.

Southpaw Johnny Schmitz turned back the Reds at Wrigley Field 7-1 while Warren Spahn, although touched for 12 hits, set down the Giants 5-1 at Boston.

In the remaining American League games, Cleveland Indians trounced St. Louis Browns 10-4 and Washington Senators, the only team in either league which hasn't hit for the circuit, nosed out Philadelphia Athletics 4-3.

Trophy Winning Dates Announced By N.H.L. Prexy

(By The Associated Press)

Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League has announced the dates on which winners of the season's trophies will be named. They are: Lady Byng trophy for most gentlemanly player, May 13; Calder Memorial trophy for outstanding rookie, May 20; and Hart trophy for most valuable player, May 27.

Arriving in Toronto in a few days time will be Sir Achtol, a three-year-old chestnut who won the 1946 Winnipeg Futurity. The western racehorse is coming to town for a crack at the King's plate May 24.

Frank Selke, manager of Montreal Canadiens, said at Winnipeg he had purchased the contact of forward Bobby Carse of Cleveland Barons of the American Hockey League. Frank added that he intended to support Winnipeg Junior Canadiens in every way, "even with outside players if necessary," next year.

Art Massucci, coach of Hamilton Tigers of the Interprovincial Rugby Football Union last season, has been signed to coach Windsor Rockets of the Senior O.R.F.U. Wassucci coached Sarnia Imperials to seven O.R.F.U. titles and two Canadian championships before going to Hamilton in 1940.

Ernie Guisti, 138 3-4, of West Warwick, R.I., pounded out a 10-round decision over veteran "Spider" Armstrong, 131 1-4, of Toronto, in a boxing bout at Providence, R.I., last night.

Marcel Cerdan, European middleweight boxing champion, is expected to leave the United States soon for a bout in Europe. Jo Longmann, Paris boxing promoter, said recently Cerdan would defend his title against Vince Hawkins in London before the end of May.

Gene Lucas, business manager for Joe Louis, world heavyweight boxing champion, is due to arrive in New York today for a conference regarding a title fight for June 26. He is also arranging a Canadian exhibition tour for the champion.

ONCE REFUGEE'S ROUTE

Stockholm (CP)— Sweden's skiing classic, the Vasa run, covering a distance of 54 miles was held this year for the 20th time, and was won in a photo finish. The run commemorate the actual course taken by Gustaf Vasa when he tried to seek refuge in Norway from Danish agents in 1520.

ORIOLE PLAYER BELTS 5 HOMERS IN SIX GAMES

Toronto Leafs Lose Top Spot by Defeat by Newark Bears 6-1

(By The Associated Press)

Howie Moss of Baltimore Orioles is off to a flying start in his bid to retain the International League's home run laurels.

The 27-year-old outfielder-third baseman of the Orioles has belted five homers in the Orioles six games to far, top output in the circuit.

Last season he clouted 38 before being sold to the Orioles by Cincinnati Reds.

Purchased by Cleveland Indians at the end of last season, Moss spent spring training with the tribe and was sent back to the Orioles in time for the International League opener.

He hit his fifth homer of the season last night as Baltimore nosed out Buffalo Bisons in 11 innings 4-3. Buffalo tied the score at 3-3 with a two-run rally in the ninth but the Orioles won out in the second overtime frame when relief pitcher Ernie Silverman threw a wild pitch with the bases loaded.

Meanwhile, the defending champion Montreal Royals moved over Toronto Maple Leafs into first place by downing Jersey City Giants 7-3 while the Leafs suffered their first setback in three games, bowing to Newark Bears 6-1.

The Bears broke up a close game by scoring four runs in the eighth inning off relief pitchers Dwight Simonds and Don Carter to sew up their conflict with the Leafs.

In the other league game, Syracuse Chiefs plastered Rochester Red Wings 10-1.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor.

Now that the "war drums throb no longer and the battle flags are furled" in the National Hockey League, and the sport writers of Montreal and Toronto are reported to be almost ready to nod to one another when they meet on the street, the ordinary Joes and Janes are settling back to see what summer sports have in store for them.

• • •

While the National Hockey League playoffs and the Stanley Cup series were among the most bitterly fought in the history of the battered old mug, and despite the fact that feelings ran to an unprecedented high among players and writers as well, the sportsmanship for which Canadian athletes are justly noted did not suffer greatly, in fact very little as the final game evidenced.

• • •

True, there were unfortunate occurrences, molehills of incidents that were crescendoed into mountains of inter-club ill-feeling by factional publicity, but on the whole, and this was proven or appeared to be, the players took the affairs as those provoked and paid for in the heat of battle, and let it go at that. Rabid fans of both cities, inflamed to heights of partisanism by printed word, carried the torches of their favorite team and players to a large degree that will be a landmark in the history of the Stanley Cup.

• • •

There are those who say that the Metz-Lach and the Richard-Ezinicki-Lyn incidents have given Canadian sportsmanship and professional hockey, in fact all sports that demand bodily contact, the proverbial black eye. This statement, in our opinion, is the well-known malarkey, balderdash, or just plain tripe. Athletes in any phase of sport, battling for world's titular honors after a nerve-racking experience in playoffs, are naturally in a state of high nervous tension and especially in hockey where the physical demand is perhaps greater than in any other kind of sport.

• • •

Unfortunately some athletes have no human safety valves, through which they can "blow off" surplus steam with harm to none. Then happens what is known in sports and other parlance as "blowing his top" and anything is liable to happen. This, however, is an incident rarer than the proverbial day in June, and this year, it occurred at a most inopportune time. Feelings between the Leafs and Canadiens in that now famous game in Montreal when Richard slashed the heads of two Toronto players, were naturally at a high pitch. Then came the incident that was the spark to the explosive ammunition of factions of both squads.

• • •

No fair-minded fan will believe for a minute that the Canadiens' star deliberately and with malice aforethought, caused blood-letting injuries to the opposing players. Nor will he think that Metz charged Lach with serious results, after a carefully thought-out program of procedure. Both incidents or accidents occurred, we believe, in the heat of battle, and should be taken as such.

• • •

As the Ottawa Journal writes editorially: "Games, sport, can be overdone. Taken with moderation, they are as much a part of character-building as anything we can think of, they teach give-and-take, and teamwork, and individual responsibility. The young man or woman who plays games, who learns that to lose graciously is as splendid as to win, is in a fair way to learn good living. Nor is meanness born with a rod on a glorious trout stream."

• • •

"On Saturday night in Toronto, two professional hockey teams played their hearts out for the Stanley Cup. If there be cynics to say they played merely for money, that sport wasn't the the thing, and sportsmanship, let them read this:

• • •

"Canadiens strove mightily to tie the final game until the last second of play. And when it was all over the players who had fought so doughtily for six games proved themselves great losers by rushing in with their congratulations for the new champions."

• • •

....Or this:

"The Redshirts all skated out to offer their congratulations. It was something to see such arch ice enemies as Maurice Richard and Bill Ezinicki shaking hands. Old Murph Chamberlain, Canadiens' hard rock, was fighting for the puck behind the Toronto net when the game ended. One second he was desperately trying to get the puck around in front of Broda and the next he was pumping the netminder's paw."

• • •

"In the texture of our national life, such sportsmanship is something, helping to break down intolerance and hate and stupid prejudice."

• • •

Two hundred young athletes will occupy the spotlight in the Y.M.C.A. gymnasia here on Friday night, May 2, when the annual gymnastic display is scheduled to be held. The general public will have the opportunity that night to see the different types of gymnastics taught these young boys and youths by the efficient staff of the "Y." A varied program has been arranged, and the evening should be a highly entertaining one.

• • •

There has seldom been a sports celebration to equal the victory dinner of the Hershey Bears the evening after they defeated the Pittsburgh Hornets 4 games to 3 to bring the championship of the American Hockey League to Chocolatetown for the first time.

• • •

The scene on the night of the seventh and final game was one that will not soon be forgotten. Every one of the 7,500 seats in the beautiful arena had long been sold. Another 7,500 (who remained until the game was over) milled around outside hopeful of being able to buy standing room. From a point of vantage outside the arena you could look across the Pennsylvania hills and pick out every highway leading to Hershey by the headlights of hundreds of cars streaming into the little town to see their beloved Bears. Nor is the Hershey fan a fair weather one. At one game last season, shortly after Hershey had had one of its worst blizzards a capacity audience fought its way through the drifts to attend the game. When you remember that the total population of the town of Hershey is only 2,300 you begin to appreciate the loyalty of the fans who come from miles around.

To Live With Love

By Margaret Gorman Nichols

CHAPTER 24

Freda shook her dark head nervously, in the light pouring softly from the living-room her eyes were big and dark and amused.

"If someone doesn't say something soon, I'm going to start wishing on the stars."

Ian chuckled. "Aloud. Let's have it. It should be good."

"All right then. A mink coat..."

"I think I'll mix us a drink, darling," Ian said. His lean brown face, topped by close-cropped gray hair, broke into a grin.

Freda laughed. "A mink coat... that reminds me. The other day I heard a girl say that she was going to take all of her savings and buy a mink coat so that, while we were all refugees on the road, she in a mink coat would at least be picked up. That isn't funny, really. But it is indicative of some very odd reasoning going on in certain heads...No, Ian. Don't fix us a drink. Not yet. Don't disturb the sylvan scene by the rattling of ice cubes and calling out, 'Where is the bottle opener, Freda?' "

"Where is it? It's never in the same place twice." He smiled at Carol with affection. "Honey, don't let your romance disintegrate to the point where on a romantic night you talk about bottle openers."

Carol laughed. "But, Ian, a misplaced opener is indicative of poor housekeeping, and Freda prides herself on being a good housekeeper. It would be the same if you had accused her of having a poor dinner tonight."

"How can I win against two women?"

"My pal," Freda said. "You tell him!"

Ian took his wife's small, restless hand. "It was a wonderful dinner, darling. Four vegetables!"

Their good-natured baiting, Carol thought, and their ability to laugh at themselves and each other were further proofs of their civilized living.

Then the bright headlights of an oncoming car that had just turned in the road fell upon her, revealing the pensiveness of her face, and the slim princess lines of her white silk frock. Then the lights swung away from her as the car curved and stopped. The lights went out.

"Are we expecting anyone?" Freda asked excitedly.

"Are we?" Ian asked with a chuckle. "I'll see."

He got up slowly and disappeared in the darkness. Freda did not say anything. Carol heard voices rather distant at first and then coming nearer...Ian's voice and ...No!...Yes! Bill's voice, deep boyish, familiar.

Only in the soft light pouring from the living-room onto the terrace did they see each other.

"Well!" Freda cried. "Look who's here! Hi, Bill!"

Ian had his hand on Bill's shoulder.

Carol looked up. Bill...as tall as ever, as loose-jointed as ever, as tanned as he always was after a summer of golf, as immaculate as ever in dark trousers and a white coat, wearing the wrist watch she had given him, wearing a blue tie...Only in the becoming gray of his temples had he changed.

"Hello, Carol..." The familiar voice quavered just a little. He would clear his throat, she thought. He always did that when he wasn't sure of himself.

Carol did not want her voice to sound as though she had just caught her breath. But it did. "Hello, Bill. How are you?"

"Oh, I'm fine."

Ian said, "Sit down, Bill. Now I'll mix some drinks."

When Ian went into the house, Freda passed cigarettes and asked, "When did you get back to town, Bill?"

He held a lighter to Freda's cigarette and then to Carl's. And in the brief flame she saw the well-remembered hands trembling ever so slightly.

"Yesterday," he said and sat down, crossing his long legs and lighting his own cigarette. "I'm—I'm back to stay. Tom sent for me."

"Really?" Freda asked. "Oh, that's fine, Bill. I'm awfully glad."

"How has everything been with you?"

She laughed. "How it has always been. Now that Ian has had his fling at golf, he wants a fling at the boat. Then it will be golf again and then he'll be making plans for the Christmas garden. And then we'll talk about going to Florida in the Winter, but the income taxes coming due in March will stop us...as usual."

Bill turned to Carol and tried to make his voice brave. "How—how is everything with you, Carol?"

She smiled, but her mouth trembled. "Just fine."

"You're ... you're looking great."

"Thanks. I am. You're looking fine, too. You're—you're getting gray." She had not meant to say that.

He ran his hand through his hair and chuckled. "I'm an old man now."

"Aren't we all?" Ian said coming out with a tray. "But you're just a youngster, Bill. Not dry behind the ears yet."

It was just as it used to be, Carol was thinking. But how foolish and childish to pretend that it was!

Just as it used to be...They sat in a circle on the terrace and drank their cool drinks. But tonight Ian and Freda talked most. Carol knew why they picked up each lull in the conversation of war and politics and personalities.

How long would the war last?" What of the peace and the reconstruction of Europe? What if food were rationed in the United States? And what about Russia? And what about Roosevelt and Churchill and Stalin and Hitler?

Hours passed while Freda and Ian made the talk stimulating and permitted no silence to fall like a heavy hand between them. Hours while Carol sat tormented, conscious of Bill's familiar voice and movements and the process of his thinking and reasoning.

Finally she asked, "What time is it? It must be terribly late.

"Oh, it's only a little after one," Freda said.

Carol arose. "Then it's time for me to be going. My hat and gloves and bags are in the hall inside, Freda."

Bill got up quickly and stood beside her. "Have you a car, Carol?"

"Why, no. I left it in town today to be cleaned and came out with Ian."

"Then may I take you home? I'm—I'm going that way."

"Of course. Thank you."

Freda followed her into the dimly lighted hall.

As Carol picked up her wide-brimmed green hat, white purse and white gloves, Freda came nearer and spoke softly and hurriedly:

"Carol, it—it didn't just happen this way. Bill's coming out tonight, I mean. You can see through that, can't you? But I had to get you together some way. When Ian told me last night that he saw Bill and Tom in a restaurant together yesterday, I called Bill at his mother's and asked him out and told him you'd be here."

"But, Freda, why? Why... now!"

"Because, darling, you can't be faithful to two men. You may love two men, but you can't be faithful to two. No woman can be. Ian and I are the only people you've told about Clive. I've liked hearing about him. I don't know of any woman in her right mind who wouldn't welcome a romance with him. But only a romance. It was wonderful for you. It did wonderful things for you. It made you lovely.

"But, that isn't the stuff that marriage is made of, darling. You know what it's made of. And just as Bill felt faithless to you when he was married to Evelyn, so you'll feel faithless to him if you marry Clive. You can't help it. You didn't have a romance with Bill. You had a marriage! And now he's free and he's home, Carol. There wouldn't be any marriage if people weren't big enough to forgive each other. You can't follow romance. Just romance. It's like a good book that has to end and even though you may want to go on reading it.

"What happened with Clive was pure romance and if you try to follow it, you'll come to a dead end. You've never shared anything with him except an exciting romance in a romantic plce. Oh, don't yo usee? You shared everything with Bill and you love him...You love him after all that happened between you. Isn't your forgiveness as big as your love?

"Oh, darn it, the one time in my life when I want to be eloquent all I can think of is that you hd something for which there isn't any word...It's something that when other people haven't got it they'd give everything to have...Maybe it's love and maybe it isn't... I don't know. We call it love. You and Bill had it for seven years. It made you necessary to each other. And you still have it for each other and for no one else."

Carol said quietly, "It's odd that you should be saying these things." As she passed Freda, she touched her shoulder affectionately.

Freda and Ian stood and watched them go.

Ian said, "Well, there they go ...You aren't saying anything. You must be crying. When you don't talk, then I know you must be crying. The stars are still up there. How about wishing on them now. I'll join you and I'll give you odd we both wish the same thing. I've missed having Bill around like the devil. At our parties he always helped me mix the drinks and he never drank too much. A darned fine bartender...Incidentally, I did not find the bottle opener."

"You idiot! You darling idiot!"

"Thank you, dear. And maybe this is as good a time as any to tell you where I go on Saturday afternoons."

"You don't have to tell me."

"I know. But I want to. You see, when I married you, I was determined to keep one little slice of my life to myself...playing poker with the boys in my plant every Saturday afternoon. That one small bit of independence I thought I wanted to keep. It was like thumbing my nose at marriage and saying, 'You can't have all of me!' But I find that ...well, I'm getting bored with it and I'd much rather come home to you and the boy. I've been ashamed to admit it...You aren't saying anything. You must be crying."

"You idiot!"

"I'll think about the mink coat. I didn't know you wanted one."

Carol said, "I live at the Brentwood Arms."

BABY'S UPSET STOMACH QUICKLY CORRECTED

BABY'S little "Tummy" is often easily upset. It is easily righted again, too, if you know just how to do it. Let Mrs. M. S. Alway, of London, Ont., tell you: "Baby's Own Tablets are a great help at the first sign of upset stomach, during teething time or when a cold is coming on. They work quickly yet gently to carry away poisons and promote quiet sleep. Walking floors at night is unknown in our home."

And Mrs. W. R. Sharp says: "I nursed my baby shortly after being alarmed over a motor accident and that upset her almost to the point of convulsions. I gave her Baby's Own Tablets and she soon stopped crying—went to sleep."

Equally effective for teething troubles, constipation, simple fever and diarrhoea. Sweet-tasting, easily crushed to a powder, if desired—prompt in action. No "sleepy" stuff—no dulling effect. Buy a box today for sickness so often strikes in the night. 25 cents. Money back if not satisfied.

YOU'D NEVER BELIEVE SHE IS 48....

She's one of the peppiest, happiest-spirited women you ever saw. At the time when most women think life is passing them by—she's right in the midst of things—always ready to go places and do things ... as popular with the men as girls half her age. To look at her you would never believe she was a day over 38.

How does she do it? She gives the credit to Dr. Williams Pink Pills ... for well she knows how important it is to have plenty of rich, red blood during those years when so many women are "pulled down" in health by bodily changes.

If you feel "always tired", if you look pale and dragged out, if you are suffering from a feeling of nervous exhaustion, are jittery and irritable, you may be paying the price of poor blood make-up. Don't wait—start Dr. Williams Pink Pills today. They contain an easily assimilable form of iron—fortified with a generous amount of Vitamin B1—and are wonderfully effective in helping to build the rich, red blood so necessary to vigor and energy. Govt. Seeking New Formula To Settle Strike

Washington, April 24 —(AP) The United States government today went after a new formula for settling the 18-day-old telephone strike amid reports that long distance lines have been sabotaged in at least seven states.

The striking National Federation of Telephone Workers (IND.) quickly accepted an invitation from Edgar L. Warren, federal conciliation director, to renewed bargaining talks with three strategic units in the Bell system.

The only immediate acceptance by the other side came from the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company. The Western Electric Company and the Long Lines Division of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company said they would think it over.

Between them the three units employ about 93,000 of the 340,000 workers made idle by the union walkout April 7 to enforce new contract demands including a $12 a week pay increase.

Complaints by telephone company officials that lines have been cut were heard in Tennessee, Mississippi, Kentucky, California, South Carolina, Michigan and Wisconsin.

Rewards of $1,000 for the conviction of saboteurs were posted. The union said it "unequivocably condemns" such acts.

School Music Festival Begins

Montreal, April 24 (CP)—Musical talent galore arrived from 80 northwestern United States and Canadian cities and town today, ready to take part in the giant International Festival of School Music which gets under way at the forum here tonight.

Approximately 20,000 boys and girls, comprising orchestras, choirs and bands, will participate in the three-day festival during which six concerts and a parade will be staged.

After tonight's opening concert at the spacious forum, there will be two concerts Friday, one in the afternoon at the Sir Arthur Currie Memorial Gymnasium of McGill University and another that night at the Forum.

Saturday, there will be concerts at the gymnasium and the Forum in the afternoon, followed by a gala International night at the Forum. Twenty bands will march in a mammoth parade Saturday afternoon.

Meanwhile, the musicians' Guild of Montreal held little hope that the American Federation of Musicians would change its decision "not to allow the recording of the festival for commercial purposes."

Dr. Irwin Cooper, president of the Festival, also expressed doubt an agreement would be reached.

Plans Underway ToMakeCanadians SeafoodConscious

Ottawa, April 24 (CP)—Plans were underway today to make Canadians more seafood conscious—for the good of themselves and Canada's great fishing industry.

In a windup to its second annual meeting, the Fisheries Council of Canada yesterday heard statistics that Canadians eat 139 pounds of meat a year but only an average of 8.4 pounds of fish and seafood. It was said that if the per capita consumption of fish could be upped to 13 pounds a year prosperity of the fishing industry would be assured.

With that in mind the council's more than 50 delegates, representing the 13 regional fisheries organizations of all nine provinces affiliated with it, decided on these steps:

1. An educational campaign among fishermen, processors, wholesalers and retailers in the handling of fish for improvement in the grade of every type of Canadian fish product.

2. Studies to determine the best methods of "educating" consumers in the proper preparation of fish dishes.

3. Long-term publicity and advertising to develop a better knowledge of the nutritive value of fish in the daily diet.

In order to increase consumption at home and to retain and expand world markets plans also will be studied for the speediest means of transportation to consumers and the most modern mehtods of packaging and labelling of fisheries products for the export and domestic market.

The concluding council session, which elected W. Stanley Lee of Halifax as resident succeeding James S. Eckman of Vancouver, heard a dinner address by Fisheries Minister Bridges in which the minister said if Canadans were to continue to enjoy present levels of prosperity there would have to be greater equilibrium and freedom in foreign exchange, recovery in Europe and more freedom of entry into the United States market.

Llandudno, Wales — (CP) — A pair of pants flown as a distress signal by five men adrift in a rudderless sailing boat in the Menai Straits failed to bring rescue. But flashes from a pocket mirror used as a heliograph were seen here and a lifeboat went out and towed the craft to safety.

CALGARY TEAM TRAVELS EAST

Calgary, April 24 (CP)—Boasting a lineup almost unchanged from the 1946 champion edition, Calgary Stampeders headed eastward today for a rendezvous with Montreal Royals and defence of the Allan Cup and the Canadian senior hockey crown they won last year.

When they left the Montreal-Hamilton Tigers series for the eastern title hadn't been finished but, said Coach Jack Arbor, "it doesn't make any difference to us which team wins."

The powerful Stampeders will carry into the first game at Toronto Saturday night a record of 41 victories, 13 defeats and four ties over the 1947 season.

Twenty-seven of the wins, nine of the losses and all four draws came in the Western Canada senior league's regular schedule and were good enough to give them first place by a wide margin.

Then they eliminated the fourth-place Saskatoon Elks three straight and crushed Lethbridge Leafs four straight in the league final. Kimberley Dynamiters bowed 4-2 in a best-of-seven series and Calgary took the western championship by taking the first, fourth and fifth battles of a bitterly-fought best-of-five series with the underrated Winnipeg Flyers.

Softball Loop Elects Officers

H. Theobald was elected 1947 president of the Belleville Softball Association at the annual meeting held here last night. He succeeds former president Al. Hitchon who held the office for the past two years.

Other officers elected are vice president, J. Devine; secretary treasurer, Don Barrett; executive members, Harold Bawden, Perry Everett, Bert Farrar and Mike Whalen.

Three teams signified their intention of entering the league. These are Canadian National Railways, Point Anne and the Belleville Juniors.

RECORDS SQUIRM IN SUCCESSFUL A.H.L. SEASON

New York, April 24—Final official statistics released yesterday by the American Hockey League indicate that despite the closeness of most of the games a new record was set, one old record was tied, and several others were very close to being toppled.

Gordon (Red) Henry, substitute goaltender for the Hershey Bears, winners of the championship of the American Hockey League, registered 5 shut outs in 11 games in playoff competition to top Maurice (Moanin' Moe) Roberts' record of 4 set in 1938-39, while playing Cleveland. Henry also bettered a record made by Gordon (Tinkle) Bell when the latter held his opponents to 1.77 goals per game during the 1942-43 playoffs while leading the Buffalo Bisons to the championship. Henry limited his opposition to only 1.45 in 11 games.

Frank Mario, Hershey's rugged centre ice star, led the scoring parade with 18 points to tie record set by Fred Thurier in the spring of 1944 when Fred was playing for Buffalo. Mario's 13 assists was 1 short of equalling the 14 made by Joe Sawyer of Indianapolis in the 1941-42 playoffs.

That old sharpshooter, Herb Cain, who plays either left or right wing with equal skill, had his backhand shot (than which there is no finer in any hockey league) working to perfection and banged in 9 goals. This failed by 1 to equal Tommy Burlington's 10 scored while playing for Cleveland in the 1944-45 playoffs.

But the statistics do not always tell the full story. Don Penniston's Hershey Bears placed only one man on the all-stars, Harvey Bennett, regular goaltender, who made the second team, but sat out the entire playoffs because of Red Henry's brilliant play. The Bears, however, had one of the best balanced hockey clubs in many years, a club that was capable of giving any other professional club in the world today a serious struggle for money, marbles or just plain glory.

Today we Live in a Greater Canada

The Last Frontier Vanishes...

TODAY mining and industry push forward to the Arctic Circle, as Canadian initiative develops the vast resources—the minerals, waterpower and oil—of the one-time wilderness.

New war-time transportation facilities ended the isolation of millions of square miles of the Northwest. The airplane brought the farthest corners of our country—inaccessible for centuries—within a day or two of the cities of the continent.

That northward expansion is typical of modern developments which are stimulating all Canadian activities today, creating new and greater opportunities in every field of endeavour.

Until the present century the story of Canada's North was an epic of exploration—from the days of Elizabethan seamen seeking the Northwest Passage and the old fur traders pushing into the wilderness, down to the Arctic journeys of Stefansson and Bernier and the Mountie patrols of our own time.

Greatest single factor in Northland development was the airplane. It made possible the most significant mining discovery in the North—when, at Great Bear Lake in 1930, pitchblende was found—the continent's only source of uranium, vital ingredient of the atom bomb.

The war brought new activity to the North, and the creation of great new lines of transportation and communication—the Alaska Highway and the famous Air Staging Routes—with landing fields and radio and meteorological stations established throughout the territory.

DAVID HENDERSON started his own business in Montreal when only 17, and displayed an energy and integrity in surmounting early difficulties which won him the friendship and support of his suppliers and bank manager. After achieving success as a jobber he commenced the manufacture of felt hat shapes in an old windowless building. Today his Beacon Products Inc., in its new up-to-date Valleyfield plant, is considered one of the most successful plants of its kind in Canada.

MR. HENDERSON says: "No other country offers such opportunities as does Canada to young men who have ideas and the determination to back them up. Here, if their plans are sound and they know their business, they will find plenty of help and encouragement and every assurance of success."

HOPE FADES TRAPPED MINERS STILL ALIVE

Blasting of Police Billet Brings Death To Four, 6 Injured

Explosives Planted in Mail Truck Parked Near Station

Jerusalem, April 25 —(AP)— Bombs wrecked a police billet in a suburb of the all-Jewish city of Tel Aviv today, leaving four dead and six injured.

A British police inspector and three British constables were killed, it was announced officially.

British authorities said the explosives were planted in a mail truck driven by a man in a police uniform. The blast occurred about a minute and a half after the van was driven through the gate and parked next to the orderly room.

Official reports said two bombs were used and that the orderly room and telephone exchange of the billet were destroyed.

The all-Jewish city of Tel Aviv was surrounded by troops within minutes after the blast.

Traffic Halted

Almost simultaneously an alarm was sounded in the vicinity of Jaffa and all road traffic between Jaffa and nearby Tel Aviv was halted.

The Sarona blast came as British authorities attempted to run down a report — which they believed a hoax — that three British soldiers had been kidnapped in the heart of Jerusalem by members of the Jewish underground.

This report followed the announcement that a British businessman had been kidnapped during the night from a fashionable Tel Aviv beach hotel but had been released unharmed when his abductors discovered he was a Jew.

The entire centre of Jerusalem around Zion Square was cordoned off as British troops checked the reported soldier kidnapping.

Threaten Reprisals

In recent days, Irgun Zvai Leumi, Jewish underground group, has threatened "blood for blood" reprisals at 10 to one for the deaths of four Jews hanged last week and of two others who committed suicide while awaiting execution. The Jews had been condemned for taking part in raids or carrying arms.

Rumors persisted today that Britain was thinking about dissolving the Jewish agency on the ground that by failure to curb Jewish extremists it had forfeited any claim to be the "appropriate" spokesman for Holy Land Jewry.

In El 'Affule, some 60 miles north of Jerusalem, three men disguised as policemen yesterday got $2,200 in a holdup of the Farmers' Bank, fleeing in an automobile.

In Haifa, a minor explosion was heard. Police said it probably had been touched off by accident in a hidden Jewish arsenal. They reported one Jew wounded slightly. Twenty or more shots heard here last night were dismissed by police as "probably just warnings to curfew breakers."

Falls into Well Between Rails, Girl is Unhurt

New York, April 25. (AP)— Passengers peering down the track of a Brooklyn subway station, looking for a Manhattan-bound train, saw instead a pretty, 21-year-old brunette dashing along the tracks.

Behind her came motorman Maurice Woulfe who chased her to the far end of the station and finally, aided by subway riders, caught her.

The girl refused to give police her name or answer any questions, while Motorman Woulfe told this story:

His train was coming into the station when he saw the girl jump to the tracks about 20 feet ahead of him. He slammed on the brakes, but two cars passed over her.

The girl, apparently unhurt, crawled out of the well between the two tracks and started to run. Woulfe took off in pursuit.

Layoff Closes Plymouth Plant Of Chrysler Co.

Detroit, Apr. 25 (AP).—A dispute over disciplinary action against a shop steward closed the Plymouth plant of Chrysler Corporation today.

A company announcement said 3,800 first shift workers were sent home after 158 employees of the sheet metal department left their jobs in protest against a three-day layoff given a shop steward.

The announcement said the layoff was imposed because the steward engaged in a fight with a worker who had refused to leave his post to join yesterday's union mass demonstration against labor legislation.

The Plymouth workers are members of Local 158 United Automobile Workers (C.I.O.). There was no immediate union comment.

GIVEN LIFE TERMS

Vale, Ore., April 25 — (AP) — Alvin Lee Williams, 23, a one-time cowboy who confessed killing wealthy W. D. Broadhurst, 51, for the love of a red-haired 40-year-old woman, was sentenced yesterday to a life term in prison. He confessed the shotgun slaying in the earlier trial of seven-times-wedded Mrs. Gladys Lincoln Broadhurst, the rancher's wife, who also drew a life sentence.

Miss Cather wrote her first novel, "Alexander's Bridge," in 1912. In 1922 she received the Pulitzer Prize for what was named the outstanding novel of the year, "One of Ours."

Russia's Biggest Automobile Plant 21 Years Without Strike

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Moscow, Apr. 25 (AP). — Ivan Likhachev, 51-year-old boss of Russia's biggest automobile plant, said yesterday that in his 21 years as director of the Stalin automobile works there never has been a strike.

Likhachev said the trade union at his plant never had made a complaint about wages. He learned his trade in Detroit.

The Soviets opened his 1,200-acre plant on the outskirts of Moscow to a large crowd of the foreign press and conducted a tour through the forging shop, the assembly plant for the de luxe Zees passenger car, and the production line for Zees trucks, which have six cylinders and wooden bodies.

Likhachev said the passenger car output is one a day and that 600 of them now are on the roads of the Soviet Union. They cost 6,000 rubles and go only to government ministries and offices.

(The ruble is valued at 5.3 to the United States dollar at official exchange, or 12 to the dollar at diplomatic exchange.)

Trucks cost 10,000 rubles each.

The average base pay of workers in the plant, Likhachev said, is 900 rubles a month. They work 48 hours in weeks of six days, and most of the plant operates for 16 hours daily.

He said 85 per cent of the work is paid for at piece rate and that this speed-up system, coupled with a bonus system, resulted in some Stakhanovite workers drawing as much as 2,000 to 2,500 rubles monthly more than their base pay.

Someone asked whether Likhachev was a member of the Communist party and he said without a grin:

"Yes, what about you?"

The surprised reporter replied: "Not yet."

BILL AMENDING OLD AGE PENSION ACT ON MONDAY

Speculation Legislation Will Increase From $5 To $10 Monthly Basic Pension of $20

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, April 25 (CP)—Opposition members of the Commons, getting in their annual bid for increased pensions for the aged and the blind, were told by Health Minister Martin yesterday that resolution preliminary to a bill amending the Old Age Pensions Act will be introduced Monday.

Although Mr. Martin gave no details there has been speculation that the new bill will increase between $5 and $10 a month the present basic pension of $20 a month. It is believed that the legislation will also ease the conditions under which a pension may be obtained.

Across the Dominion the pensions now range from $25 to $35 a month. During the war Dominion, by order-in-concil, decided to pay the aged a $5 supplement to help meet increased living costs. Some provinces paid an additional $5 supplement and recently British Columbia increased the amount to $10.

Mr. Martin made his statement as members reached a section of the main control bill which would give the government authority to continue the wartime supplement until the new legislation is enacted.

Mr. Martin's statement did not head off a debate. Howard Green (PC—Vancouver South) charged that the delay in granting the aged a decent pension was a "disgrace to the country and to Parliament."

Standing Division

He led off the discussion shortly after members turned their attention from section of the Control Bill dealing with the Japanese in Canada, sections which set off a standing division before the dinner recess.

By a vote of 105 to 31, members defeated a C.C.F. amendment which would have killed the wartime order-in-council giving the government authority to move the Japanese residents from British Columbia's coastal areas and re-locate them elsewhere in Canada.

NORTH ONTARIO CITIZENS TALK OF SECESSION

Ultimatum Will be Sent Premier Drew on Inequities of Mining Tax Legislation

Kirkland Lake, April 25—(CP) —An ultimatum to the Ontario government to "correct" alleged inequities in present mining tax legislation by May 8 or face concerted action by representatives of some 80,000 Northern Ontario citizens was being prepared today.

With talk of secession from Southern Ontario in the air, the representatives yesterday voted at the Association of Mining Municipalities of Northern Ontario Convention to draw up a strongly-worded letter telling Premier George Drew of northern complaints and giving him until May 8 to take "remedial steps."

Tired of Trips

The 30-odd delegates from the town of Timmins and the townships of Teck, Tisdale, Whitney and Larder Lake, declaring they were tired of "handouts" from the province in the form of subsidies and of having to travel in deputations to Toronto each year "tin cup in hand," were overwhelmingly in favor of sending the ultimatum.

The letter would state that the Ontario government had "failed to provide substantial relief this year in special grants" and that because of this the mining municipalities are $350,000 short on their financial requirements. Delegates asked a direct municipal tax on mining properties.

Members were not unanimous on what alternative action would be taken if the letter failed in its purpose. Some suggested that hundreds of council and school board officials from the gold belt start a "march on Queen's Park," others talked of seceding from Southern Ontario, of picketing the legislative chambers at Toronto and of sending thousands of petitions and postcards from public organizations and private individuals in the north.

Vigorous Protest

The talk of secession was introduced by Councillors J. G. Malkin and B. Harper of Tisdale who suggested that the association get in touch with a head of the lakes group which some time ago advocated the separation of Northern Ontario from the south. Several other councillors supported their suggestion that the combination, backed by threat of secession "might force the government to act without delay."

It was the first time in all its 12 years of existence that the organization had seen fit to voice such a vigorous protest. Delegates claimed the government had always promised a solution to the tax problem but the promise brought it no nearer than a decade ago.

ATTLEE ACCUSES CHURCHILL OF 'ABUSE' CAMPAIGN

Denies Charge Socialist Govt. Living Upon the American Dole

St. Andrews, Scotland, April 25 —(AP)—Prime Minister Attlee accused Winston Churchill today of directing a "torrent of abuse" at his administration without offering a "drop of policy."

Addressing the Scottish Trades Union Congress here, Attlee struck back bitterly at the Conservative party leader's Primrose League speech in London a week ago in which Churchill said "the Socialist government are living upon the American dole."

"This," Attlee asserted, "from the man who again and again has paid tribute to the great assistance we received in the war from lend-lease.

"If the Labor government is living on the dole, much more was the coalition government. It is incredible that he should stoop to such meanness.

"He says that the American loan could only be justified as a means of equipping our industries. What does he mean? Does he mean that we are wrong to use it to buy food from the only place we can get it? If he does, let him say so."

Attlee, replying to Churchill's criticism of the policies of the Chancellor of the Exchequer Hugh Dalton, charged that when Churchill himself was chancellor in the Stanley Baldwin Cabinet of 1924 he "inflicted untold misery upon the people of this country" with a program which led to the "crisis in the coal industry from which we are suffering today."

Churchill, said Attlee, was "the most disastrous chancellor of the century. . . he sinned, no doubt in all innocence. But much of our troubles today can be traced back to that error of ignorance."

Attlee made no mention of Churchill's warning against "cowardly appeasement" of Russia and his appeal for continued closed collaboration with the United States. But of Churchill's complaints that the Socialist government was "scattering and squandering" the empire, Attlee said he did not believe that in the United States "there is any support for the obsolete imperialism that Mr. Churchill seems to support."

BELLOISE AFTER 24TH

New York, April 25 — (AP) — Steve Belloise, pre-war middleweight title contender, goes after his 24th victory in 25 starts since his discharge from the United States Navy when he faces Johnny Walker of Philadelphia in a 10-rounder tonight at St. Nicholas Arena.

Belloise, turned back twice by the then champion, Ken Overlin, is rapidly regaining the status he enjoyed before he donned a uniform and has knocked out 16 opponents since returning to action.

MARSHALL STARTS HOME WITH MAJOR ISSUES UNSOLVED

Moscow Conference Breaks Up, Farewell Banquet to Delegates Given by Stalin

Moscow, April 25 (AP)—State Secretary Marshall winged through European skies toward home today to report to the American people on Big Four negotiations which broke up last night in almost complete disagreement on the major issues involved in concluding peace treaties for Austria and Germany.

"I am sorry that we did not make more progress," Marshall said just before boarding the plane scheduled to reach Washington tomorrow night, "but I imagine that as we look back in the days ahead we will see that much more was done than we realized at the time."

Using the same line of thought he employed in a toast last night at a farewell banquet given by Prime Minister Stalin in the Kremlin, the American Secretary told his audience at the airport that he came from "a young country, and therefore an impatient country."

But, he added: "Our purpose, even in our impatience, is utterly sincere—to see that peace comes to the world and to the minds of men."

Slated to Leave

Foreign Minister Bidault was slated to leave Moscow for Paris aboard a special train today and Foreign Secretary Bevin was set to go on a special train leaving at midnight.

More than 300 other diplomats, secretaries and foreign correspondents arranged to pull out before the weekend is over. Already however, they were talking about the next session of the Council of Foreign Ministers, in New York in September, perhaps, and in London in November certainly.

The final breakup of the conference came with friendly spirits prevailing despite the sometimes harsh and blunt disagreements over the basic issues at stake, and this good will was especially noticeable at last night's lavish banquet in the Kremlin.

Positions Reversed

Bevin humorously speculated what the situation in the world would be like if President Truman were boss in the Kremlin and Stalin President of the United States. He concluded with a serious plea for mutual understanding.

Stalin greeted all the guests—the 10 top men from each visiting delegation — affably upon their arrival and again upon their departure, at about 1 a.m.

All the same, the fact that so little progress had been made depressed most diplomats today and some western power sources privately expressed fear that a great four-power propaganda conflict for political position in Germany would soon break out.

SYRUP PRICES TUMBLE AT SHELBOURNE

Shelbourne, April 25 (CP) — District farmers reported today that maple syrup prices, notwithstanding the removal of ceilings, were yielding to the law of supply and demand and tumbling from $2 to $3 a gallon.

They said weather conditions had aided a heavy syrup sap run and resistance of housewives to high prices combined to bring prices down. Locally syrup is retailing at $5 a gallon while prices in the countryside were reported as high as $7. In the Flesherton area this initial price of $5 dropped to $4 a gallon.

Anxious Relatives Keep Vigil Outside Entrance of Mine

Rescue Crews Nearing Refuge Area Underground

Malartic, Que., April 25 (CP) —Sobbing women, some with babies in their arms, stood outside the main gate of the East Malartic Gold Mine today while deep underground skilled rescue crews fought to reach 11 trapped men for whose safety they feared.

Some of the women tried to climb the high fence, and others attempted to push through the gates as rumor after rumor swept through the anxious crowd—some that rescuers were drawing closer to the men, believed to be trapped 1,699 feet underground in the fireswept workings of the mine.

No one knows whether the 11 caught underground early yesterday by a fire from which four escaped and one man died, are dead or alive. speculation regarding their chances ranged from a 100-to-one chance against survival to hopes expressed by officials that at least some may have found safety on a level below the fire.

Assistant mine manager William Griffin said rescue workers have worked their way to the eighth level, 400 feet above where it is hoped the men have taken refuge.

Earlier Griffin said it was difficult to tell whether the men were still alive.

Fire on the 10th level which began early yesterday morning and from which smoke still curled up the shaft today already has claimed one life.

Griffin said rescue teams had reached the eighth level by this morning but he could not estimate how long it would take them to get to the 10th level. He described working conditions as "extremely difficult."

Specialists in the rescue work were on hand from Timmins and Kirkland Lake in addition to men from the Malartic district. The Kirkland Lake men worked through much of yesterday while the Timmins rescue squad arrived at the scene late in the evening.

(At Montreal, a company spokesman said that efforts would be made to control ventilation by manipulation doors on the second, fourth, sixth and eighth levels so that rescue workers could get down to the 10th level to fight the fire.

(This spokesman felt that the noise from air pumps had drowned out the bell signals sounded in an effort to raise an indication that the men were alive.)

Fumes Cause Asphyxiation

The disaster claimed the life of 45-year-old Traian Lucaci in its early stages. An employee at East Malartic Mine for the past year, Lucaci sought to make his way towards the mine mouth he had reached the eighth level before the fumes from the fire caused asphyxiation.

The fire, according to one theory, started from a lighted cigaret stub dropped in the lunchroom of the No. 4 shaft after the men had their midnight meal on the 10th. level. This would be approximately 2,200 feet below the ground.

Those trapped were listed as follows: Fernand Morel, Heliodore Aubin, Prosper Cossette, Gerard Dube, Marcel Chabot, [illegible] Dit[illegible]ny Jean Charles Rheault, Albert Beaupre, Robert Poitras, Edgar Lacroix, John Gunn MacDonald.

Assistant mine manager W. Griffin expressed confidence as the rescue work went on without any sign of letup that the men were still alive even though no communication with them had been established. Of the fire he remarked: "There is more smoke and smouldering than anywhere else."

Hundreds of Deer Starved to Death In Peterborough Cty. During Winter

Peterborough, April 25 —(CP) —Hundreds of deer starved to death in the woods in the northern part of Peterborough county during the past winter, men coming out of that section said today. William Church, who lives near Mount Julian, has already found nine on his 100 acre farm and "from what I can see of the situation there must be scores of dead deer lying all over the place."

"There are hundreds of deer around my property at the present time and due to the heavy snowfalls they have had a tough time finding enough to eat," he said. "Generally when the winter is very hard and food scarce I throw out what hay I can spare but this year I have been unable to do so.

"A few days ago I was cutting cedar and left what I thought enough cedar tops to feed the deer until they can forage around. To my surprise all these cedar tops were gone within three days."

Mr. Church added that the deer were so tame he could walk right up to them and handle them. "They are tame with hunger and every one is so weak and thin it will not attempt to run away."

See Hopes Gone For Unity Over Global Police

By LARRY HAUCK

New York, April 25—(AP)— The military staff committee of the United Nations was reported today to have abandoned hopes of reaching unanimous agreement on several basic factors for a global police force.

Resuming its secret sessions, the committee turned to lesser principles in a drive to complete its first report by April 30.

A source familiar with the work of the committee said there would be no formal vote but that all the dissenting views— mostly Russian—would be shown in the body of the summary going to the parent security council.

Major points of difference included those covering availability of bases for the international force, the type of contributions by the Big Five powers, and plans for withdrawal of troops after the end of an emergency.

Motorist Has 'Squeeze' Put On, Car Damaged

That is does not always pay to guess at what the driver in front is going to do was learned to his sorrow by a Peterborough motorist when driving on Dundas St., this morning.

The Peterborough driver was following another car east on Dundas Street when near the William Street intersection the car ahead slowed down. Thinking the driver ahead was going to turn left the Peterborough motorist attempted to pass on the right only to have the "squeeze" put on as the driver ahead unexpectedly turned to the right and forced him into a telephone pole. Both sides of the car were damaged with the damages being amicably settled between the two parties.

In a second accident occurring shortly after midnight the light standard near the Bozalak Tool and Supply Company on Front Street, came to grief as an army truck mounted the curb and struck the pole.

Driver of the truck, Earl Cloutier, Ottawa, but presently stationed at the Belleville Armouries, was driving north when the accident happened. When the light standard was broken electric wires were shorted, burning them off.

Board Takes No Immediate Action on Matter of Equal Pay For Men and Women Teachers

Belleville Board of Education will take no immediate action on the matter of equal pay for women and men teachers having equal responsibility in local schools. The Finance Committee of the board at their April 11th meeting recommended that the above matter be referred to the board for future consideration and the recommendation was ratified by board members at their last open meeting.

However, initial salaries for public school teachers having up to three years' experience were discussed with new starting salary minimums being established. These recommendations were again ratified by board members at their regular meeting.

Under the new schedule of starting salaries for public school teachers in Belleville, lady assistants and music supervisor minimums will be $1,500 with that of assistant principals (men assistants) being $1,800. The starting salary for principals will be $2,000 and that of a school nurse, $1,600. Bonuses contained in the former salary schedule will apply.

Maximum up $200

The board also voted for the maximum salary provided in the schedule for lady teachers to be increased by $200 with bonus to apply as formerly, while the maximum of the school nurse will be $2,100 with travelling allowance increased to $200. per annum.

Maximum salaries of members of the Collegiate Vocational School staff were also increased $200 with the schedule to be adjusted to allow $100 per year up to four years for experience.

A recommendation was made to the board that consideration be given to the adoption of plans of accumulative sick leave and retirement allowance in accordance with the provisions of the school acts and regulations.

Three New Teachers

Three new teachers have accepted appointment to the public school staff with contracts having been signed. The new teachers are Miss Aileen B. Tanner who has been assigned to Queen Victoria School where she will take charge of the Kindergarten class, Miss Jean Price and Miss Mary Rutherford.

Enrolment in the four public schools was given by the inspector's report as 1707 for the month of March with attendance for the month being 93.38 per cent.

The appointment of Mr. A. E. Johnston of Brockville as art teacher for a probationary year commencing next September was confirmed.

Fire hose and fire fighting equipment in all the four public schools and Collegiate will be brought up to date with recommendations from the Property and Supply Committee, Alex Nathan, Chairman, authorizing the purchase of new equipment where necessary.

Policy Recommended

A liability insurance policy was recommended taken out with Davison and Davison, local insurance agency with approval given for accident insurance for secondary school pupils. The insurance will cover a $50 medical reimbursment for pupils while on any school activity, the coverage being purchased as an endorsement to the liability policy. The accident insurance will be sold at cost to the pupils, with all student to be included and the cost to be borne by the Students' Council.

An enrolment of 141 boys and 174 girls in the Vocation school was reported by Principal G. E. Currie. The principal reported that the evening classes conducted during the winter months had experienced a successful year with registration being considerably higher than the year previous. The term was finished with an enrolment of 40 more than last year. It was felt the classes were fulfilling a very important community need.

The Collegiate enrolment was stated to total 493 composed of 235 boys and 258 girls. This represents 61.1 per cent of the total Collegiate Vocational school enrolment.

Rider Attached To Jury's Verdict In Man's Death

A rider recommending that the city engineer and public works chairman inspect Dundas Street at Albert College with the view of improving traffic conditions at this point was attached to the verdict of a coroner's jury given Thursday evening at the adjourned inquest looking into the death of Cecil Mahon, R.C.A.F. who was burned to death in a wrecked car in the early morning of March 21st, last.

The jury returned a verdict of accidental death with the above recommendation attached. The inquest was held in the city police station before Coroner Dr. J. J. Robertson with Assistant Crown Attorney S. Gordon Robertson, acting for the Crown.

Donald Kosedy, also of the R.C.A.F., who was a passenger in the car driven by Mahon, in giving evidence at the inquest, stated that he had been with Mahon when the accident occurred. The speed of the car was estimated at approximately 80 miles per hour just prior to the accident. The car went out of control and struck a hydro pole and tree after which it caught fire.

Kosedy managed to escape from the auto, but stated he could do nothing to extricate the driver from the burning car. Mahon's parents reside in Sudbury.

Speaker Traces History Of National Grocers

Mr. R. Hachborn, manager of National Grocers was guest speaker at the regular Thursday evening Y's Men's dinner meeting, when he compared old times general store and wholesaler to the modern set-up. The speaker traced the history of the National Grocers since its formation in 1925 up to the present time with its 33 branches, and an annual turnover of over $50,000,000.

Speaking of the increased cost of food, the speaker declared that the average family spent 40 per cent of income on food. He compared pre-war prices to present day prices, and showed the amounts of specific foods used in a month by a shopping area similar to Belleville. Men's Commercial Bowling League Holds Banquet

A fitting climax to a highly successful season was marked last night by the Men's Commercial Bowling League with a banquet and social get together held at "Ye Olde Barbecue" restaurant.

There was the delicious meal served by mine host George DeVuyst. There were presentations and brief addresses, and above all a fine spirit of camaraderie that augurs well for the coming season.

George Barnes, manager of the Bowl-O-Drome, where the league held forth, was the guest speaker for the occasion with Ed. Patrick secretary treasurer of the league, acting as chairman.

Members of the ten teams that comprise the league were in attendance, and their representatives, or captains, announced that all squads would be back for another banner year of bowling competition.

Ashley Furs, the team that won the championship of the league, were presented with handsome individual silver cups. Brief addresses of appreciation were given by members of the championship team.

At the election of officers held during the banquet, H. Nesbitt was elected president for the coming year with Ed. Patrick re-elected as secretary treasurer.

Appreciation of the co-operation extended by officials and members of all teams in the league was voiced and verbal tribute was paid to Manager Barnes of the Bowl-O-Drome for his assistance and co-operation.

Search Premises, Quiz 60 Persons Over Robbery

Toronto, Apr. 25 (CP).—Local thieves were blamed by police today for the Wednesday night robbery of the College-Bathurst streets branch of the Royal Bank of Canada and detectives who worked all night combing underworld haunts questioned some 60 persons and searched dozens of premises in a hunt for clues.

Although no accurate check has yet been made of the amount taken in one of the most daring and largest bank robberies in Toronto's history, both police and bank officials believe it will be considerably less than the first-reported $250,000.

To speed up checking the amount of the loss and interviewing holders of the 77 safety deposit boxes violated by three hooded gunmen, additional help has been sent to the branch. Cash, bonds, jewelry and securities were taken by the overall clad robbers who held up a caretaker to gain access to the boxes.

A second recommendation passed regarding the department was that the present age limit of the fire department be enforced with the position of fire chief to be exempt from the ruling.

Pleads Guilty To Second Degree Murder of Wife

Buffalo, N.Y., April 25. (CP)—A plea of guilty to a second degree murder charge has been entered by Frank G. Werner, 39, in the January 3 killing of his estranged wife, Thelma, 38.

A sentence of 20 years to life imprisonment is mandatory.

Werner stopped his four-day-old first degree murder trial yesterday before Supreme Court Justice Lee L. Ottaway, agreeing to plead guilty to the lesser charge just as Betty Irene Wood, 22, New York city, whom he married bigamously last November, was about to testify as a prosecution witness.

The State charged that Werner beat and strangled his first wife and pushed her from second storey window after she had consented but later refused to give a divorce.

Alleged Attempt To Steal Truck, Youth is Held

James Jackson, 20, Purdy St., is in custody and faces a charge of theft as result of an alleged attempt to steal a Smith Transport truck from where it was parked on Front street while the driver was getting a cup of coffee.

The officer on the beat apprehended Jackson as he was running up an alley near Baker's Fruit Store on Front street and taking him to the station there found the transport driver who was reporting the attempted theft of his vehicle.

Driver of the truck Walter Seip, Toronto, stated he had parked his transport in front of the city hall just at midnight. On emerging from the restaurant he said he had been surprised to see his truck start to move away from the parking space. Seeing he was observed the party stopped the truck and when Seip attempted to take him to the police station he made his getaway up a nearby alley.

At the police station Seip identified Jackson as the one who had attempted to take his truck.

The boy, Patrick, three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Stephenson, is receiving penicillin injections every two hours during the motor trip between the two cities.

Dr. Fergus O'Connor, Jr., and his wife are piloting the mercy car. Young Patrick swallowed the nail while playing in the living room of his home here last Wednesday. He was taken to hospital where Dr. O'Connor and Dr. J. G. McBroom tried in vain to remove the obstruction.

Dr. O'Connor immediately offered to take the child to a Philadelphia specialist who has been identified as Dr. C. L. Jackson.

Syosset, N. Y., April 25—(AP)—A woman, apparently ending a large evening on Long Island, hailed the last train out of here last night at the last possible minute.

Wearily, the conductor pulled the cord again, as he told her:—"You're in Syosset, lady."

ship's Reeve Ann Shipley for "a more diplomatic approach", the meeting decided to make a strong protest. They made little mention of a conference several days ago in Toronto when a group of provincial cabinet ministers promised to set up a special committee to bring about "a final solution to the tax issue.

Among the members would be one representative from the Department of Mines, one from the Department of Municipal Affairs and one from the Association. Yesterday's meeting decided to name two delegates to the committee—Reeve Victor Evans of Tisdale and Reeve Shipley.

No Solution Recommended

Several delegates, who mentioned that the government had gone to "considerable expense" in setting up a Royal Commission on mining, said that the commission, after lengthy hearings and much travelling, had recommended no practical solution to the mining area's financial predicament.

Reeve Shipley said the association had pressed throughout a year for action but that the cabinet committee did nothing until the very day a Northern Ontario deputation arrived at Toronto.

"I think the solution was arrived at the same morning we had an appointment to see the government," she declared.

Reeve Evans said the premier himself had endeavored to remedy the situation but said he was doubtful whether any members of his cabinet "have the capacity to understand the situation." He charged that "inner-department rivalry and friction between the ministers of the Crown" were factors in the government's "inaction".

'Anzac Day' Is Celebrated

By WILLIAM STEWART
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Canberra, April 25 — (CP) — Thousands of Australian soldiers, sailors and airmen, and women who gave wartime service, marched today in remembrance of Australia's 80,000 dead in two world wars.

The occasion was the 32nd anniversary of the landing of the Australian and New Zealand Army Corps at Gallipoli in 1915, launching the abortive eight-month battle to open a short Allied supply route to Russia thru the Dardanelles.

The anniversary, now called "Anzac Day," and for Australians and New Zealanders a more important day of Remembrance than Nov. 11, was observed everywhere in the two British dominions of the Pacific.

The King and Queen, departing from South Africa, sent an Anzac Day message to Australia and Field Marshal Montgomery, who is due to visit Australia in June, made a special broadcast about Gallipoli and El Alamein.

106-YEAR-OLD MOTHER HAS BIRTHDAY PARTY

Los Angeles, April 25 — (AP)— It's about time mother had a birthday party, the children of 106-year-old Mrs. Vidala Tellez decided.

So they're going to throw a big one for her next Monday, with her five children, 30 grandchildren and 25 great-grandchildren, plus friends, invited. But Mrs. Tellez, born in New Mexico, took the news calmly, going about her usual Thursday washing.

"This will be the first real birthday party my mother has ever had," eldest son Anastacio, 75, said proudly.

Police said several bullet wounds were found in the man's head, one shot having shattered his eye glasses. A number of .32-calibre shells were found in the car.

TREMOR RECORDED

Buenos Aires, April 25 —(AP) —A heavy earthquake believed to have occurred in northern Colombia, was recorded yesterday. Scientists said they feared considerable damage must have been caused if the earthquake struck populated territory.

Jewish Resistance Necessary Says Henry Wallace

Paris, April 25 (AP)—Henry A. Wallace declared today that a Jewish resistance movement in Palestine had been necessary to "arouse the conscience of the world."

Expressing faith that Britain would solve the Holy Land problem and hope that it would "carry out the original Balfour declaration," the former Americn Vice-President told a press conference that "there can never be peace in the world until justice has been done the Jewish people."

"I sympathize with the British and I deplore terrorism," Wallace said. "I have never believed in force of arms or force of money. But we do have to recognize facts.

"I think it has been necessary for the Jews to conduct what amounts to a resistance movement of their own to arouse the conscience of the world.

"I hope that the acts of terrorism will now cease and that the British people will carry out the original Balfour declaration."

The Balfour declaration of Nov. 2, 1927, put the British government on record as favoring the establishment in Palestine of a National Home for the Jewish people.

Pat Sullivan Forming New Seamen's Union

Montreal, April 25 —(CP)— J. A. (Pat) Sullivan, who resigned from the presidency of the Canadian Seamen's Union a month ago, denouncing it as a Communist-controlled organization, went aboard ships in Montreal harbor today and told seamen about a new union he plans to form.

Officers on some ships at first refused the C.S.U. founder permission to come aboard when he walked up the gangplanks, the constitution of his new organization under his arm, but when crews asked that he be allowed to speak he was admitted to the ships.

Sullivan shook hands with each seaman and briefly told them of the formation of the Canadian Lake Sailors' Union which he said would have no political or religious affiliation but would be a group built entirely for the seamen by the seamen themselves.

Every sailor would be welcomed, but Sullivan warned that any members who tried to bring political or religious matters into the union would be asked "to hang their hats outside."

Headquarters for the new union would be in Montreal and branch offices would be opened in Quebec, Toronto, the Welland Canal and at Port Colborne.

Until a convention was called here next winter Sullivan was taking over presidency of the union, he said. The convention, however, would elect a president of its choice as well as members of the executive.

John Harding, former Maritimes union leader and recently president of the Great Lakes Sailors' Union, would be secretary-treasurer for the time being and other officials would be Louis Mastroluca and Lucien Plante, also former officials of the G.L.S.U.

Sullivan said he had 11,000 signed applications and by the end of the season he expected to double that number.

"I was utterly amazed at the reception I have received," Sullivan said in an interview. From the crews I have spoken to they are almost 100 per cent behind me. They appear anxious to do away with anything that is Communist tainted. I have told them I am with them in their fight to retain their good working condition and that we don't aim to let them down."

Wallace Denied Use of Hollywood Bowl for Speech

Hollywood, April 25. (AP)—The Progressive Citizens of America have been denied the use of Hollywood Bowl for a speech by former Vice President Henry Wallace, C. E. Toberman, president of the Bowl, said last night.

"The directors decided the Bowl should not be used as a springboard for ideologies foreign to the majority thought at this time," Toberman asserted. "The Bowl always has stressed cultural aspects and avoided controversy."

However, officials admitted it was the first turndown "in recent years—and one of the few in the 26-year history of the Bowl."

The Bowl in the past has been the scene of numerous political addresses.

Robert W. Kenny, former State Attorney General and Southern California chairman of P.C.A., said the organization would "not take 'no' for an answer on the Bowl until we have made a more formal presentation of our position; we had made only a preliminary request."

FIVE PIN FOUNDER — Tommy J. Ryan, who originated five-pin bowling in 1912, is shown with Mrs. Isabelle Adams, president of the ladies' division of the Canadian Bowling Association. The 21st annual five-pin tournament of the CBA is being held currently at Karry's Teraulay St. alleys, Toronto.

He will be mourned by all those who had the privilege of having known him, who were legion, for he was an outstanding man who touched the life about him in every phase and left a heritage of affection and the knowledge of one, whom to have known was one of the privileges of life. Not only in this area and part of Ontario was he known but also across the province by the very reason of his fine social and mental qualities and gifts.

Byron Lott was in fact an institution and a very real part of the life of his community, his country and his province.

He had contacts with many generations, the generations he knew and admired when he was very young, his own generation and then as the years passed over his head he knew the oncoming generations. He loved life and he loved people so that to the last day there was probably no one so well known and whom so many called friend as Byron O. Lott.

He created in everyone the feeling that here was a man of strength of mind and spirit as well as of body, a man who was deeply interested in everyone and the community and province in which he lived. He was a rugged figure, he possessed the spirit of independence and lived the vigorous and active life he loved so well. His interests in life were wide and though he had reached the patriarchal age, no one thought of him as aged, for his interest in life was as keen as that of the young. His outlook throughout his long years was something vital, receiving inspiration from the people and the events in the world around him and shedding inspiration among the people and about the life of his time. He had all the enthusiasm of a great man and found life interesting in every sphere. He had bridged the gap in years between the middle of the nineteenth century and the middle of the twentieth century in his life span but no boy was more the exponent of this age than Mr. Lott in his zeal and other fine qualities. In his nineties he was as keenly interested and as enthusiastic as in his earlier days.

He had the blood of the rugged United Empire Loyalist coursing in his veins and he found in the community where he spent his years opportunity to lay the foundation of a useful and long-to-be-remembered life. His forbears were pioneers who laid the foundations of Ontario deep and firm. Throughout his life might be seen the spirit of the Loyalists. In him the spirit of his ancestors lived and through him their spirit has been felt by many a Canadian, and resident of Ontario, and of Hastings County, and Quinte district. He was a farmer by birth and by choice and no Canadian was ever more loyal to agriculture than he.

This spirit and sense of duty and manhood made it impossible for him ever to lose the most intimate contact with the people of his countryside and of the larger county centres.

He was a staunch Liberal in his political views.

Byron Lott leaves the memory of an active, and very kindly and friendly man, keenly interested in the welfare of the life around him and of his day and age. He was an ardent patriot and a lover of his fellowmen.

There is universal sorrow at the death of a man who epitomised a true Canadian and a feeling of poignancy of grief at the manner of his passing. He will long be remembered.

Will Use Jet for Record

Sir Malcolm Campbell will make an attempt this spring to set a new world's water record in England. The boat he will use is the Bluebird Two, with which he established the world water speed record of 141.7 m.p.h. in August, 1939. The two 1800 h.p. engines will be replaced by a jet engine (Goblin). This engine is identical with that fitted to the Vampire fighter plane with the exception that a few modifications have been necessary to adapt the machine to the fuel system of the boat. The boat will rely for propulsion entirely on the reaction from the jet stream. The power available at speed will be equivalent to an orthoroc engine and screw installation developing 3000 h.p.

Because smooth water is essential for the attempt on the record, the runs will be carried out on Lake Coniston, in Lancashire, where there are no boats to cause any wash.

It is expected there will be a great deal learned from the use of a jet engine in the boat. Sir Malcolm says that he would never be able to do the great speed the boat will be capable of because of the danger of lifting off the surface of the water.

One World for Wise Worms

Now take those worms that flew to Panama . . .

We are not, of course, referring to any friends or business acquaintances who may have made the trip lately. We mean those 11,000 earthworms who proved that even a worm can turn air-minded. We, if not they, should appreciate that the whole world's one, whether one's fate is to serve as the breakfast of a robin in the Bronx or the appetizer of an exiled Australian platypus in the Pacific? says the Christian Science Monitor.

As they started on the first lap of their journey to save three platypi from starvation before these rare creatures could reach the New World, they emerged from undistinguished wormhood into the larger world of international crisis, relief projects, rescue expeditions, mass deportations. One might almost have quoted at them Emerson's words

> And striving to be man, the worm
> Mounts through all the spires of form.

This epic flight should at least challenge the worm's-eye view of some earthbound mopers who still try to wriggle out of the huge world opening before man's upward gaze.

Long Arm of Public Health

There have been some cases of smallpox in New York City, and vaccination suddenly has become popular. A young woman from Ottawa, visiting in New York, was exposed to the disease, was checked by the health authorities of that city, and was vaccinated. Then she left for home, to be followed by an official letter from New York to the Ottawa Department of Health. Would Ottawa, said New York, please get in touch with this young woman, see that she was all right and make certain the vaccination had been effective. Ottawa would, and did—the young woman had not contracted smallpox and the vaccination had taken.

Here was a medium through which it was possible that the New York smallpox would be transmitted to Ottawa, and the health officials of two cities automatically took the necessary protective steps. It is good to know that such health-machinery exists, and that an international boundary is no obstacle to its operation. — Ottawa Journal.

Some of the glamor and color will be missing from Victoria Day celebrations due to the ban on the sale of skyrockets, but the measure is one of sane safety. These are devices dangerous to both life and property.

All forms of fireworks, of course, have elements of risk in them. They should be handled with the utmost care, and only by or under the supervision of adults. Skyrockets, however, are things that pass beyond the control of those sending them up, and there have been numerous instances of their remnants, still glowing, falling on people and buildings. We shall all be safer without them, say Windsor Star.

IMPORTANT CHOICE

Nothing so important quite
As the choice 'twixt wrong and right.
In the trades and crafts and arts
That's where reputation starts.
That is where for all the years
Boys set out on their careers.

Some from standards high will part,
Asking merely "Is it smart?"
Others questioning include
"Is it clever?" "Is it shrewd?"
These may reputations blight.
Son, ask only "Is it right?"

If for what is right you've striven,
Blunders made will be forgiven.
In a lifetime it occurs
Human judgment often errs,
But your character stays white,
Once you've settled: Is it right?

Engineers Advocate World-Wide Ban For Generation

Chicago, April 25 — (AP) — Two engineers who helped construct the Oak Ridge atomic bomb plant today proposed a world-wide ban for an entire generation on the development of industrial atomic power to avoid the "risk" of atomic warfare.

The benefits of industrial atomic power are "not worth the risk," they contended.

The suggestion was advanced in the bulletin of the atomic scientists by Cuthbert Daniel, a chemical engineer, and Arthur M. Squires, a physical chemist.

They contended no pressing need existed for industrial atomic power and that the huge facilities required for producing such power could be converted into bomb-making.

They said the United States and the Soviet Union were "poles apart" on the issue of international inspection of atomic energy plants and that there was "the deep conviction on each side that the other is trying to outmanoeuvre, surround and eventually overpower it."

Their proposal contemplated a world-wide agreement banning new atomic industrial plants and creation of an atomic development authority for world geological surveys, inspections and research.

As soon as safeguards were adopted, they proposed that American atomic bomb plants be dismantled and their supplies of fissionable materials distributed for research.

"If our generation establishes peace, any future generation can establish nuclear power; if our generation fails to establish peace, no one for many generations can develop nuclear power or anything else," they said.

Auto Workers Settle With G.M.

Detroit, April 25 — (AP) — The United Automobile Workers (C.I.O.) settled with General Motors Corporation last night for an 11½-cent basic hourly wage increase, but U.A.W. president Walter P. Reuther said the union had gained "a tital economic package well over 15 cents."

The new agreement was expected to set a pattern for the auto industry's wage drive this year.

Under its terms 220,000 General Motors production workers will get, in addition to the hourly boost, pay for six holidays which the corporation said is equal to an additional 3½ cents an hour, and new vacation benefits.

"This contract means more financially than the union's earlier offer to settle for a flat 15 cents," Reuther declared.

Louis G. Seaton, G. M. director of labor relations, and Reuther announced that these three points were covered in the pact:

1—An 11½-cent hourly increase to take effect as of April 24, subject to ratification by the union May 5.

2—Six paid holidays — New Year's, Memorial Day, (May 30), July 4, Labor Day, Thanksgiving and Christmas — for employees with six months seniority on the job.

3—Improved vacation and "call-in pay" benefits. This includes pay in lieu of a vacation on the basis of 40 hours pay for employees with one year's seniority on July 1 this year; 60 hours for those with three years and 80 hours for those with five years.

The "call-in-pay" amount referring to pay for workers who, for reasons beyond their own control, find no work after being called in was raised from three to 4 hours wages.

Reuther appeared before the union's rank and file representatives immediately after the settlement was announced. The council voted with only three negative voices to recommend ratification to their locals.

BILL AMENDING

Four Liberals and two Progressive Conservative members for the motion. They were Bona Arsenault (L-Bonaventure) David Croll (L—Toronto Spadina), W. M. Benidickson (L—Kenora-Rainy River), Benoit Michaud (L — Restigouche-Madawaska), John Diefenbaker (PC—Lake Centre) and John Hackett (PC—Stanstead).

Before the vote was taken Labor Minister Mitchell took issue with members who spoke in favor of lifting all restrictions against the movement of Japanese and said it was easy for persons who had no responsibil- what should be done.

With the amendment out of the members quickly passed on division—without a formal vote—sections prohibiting the granting of fishing licences to Japanese, and sections dealing with the disposition of Japanese property.

After the House opened, Finance Minister Abbott said he planned to bring down his budget next Tuesday at 8 p.m. EDT.

External Affairs Minister St. Laurent announced that Canada has agreed in principle to a United States proposal that proposed deep seaway projects on the St. Lawrence be made self-liquidating through tolls on shipping using the route.

In the Senate, approval was given a bill to make the week of April 10 National Wild Life Week. The bill was initiated in the Commons by John R. MacNicol (PC—Toronto Davenport).

Wants Test Removed

Speaking in the pensions debate, Garfield Case (PC—Grey North) called for the removal of the Means Test so elderly people could put something away for their old age. He said he also would call the payment a "Retirement Allowance" rather than an Old Age Pension.

Mr. Green said there had been an "utter failure" on the part of the Dominion government to recognize the plight of pensioners.

The Dominion had looked on pensions as being primarily a provincial responsibility. The government was hiding behind the provinces on the question. He referred to the Dominion's offer to the provinces in 1945 to pay the full cost of a $30-a-month pension to all over 70 and half the cost of pensions to needy persons between 65 and 69.

The government had used the aged as a "pawn" or a "club" to get the provinces to give up taxes and enter a new taxation agreement.

Wants Pension at 65

Stanley Knowles (CCF—Winnipeg North Centre) said pensions should be payable at 65 and should have attached to them a cost-of-living allowance and provision for hospitalization. The Means Test should be abolished.

T. J. Bentley (CCF—Swift Current) urged that it should be possible for an aged couple to receive pensions. He said the present law prohibited the payment of pensions to the wives of men already in receipt of a pension.

John Blackmore (SC—Lethbridge) said the Social Credit party advocated a pension of $50 a month for all persons 60 and over.

Arthur Smith (PC—Calgary West) said it was time the members stopped "bidding" for the votes of pensioners by offering $50, $60 or $70 a month. He hoped the new bill would provide for generous rates.

On the Japanese question J. A. Macdonnell (PC—Muskoka Ontario) said he was against racial discrimination but that if the restrictions against the Japanese were lifted now it would mean that the whole problem would be thrown back into the lap of British Columbia and this would be unfair.

Mr. Mitchell agreed and said if the restrictions were lifted there likely would be an overnight trek of Japanese back to British Columbia from other parts of Canada. He denied charges that the Japanese had been persecuted or cruelly treated.

The Day in Parliament

(By The Canadian Press)

Today:

The Commons continues its debate on control legislation. The Senate will not sit.

Thursday:

The Commons heard Finance Minister Abbott announce that the budget will be presented April 29; heard External Affairs Minister St. Laurent say Canada has agreed in principle to imposing tolls on the proposed St. Lawrence seaway; heard Health Minister Martin announce a resolution to a bill amending the Old Age Pension Act will be introduced Monday; heard Howard Green (PC—Vancouver South) charge that delay on the pension question was a "disgrace to the country and to parliament"; defeated by a vote of 105 to 31 a C.C.F. amendment which would have cancelled Wartime Orders-in-Council giving the government power to move Japanese from British Columbia.

The Senate approved a bill to make the week of April 10 National Wild Life Week.

METHOD IN THE PROFESSOR'S MADNESS

I was in Alaska trapping for four years. I was often forced to wear insufficient clothing for comfort. During all that time I did not have even a faint suggestion of C-R-I. In order to prevent gullible readers from reverting to nineteenth century superstitions you should comment on this drivel.

(L.S.N.)

The drivel to which L. S. N. refers is a newspaper item headed "Expert Says Cold Not Contagious," in which a professor of medicine (I omit the name because it is only his view of teaching I combat) purporting to be not only an "expert" on "the common cold" (whatever that may be—certainly the professor cannot define or describe such an entity) but an authority on heart disease and a past president of the American College of Physicians reasserts the medical myth, namely, that you get a cold from wet feet in the spring or from wearing insufficient clothing in the fall.

To substantiate his belief or teaching the professor said "studies have shown persons living alone or in sparsely settled areas get colds in the spring and fall as regularly as those living in crowded cities."

Stefansson and his party lived for months and years in the Arctic without contact with civilization or human beings except occasionally Eskimos or Indians and none of them had any illness or indisposition that even a professor expert on the 'common cold" could call a "cold". This in spite of the fact that they often had wet feet and slept in wet or very damp clothes.

Theodora C. Stanwell-Fletcher in her book "Driftwood Valley" comments on the extraordinary freedom from "colds" she and her husband experienced while they were isolated in northern British Columbia 1½ years—where they certainly had wet feet in the spring and suffered from the bitter cold in the winter. But soon after they reached a trading post or settlement where they came in contact with other human beings the Stanwell-Fletchers, like the members of the Stefansson party, were again susceptible to the respiratory infection which some 19th century medical authorities like to call "colds."

From the quaint views of this professor one might infer that communicable disease can be caught only from crowd or a considerable number of people. That's illogical. A single individual may infect one with whatever he or she happens to have or with the makings if he or she is a "carrier" of the germ. Moreover, an individual not yet noticeably ill or not ill enough to stop work or play may nevertheless be coming down with one or another of the respiratory infections are most communicable in the stage of invasion before even the best doctor can tell just what the trouble may prove to be.

Honestly, folks and doctors, I suspect there is method in the professor's madness and sometimes I wonder whether the same method doesn't impair the vision of a good many practitioners. My suspicion is that old timers in practice hate to give up the "cold" myth because it is so darned handy for stringing the patient along without a diagnosis when you don't know or are incompetent to find out what ails him.

Stop me if I'm wrong, fellows—but I'll take nothing you say about "colds" or "the common cold" seriously unless you first define what you are talking about so that I may understand you.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

Has a Vice President succeeding to the presidency ever delivered an inaugural address?

No Vice President upon succeeding to an unexpired term as President has delivered an inaugural address when sworn in.

John Tyler, the first Vice President to succeed to the presidency because of a President's death, was in Virginia when President Harrison died shortly after midnight April 4, 1841. He reached Washington early in the morning April 6 and Chief Justice William Cranch of the Circuit Court of the District of Columbia administered the oath to him in Brown's Indian Queen Hotel at noon, nearly three days and six hours after Harrison's death.

President Zachary Taylor died July 9, 1850, and Justice Cranch administered the oath to Vice President Millard Fillmore in the hall of the House of Representatives at noon the next day.

Chief Justice Chase administered the oath to Vice President Andrew Johnson in the Kirkwood Hotel within three hours after Lincoln died April 15, 1865.

President Garfield died September 19, 1881, and Vice President Chester A. Arthur was sworn in the next day in his home in New York City by Justice John F. Brady of the New York Supreme Court, but two days later he was sworn in again in Washington by Chief Justice Waite.

Vice President Theodore Roosevelt was in the Adirondacks when he learned September 13, 1901, that President McKinley was dying and hurried to Buffalo. McKinley died at 2:15 a.m. September 14 and U. S. District Judge John R. Hazen administered the oath to Roosevelt in the home of Ansley Wilcox in the afternoon of the same day. Unlike Arthur, Roosevelt did not have the oath repeated by the Chief Justice in Washington.

President Harding died at San Francisco late in the night August 2, 1923, Vice President Calvin Coolidge was at the time asleep in his father's home at Plymouth, Vermont. When the Vice President learned of the President's death about 2:40 a.m. August 3, he got up and had the oath administered to him by his father in the sitting room by the light of a kerosene lamp. Although Colonel John Calvin Coolidge was a notary public and competent to administer oaths, President Coolidge decided to have the oath administered again in Washington as a precautionary measure. This was done in private August 21, 1923, by Justice Adolph A. Hoehling of the District of Columbia Supreme Court in a room in the Willard Hotel.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, who was inaugurated in the White House grounds for a fourth term January 20, 1945, died at Warm Springs, Georgia, April 12, 1945, and Vice President Harry S. Truman took the oath as President in the White House the same day.

Price Structure In United States Out of Balance

New York, April 25 —(AP)— The price structure of the United States remained out of balance today after a month of wide discussion sparked by President Truman.

Although reductions were spotted here and there, the American consumer found many prices unchanged and some increased.

Some analysts said the prices of too many "key commodities" were as yet untouched for recent spectacular reductions to be followed by a general retail decline soon.

Many retailers, in spite of post-Easter sales, slashes in hard-to-move goods, and publicized across-the-board cuts by communities, said they could do little about general price reductions until manufacturers did.

An Associated Press survey showed declines in spot wholesale prices of the following commodities April 24 as compared with a week ago: Scrap steel, turpentine, eggs, cocoa, coffee, flour, lard, butter, hogs, corn, and oats.

Increases were reported in hides, cattle, lamb, rye, and cotton.

Unchanged in price were: cement rubber, bituminous coal, petroleum, linseed oil, steel billets, lumber, burlap, sugar, wheat, wool, rayon, cotton cloth, silk antimony, tin, zinc, lead, and copper.

Analysts noted that, with the exception of scrap steel and turpentine, the great "basic industries" raw materials were unchanged, not only for the week but also since April 1.

The Associated Press commodity index of 35 commodities, based on 1926 prices as 180, stood at 173.90 April 24, compared with 175.15 April 18, and 179.50 April 11. The high for the year was 182.75 March 14 and the low 164.71 January 24.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Her 'Feelings Will Never Change'

I wonder how old a person has to be before he learns the fallacy of the conviction that one disappointment in love means a permanent, broken heart. Or to put it another way, how much experience must one have had to realize that it is impossible for even the deepest hurt to maintain its sharpness forever?

What I am trying to say, of course, is that when anyone makes the statement that "my feelings will never change," it simply means that he has not matured sufficiently to know that no human feeling can be static and that the mood of a moment, or a year, or perhaps even longer, must eventually change for the better.

None of this, I know, is going to convince the young lady who signs herself "Anonymous" to this letter:

"Dear Miss Fairfax:

"I have been going steady with a boy for a year now. I think he is very wonderful and I always will think so. We both cared for each other very much and had planned to get married as soon as possible.

"However, this boy has always been happy-go-lucky and always did and went where he pleased. This has been the only reason for disagreements. Recently, we had a little argument and after a discussion he told me maybe we had better not marry, since he was so uncertain of his moods and at any time might want to change his job or go away for awhile. He said he never wanted to hurt me and knew he would if he didn't learn to accept responsibility and be dependable.

"Everything is all off now, but I know my feelings will never change and I will never look for anyone else. I don't intend to marry just for a marriage certificate, because I never want to hurt anyone else, knowing I'd always be thinking of someone else.

"I know there's got to be a purpose in life for everyone and since I can't go on and on just making merry, I'd like to find out something. I'd like to have something of my very own. If I saved enough money, would there be any way possible for me to adopt a little baby from an orphanage and have a little place of my own? I'd like that very much, but I'm afraid there is some technicality which prohibits a single girl from adopting children. Is there any orphanage that allows this?

"Incidentally, I am 21 and please don't tell me I will change my mind some day and meet someone else. I know I won't."

This girl is obviously in no mood to be told anything. But she surprises me very much when she tells me that she is 21 years old. I would have thought she was about 15, because her letter is typically teen-age talk.

There is hardly a woman in the world who, during the teen age, has not gone through a phase of this sort, and there is hardly a woman in the world who has not lived through it and, in time, found that the particular incident receded so far into the background, both in time and in emotional feeling, that she could not recapture that emotion no matter how hard she tried. It just ceased to matter.

This girl is right in her belief that child adoption agencies are against permitting single women to adopt children over whose destiny the agencies have control. Exceptions are sometimes made where such agencies feel that a particular woman is a completely mature and reliable individual who would give the child the sort of standards and ideals that would make him into a well-balanced person. They definitely would never give a child to anyone who was unhealthily harping in her mind on something that happened years before.

I suggest that "Anonymous" think this over before deciding to devote the rest of her life to being sorry for herself.

A Relaxing Beauty Chore

After your shower have a brisk rubdown and friction with bath tonic

By HELEN FOLLETT

LUXURIATE in your daily bath. Close your eyes and rest your mind. You'll feel your nervous system snapping out of its tangles. Muscles will relax. It's grand to snatch fifteen minutes of complete relaxation. But don't overlook one little beautifying detail. That is the quick cold shower. Sure, it puts your teeth on edge, but what of it? It will put the bloom upon your cheeks, the kind that no drug store blush can duplicate.

Moist heat may have a tendency to soften the tissue padding under the skin and that is why it should not be used on the faces of those who have collected wrinkles with the years. The water should be just warm enough so that soap will fluff into a lather. Then cold water must be applied; it is an astringent, helps to tone muscles that have sagged.

Before getting into the tub remove make-up with a thin creamy cosmetic, letting some of it remain on. The combination of oil and steamy atmosphere has a wonderful effect upon appearance, removing the tired look and shadows under the eyes. Have a quick cold shower, a brisk rub down and a friction with bath tonic.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Vitality is necessary for high beauty rating

If one has youth and enough spending money to keep up a presentable wardrobe and indulge in sessions at the beauty shop, one has few pulchritude problems. Gown designers, coiffure stylists, milliners and cosmetic chemists make the going easy. Good-looking girls are prevalent; you see them everywhere. So, if one is to stand in the front ranks of the good-looks chorus, one must have beauty plus. It is the plus that counts.

You can call it personality if you like, or vitality, or the will to be, the will to do. You can spot all that in a woman's step, in the pose of her head, the intelligent expression in her eyes, in her friendly manner.

This type of woman lives intensely. She gets more out of life than the average woman, because she is alert, receptive to the ideas of other individuals. As a rule, she is a darling, old-shoe sort, putting on no frills. She is tolerant. She is the salt of the earth. When she comes through the door you know that somebody has arrived.

To stand in the front ranks, one must have beauty plus.

Mental vitality is a spark that lights a woman's countenance, producing a charming effect that no cosmetic makeshift can duplicate. Before it the weak, chiffony beauties do a fade-away.

Physical vitality is a factor that makes for a strong musculature and an energized body. When every part of the human machine is strong, all the motors running smoothly, there is greater likelihood of mental health. Many women who brood, complain, find fault and worry are women who are half sick, don't know what is the matter with them.

Ill health and fatigue deplete the spirits. So, if you are to enjoy a sense of well-being and vitality, you must give yourself proper care. Eat nourishing food; it is the fuel for the engine that is You. Sleep at regular hours and until you are thoroughly rested. Get all the sunlight and fresh air that you possibly can.

With the cheerful nature that is the reward of mental and physical health, no woman is colorless. She is not likely to drop into a rut. She is self-sustaining, finds herself good company, has many interests. You'll never catch her wearing a settled look.

She keeps busy because she realizes that activities are life builders, that idleness is rust and mildew. The more energy she expends, the more she seems to have.

She carries herself splendidly, because she lives splendidly. In her own way she is beautiful, because she thinks beauty all the time — beauty of character as well as appearance.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

A Young Guest's Courtesy to Her Host

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I know that a woman, dining with a man in a restaurant should give her order to her host, who relays both orders to the waiter. But what I would like to know is, what should a woman do when the waiter asks her directly for her choice of something on the menu.... for example, "What kind of ice cream would you like?" I feel awkward in not answering the waiter directly but if I do this I feel that my host will think that I am discourteously disregarding him. What should a gal do in this situation?

Norma

You must make your answer in some way that will show your host that you know that he, not the waiter, is in charge of the ordering and directing of the meal. So you may either look at your host in a most direct way and say what you want.... for example, "I would like coffee ice cream, please".... or continue to look at the menu-card as you say your preference.

For Their Silver Wedding Anniversary

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. My husband and I are to celebrate our Twenty-fifth wedding anniversary in May. The date falls on a Thursday, and we are wondering if it would be proper for us to celebrate on the Sunday before or the Sunday after the real date.

2. We want to have a very simple, informal party—Open House for our relatives and friends. Should I send invitations and if so; what kind?

C.R.

1. Since Sunday is generally a more convenient day for most people particularly when they have to travel any considerable distance the date of this kind of general party is often postponed to get the Sunday after (customarily not before) the real date.

2. For such an informal party you may, properly extend your invitations orally or by telephone. Or, always correct too for such a party are cordial little notes written either on note paper or on the inside pages of informals. Worded somewhat like this:

Dear Kathleen,

You and Tom will make Arthur and me very happy if you will come in on Sunday afternoon, May Fourth, to help us celebrate our twenty-fifth wedding anniversary. Please tell us that we can look forward to greeting you two dear friends sometime between four and seven o'clock.

Dearest love to you both from both of us.

Affectionately,
Claire

How To Use Serving Fork And Spoon

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you please tell me just exactly how I should use the serving fork and serving spoon when these are on the meat platter or dish of vegetables that is passed to me at table? Emily

Take the serving spoon in your right hand; the serving fork in your left hand. Use the spoon to separate or cut a portion, slip it under that portion, and then hold it in place with the fork, prongs down, while you transfer the portion to your plate.

When Tea and Coffee Are Served At Tea-Time

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. When both tea and coffee are served at a tea party is correct to use an average size cup for both the tea and the coffee? Or should the coffee be served in demitasse cups with after-dinner coffee spoons?

2. Is it correct to serve an oyster fork with a fruit cocktail?

3. Should a music teacher's card be engraved 'Mary L. Smith' or "Miss Mary L. Smith"?

A.R.

1. Usually when both tea and coffee are served at a tea-party, tea cups are used for both beverages.

2. No. With a fruit cocktail, a teaspoon is served.

3. For this professional card, "Miss Mary Lane Smith" would be correct. (Better not to use an initial on a formal card of this kind.)

The Movie Column

By HELEN BANNERMAN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Canada is getting more and with the announcement from Warner brothers that they will make a technicolor short featur on the famous Calgary Stampede The picture will be produced by George Hollingshead.

Dorothy Patrick from Winnipeg, who has been in demand since she played Mrs. Jerome Kern in "Till the Clouds Roll By," will have the romantic lead with Tom Drake in the Wallace Berry Film, "Alias the Gentleman" which goes into production next week.

stricken, the climax of the play revealed that the murder was to be a "fiction murder" and the "murderer" the author of a "thriller". The acting in the play was very well done by Ed Waterhouse as Tony Blake; Alice Mathews as Kay Blake and Bill Dack as Crocker, the butler.

Wins Second Place

Second place was awarded to St. Mary Magdalene's A.Y.P.A., Picton, who presented the drama "The Monkey's Paw" in a series of three tableaux. The story was woven around a fetish, in the form of a monkey's paw, upon which a spell had been laid by an Indian fakir. The owner of the fetish could make three wishes, all of which would be granted but each wish would also bring disaster to the wisher. The scenes took place in an old-fashioned living room, and were poignantly sad and filled also with suspense. The mother "Mrs. White" was portrayed by Dorothy Keep, who also won the award for the best actress in the festival. Ivan Coward took the part of the father, Mr. White, and Bill Juniper the part of their son, Herbert White, who met an untimely end because of the curse of the "Paw".

Sgt.-Major Morris, who brought the "paw" from India was well portrayed by David Dennison, while Leburn Leverton took the part of Mr. Sampson, who brought the news of their son's death to the White's. The play was directed by Edgar Keep.

The best actor in the Festival was James Wright in "Elmer Cleans Up", the comedy presented by St. John's Church, Stirling, which placed third. The scene was laid in a modern living room of a well-to-do couple, who had a son of eighteen, who spent his days in their attic, now called a studio, writing a best seller. The family did not appreciate his talent, until he shared with them real money he had received for his efforts. The boy was then a genius to his family, until it developed that the use of old love letters of his dad and mother, and modern ones of his sister, had furnished the theme of his "success". James Wright was perfect as the father, James Redfield, Verna Woodbeck gave a spirited portrayal of his wife, Clara. Lorene Archdekin was the sister, "May". Jack Hermiston was excellent in the role of "Elmer" and Barbara Prince good as Nancy Wayne, a friend of the family anxious to help Elmer along in his literary efforts. Fred Houchin was the director.

Comedy by Tweed Group Enjoyed

The comedy in "Mama's Baby Boy", act one, produced by St. James' Church, Tweed, brought down the house. The act was hilarious from start to finish and was greatly appreciated by the audience. Ana Thompson as "Minnie", the colored maid, probably caused the most laughs in the Festival although Jack Johnston as "Stephen McLean", the son of a widow anxious to appear younger than she is, and to make a second marriage, was responsible for many a laugh also. His acting was natural and excellent. Mrs. Graham Mouck portrayed the widow, Mrs. McLean. Mr. Graham Mouck, her suitor, Mr. L. Long and Betty McCulloch, his daughter, Juliet Long. The part of Carlotta Anglin, a social climber was taken by Mrs. O. Thurston and of Mrs. Blackburn, the elderly mother of Mrs. McLean by Laura Thompson. This play was directed by Miss Marjorie Elliott.

Frankford Players Present Act

A scene from the play "Our Town" was well presented by Trinity Church, Frankford, under the direction of Miss Valerie Madge. There was little action in the play but the parts, difficult to handle, were well taken. Lucy Green portrayed "Emily" a small town girl, Harold Ferguson was "George" her childhood sweetheart and Lloyd Gladwell "Mr Martin" a citizen of the town.

Mr. Beath Morden, for fifteen years associated with Little Theatre work was adjudicator and gave some good constructive criticism.

It is hoped to make these drama festivals an annual event and that more groups will compete next year.

Canada is getting more and with the announcement from Warner brothers that they will make a technicolor short feature on the famous Calgary Stampede. The picture will be produced by George Hollingshead.

Dorothy Patrick from Winnipeg, who has been in demand since she played Mrs. Jerome Kern in "Till the Clouds Roll By," will have the romantic lead with Tom Drake in the Wallace Berry Film, "Alias the Gentleman" which goes into production next week.

Larry Parks has an odd hope for an actor—he wants Columbia to throw his song in "Down to Earth" on the cutting room floor. Since "The Jolson Story" everyone has associated him with the voice of Al Jolson and he doesn't want to destroy the illusion.

Racing Note

Horse players may well keep their eyes on a colt named Valliant in Twentieth Century-Fox's "The Homestretch," which stars Cornel Wilde and Maureen O'Hara and has Margaret Bannerman, of Montreal and Winnipeg in a featured part. The role of Valliant as a three-year-old was taken by a half-brother of the famed Seabiscuit.

Joel McCrea and his wife Frances Dee will team up again for the cameras in "They Passed This Way." Their last appearance together was three years ago in "Wells Fargo."

Ingrid Bergman will head for Paris as soon as her Broadway play, "Joan of Lorraine," closes, to attend the premiere of "Arch de Triumph." Co-star Charles Boyer, Charles Laughton and Ruth Warrick will go along.

Anti Communists

Warner Brothers studio, which has concerned itself with social problems in the past in pictures like "Confessions of a Nazi Spy" "Black Fury," "I am a Fugitive From a Chain Gang" and "Hitler Lives," has announced intentions to devote several films to "Exposing the effects of Communism and Fascist influence on American democracy."

First of the series will be "Up Until Now," to be filmed mostly in Boston. The picture will deal with backsliding Americans "as well as outside enemies of our free institutions," says vice-president Jack L. Warner.

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Dana Andrews is the leading candidate to occupy the chair in "The Chair For Martin Rome" but there is no doubt about whether he likes the Henry Helseth novel about a man who escaped from prison long enough to keep his girl from being framed before he goes to the electric chair like Michael Redgrave Andrews is most particular about his parts.

Celest Holm will play in "Gentleman's Agreement" with Gregory Peck and Dorothy Maquire instead of in "Nightmare Alley." Joan Blondell takes her place in "Alley" with Tyrone Power.

Another major casting is Judy Garland and Spencer Tracy for "Years Ago," with Judy in the autobiographical role of author Ruth Gordon's early years as a stage-struck girl and Tracy as her father in the role which is bringing Frederic March such acclaim on Broadway

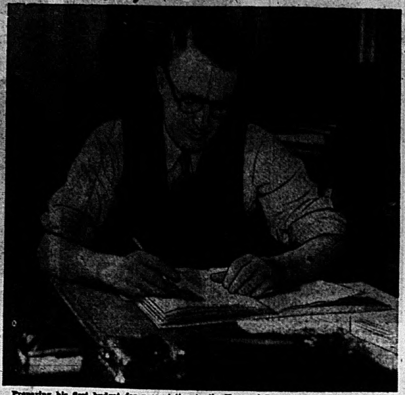
Edward G. Robinson is expected to play the lead in Paramount's "The Night has a Thousand Eyes."

Reviewing

"The Macomber Affair" is a gripping screen version of Ernest Hemingway's short story, "The Short, Happy Life of Francis Macomber," and, like the story it tells with mounting tension of the emotional eruptions that occur when African big game an American couple who hate each other, and their English guide are thrown together on a two-day hunting expedition in Kenya.

Macomber (Robert Preston) is a good shot but a coward in a crisis; the hunter-guide (Gregory Peck) has the manly qualities the author admires and Mrs. Macomber (Joan Bennett) doesn't hesitate in choosing between them.

Where the screen version departs from the original is in its element of doubt over whether Mrs. Macomber shot her husband deliberately or by accident. In the story there is no doubt about the intent, but the production code is the production code and must be followed.



Preparing his first budget for presentation to the House of Commons at 8 p.m. next Tuesday, Finance Minister Douglas Abbott works at his desk in shirtsleeves. It is expected emergency control legislation will be disposed of late this week.

NO MATERIAL PRICE DECLINE SEEN IN MEAT

Washington, April 24 —(AP)— The United States agriculture department predicted today that meat supplies will not be large enough to cause a material price decline unless there is a business recession. Latest reports indicate, the agency said, that consumer demand for meat probably is at a record level despite current prices. Consumption during the January-March quarter was said to have been the greatest for the period in the United States in at least 35 years.

Canadian Govt. Accepts Proposal On Seaway Project

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, April 25 — (CP) — A United States proposal that construction of deep seaway projects on the St. Lawrence River be made self-liquidating through the imposition of tolls on shipping using the route has been agreed to in principle by the Canadian government, External Affairs Minister St. Laurent told the Commons yesterday.

Construction of the projects, that would provide a 2,000-mile channel through the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence to the sea, was first agreed to by the United States and Canada in 1941, but so far neither country has obtained ratification of the agreement.

Mr. St. Laurent said the agreement, placed before the American Congress every year since 1941 for approval, had been re-submitted recently. He did not indicate whether he expected it would be approved this year.

Canada's position has been to delay ratification pending acceptance of the agreement by Congress.

Canada, he said, would not object "to the principle of tolls provided they could be arranged in such a way that there would be genuine benefit to transportation in a reduction of charges by the construction of the seaway."

Considerably Higher Now

When the two countries agreed to carry out the deep seaway and power projects, it was estimated that the total cost would amount to approximately $500,000,000. Labor and material cost have risen since then and it is believed that the cost would be considerably higher.

Originally Canada's estimated share of the costs was set at more than $275,000,000, including the $132,000,000 spent to build the Welland Canal connecting Lakes Erie and Ontario. The cost to the United States would be approximately $300,000,000 as originally estimated.

Works that Canada would carry out under the proposed seaways projects would be as follows:

1. Excavation of a channel 2,000 feet wide and the removal of eight projecting points of land in Lake St. Francis;

2. Excavations, construction of locks and guard gates, side canals, and bridge construction along the Soulanges Canal which includes the power development at Beauharnois, Que.;

3. Dredging of a 27-foot channel through five miles of Lake St. Louis to Lachine, Que.; deepening from 14 to 27 feet the 10 miles of Lachine Canal from Lachine to Montreal, construction of guard gates, lift locks, dams and the necessary highway and railway bridges.

Under terms of the original agreement an estimated 2,200,000 horsepower would be developed on the International Rapids section of the St. Lawrence, roughly between Morrisburg, Ont., and Cornwall, Ont. Half of this power would go to Ontario and the other half to the state of New York. Ontario and New York, in return for the power, each would contribute about $90,000,000 toward the cost of the projects.

BETTER CONTROL IN SCHOOL

Cobourg, April 24 —(CP)— Children can be controlled better at school than at home, says Cobourg Health Unit, announcing that five cases of scarlet fever have developed here, but that schools will stay open. Also reported are 20 cases of measles, five of chickenpox and one of mumps.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

When partner doubled slam on trust, confessing he had sensed it, the sucker had a lot of crust. The odds were all against it. Perhaps his hopeful reason was he smelled they could not win it. Believe you me, the pup that does should have his nose rubbed in it.

Double a slam when you are sure you can defeat it. Of course. Nothing could be foolisher than refusing to double a slam that you will surely defeat. But be sure you are sure.

Experts and masters often use the double of a slam as a lead-directing convention. It is the only hope of setting a slam in some cases. Such doubles by such players are good signals.

But only a chump doubles a slam merely because he thinks it can be sunk. Even if his chances look pretty good. Such a doubler must be oblivious of the cost over a period of time.

Defeating a slam is maybe a 50-50 chance. Do you know the odds you are laying in points when you double it? You lay five or more to one. There is a sucker bet if ever there was one.

You stand to gain 50 or 100 points if you double and throw a slam for a loss. But you tip off where the strength lies and give declarer a chance to make 10000 or more. And if they redouble, wow!

Modern players reach slams with comparative safety these days. Even against strong holdings by opponents. And they usually make the slams by distributional factors that overcome outside strength.

If there is a mathematician in the house he can tell you the exact figures. But it should be sufficient to know that the odds are much against your killing a slam bid by a sound pair.

West doubled the small slam in clubs in this deal:

SOUTH

It looked to west as if the south club slam could be defeated. More will be said about this. You can go now.

Court Reserves Judgment On Crown's Appeal

Toronto, April 25 —(CP)— An unprecedented case brought an unprecedented suggestion in the Ontario Court of Appeals yesterday, as court reserved judgment on the Crown's appeal against acquittal of Mrs. Evelyn Dick on a charge of murder in the torso-slaying of her husband John.

Crown Counsel W. B. Common, K.C., suggested that one of the Appellate Court judges should hand down a dissenting opinion, because a dissenting opinion would permit the case to be sent up to the Supreme Court of Canada. This would apply whether a majority verdict was for or against the Crown.

Mr. Common said: "In view of the importance of this issue one member of court might dissent in order that the case be brought to the Supreme Court."

Mr. Justice R. E. Laidlaw replied: "Even if his judgment isn't in accordance with what he would write?"

Mr. Common said this had been done by Mr. Justice J. F. Middleton on another case.

The Crown's appeal opened Wednesday and the Crown spent hours reading testimony of the case concerning the various statements made by Mrs. Dick.

At conclusion of the Crown's case yesterday J. J. Robinette, K.C., for the defence, argued that the trial judge — Chief Justice J. C. McRuer — had acted rightly in barring from evidence at the second murder trial all the statements which Mrs. Dick had made to police. The Crown had contended that the trial judge erred in not admitting the statements.

At the second trial, Mr. Justice McRuer said he was bound by the Appeal Court's judgment in ruling the statements inadmissible and granting the second trial. The statements were admitted at Mrs. Dick's first trial and she was convicted; the Appellate Court ruled the statements out and granted a second trial; at the second trial the young Hamilton widow was acquitted.

When words fail to comfort..

...FLOWERS WILL

Flowers comfort the living when words cannot help. They ease the strain of grief in a way that is often miraculous...for flowers are the oldest language of the heart. Wherever there is sorrow, the friendly and thoughtful thing to do is—send flowers.

HOW TO CUT REPAIR BILLS ON FARM EQUIPMENT

It's always easier and less expensive to keep farm machinery in good condition, than to rebuild it after it has been neglected.

Here are a few hints, worth dollars to any farmer.

1. Make a thorough check of each machine at least twice a year.
2. When you find a worn or broken part, phone us immediately. Parts are still scarce.
3. Don't take a machine into the field until you know it is in tip top condition.
4. Let us check your tractor now for compression, adjustment and general efficiency.
5. House machinery when it is not in use.

We are equipped to do any repair job from simple welding to major overhaul and rebuilding. Our modern equipment and expert mechanics assure first class service. The spring work season is almost here. Better phone us right away.

This guided missile, known as Kuw (buzz bomb), is shown during tests by the U. S. navy at Point Mugu, near Los Angeles, Calif. Zooming upwards with a roar from the assistance of four Monsanto rockets, tied to its tail assembly, the buzz bomb roars into the air. The rockets and sled will fall free at the expiration of the thunderous thrust, which lasts for less than two seconds.

$250,000 TORONTO BANK ROBBERY

Victims of armed robbery in Royal Bank at College and Bathurst Streets Wednesday night, in which up to $250,000 was removed from a safety deposit boxes, were Mrs. Mary Mayse (left) and Helen Stuart, daughter of bank caretaker. With them is cocker spaniel, Boots, also a prisoner. At right are tape and strips of bed sheet used to tie D'Arcy Hogan, a neighbor.

No bridal worth the name is without the "something old, something new, something borrowed and something blue." In the wedding of the Hon. Richard Wood, son or Lord Halifax, to Miss Diana Kellet, at Westminster Abbey, the "something borrowed" was worn by the little attendants. The boys wore miniature replicas of the 18th century uniform of the Royal 80th Rifles Regiment, in which the bridegroom served during the war. The girls wore 18th century style turquoise organdie dresses.

New York Giants Lose Game To Braves and Hit the Cellar Despite Three Homers by Mize

Pittsburgh Continues to Lead National League but Only by Half-Game

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Life is tough for New York Giants when big "Jawn" Mize hits three home runs off a 20-game winner and the club lands in the National League cellar.

Manager Mel Ott has only one consolation in his miseries. He has distinguished company in the world champion St. Louis Cardinals who also have won only two of their first seven starts in the new season.

Mize, who hit three homers in one game on four previous occasions when he was a Cardinal, must be getting used to this uphill struggle against the inadequacies of the Giants' pitching staff.

Despite his slugging feat, breaking his own record for the course, Mize never was able to get the Giants in the ball game yesterday at Boston. Johnny Sain was coasting along with a big early lead before "Jawn" started to do his stuff, hitting round trippers on each of his last three trips to the plate. Another homer by Walker Cooper also failed to discourage the Braves' 20-game winner of '46 in his bid for No. 1 of the new campaign. Sain finally got home with a 14-5 verdict.

The home run also had its place in the Pittsburgh-Chicago game but it was Don Johnson's single in the eighth that gave the Cubs a 6-5 edge over the Pirates, reducing Pittsburgh's lead over Brooklyn to a half game.

Continue Mastery

Rookie Wally Westlake of the Bucs and Phil Cavarretta of the Cubs hit for the circuit.

Brooklyn Dodgers continue their mastery over the Phillies. Dixie Walker's first-inning single with the bases loaded accounted for both runs of Ralph Branca's 2-0 shutout over Tommy Hughes.

Joe Cronin's Boston Red Sox salvaged the last of their three-game set at the Yankee Stadium, shading New York 1-0 on Tex Hughson's two-hitter. Frank Shea, making his first big league start, hurled three-hit ball but walked seven.

Don Black pitched Cleveland to its fourth straight victory — a 1-0 shutout of Chicago White Sox with a neat four-hit job. Pat Seerey's second-inning homer was the difference between Black and Johnny Rigney.

St. Louis Browns, shut out in three of their first five starts, nudged Virgil Trucks, Hal White and Stubby Overmire for 10 hits and a 6-1 edge over Detroit. Jack Kramer, the only Brownie winner, gave it all he had with a 3-hitter.

The other National game between Cincinnati and St. Louis was postponed because of wet grounds.

HORSEMEN URGE ORGANIZATION OF GOVT. COMMISSION

Not Willing to Accept Minimum Purses Offered by the I.C.R.A.

Toaonto, April 25 (CP)—Into the dispute between horsemen and Ontario racetracks over minimum purses, which threatens to interrupt scheduled opening of racing in Ontario next month, was thrust today a suggestion from the horsemen that the Ontario government establish racing commission.

The Canadian Branch of the horsemen's benevolent protective association has held many meetings here in its demand for minimum purses of $1,500 on race-tracks in the Toronto area and $1,200 on races at Fort Erie and Stamford Park.

James Heffering president of the Incorporated Canadian Racing Associations, in a statement last night said that minimum purses have been raised to $1,200 for the Greenwood Park Club and Ontario Jockey club meetings at Woodbine Park, and minimums of $1,100 at Thorncliffe and the Orpen tracks in Toronto, at Hamilton and Fort Erie.

So that the horsemen are offered minimums of $1,200 in Toronto, instead of the $1,500 they ask, and of $1100 outside, instead of $1,200.

Heffering's statement said the Horsemen's Association demands had been given considerable study by the tracks. The track owners were not inclined to proceed further with pre-meeting preparations for meets which might not materialize, he said. A committee from the I.C.R.A. was prepared to meet a committee from the H. B. P.A.

The Heffering statement brought a reply from W. E. MacDonald legal adviser to the Horsemen's Association, who said "if the conditions are such as he says it is high time that the Ontario government puts racing under its personal control and annihilates Mr. Heffering and the private corporation over which he presides under the name of the Incorporated Canadian Racing Associations."

MacDonald said further that "if horsemen act on my advice there will be no racing at either the Greewood Park or Woodbine unless purses are increased to a minimum amount acceptable to our body."

YESTERDAY'S STARS

Stan Musial, Cardinals, was rained out and Mickey Cernon, Senators, was not scheduled.

WARNING! Sustained speed on modern highways can let you in for oil failure and repair bills. So whether your car is old or new, make sure your oil gives extra protection!

Change now to NEW SHELL X-100 MOTOR OIL

Now's the time to change the oil in your car to one that will give you extra protection.

Oil failure—the actual breakdown of its protective power under the beating of sustained speed—is a comparatively new disease. To overcome it, Shell scientists—aided by war research—have produced a new kind of motor oil . . . an oil fortified by "X" Safety Factors. These . . . (1) Resist chemical change. (2) Clean the engine. (3) Guard against rust. (4) Reduce wear and oil consumption.

See your Shell dealer this week. Get him to give your car this extra protection—(you may not need it for ordinary neighborhood driving, but for long trips it's safety insurance). May as well get a complete Summer lubrication at the same time!

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor.

John Katan, "The Fingers Man" who has poked, prodded and in general villained himself to victories over top-flight graduates of the College of Applied Pachydermy, will bring his scowl, his digits and his strength to town on Saturday night, in an effort to effectively squelch the ambitions of one Earl "Moose" McCready, who has been casting ambitious glances in the general direction of the British Empire Wrestling crown which at present adorns the handsome noggin of one "Whipper" Billy Watson.

• • •

The "Moose" lost a close decision to the champion here in the opening bout of the season, but the Aurora Borealis, is not the least discomfitted over that. He wants another crack at the crown, but first he must dispose of such barriers as "La Katan" and maybe a few more. However, his work on Saturday night, if he wants to send the brawny Ukrainian home, seeing birdies, and twittering native folk tunes, he must needs be at his best. "The Fingers" isn't the least bit alarmed about McCready, and the outcome should be a delightful inaugural to daylight saving.

• • •

"Irish" Tom Collins, in person, and not in glass, will also be here to tear Tear Morgan to shreds, if the dashin' ex-marine is in the mood to let him. The Irisher, be japers is a broth of a laddie, who knows a lot of wrestling answers, while Tear, well, nuff sed. In the curtain raiser "Bulldog" Drummond, the guy who almost unstacked Billy Stack last week, will meet the tall, fair and handsome Mike Sharpe. Nice evening, wot?

• • •

A brand new, well almost, executive broom will attempt to sweep the way clear for the 1947 edition of the Belleville Softball Association, and endeavor to bring back the game to the status it held years ago when crowds packed the Coleman Flats, and other scenes of mushball battle, when the box-office receipts ran into double figures, and the hamlet in general was taking a more than passing interest in the game.

• • •

The meeting held Wednesday night was productive of a new administrative body, but was a trifle disappointing in the number of teams that officially filed entry. Rumors on the Rialto, and garblings from grapevine gullets, prior to the meeting painted a grand verbal picture of the 1947 set-up, but as far as action was concerned only three teams entered the loop.

• • •

These include the Canadian National Railways; Belleville Juniors and Point Anne. Another team styled the "Pepsicolas" deferred its entry until the next meeting scheduled for May 7 in the City Hall. And here's a tip to the new secretary-treasurer and likewise the prexy. The Trenton Air Force team is desirous of entering the loop so it would not be a bad idea to notify them of the date of the next meeting.

• • •

The new executive consists of President H. Theobald; vice president J. Devine; secretary treasurer Don Barrett and executive members Perry Everett, Harold Bawden, Bert Farrar and Mike Whalen. Harold Bawden, the only member of the 1946 executive to accept office this year, is the only veteran with softball administration experience on the new slate, and he should prove of invaluable assistance to it.

• • •

The new executive has no easy task in front of it. In the first place it has to face the increasing upsurge in public interest in baseball that is apparent here, (incidentally one of its members is also a member of the Belleville Baseball Association executive), and in order to get its share of public enthusiasm, at the box office that is, it must, or should have something equally as good to offer.

• • •

Three teams, or possibly four, means that the softball set-up for 1947 is merely that of last year with the boys wearing different sweaters. There apparently has been no great increase in interest over that of 1946, for no additional teams have been formed, and what will likely be seen, is the old familiar faces cavorting around the old familiar diamonds in new wrappings.

• • •

The familiar blue and white of the heretofore perennial Sacos, of Stephens-Adamson will be missing in the mushball melees this summer. Manager Maxie Peoples stated that the turn of the year that his team would definitely not be entered in 1947 — then along came a change of mind, but it was too late. Sacos will be missed in softball circles this year.

• • •

And finances will play a far more important part in the operation of the league in 1947 than in previous years. The City Parks Board will get 10 per cent of the gross gate for grounds fees, and if the squads play floodlight softball there will be the additional cost of light rental. It was stated today by a competent authority, that the floodlight charges will be made on an hourly basis. And it will be a trifle more than two bits per sixty minutes.

• • •

Softball, like hockey and baseball in this city, is suffering from a lack of junior reinforcements. The Master Mechanic, unfortunately, never provided spare parts for the human machines, and when they are worn out, they are relegated to the sidelines or administrative or officiating capacities. Which brings back the old familiar cry that all sports organizations in the community should sponsor or assist in the creation and advancement of midget, bantam and juvenile teams.

• • •

Local golfers, will have an added incentive to hole out from the tee this year, according to a report from the Canadian Professional Golfers' Association. It is announced that a Packard Electric Shaver will be awarded to each golfer scoring a hole-in-one this season, along with a certificate of membership in the Packard Hole-in-One Club.

It is requested that each hole-in-one is reported promptly to the association secretary, duly verified by the club pro or captain, so that the feat may be officially recorded.

• • •

Peterborough will enter a baseball team in the newly formed Lakeside intermediate loop which will embrace teams from Whitby, Port Hope, Bowmanville and Newcastle. The Petes will also operate a senior squad, despite the fact that all efforts to form a COBL failed, this year at least. Petes attempted to get an entry in the Toronto Viaducts League, but were told "no soap". However, the Peterborough senior officials are endeavoring to talk Oshawa into the picture and work an interlocking schedule with the West Toronto League. If this fails the Petes will likely spend the summer exhibitioning, later going into the National Congress tourney and the OBA playdowns.

Wheel-Chair Basketball Catching on in West

Berkeley, Calif., April 25—(AP)—Wheel-chair basketball has spectators rolling in the aisles and a group of disabled war veterans are having a lot of fun out of the unique game, at the expense of able-bodied collegians.

Husky, physically-sound college lads, who rate as stars while playing regulation basketball, find themselves skidding all over the floor and falling on their faces while their opponents — navy and marine paraplegics who learned how to get around in wheel chairs because they had to — are scooting around the court rolling up lopsided scores.

The "Rolling Devils" of Corona Naval Hospital in Southern California trimmed a St. Mary's Gaels team 28-10 Wednesday night, and the service-men's coach, Lieut. Bill O'Donnell, only sighed in sorrow. "Not our best game," he said, "Why, ordinarily we roll up 30 to 40 points."

Both teams, of course, use wheel chairs exclusively. The Corona players are paraplegic patients — paralyzed from the waist down — but the way they get around in wheel chairs baffles the collegians.

Toronto, April 25 —(CP)— Bottle-throwing hockey fans have given Moose Jaw more free publicity than you could obtain with a rinkful of gold pucks, but it's doubtful if the enterprising board of trade at the buckle of the Prairie wheat belt appreciates the sudden attention of the nation's press.

After reading of the bottle chuckers' display in the third game of the Memorial Cup finals, before Moose Jaw Canucks bowed to Toronto St. Michael's College in four straight, Ted (Toronto Telegram) Reeve made no charge for space in his column for "Ode to a Moose Jaw Hockey Fan." Here it is:

"Out where the stuff is a little bit stronger,
"Out where the game lasts a little bit longer,
"That's where the West begins.
"Out where old bottles are thrown at a fighter,
"Out where the heads are a little bit lighter,
"Where hockey fans get a little bit tighter,
"That's where the West begins."

Change of Times?

Some of the arguments of Eastern writers have swung to the Western viewpoint in holding out for alternating of the Dominion junior hockey final as at present.

George (Sudbury Star) Grace can't figure what brought about the "change of heart" of O.H.A. President George Panter, who recently was quoted as saying that the series in the West served only a "minority" interest and that teams lose financially by such an arrangement.

Grace recalls that Panter, while returning from a C.A.H.A. pow-wow in Vancouver about a year ago, "rejoiced that the cup finals would no longer be the personal property of Maple Leaf Gardens."

The scribe thinks Panter's change of opinion may be "too much proximity" to the Gardens. He adds: "But he's away off line when he puts all Western Canada and fans in general in the class of the 'minority' who want the games staged elsewhere than in Toronto year after year."

Grace says it's the old argument of "the fan vs. the dollar" and more and more in recent years the cold cash angle has been gaining the upper hand. He gains support from another Northern Ontario columnist, Doug (Kirkland Lake News) Hallet, who thinks "Toronto doesn't seem to have much of an argument except the call spell of the almighty dollar, which, however, seems to have a very loud voice."

GIANT FLOATING DOCK PASSES THROUGH SUEZ

Port Said, Egypt, April 24 —(AP)— A giant British floating dock en route from India to Malta completed its passage through the Suez Canal last night. The dock, capable of handling 50,000-ton ships, was towed through the waterway with only about three feet clearance in places.

Sports Roundup

By ALAN HARVEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York, April 25. (CP)—Headline: Bobby Feller attributes one-hit game to new electric heating jacket. . .the way things are going, maybe the smart manager soon will be able to dispense with the old query: "How's your arm, Travesty?" . . . From now on, it will be: "Are you plugged in properly? Is the fuse working?" . . . and while we're on the subject of alternating current, it could be significant that Hal Gregg of Brooklyn Dodgers also used an electric heating pad between innings of his one-hitter against Philadelphia Phillies, the same day Feller blanked St. Louis Browns. . . .Then again maybe it's just the April weather . . . as George Stirnweiss of the Yankees says, you don't need to be told to run out your hits. . ."It's the only way to keep warm."

Got A Match Pal?

Gregg, incidentally, appears finally to have succeeded in coaxing his tricky curve ball out of the wilderness and may be a 20-game winner this season. . .Last year muscular trouble kept his record down to six won, four lost. . .In 1945 he appeared headed for stardom with 15 victories in the bag up to Aug. 8 . . .but one night he put his pitching hand in a trousers pocket setting off an open box of matches and burning his thumb . . . After that he lost seven of his last ten games.

Scattered Shots

Latest sleeper for the derby is Brookmeade's Liberty Road. . . Joe Dimaggio calls brother Dom of the Red Sox "Little Burglar" because whenever New York plays Boston, Dom usually cheats the Yankee Clipper of at least one hit . . , "I have him up to dinner and treat him royally," says Joe, "and then he spends the afternoon stealing base hits away from me. The next time I feed him I'm putting arsenic in his soup."

Meralomas Will Be Stronger For Second Game

(By The Canadian Press)

Vancouver Meralomas, already a powerful team, will be even stronger for the second game of the Dominion Basketball finals against Windsor Assumption at Vancouver tonight.

Coach Hunk Henderson announced early today that first string guard Ron Weber, missing from the first game because of university exams, would definitely be in action, and that Sandy Robertson, the other first string guard would almost certainly be playing. Robertson also missed the opener because of a professional baseball commitment. Vancouver won the first game of the best of five series 76-49.

Just five days after their final victory over Montreal Canadiens, six players of the World Hockey Championship Toronto Maple Leafs team signed contracts for the 1947-48 season. They were Bill Ezinicki, Harry Watson, Gus Bodnar, Garth Boesch, Vic Lynn and Joe Klukay.

Ralph McCreath of Toronto, holder of many figure skating championships, is a Barbara Ann Scott fan. He told a meeting in Toronto yesterday that if Barbara had competed against Sonja Henie the former Norwegian World Champion wouldn't have had a chance.

Plans for a community arena at Simcoe, Ont., were announced by a committee who said $14,780 had been received towards a total objective of $58,400. A public canvass for the remainder is scheduled. The building will have an ice surface of 185 by 85 feet and will accommodate 2,500 persons for hockey.

Babe Ruth, the sultan of swat, is to be honored next Sunday when "Babe Ruth Day" will be celebrated in all ball parks in the United States. On the day of celebration, Ruth will be in New York's Yankee stadium, scene of some of his greatest successes.

In Winnipeg last night Mrs. Verna Young rolled 1,070—believed to be the highest score bowled by a woman in Canada—in a five-pin league match, she rolled games of 394; 303 and 373.

Officials of the Smith's Falls Railroaders, 1946 champions of the Quebec-Ontario Baseball League, disclosed yesterday that the team's future is not certain. They said that the club, prominent in the Ottawa Valley district for 20 years, may leave the ball scene this year. The team was operated by the Canadian Pacific Recreation Club.

PROTEST EVICTION VOICED

Toronto, April 24 (CP)—Nearly 100 persons attended a meeting last night at which protest was voiced to the city council over eviction notices sent to residents of the "Trailer Camp" on University Avenue near the downtown section. The meeting decided to ignore the eviction notices and to resist all measures to evict them, physically if necessary.

TORONTO LEAFS IN FIRST PLACE IN INTERNATIONAL

Luke Hamlin Wins Second Game of Season by Defeating Newark Bears 3-1

(By The Associated Press)

Luke Hamlin, now in his 20th season of organized ball, doesn't throw his high hard one as often as he did during his hey day in the majors but the 40-year-old righthander of Toronto Maple Leafs still has plenty of tricks left in his ancient flipper.

Hamlin outpitched rookie Mal Mallette of Newark Bears 3-1 yesterday for his second and the Leafs' third victory as against one setback in the young International League season.

He dished out seven hits and walked four while the Leafs found Mallette and reliefer Al Tote for eight safeties including a two-run homer by Toronto-born Goody Rosen. Rosen also batted in the Leaf's other run with a single. Joe Collins' homer in the seventh accounted for the Bears' run.

The win moved the Leafs into first place over Montreal as Jersey City Giants trimmed the defending champions Royals 7-1 Rookie southpaw Jim Goodwin of the Giants limited the Royals to eight blows in gaining his second consecutive triumph.

Jack Graham led the Giants' offensive by batting in three runs on a homer and two doubles while Norman Jaeger hit one with one on.

In the other league game, Baltimore Orioles nosed out Buffalo Bisons 7-6 under the lights at Baltimore after spotting the Bisons a six-run lead.

Howie Moss highlighted a seventh-inning five-run rally by the Orioles by clouting his sixth homer of the season with one on. The scheduled game between Rochester and Syracuse at Syracuse was postponed because of rain.

BATTING AND PITCHING STARS

(By The Associated Press)

Batting, Johnny Mize, Giants: Hit three home runs off Boston's Johnny Sain despite 14-5 loss, breaking own record for feat which he has accomplished five times.

Pitching, Tex Hughson, Red Sox: Shutout New York Yankees 1-0 with two hits.

Elderly Horse Big Attraction At Race Meet

By BOB MYERS

Inglewood, Calif., April 25 — (AP) — Two of the finest harness racers in the United States, Titan Hanover and Jimmy Creed, run at Hollywood Park tomorrow, but the main attraction for most people will be an elderly horse named C. A. Harrison.

Mr. Harrison, addressing him in deference to his age, is 17 years old. Horse people say that is equivalent to 50 for a human.

The old boy is a bay pacer, a gelding. He shapes up slopes gently down to a sag in the middle, and harness folks call him a "hog-back."

But, high in the rear or sag in the middle, and looking not unlike a runaway from a milk wagon, Mr. Harrison is the sensation of the current meeting and the astonishing winner of four races in five starts this season, three of them scored within six days.

A California-bred, C. A. Harrison was purchased from I. L. Borden of San Francisco by W. O. Reynolds, a mine owner from Denver. They say Borden sold him for $400, and, fearing he'd charged too much, gave Reynolds $100 back.

Bout for Louis On June 26 Has Been Called Off

New York, April 25 — (AP) — With no logical contender in sight, there's going to be an elimination contest to pick a challenger for Joe Louis' heavyweight crown.

Insisting he didn't want anybody "to have a right to holler," the champion has called off his title defence scheduled for Yankee Stadium June 26 and offered to fight in September providing a suitable opponent is turned up by that time.

Sol Strauss, acting director of the 20th Century Sporting Club, said the southpaw Melio Bettina will be matched against light heavyweight champion Gus Lesnevich in Madison Square Garden May 23. Jersey Joe Walcott will fight Joe Maxim in Hollywood June 16. The winners will be paired in a New York fight and Strauss said he hoped he could name Louis' opponent by July 15.

Title defences number 22 and 23 last year with Billy Conn and Tami Mauriello just about cleaned the horizon of heavyweights worthy of a chance at the title until Joe Baksi showed up. Baksi politely sidestepped a challenge this year after knocking out England's Bruce Woodcock.

If Baksi changes his mind "he will be given consideration," said Strauss, and Louis nodded approval.

Mentioned as possible players for the team were Art Herchenling, Ted Crasser, Bob Binderratter, Keith Woodall, Dick Behnagel Holly Hollingsworth, Bingo Kampman, Don Bauer and Mike Dzlure.

Winging its way northward to spend the summer in the land of its birth, the Canada Goose presents a picture of strength and endurance. We can help the geese on their exhausting journeys by providing sanctuaries along the way, and by conscientiously observing the game laws.
